Judges Declare Winners In Trade-At-Home Race

Messrs. Claudie H. Pipes and Percy M. Pitts, who so kindly and obligingly consented to serve as judges of the letters sent in to The Union-Banner in the Merchants Window Inspection and Trade-at-Home contest, graded the letters sent in last Saturday morning, December 28th, and made the award of prizes.

The first prize of $6 in cash was awarded Mr. Vernie Teel of Clanton; the second prize of $4 went to Miss Alice Polk of Clanton; third prize, $2.50, J. W. Enfinger, Clanton Route 5; fourth prize, 2 theatre tickest, Genevieve Turpin, Clanton Route 1.

If the winners of these prizes will call at The Union-Banner office, the editor of The Union-Banner will gladly present them with whatever was adjudged. However, the winners of the prizes especially, and everybody in the community in general, are asked to continually keep in mind the idea of trading at home. The Union-Banner is going to keep up the fight by now and then writing editorials along the line, and we urge all of our readers and the winners of these prizes to do likewise. All who participated in the campaign have our sincere thanks.

COMMISSIONERS APPROPRIATE MONEY TO PAY COURT FEES

Former Sheriff And Circuit Clerk And Witnesses Will Be paid Money Due Them

At a special meeting of the Commissioners Court of Chilton County Saturday, December 21st, an order was passed transferring the amount of $5,000 from the General Fund to the Fine and Forfeiture Fund, the purpose of which was to take care of some obligations against the latter fund. The greater part of these obligations was for fees due J. Z. Mims and W. H. Gillespie, former Circuit Clerk and Sheriff, respectively, created while they were in office. Also there are outstanding against the Fine and Forfeiture Fund upward toward a thousand witness certificates held by people scattred all over the county.

Three or four years ago, $10,000 was transferred from this fund into the General Fund, making it impossible to pay the outstanding claims against said fund. A rerent ruling from the State's attorney-general gave the Commissioners Court a legal right to retransfer this money back into the fund from which it was originally taken.

The vote in the court was as follows: Commissioners Duke, Atchison and Bean voted in favor of the proposal to transfer $5,000 from the General Fund to take care of these claims. Com. Howard R. Oden did not vote.

It is understood that the $5,000 will be sufficient to pay present claims against this fund.

SINGING OF CHRISTMAS CAROLS VERY BEAUTIFUL SAY LISTENERS

The negro singers, who serenaded the people of Clanton Christmas Eve night with the singing of carols, have been acorded considerable favorable comment for their singing. Attorney Percy M. Pitts says that he did not know what the disturbance was all about when they began to gather near his home, but when they announced their purpose and began singing his attitude was considerably changed. Mr. Pitts said that their singing was about the sweetest that he had ever heard. There has been other comment on the fine singing and the splendid spirit of the season was manifested by the colored "Marauders".

The community appreciates this splendid spirit of the sponsors of these Christmas serenaders. It shows that they really have the spirit of the season at heart; and the way they give vent to their feelings is commendable indeed.

Lindsey and Daniel Thompson of Birmingham attended the funeral of their brother at Walnut Creek Tuesday.

NO ARRESTS IN CLANTON DURING CHRISTMAS WEEK

Mayor C. Fenn Jones reported to The Union-Banner last Monday morning that city officers did not make a single arrest during Christmas week.

This is something out of the ordinary. Usually Christmas week brings in a number for public drunkenness and violation of the prohibition law, then there are usually some for reckless driving due to the influence of liquor, and there are usually a few arrests for shooting fireworks within the fire limits of the city.

Mayor Jones stated, however, that this year city officers have reported that they saw very little evidence of drinking, that the crowds that have swarmed the city during the last few days before Christmas were orderly, and that for the most part the ordinance regarding fireworks had been respected to the letter.

SUFFERED BROKEN LEG

Miss Ora Mae Mims suffered severe injuries last Monday night, December 23rd, when she fell on the high steps at her home on seventh street. She sustained a compound fracture of the left leg. She was carried to Central Alabama Hospital where she was treated for one week. She is now at home satisfactorily recovering.

Her mother, Mrs. Mattie Mims, is also reported to be ill at her home.

E. C. WELDON KILLED IN YULETIDE WRECK

E. C. Weldon is dead and four persons recovering from injuries as a result of the overturning of a truck on Christmas Day when it was allegedly crowded of the Billingsley road.

The injured, all of whom were passengers in the truck, include Mrs. Weldon, fractured pelvis and internal injuries; Mrs. Raymond Taylor, of Clanton, slight bruises and lacerations and Mr. and Mrs. David Misseldine, of Billingsley, severe cuts.

He is survived by his widow, and a daughter, Joyce; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Weldon; five sisters, Mrs. Sadie Hewitt, Mrs. Roberta Culp, Mrs. Sophie Lee Moates, Mrs. Doshie Mims, and Mrs. Sarah Pierce, all of Billingsley; and four brothers, O. O. Weldon, Osmond Weldon, Tommy Weldon and Cecil Weldon.

REPORT OF LYNCHINGS IN UNITED STATES IN 1935

According to the records compiled in the Department of Records and Research of the Tuskegee Institute, there were 20 persons lynched in 1935. This is 5 more than the number 15 for 1934; 8 less than the number 28 for 1933; and 12 more than the number 8 for 1932. Thirteen of the persons lynched were in the hands of the law; 5 were taken from jails; 6 from officers of the law outside of jails and 2 were shot to death in a jail.

There were 53 instances in which officers of the law prevented lynchings. Nine of these were in Northern and Western States and 44 in Southern states. In 42 of the instances the prisoners were removed or guards augmented or other precautions taken. In the 11 other instances the armed force was used to repel lynchers would be lynchers. A total of 84 persons, 17 white and 67 negroes, were thus saved from death at the hands of mobs.

Of the 20 persons lynched, 2 were white and 18 were negro. The offenses charged were: Murder, attempted rape, 3; rape, 3; alteration with man, 1; activity in sharcropper organizing, 1; attacking person, 1; taking prisoner from officer of the law, 1; killed by mob in search of another person, 1; slapping woman, 1; communistic activity, 1.

The States in which lynchings occurred and the number in each State are as follows: California, 1; Florida, 2; Georgia, 2; Louisiana, 4; Mississippi, 7; North Carolina, 7; Tennessee, 1; Texas, 2.

Mr. and Mrs. many friends in this they will make their home.

Mr. and Mrs. sscock and daughter, Elnavies, Dekalb County Mountain, spent several the Christmas season ves around Jemison and of the county. They expect home some time this week.

J. Arthur Thompson Died Monday A. M.

Succumbs to Attack of High Blood Pressure Following Brief Illness

James Arthur Thompson, age 61, prominent farmer of Walnut Creek community, died suddenly early Monday morning at his home on Route 5, about two miles northeast of Clanton. Mr. Thompson is reported to have been slightly ill for the past several days but his death was wholly unexpected. Reports are that death came from a paralytic stroke, brought on by high blood pressure.

Arthur Thompson was the son of the late and Mrs. Mary Thompson, long eminent citizensof the Walnut Creek and Pinedale communities, where they settled after coming to this county from Coosa some 47 years ago. J. Thompson was born in Coosa County, May 1, 1875, moving to Chilton County with his family when 14 years of age.

When about 20 years old he married Miss Maddox, and settled in Concord community, where he lived until the death of Mrs. Thompson some 15 years ago. To this union were born two children, O. Burnie Thompson of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Mrs. Gertrude Tippett, of Clanton, both of whom survive.

After the death of his first wife, Mr. Thompson married Miss Rader Driver and moved to the Walnut Creek community, likewise moving his church membership to that church, where he has retained until his death. His second wife survives.

Besides his aged mother, Mr. James Arthur Thompson is also survived by one child, Ross Tippett; four brothers, J. T., of Clanton Route 5, Hugh Clanton, Lindsey and Daniel of Birmingham; two sisters, Mrs. Katie and, Clanton Route 4, and Mrs. Mims of Birmingham.

Funeral services were held at Walnut Tuesday afternoon at 2 Rev. J. W. Enfinger and Cassidy officiating. Burial in Walnut Creek cemetery in charge.

Republican Speaking At Courthouse 18th

Prominent Republican State Leader To Discuss Major Political Issues Here on Saturday, January 18th

The Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County, Hon. J. N. Denson chairman, is sponsoring a Republican rally at the courthouse in Clanton Saturday, January 18th, at 10 o'clock, a.m. The speaker for the occasion will be Hon. C. O. Vardaman, of Birmingham.

Mr. Vardaman is a well-known orator, being noted for his attacks upon the present national administration and the New Deal. In his speech in Clanton he will discuss principally national politics, and will pay his respects to the present bureaucratic regime in control of the government at Washington.

An especial invitation is extended the young voters of the county to attend; also the lady citizens. Mr. Vardaman is intensely interested in the younger voters of Alabama, and takes great pride in enlightening them on the vital political issues of the times. So, if you want to hear the other side of politics—the opposite view from that usually expounded in this the sold Democratic South, don't fail to hear Mr. Vardaman. He is noted for giving voters something to think about. Remember the date, Saturday morning, January 18th, at 10 o'clock. And we expect our own J. O. Middleton will be there, and if he does, he will likely have a few words to say too. Don't miss it.

SCHOOLS MAY CLOSE FEB. FIRST

According to Supt. Luther E. Little, unless something unforseen happens, the schools of Chilton County may have to close some time around February 1st.

The Tucker bill, which provided that the state budget include the educational department as an essential part of the state's affairs have been declared unconstitutional. According to Supt. Little this leaves the school system of the state in worse shape for funds than it was in last year.

He expected to be called to Montgomery some time this week for a meeting of all county superintendents with the governor, wherein some arrangement could be made to prolong the school term. He was not sure, however, that any help would be provided.

Supt. Little stated:

"The funds in sight at present will run our schools until about February 1st. I am hoping that something can be done to relieve the situation. If we receive some help the schools will run on, but if not they will close about that date. I expect to be informed by some time next week just what to expect in the matter of additional funds, and can then very probably make a definite statement regarding the length of term."

STATE SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION AT CLANTON

The Southern half of the State Sunday School Convention will meet with the Clanton Baptist church January 15th to 17th. All Sunday school workers in both the Unity and Chilton Association should make their plans to attend this meeting. Outstanding state and southwide leaders will be at this convention. Every officer and teacher in our two associations are urgently requested to attend these meetings. See other articles in the papers of this week for fuller information on plans and speakers. It is a great program, and our people should make the most of it. We want you to come. Don't forget the date. Make plans now.

Since there will likely be three hundred delegates from outside of Chilton county, the matter of finding sufficient beds in Clanton is a problems. We are asking Rev. J. W. Jones, of Thorsby, and Rev. J. E. Hamric, of Verbena, to secure as many homes in their towns as possible. These homes will not be used unless absolutely necessary. Those willing to help in this meeting please give them the number of delegates you could take if necessary.—S. J. Ezell, Pastor.

GRAVES IS FIRM IN DENYING CALL SESSION

Governor Says No Extra Session Set For January; Awaits Tax Report

Governor Bibb Graves said Tuesday that, rumors to the contrary, he did not plan to call the legislature into special session during January.

The chief executive said that many counties would not make complete tax returns until January 20, and that he would not know until that time the exact financial status of the state. He said, however, that he did expect to call a special session during 1936 but that it would not be in January. Beyond that he declined to comment on the probable date.

His announcement was made at the morning press conference as newspapermen asked for a statement on persistant reports that a session might be called in January to meet financial needs of health and education.

THREE TO ONE REPUBLICAN

Latest figures from the nation-wide poll being conducted by The Literary Digest show President Roosevelt's policies trailing on the short end of a three-to-one count.

A total of 1,370,774 votes have been cast so far in the poll, from all the 48 states, and of these, 541,845 vote "yes", and 828,929 vote "no". This is an almost two-to-one popular vote, but 36 of the 48 states are against Roosevelt, while only 12 are for him; a three-to-one majority. Furthermore, the totals of electoral votes from the two groups of states are: For Mr. Roosevelt, 132; against, 399—likewise three-to-one.

Of the 12 states in favor of Roosevelt, 11 of them are in the South, being joined by Utah. On the other hand, the Republicans are taking all other sections of the country, including the "balance of power" mid-West, with the exception of Utah, and also have taken two Southern states—Florida and Oklahoma.

States voting for the New Deal so far are: Alabama, Arkansas Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah and Virginia. All the rest are in the Republican column by percentages ranging from Florida's 50.65 per cent to that of Massachusetts, 80.08 per cent.

The Literary Digest has conducted these polls for several years in the past on topics of interest, especially on presidential preferences, and have never missed the later official vote as much as two per cent. In 1932 it missed the official count less than one-half of one per cent.

SHERIFF'S FORCE TAKE TEN

Reports from the office of Sheriff Hardy are that ten arrests were made by his force during the past week. They are as follows:

One for carrying brass knucks; in jail.

Two for grand larceny; bond of $300 furnished in each case.

Two for assault and battery; one is in jail; the other was arrested on a warrant from Talladega County, and was released to the sheriff of that county.

One for manufacturing whiskey and possession of still; this arrest was made for bondsmen for the defendant.

Three for violating the prohibition law; two of these are in jail, and the other was released on $300 bond.

One for robbery; this arrest was made on a warrant furnished by the Sheriff of Shelby County, and the arrested man turned over to the sheriff.

NEW STATE JOBS WILL BE STARTED

Several new "three way" road improvements will be started Monday, WPA headquarters at Montgomery announced Saturday following the release of 12 projects in the state.

The projects:

VAUDEVILLE AT WADESONIAN THEATRE ALL NEXT WEEK

The Cooke Players are coming to town; they will be at the Wadesonian Theatre every night next week, beginning Monday night.

Mr. Harry Pamplin, the manager, says that they have a splendid cast this season, and their repetoire is the best ever. The show-going public of Clanton and Chilton county have an unusual treat in store every night, according to Mr. Wade of the theatre and Mr. Pamplin of the Pliayers.

THANKS FRIENDS

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Connatser and family wish to thank the people of the community for the service rendered at their home last Thursday on account of the fire.

ELECTION RETURNS

Official returns from the election held in regard to the paving project on December 17th, gave 759 votes cast in favor of the project and 394 against.

The Beat-by-Beat returns could not be secured, as the officials who canvassed the returns made no copy of them, and all efforts to obtain the individual Beat results were of no avail.

The official tabulation on the six amendments for the whole county was as follows. Individual Beat tabulation on this vote could not be obtained.

	For	Against
Amendment No. 1	635	250
Amendment No. 2	390	307
Amendment No. 3	601	293
Amendment No. 4	548	349
Amendment No. 5	619	281
Amendment No. 6	522	235

BLIND SENATOR IS DEAD FROM AUTO ACCIDENT

Bitter Roosevelt Critic Succumbs To Injury Received From Automobile

Washington, Dec. 27.—As Republican shouts of Roosevelt's "slipping" were loudest, destiny stepped in to increase rather than decrease Roosevelt strength in the Senate.

The bitterest Roosevelt critic in that body since the assassination of Senator Huey P. Long, of Louisiana, Minnesota's blind senator, Thomas D. Schall, is dead. Whether his place is taken next month by Gov. Olson, Farmer-Laborite, or by some other of Olson's choosing, another vote from Minnesota for most Roosevelt policies is a foregone conclusion.

NRA'S OFFICIAL END

In striking and significant contrast to the tumult and shouting of its early days and to the dramatic tension surrounding the death blow it received from the Supreme Court last May, the NRA passes officially and quite peacefully from the national economic scene. Early this week, President Roosevelt issued a terse executive order, saying: "The National Recovery Administration and the office of administrator thereof are hereby terminated."

Some 1,400 employes of the organization are to be transferred to other government departments to comlete certain studies in connection with the great experiment and the effect of its discontinuance, but even these activities give little indication of arresting widespread public attention in the present atmosphere of recovery and in the press of other matters.

GUINN-SPINKS MARRIAGE

A marriage of interest to a wide circle of friends was that of Mr. Howard Guinn of Alberta, Ala., and Miss Gladys Spinks of Clanton, which took place Tuesday morning, December 24, at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. J. H. Daniel, R. L. Huffman officiating.

Miss Spinx endeared herself to a host of friends during her short stay in Clanton. Mr. Guinn is a young business man of Alberta. Immediately after the ceremony they left on a short wedding trip. They will be at home in Alberta

Rube Miller Buried At Walnut Sunday

Employee of Alabama Power Company at Plant at Jordan Dam

The many friends of the family were saddened last Friday evening late to learn of the death of Charlie T. (Rube) Miller, which occurred at his home at Mitchell Dam about 5 o'clock. After a short inquest held by Coroner J. Mell Martin it was concluded that Mr. Miller came to his death at his own hands by shooting himself with a shotgun. No motive for the action was given. The body was first found by a nephew of Mr. Miller, Paul Marcus, who is also a fellow-employee with Mr. Miller of Alabama Power Company. Mr. Miller had just returned from his work on the power lines about Jordan Dam.

C. T. Miller, who was known by a large circle of friends as "Rube", was 49 years old, and had been working for the Alabama Power Company for 19 years. He was considered one of the best trouble-shooters and linesmen in the company's employ.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Callie Popwell Miller, he is survived by three sons, W. Alphia Miller of Mitchell Dam, J. Chester Miller of Clanton and Rufus B. Miller of Montgomery; there is an adopted daughter, Margaret Miller. Surviving brothers are Ed W. Miller, rural mail carrier; R. A. (Tam) Miller, a twin brother of the deceased, of Lay Dam; and W. Henry Miller, of Clanton. Six sisters survive—Mrs. P. G. Marcus, of Clanton, Mrs. Cary Baker of Birmingham, Miss Ittie Miller of Clanton, Mrs. Glaucus Baker of Clanton Route 2, Mrs. Luther Bennett of Atlanta, Ga., and Mrs. R. N. Miner of Clanton. There are two grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Sunday at 11 o'clock at Walnut Creek, Spigener in charge. Services were conducted by Rev. J. W. Enfinger and Rev. E. J. Orange. Prayer was offered by Rev. M. Lockhart. The house was filled to overflowing with sorrowing friends and relatives, who paid their final respects to a deceased loved one.

Fireman's Banquet Held in Clanton Tuesday Night

One of the most enjoyable occasions of the holiday season was the firemen's banquet, held last Tuesday night, at Nell's Eat Shoppe. There were present 14 people, who really enjoyed the evening.

The banquet was the termination of an attendance contest of members of the fire squad. The squad was divided into two teams some six weeks ago, with attendance at regular practice and at fire calls to decide the winning team. These two teams were captained by Elwyn Gore and Lester Wagoner. Wagoner's team won, and the feast was on Gore's team.

Mrs. Rufus Brown very graciously acted as toastmistress for the occasion, and succeeded very admirably at making all the fellows feel at ease, and keeping the affair lively at all times.

Beginning at 8:00 p.m., all attendants at the banquet met at Nell's Eat Shoppe and enjoyed a bountiful supper. This over, the toastmistress went the rounds, giving each member present chance to speak, and the fellows responded wonderfully.

One part of the affair had not been arranged, but was very appropriate. The radio was on, and just about the middle of the speech-fest, the Texaco hour came on the air heralded by the shrieking fire siren. No one started to answer the call, but several noted it.

Mr. Loren Smith, chief of the city's fire department, was presented with a ring, a present from members of the squad, Mrs. Brown making the presentation, and Mr. Smith making his acceptance talk.

After the banquet, all present were presented tickets, and invited to attend the Wadesonian Theatre in a body.

Those present at the banquet were: Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Brown, Elwyn "Doodle" Gore, Lester "Chicken" Wagoner, Eugene "Jean" Gore, Otis "Sleepy" Miller, Theodore "Speedy" Littlejohn, Benson "Mush" Simms, Ress "Judge" Driver, Claud "Joe" Goodman, Jack "Baby" Armstrong, Loren "Chief" Smith, Milton "Candy" Smith; and Luther "Slicker" Culpepper.

Three other members of the squad were not present. They were: Edwin "Doonie" Wagoner, Charles "Chick" Wade, Earl "Pumphouse" Gore.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan W. Parrish of Jordan Dam spent the pre-holidays with friends in Clanton. They were accompanied by their son, David Lee, and Mrs. Parrish's sister, Miss Mary Jarrett.

STATE HIGHWAY PATROL END INTENSIVE TRAINING

Alabama's Gentleman Highway Patrol finished a two-weeks intensive training school this past week under the direction of Federal G-Men and Red Cross representatives.

Chief Walter K. McAdory announced that an accurate check was being made of all 1936 license plates which were purchased to see if the purchaser secured, also, a driver's license. Those failing to have purchased the license will be notified, and the fine will be $26.50.

Twenty fleet automobiles and forty new maroon colored motorcycles have arrived for the use of Alabama's program; and as soon as the new uniforms arrive, the patrol will go on the highways of the State of Alabama.

Coincidentally with the patrolmen going on the highways to protect the public safety will be the largest safety educational campaign that has ever been launched in the State. Under the direction of State Safety Director Lawrence B. Tipton, the campaign will be formally inaugurated around the first of the year.

Little Miss Inez Wyatt of Clanton spent most of the Christmas holidays with her grandmother, Mrs. J. W. Cagle, at Mitchell Dam.

Dr. Kimmey Makes Report

REPORT OF ACTIVITIES OF HEALTH DEPT. DURING 1936

If one were to ask a member of any health deartment just what were the aims and purposes of their organization, the answer might very properly be "The promotion of health and the prevention of disease." If this health worker were than asked what activities were engaged in to bring these objectives, a discussion would result that could, if gone into fully, last much longer than anyone unfamiliar with health work could imagine. For public health has become a highly specialized field of endeavor, and a branch of science that has become necessary for the happiness and well-being of the people of any community.

Below is given a summary of the activities of the Chilton County Health Department for the period of March 15, the date on which the unit was organized, through December, 1935. It is hoped that the people of the county will take this opportunity of acquainting themselves more fully with just what the Health Department is doing, and how it is attempting to promote health and prevent disease in this county.

Preventable Disease Control

Quite a few diseases are now recognized as preventable, among the most important of which are typhoid fever, diphtheria, scarlet fever, smallpox, hookworm disease, and pellagra. (Tuberculosis may also be listed here, but is discussed under a separate heading.)

The health department has had a total of 66 preventable diseases under supervision. In carrying out control measures 115 persons were isolated or quarantined. Investigations without control measures were made in 64 instances. The health officer was called in consultation by other physicians on 35 cases, and a total of 208 visits have been made to cases, carriers, contacts, or suspects. One thousand, two hundred and twelve hookworm treatments have been distributed, and a total of 387 persons have come to the office of the health department for information concerning preventable diseases.

Immunizations

A very active immunization campaign has been carried on, and resulted in the vaccination of 5,756 persons against typhoid fever, 412 against smallpox, and 2,836 against diphtheria. It is of interest to note that of those vaccinated against diphtheria 1,094 were children of 5 years or younger, the age group from which most of the diphtheria deaths come. In addition to the above, 365 children were given Schick test.

Tuberculosis Control

About 10 ersons die each year from tuberculosis in Chilton county. A disease killing this many people yearly is recognized as being of major importance from a public health standpoint. During the past 9½ months the county health department has had 21 cases, 29 suspected cases, and 94 contacts of cases under supervision. A total of 321 visits have been made to those under supervision in an effort to teach the method of spread of the disease, ways of preventing this spread, and the importance of early diagnosis. One chest clinic was held at which 45 persons were given X-rays and physical examinations. Tuberculosis tests were done on 71 persons, and 166 persons have come to the health office for information concerning tuberculosis.

Maternal and Infant Hygiene

The public health nurse has given helpful advice and instruction to 192 expectant mothers and mothers with young babies. In carrying out this activity 557 field visits have been made by the nurse.

The health department has 42 midwives under supervision. The purpose of this supervision is to eliminate those midwives who are unclean, diseased, or in other ways unfit to practice and to instruct the others along the line of cleanliness, etc. It is interesting to note that midwives delivered approximately 35 per cent of all babies that were born in Chilton county during 1935.

Preschool and School H[ygiene]

A total of 2,204 school ch[ildren, and] 29 preschool children were [examined] and any defects found were [recorded] and parents notified by let[ter. Two] hundred and seventy visits w[ere made] to parents of these children [in an ef]fort to get defects corrected. [In ad]dition to the above 1,722 sch[ool chil]dren were given physical in[spection.] Three hundred and forty-sev[en per]sons have visited the health [office in] regard to preschool and sch[ool hy]giene. In all schools visite[d first] grade pupils were given Schick [test to] determine susceptibility to dipl[htheria.] All those found to be susceptibl[e were] given protective doses of dip[htheria] toxoid.

Sanitation

Due to the fact that the hea[lth de]partment has not yet the serv[ices of] a sanitation officer, work in th[is field] has been incomplete. Howev[er by] means of relief labor under the [super]vision of the health deartmen[t 566] yards of ditching have bene done [and] effort toward malaria control, [1,299] yards of ditching have [been] maintained. Also 9 sanitary pri[vies] have been installed, and the work [is] being continued.

Laboratory Examinations

Among the specimens sent in [for] public health laboratory in Montgo[mery] ery from this county were: 92 blo[od] tests for the diagnosis of syphilis, [and] specimens for diagnosis for typho[id] fever, 17 bood smears to be examin[ed] ed for malaria, 4,547 specimens to b[e] examined for hookworms, 37 speci-mens of sputum to be examined for tuberculosis, 67 nose and throat swabs for examination for diphtheria, 16 animal heads for the detection of rabies, and 6 samples of water from wells for examination.

Health Education

Members of the health department have given 77 health talks to various groups with a total attendanec of 3,286. Three hundred and forty-one leaflets and pamphlets pertaining to public health matters have been distrbuted throughout the county, and 64 departmental reports have been given out. Fifty-five newspaper articles concerning public health subjects have been published. A total of 310 persons have come to the health office to discuss matters of general public health interests.

Miscellaneous

Members of the health department have made 180 visits in the interest of better registration of births and deaths. One hundred and fifty-one have been examined in the office by the health offiicer. Members of the health department have made 353 vitsis to physicians of the county in the interest of public health. In carrying out the various activities listed in this report members of the health department have traveled a total of 20,398 miles.

Evaluation of Service

Although it is very difficult to estimate accurately the value in dollars and cents of any of the above activities, an attempt has been made to determine the approximate value to the county of all activities engaged in by the health department during the past year. By using figures supplied by the United States Public Health Service, and evaluating each item separately, it was found that the county realized, in services rendered, approximately $36,555.35 on their investment of $1,666.66, which represents the amount of money appropppriated by the county during the period mentioned.

R. I. VARDEN WRITES

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give me a small space in your paper for a few words about my condition? I have been down going [four months and don't seem to get on four] much better. Have not been off the bed nor sat up, and the people don't pay me much attention. They don't come around to see me. No one but Judge L. H. Reynolds. I am up against it as far as something to eat. We are not suffering but the children need some clothes and shoes. I sure will appreciate for some one to come and talk with me.—R. I. Varden.

MRS. MARGARETTE MITCHELL

On Dec. 8, 1935, the good Lord saw fit to call my dear mother home to God. Why couldn't mother stay with me? I loved her so, but God loved her too. He called her home to live with Him. Oh, it was so hard to say farewell mother, but we didn't say goodby, for I hope to meet her in a better world some day. We children can live the life she lived if we only will. God blessed us with mother 2 years and 7 months after he called daddy. My home is so sad and lonely without her. Poor mother is gone but not forgotten.

She was 74 years of age. Joined the Baptist church while young and lived a true Christian life to the end. She was a member of Chestnut Creek church at her death, where she was laid to rest, with Rev. J. D. Hughes officiatng, Spigener in charge.

She leaves behind her mourning, 1 brother, 2 sisters, 4 children, 17 grandchildren and 1 great grandchild, and numbers of other relatives and friends. —Her daughter, Mrs. A. D. Scott.

YOUNG FOREST TREES ARE AVAILABLE FOR PLANTING

Montgomery. Ala.—Approximately a quarter of a million tree seedlings are still available for reforestation purposes according to a statement issued by the State Commission of Forestry. The species on hand comprise longleaf pine, slash pine, loblolly pine, Osage Orange, Bald cypress, white oak, Black walunut, black locust and sycamore. Practically all of these seedlings were roduced during 1935. All of these plants may be distributed to tree planters interested in reforestation for timber production.

The seedlings can be secured by landowners at $2.00 per thousand f.o.b. Livingston, with the exception of slash pine which is $2.50 per thousand. The trees will be shipped at intervals during the present planting season which extends to March 15.

Application blanks, on the reverse side of which will be found the regulations governing the distribution of seedlings, can be obtained from the office of the State Forester at Montgomery. Shade and ornamental stock are not available for private plantings, since it is not the purpose of the State Commission of Forestry to compete with private landowners.

While the planting of forest tree seedlings may be done successfully as late as March 15, it is better in most cases to do the work much earlier. December, January and February are the best months and most landowners will find it convenient to do their forest planting during this period.

Mr. and Mrs. Cary Baker of Birmingham were in Clanton a few days last week.

FROM A. A. JACKSON

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you kindly give me space in your good paper for a few lines in which I want to say Christmas has come and gone, and the event brought prosperity and plenty of good things which have built a wall of protection between thousands of people of our nation and the gutters of poverty. While on the other hand there are millions of people of our nation who still have to remain in the gutters of poverty and are deprived of the necessities of life. It is my opinion that a heavy sided political strategy is responsible for such conditions.

It seems that we have come to the station where iff we have no political strategy or pull, we can't get a job. No relief. No admittance to the poor house, nor even an old age pension. May we all enter the New Year, 1936, clothed with honesty and a strategy that will usher in a new economic system that will scatter its manna deep down into the gutters of poverty stricken people of this nation with the necessities of life. These people are the producers and consumers. Why not take care of them?—Respectfully, A. A. Jackson.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Lee Mims of Miami, Florida, were in Clanton the first of this week.

POTATO CONTROL PROGRAM

There is an Irish Potato Control program. Sales certificates are issued on the basis of production in 1935. If you sold Irish potatoes in 1935 and expect to grow Irish potatoes for sale in 1936 it is very important that you fill out blanks and return to me at once. Unless you make application and get an allotment it wil be necessary that you pay 75c per bushel tax on all potatoes you sell.—J. W. Fant, County Agent.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

"Thou shalt have no other God before me." In other words, God says, "I must have first place in your life." Civilization may change a man's idol. The overmastering thing in our lives is God. It may be ambition. It may be passion. It may be pride. It may be the love of power. We speak of heathens worshipping their false gods. America is filled with respectable citizens who worship a false god just as truly as the poor heathen who bows in front of a golden image. "Their sorrows shall be multiplied that hasten after other gods." That is also a statement in the Word of God. The Romans had many gods and worshipped them until Rome was a heap of rubbish. The dust of the centuries blows over the bones of dead nations who went off after false gods.

What we love and hate determine what we are. If we love sin, we are sinners. "If ye love Me keep My Commandments." That is what God says to His children. Love endeavors to please the on loved. If we love God we will endeavor to please God. Jesus said, "I do always the things that please the Father." He also said, "As my Father sent me, so send I ye into the world." Our business is to live day by day in such a way as to please our Lord. "Why call ye Me Lord, and do not the thing I command you?" Jesus Christ must have first place. Most professing Christians give Him second, third or fourth place. "There was no room for Him in the inn." What a shame! We might inquire, "Is there any room for Him in our business?" "Is there any room for Him at the party we are planning to attend?" "Is there any room for Him in the plan we have outlined?" The innkeeper was not to blame because there was no room for our Lord in the inn. People had come and the rooms were taken. We are to blame if we shut Jesus Christ out of our business plans, social plans, and refuse to let Him have a part in the program for our lives. The trouble is that most of us try to run our own affairs and we just can not do it. Life is too complex. The problems are too great for us to solve. Therefore, we make a mess of all we do. If we would ask Him into our business, into our social lives, into all of our programs and really and truly turn our lives over to Him and let Him have His way with us, we could make a success. God help us to do it!

CHRISTMAS DINNER

A very interesting day was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Gore on Christmas Day. The morning part of the day was spent shooting fire works. At 11:30 o'clock a delightful dinner was spread in the dining room. Those enjoying the day were:

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Gore, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Gore and children, Mildred and Annie Kate; Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Gore and son, Sidney Ray; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gore and children, Maurice, Donald and Vera Nell; Mr. and Mrs. John Robinson and children, Alice Mae, Evelyn, and Hazel; also Mr. Leon Huckabee. All the children were present except Mrs. W. E. Whitfield of Atlanta, Ga.

The crowd began to scatter about 2:00 o'clock p.m., hoping to see many other happy Christmas Days.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks for the kindness on consideration of our friends and neighbors during this Christmas holiday season. Especially do we thank you for the many good things you shared with us. We hope for you all many more happy Christmas days.—Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Mims, Clanton Rte. 6.

ALUMINUM COACH TO VISIT HERE ON 'FLORIDA ARROW'

One of the finest and most modern pullman car ever built—the aluminum "George M. Pullman"—has been regularly assigned to the Florida Arrow, fast 26-hour Chicago-Florida train, and will make the first trip, leaving Chicago Union Station on Thursday, Jan. 2, 1936, at 8:45 p.m.; passing through the states of Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama and Georgia, en route to Florida. This announcement comes from Pennsylvania Railroad headquarters in Chicago.

Three hours faster to Miami than in its first season—last Winter—the Florida Arrow is again being operated between Cricago and Miami by the Pennsylvania Railroad, Louisville and Nashville, and Atlantic Coast Line and throughout the present season will be operated daily, instead of three times a week as last Winter.

"The ultra-modern 'George M. Pullman' has never run on any other train, except the Florida Arrow," said a Pennsylvania Railroad official yesterday, 'and we are pleased to offer its unusual accommodations for the pleasure of patrons who plan to pass the Winter months in Florida.

"The George M. Pullman' is an aluminum observation-lounge car and is an outstanding achievement of the car builders' art and skill and represents years of scientific research and design. Engineers, metallurgists, architects and artists combined their ideas and skill to produce it and nine months were required for its construction."

Millions of persons marveled at this wonderful aluminum car during its exposition at A Century of Progress in Chicago. It has a modified streamline effect, differing in several features from standard cars. The exterior shimmers in aluminum, with air-brush finish. Another structural innovation in the body of the car is the rounded enclosed observation end. Inside, the "George M. Pullman," natural aluminum is the dominant decorative factor. Every tone in furniture, wall decoration, upholstery, complements the silvery sheen of this metal.

The rounded sun-parlor lounge end of the car is equipped with violet-ray glass windows and has comfortable chairs, sofa and a desk. The lounge also includes a dinette, with two tables which will seat eight, and give the entire lounge a seating capacity of 24. The buffet adjoining the dinette is equipped with electric refrigeration and is a model in efficiency and sanitation.

The forward end of the "George M. Pullman" is taken up with sleeping rooms—three bedrooms, a drawing-room and a compartment—their doors being of the Italian ash, with inlaid designs in ebony. The rooms are in blue, brown, green and yellow. The total weight of the car is approximately 116,000 pounds, as compared with a standard steel sleeping car which weighs 180,000 pounds.

The Southbound Florida Arrow will pass through Clanton on January 8 on its first trip.

Game and Fish News

Montgomery, Ala., Jan 1.—Reorganization of the Alabama Game and Fisheries Department through the legislative enactment overshadowed other developments in the state conservation field during 1935.

This legislation, coupled with other new acts passed at the regular session of the Graves legislature, sharply revised Alabama's system of administering game, fish and seafood laws and put more teeth in the hunting and fishing statutes.

The Swift act re-organized the Department of Game and Fisheries into a Department of Conservation of Game Fish and Seafoods, created a state Conservation Board and made the Conservation Commissioner, heretofore elected by popular vote, appointive by the Governor.

We wish to epress our heartfelt thanks and appreciation to the people of Mitchell Dam and Clanton, and all others, for their unselfish help and sympathetic assistance rendered during our recent bereavement. We shall always be mindful of the many sympathizing words and the deeds done for us by our friends. May the Lord bless you all, is our devoted prayer.—Mrs. Callie Miller and family; W. A. Miller and family.

GRADY D. BROADHEAD WINS PROMOTION

The promotion of Grady D. Broadhead, former Clanton man, to the position of superintendent with the Brown Service Funeral Co., Inc., was announced Tuesday by W. E. Horsley, Montgomery district manager.

During two years' connection with the company, Mr. Broadhead has made a splendid record, according to the district manager, who said he would continue in the Montgomery district.

Mr. Broadhead was formerly connected with businesses in Clanton, where he served several terms as city councilman.

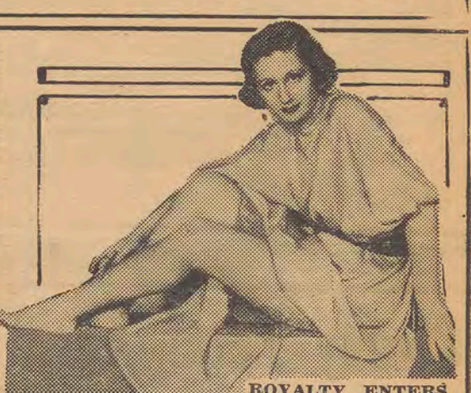
FIGHTSHIRTS, NOT NIGHTSHIRTS—This is not a midnight charge of the white brigade but a division of barefoot, barehead Ethiopian warriors legging it from a Somoliland village with Italian troops unseen but hot on the trail. The flowing, white togas worn by the black legions are a weird contrast to uniforms worn by the enemy.



ROYALTY ENTERS THE COURT — Tania Lubov (the transiation of her Russian name is "titanic love") is the latest addition to The Court of Human Relations radio program heard every Friday over the NBC hookup. Dancer, mannequin and stage star, she is known to her associates as "Countess Titania." Her father was an officer in the Czar's army. She was born in Russia and educated here.

SUCCESSFUL VOTE GETTER—Miss Suzanne Copin with first vote returns from Eastern and Midwestern states in a national matrimonial poll conducted by True Story Magazine. Children, it is estimated, are the most appreciated factor in family life. Good meals, an attractive home and a wife's social ability follow as important in that order.

PUBLISHER MAY BE G.O.P NOMINEE— Bernarr Macfadden, publisher of Liberty and other magazines, is being considered by a group of Republicans for the 1936 G. O. P. nomination. The Republican Editorial Association of Missouri recently commended Macfadden editorials for his "sincere and convincing criticism of the New Deal."

THE FAMILY NEXT DOOR

A MESSAGE FOR THE NEW YEAR

(By Rev. E. W. Butler, Thorsby, Ala.)

Those who ought to know tell us that America has enough natural resources, enough idle machinery, and enough unused manpower to supply abundantly all the material needs of every family in America—comfort for all! Why don't we do it then? Two things are lacking—we haven't enough character, and we haven't enough intelligence.

When we have enough Christian character earnestly to desire that every family shall have an abundance instead of desiring it just for ourselves and our friends; and then, when we have enough of good common sense to combine with one another to secure this abundance for all of us instead of competing against one another to secure an abundance for ourselves, then the promised "Day of the Lord" will be at hand.

We need Christian character—and Alabama's country churches are open one day in the month. And on that one day not one time in ten are our people made to see that the nation's problems are their problems; that until the church tackles these problems of humanity they will never be solved.

We need intelligence—and Alabama's country schools may be open six months this year, that is, the schools for white children. We don't know how to solve this problem of poverty in the midst of plenty, and only in a half-hearted way are we trying to give our children a training which will enable them to work the problem.

Perhaps some of us have beer crying: "Oh Lord, how long?" Let us, at the dawn of this New Year, listen, and we may hear His answer: "How long? That depends on you, my people. I have shown you the way. I have done all I can. The abundance is there with you. To you it may look like only five small loaves and two small fishes. And what are they among so many? But if you proceed to feed the hungry multitude, you will find that there is enough for them all. And you shall, from what is left, take up for yourselves twelve basketsfull."

CHRIST IS WAITING FOR HIS PEOPLE TO ACT! WHAT ARE WE WAITING FOR?

T. C. LITTLETON IS VISITING IN CHICAGO

Mr. T. C. Littleton, of Clanton, Rte. 4, is visiting his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Rhoden R. Clark of Chicago, Illinois. Mr. Littleton has experienced some of the cold weather of Chicago, the temperatue being five degrees below zero, with plenty of snow to greet the Yuletide.

Mr. Littleton visited several broadcasting stations, and talked over the microphone at the WBBM station with Pat Flagan. He saw the Four Mills Brothers, Johnnie Perkins and Toby Wing, of the movies, in person at the Oriental Theatre.

Mr. Littleton will return home in a few days. He says he still believes in Santa Claus, from the presents he received while in Chicago.

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs is one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxines. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the system. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

Nobody says "Share our Wealth." They say "Share your Wealth." Anyway, that's what they mean.—Atchison Globe.

No wonder a hen gets discouraged at times. She never can find things just where she laid them.—Independence (Kan.) Reporter.

FOR THE RECORD

President Roosevelt (at Atlanta) made a remarkable assertion about his conference with bankers in the spring of 1933. "I asked them," he said, "what they thought the maximum national debt of the United States could rise to without serious danger to the national credit." They replied, according to the President, "that the country could safely stand a national debt of between fifty-five and seventy billion dollars." Mr. Roosevelt followed this announcement with the comment that at that time the bankers were "ready to put the country far deeper into debt than I shall ever let it go."

For the historical record, if for nothing else, the names should be divulged of those bankers who were willing to have the public debt increased two-fold or three-fold. There exists in some other countries a loose and easy philosophy about the national debt—the idea that those who buy the bonds will pay the interest as well as earn it, and that the size of the debt is relatively negligible. That notion has not prevailed here. Our most conservative bankers applauded the great reduction of the debt in the first ten years after the war. If any bankers worthy of the name, even in the nervous spring of 1933, consented to hocking the public credit on the huge scale that the President describes, their identity should be made known.—New York Sun.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

The most impressive fact about the mid-winter meeting of the Republican National Committee held in Washington recently, was the change in atmosphere. Two or three years ago when Republicans met from various parts of the country, the gloom was so thick, one could cut it with a knife, to use a homely phrase. It was the general opinion that the Grand Old Party was about "all washed up" and that the thing to do was to soft-peddle when talking about the New Deal. The politicians spoke dolefully about the tremendous sums of money that were being expended by the national administration, and added that it was just about impossible to beat Santa Claus.

This time, the atmosphere was entirely different around the Mayflower Hotel. Republicans greeted one another with smiles and hearty handshakes. Distinguished looking gentlemen who hardly noticed one another politically two or thre years ago could be seen now walking arm in arm down Connecticut Avenue, and on the sunny side of the street at that. There was little gloom. New England is "in the bag" so they averred, and things are in good shape all over the East. It was admitted that the West would be the battleground in the 1936 campaign, but there was even some talk about penetrating the solid South again. A lot of voters down there, so it was reported, do not like regimentation, but do like the Constitution, and are enamored of the way in which the administration seems to be neglecting the time-honored Democratic doctrine of state rights.

Of course all of this may mean a lot, so far as the results of the next election are concerned, or it may mean exactly nothing. The election is ten months away as yet and a lot of things can happen in the meantime. Furthermore, Congress will be back again early in January and to say that a lot of things can happen around Washington when Congress is in session is but repeating a truism. By September, Congress and the natural sequence of events may have made Roosevelt invulnerable again. On the other hand it is possible that a bad break may push him so far down the ladder that sunny New Deal smiles will be few and far between.

In short, the verdict of the election next year is still in the lap of the gods, and the prognosticator who says he can tell you now what will happen in November, 1936, is simply "talking out of turn," to put it as gently as possible. Elections are won by local organizations in the precincts over the country and not in national committee meetings. At the same time, there is significance in the fact that the G. O. P. is getting its old-time pep back again. This means that we are going to have a real, rough and tumble political contest in 1936, and not a ratification meeting. Eastern Republicans are confident. Western Republicans say they are feeling better and Southern Republicans—from some localities, of course—are hopeful.

It is a noteworthy fact that the committee meeting did not turn into a proposed rally for any presidential candidate and no prospective presidential tried to make it so. The way the visitors avoided pledging themselves for one candidate or criticising another, was rather a remarkable experience for observers who have attended a number of these meetings. The accosted committeeman or committeewoman or other "prominent Republican" in attendance, simply beamed when the question of candidates was brought up. They are all good men and there is sentiment for all of them everywhere if those who made inquiries are to believe what they were told. The thing uppermost in the mind of the average Republican seemed to be an overweening desire to beat the New Deal next year, and they studiously avoided anything that might tend toward political disruption. This, in itself, is not an unhealthful sign from the Republican standpoint.

SEN. TYDINGS' SUGGESTIONS

The old free state of Maryland is generally regarded as one of the more conservative commonwealths of America. And certainly its senior United States Senator, Millard E. Tydings, would be regarded as anything but an alarmist. So when Senator Tydings, who is always forceful and logical, issues the warning that "unless the Roosevelt administration changes its spending policies and quit borrowing to meet deficits, panic will follow," his words are entitled to serious consideration.

Senator Tydings issued his warning recently in an address delivered in New York before the Southern Society of that city. Speaking of budget balancing he said:

"It is a necessary thing for our government to undertake it speedily. Nations, no more than individuals can spend themselves into prosperity or out of debt, or away from difficulty—any more than a drunkard can drink himself sober." Of the rapidly mounting public debt he is quoted as saying:

"Apparently few persons in the country are conscious that the government of the United States alone has an average first mortgage of $1,000 on every American farm and home in the land."

Senator Tydings pointed out that two-thirds of the assets of the banks insured by the Federal deposit corporation are in government bonds while only about half of the assets of these banks were in government bonds at the end of the World War, and following that great period of enforced government financing.

The Senator added that a decline in the value of these bonds would impair the assets of the banks and that this would be disastrous. Doubt, and panic, he inferred, might creep into the public mind if the point came where the banks, having reached the saturation point, would not care to invest more money in these government securities. The result, he inferred, might easily be printing press inflation.

Senator Tydings evidently realizes that there is no sweet tasting and fragrant elixir which can be used as a quick, pleasant remedy for this situation. He apparently does not regard the situation as hopeless and in his address made some pertinent suggestions for remedying the situation. These would include the submission to Congress by the President of a budget with an estimate of revenue, Congress making no increase without providing tax measures for the necessary revenue; any expenditure of a government department, increased during the year by an emergency, to be met by the decrease in another department; an unexpected deficit to be the first lien on next year's budget.

The warning issued by the Maryland Senator is one which will bear much mental cogitation. It comes not from a sensationalist, or from a man seeking to make partisian political capital, but from a so-called "old fashioned Democrat." The remedies suggested are ones which might well be incorporated in the policy of this, or any other national administration. They do not belong to the "horse and buggy age". They are a part of the first lesson in sound national economics.

TEN POINTS

One of the replies frequently made by members of the New Deal when criticised over the application of certain of their policies is that the Republicans have nothing to offer as a substitute. The answer is of course rather evasive. The wrong kind of remedy is not made right nor even properly defended by the charge that there is no other remedy at hand.

Be that as it may, however, there have been a number of administrative programs suggested during the past few months as a substitute for the principles of the New Deal. One of the latest to be offered has come from Silas Strawn, the well known Chicago lawyer, who, in a recent address at Indianapolis put forth a ten point program which he thinks might well be adopted by the Republicans next year. If any checking on these points is done it might be interesting to know just how many of them appeared both in the Republican and Democratic platforms in 1932, before the principles of the New Deal were enunciated and put into practice.

At any rate here are Mr. Strawn's ten points. They seem to deserve a better fate than President Wilson's lamented fourteen points:

"1. Perform the duties of his office in accordance with the Constitution.

"2. Stop all experiments with 'planned economy' and other socialistic activities and encourage initiative and industry.

"3. Not try to centralize all government in Washington and usurp the rights and take over the duties and responsibilities of the States and local communities.

"4. Turn out a vast horde of bureaucratic tax eaters.

"5. Stop wasting billions of the taxpayers' money in boondoggling and unnecessary public works.

"6. Observe the provision of the Constitution that expenditures shall be made only for specific purposes from appropriations previously authorized.

"7. Insist that the budget shall be balanced by reducing expenses and eliminating extravagant experiments.

"8. Quit monkeying with the currency, establish the gold standard and stop buying foreign silver.

"9. At the earliest possible moment, attempt to agree with the other nations on the international stablization of exchange.

"10. Surround himself in his cabinet and in key government places with men of experience and demonstrated ability."

MAN IN THE MOON

LOOKING AHEAD

There is one thing which surely makes my blood boil, and that is to hear some big burly gink spitting out his foul language in the presence of boys—just mere lads. It is true that many of these lads could teach their elders many things in this sordid side of life, but even so, there has been only one source from which they could have learned all these indecent jokes and terms—from older boys, and many times from men.

I think one of the best talks I ever heard on this question came by radio one night not long ago, from the lips of a superior court judge in the State of Michigan. Said he:

"I was formerly a judge in a juvenile court here in Detroit, and I have been forced to take care of some pitiful cases. I remember one in particular—a fine looking, upstanding lad, who seemed to take a pride in showing me just how grown-up he was, and just how much he knew about things which boys of his age should never have heard of nor dreamed about.

"I examined his case closely, for I had taken a particular liking to him. I found that he had been thrown in with a group of boys several years older than he, and that is a bit of the worst luck that could ever befall any boy. They had taught him all the dirty secrets, all the oaths, all the filthy jokes, and all the near-criminal tricks in their wide category. He was an apt lad, and it was not long before he was a leader among the very ones who had been his teachers. It was a short step for him from the near-criminal tricks to petty crimes, and they landed him in my court.

"I told him I would study his case during the next day, and invited him on a fishing trip with me for that day. He was a little bewildered, but accepted, mainly, I believe, because I was the judge and he wanted to make a good impression on me and "get off" light.

"On that trip I was not a kill-joy. I cracked jokes with him—clean jokes—I told him funny stories, and pulled pranks with him, but I carried all of it on in a clean manner; I wanted to show him that a fellow could stay clean and still have a good time. I think he had been taught that good times and cleanliness were not related.

"He had the decency to treat me likewise, and during that day he did nothing which would lead one to believe that he was anything less than a model of young manhood. But I knew there was something underneath. I knew there was something wrong in his heart and mind. I believed, too, that there was some good left in him, and decided to do what I could to build up that good side, and discourage the other.

"The day over, we returned to town, and as I dropped him off at his home, I invited him over to my home for a while that evening, explaining that I had a son about his own age, and I would like to have them put on the gloves together. I had heard that he was proud of his ability as a boxer.

"He looked up a little curiously, and said: 'Say, you're a lot different from what the boys say judges are like. They say all judges are snooty guys, and think they're better than us common folks'. But he accepted the invitation. As I drove away I heard a group of his friends kidding him about being smart enough to get on the good side of the judge.

"He came over, however, and he must have had a good time, for he seemed delighted when invited to come over again any time he felt like it.

"About the third trip, he invited my son over to visit him on his side of town, and this invitation was accepted. The outcome of that, though, was a grand scrap between these two and another bunch of boys who took the idea of poking fun at my son and calling him a sissy. Both of those lads were pretty good scrappers for their age, and dealt out a bunch of blacks eyes and bumps, as well as taking on a collection themselves. But that lad was a changed boy. He was never in the court again, and at this time holds a responsible position with a manufacturer here in our city. I am quite confident that this little bit of patience and show of trust stopped a potential Public Enemy No. 1 in the making, and turned him into a responsible and upright citizen.

"One never knows when he is talking to a future president, congresman, bank president, clergyman, college dean, or criminal. We should always be careful of the patterns of life set before young manhood and womanhood in the moulding. If he is inclined to try for the higher things in life, good leadership will help him on his way. If otherwise, then you may change a future criminal to a good citizen."

PAINLESS TAXES

From time to time, nowadays, we hear quite a little of "painless taxes". These are taxes that are either paid in such small amounts or in such an indirect manner that the payer never realizes he pays them—hence the name, painless taxes. In regard to "painless taxes", I would like to pass on a story that I heard not long ago of an incident which happened in California a few years ago.

At that time the state government of California was experimenting with its first "painless tax". A prominent attorney in Oakland formed what he called a Taxpayers League. This league went in a body to the governor to protest the tax, whereupon the governor took it upon himself to explain the new tax in these words:

"You misunderstand, Mr. Brennan. This tax is different from the usual form. It is paid in such small sums and in such a round-about way that one never realizes he pays it. We call it a 'painless tax'. It does not hurt one to pay it". The lawyer countered with this story:

"Governor, several years ago I worked in a lumber camp. One day there was a terrible accident, and a young man had his knee crushed beyond any hope of saving it. Too, it was nearly 200 miles to a competent surgeon. So a fellow lumberman took a keen saw, and using raw turpentine, proceeded to amputate the leg. The pain was terrible. Now, a few weeks ago, I saw a similar accident in the city, and another man suffered a like injury—a crushed knee. He was carried in an ambulance to one of our fine hospitals, put to sleep, and a trained surgeon removed the leg. There was no pain whatsoever. But, governor, in each of these two cases, a man lost a leg, just the same. No matter whether this tax is painless or not, we will lose the amount of the taxes, just the same".

JOSEPH AND HENRY

In the Bible we are told the following story. There once was a man named Joseph, who was manager of the agricultural business and food supply of Egypt. He had been given that job because he had exhibited exceptional good judgment in affairs pertaining to the welfare of the kingdom. One night he had a dream, in which God told him that a great famine was to come upon the land, and directed him to gather the grain of the country into the storehouses during the next seven years, so that the people might not go hungry. So Joseph, being a God-fearing man, did as he was directed. The seven years of plenty passed, and the famine came, as God had showed Joseph. In all the countries of the world except Egypt there was starvation, but in that country there was plenty, because Joseph had been filled with wisdom to heed the commands of God. Joseph was a wise man.

Some few thousands of years later the following came to pass. In a land called the United States of America there lived a man named Henry Wallace, who was likewise manager of the agricultural business of his country. He had been given that job, not because of any proved wisdom, but because he was a loyal Democrat. Henry had a dream, too, but being a common man, with no special connection with God, his dream was quite different from Joseph's. A famine was already on the land, and Henry dreamed that the way to stop this famine was to plow under all the cotton, that there might be more clothes, and to kill half of the pigs and cattle, in order that there might be better times among the meat raisers. Just about the time the animals were killed, along came a drouth, and there was little meat. Yet Henry still believed that his killing and burning spree had nothing to do with the meat shortage, and continued on his way, heeding no one, unto destruction.

There was not much difference in these two cases—only difference in the men. Poor Joseph had nothing to rely upon but the wisdom and direction of Almighty God, while Henry was blessed with the advantage of getting his instructions from the brain trust. How strange are the ways of men.—Man in the Moon.

MORE DEBT DEFAULTS

Just "for the record" mark down December 11 with red ink on your calendar. This does not mean that it is a red letter day in our history. It merely connotes that it is the day on which another international promise has been repudiated, and one which can only be properly commemorated by Uncle Sam with red ink.

It was on this date that Great Britain calmly notified us that she could not make a payment on the debt which she owes us and that another installment of $117,670,765 is in default. True it is that the refault is made with "regrets" but these expressions of condolence are hardly worth one hundred and seventeen millions, even in fifty-nine cent dollars.

During three past weeks the European nations have been busy with another "shenanigan" in Europe and nobody yet knows what final shape it will take, but now they, and especially Great Britain, have been seeking to get our active support. It is therefore certainly proper and timely that we consider this defaulted debt, as an advance shadow of what might happen to other promises if we were once more foolishly to plunge our people into the European mess.

At this time when John Bull can't pay the 117 millions he is preparing to increase greatly the size of the navy and to dominate the Mediterranean and the Red Sea, even if he has to blow Italy out of the water to do it. This is none of our business, of course, but it is rather interesting yet disheartening to note that this is going to cost a lot of money if it is pulled off, a lot more than the aforesaid 117 millions which England can't afford to pay us.

Let it be remembered also that Italy is now engaged in a grand conquest of Northern Africa, spending many millions, at a time when she can't afford to pay us anything on account. And there are other "poor debtors" of ours in Europe who can find millions for bombing planes and muskets but nothing for an honest debt owed Uncle Sam.

All of these things, we repeat, ought to be taken into consideration when we are asked to pull England's chestnuts, or some other nation's chestnuts, out of the fire over in Europe. It might also be remembered that our State Department is now entering into solemn tariff treaties with other nations, calculated to admit a flood of foreign-made goods to our shores on the promise that the alien nation will buy more from us. Some of the nations which will enter into these solemn obligations, or be benefitted by them, are the same nations which have already repudiated solemn obligations to pay their just debts. How do you figure it all out, anyhow?

CHRISTMAS IN OTHER TIMES

"Christmas in Other Times," is the subject of an interesting story in the current issue of the National Republic, written by Fairfax Braxton. Mr. Braxton goes back, in his description of the holiday, to the earliest periods of known history. He shows also that there was much variance in the customs of celebrating the Yuletide in our own country before the Revolution. In part, Mr. Braxton says:

"The early Puritans of America were opposed even to a religious observance of Christmas. When the Church of England established Christmas services it is said that the Puritans refused to attend. Not until after 1800, it is said could Christmas be considered a real, and generally observed, New England holiday.

"Things were quite different, however, to the south and west. In Maryland and Virginia, Christmas was celebrated much as it was in England. The difference from New England custom was evidently due to religious differences. In Maryland and Virginia the colonists were not Puritans but generally Roman Catholics and those affiliated with the Church of England.

"The principal drawback to Christmas celebration in early Maryland and Virginia, and in the other southern colonies, too, was not an application of the blue laws but the possible unexpected arrival of real Indians who might seek to add to the merriment with real tomahawks.

"It is said that it was during the Christmas season that Captain John Smith was 'saved by little Pocahontas, and that the attack on Powhatan came at the same period because Captain John Smith's army took time off to celebrate Christmas.

"In early Louisiana the Christmas celebration paralleled that of France and it was principally of a religious nature. Amusements and festivals were held on New Year's. It is said, however, that in New Orleans Christmas eve was celebrated until midnight when the entire populance attended mass.

"The colony of New York was at first, of course, New Netherlands, and the Dutch settlers there regarded Christmas as the biggest holiday of the year. To them, as it was to their fathers and mothers back in Holland, Christmas was both a religious and a merry-making festival. There were services, feasts, games and sports.

"On December 16, 1654, the town fathers, who were evidently getting ready for a big Christmas all over Manhattan, issued the following notice: 'There shall be no more ordinary meetings of this board between this date and three weeks after Christmas.' That allotted ample time for 'recovery'. It is more than is required even now by an ultra-modern resident of Manhattan.

"As a matter of fact these stolid and solid New Amsterdammers were real celebrators of Christmas. Nobody could do it any better than they. More than one day was required. Old and young enjoyed all sorts of sports, and such revelry as was permitted in those early American days, when nothing was known of modern jazz orchestras. There were many family gatherings and many great feasts. The records indicate sometimes the fun became so boisterous that even so rugged an individualist as old Governor Peter Stuyvesant had to call them down.

"We owe the Dutch settlers for some of our time-honored customs as well as many other good things. Presents were exchanged on January 1, or on Saint Nicholas day by the New Amsterdammers. Saint Nicholas Day with them was December 6, and the Dutch settlers introduced Saint Nicholas or Santa Claus to the United States. Later on Santa Claus was adopted by the other colonies and he became the official traditional secular hero of Christmas. In New Amsterdam, after the colony became New York, Saint Nicholas day gradually was merged with Christmas.

"The New Amsterdam kiddies believed firmly in Saint Nick, his sled and his reindeer. Instead of hanging their stockings by the chimney they deposited their capacious wooden shoes near the fireplace expecting to get them filled with presents. They were rarely disappointed.

"Following the Declaration of Independence the Revolution and the forming of the new nation, the celebration of Christmas. of course, became a national custom. The Christmas tree and Santa Claus became American institutions and were found all over the country. Now, with exceptions due principally to climatic conditions, Christmas is celebrated pretty much the same all over the country. That indicates we have become one united nation. In the far South, where the weather is warm and mild, there are Yuletide fireworks celebrations as well as processions."

MARY'S SONG OF PRAISE

LESSON TEXT—Luke 1:46-58.

GOLDEN TEXT—My soul doth magnify the Lord, and my spirit hath rejoiced in God my Savior. Luke 1:46, 47.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Why Mary Sang.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Why Mary Sang.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Our Mothers Have Done for Us.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—A Mother's Vision and Influence.

Mary was a Jewish maid of the town of Nazareth. The first information we have of her is that she was engaged to be married to Joseph, a carpenter of the same village. It seems that the custom among the Jews was for betrothal to take place a year before marriage.

I. The Occasion of (Luke 1:26, 27).

1. Gabriel's announcement (vv. 26-37). During this interval of betrothal, God sent the angel Gabriel to announce to Mary that she was to be the mother of Jesus. Isaiah, more than 700 years before, prophesied that a virgin would give birth to a son, whose name should be called Immanuel, "God with us" (Isa. 7:14). Though at first perplexed, she accepted the annuncation with remarkable courage and devotion. To be told that she was to be a mother was nothing startling, for this was the normal desire of every married Jewish woman. Under the circumstances, she accepted motherhood at a tremendous cost. She was conscious of her virgin purity. She knew that to become a mother under such circumstances would expose her to suspicion and shame (John 8:41).

2. Mary's response (v. 38). Her faith was such that she responded with remarkable courage. She said, "Behold the handmaid of the Lord; be it unto me according to thy word." She accepted motherhood under these circumstances as God's command. It was made clear to her that the begetting was by the Holy Ghost and that the Most High would embody himself with humanity divinely begotten and that the resultant thing born would be holy and called the Son of God.

3. She visits Elisabeth (vv. 39-45). In her embarrassment she set out on a visit to an elderly kinswoman called Elisabeth. Having sought the sympathy and encouragement of her friend, her triumphant faith carried her beyond the misunderstanding, the scorn and shame which awaited her, and caused her soul to burst out in the most wonderful song of praise. This is called the "Magnificat" because of the first word in the Latin version. "My soul doth magnify the Lord." As pointed out by another, three features of her character stand out in this song.

a. Her purity of heart. Only a pure heart rejoices when God has come near.

b. Her humility. She forgot herself and gave her heart to God's praises.

c. Her unselfishness. She did not primarily think of the undying honor which through the ages should be attached to her, but the blessedness which would come to others.

II. The Content of Her Song (vv 46-58).

1. For salvation (vv. 46-49). It was salvation for herself and others. There is no suggestion whatever in this song that she thought of herself as the mother of God. She praised God for the high distinction of being the channel through which the eternal Son of God was to make contact with the race and save it. This high distinction wrought humility in her soul.

2. For the divine character (vv. 49, 50). She praised God that he had almighty power, that he was absolutely holy and abundant in mercy.

3. For what the Savior shall accomplish (vv. 51, 52).

a. He was to scatter the rebellious, the unbelieving, and the proud. Though he is exceedingly merciful and patient, the time is coming when all who reject him shall be scattered.

b. He was to exalt the lowly. How wonderfully this has been accomplished through the centuries. Those who turn from sin and exercise faith in Jesus Christ are lifted up to places of honorable recognition.

c. He filled the hungry. It is through Jesus Christ that good is gained for the hungry. Indeed, all blessings come through him.

d. He sent the rich away empty. By the rich no doubt is meant those who have arrogated to themselves importance because of the possessions which he gave them.

4. For God's faithfulness (vv. 53-55) His faithfulness is shown in keeping his promises. That which was about to be realized was the fulfillment of the covenant promise made in Eden and perpetuated through Abraham.

Self-Denial

Simpler manners, purer lives, more self-denial, more earnest, sympathy with the classes that lie below us—nothing short of that can lay the foundations of the Christianity which is to be hereafter, deep and broad.

What Is Religion?

Religion is the fear and love of God: its demonstration is good works; and faith is the root of both, for without faith we cannot please God; nor can we fear and love what we do not believe.—Penn.

ALABAMA BAPTIST SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTIONS

The annual Alabama Baptist Sunday School Conventions are slated for January. The two-convention plan has amply justified itself in increased attendance and interest. The northern convention will be held at First Baptist Church, Florence, beginning at 2:30 p.m., Monday, January 13th, and closing Wednesday afternoon, the 15th. This convention at Florence will draw its delegates from all of North Alabama including the following counties: Lamar, Fayette, Walker, Jefferson, St. Clair, Calhoun, Clebourne and all counties north of them.

The Clanton Baptist church, Clanton, Alabama, will be the host of the convention beginning at 2:30 Wednesday, January 15th, and closing Friday afternoon the 17th. The territory from which the down-state convention will draw its messengers is indicated as all other counties not attending the Florence meeting.

The Department of Education and Training of the Baptist State Convention under the direction of Mr. Davis Cooper, Jr., of Montgomery, offers an unusually attractive program this season. On the program consisting chiefly of conferences and messages there are thirty-three speakers and conference leaders. There are a number of prominent State workers listed as speakers.

DR. JEROME O. WILLIAMS

Among the out-state Baptist leaders there are appearing such men as Dr. R. S. Jones, Field Secretary of the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Covention; Dr. Homer L. Grice, Secretary of the Vacation Bible School Department of the Sunday School Board, Nashville, Tennessee. Other Sunday School Board Workers will make worthy contributions to the program: Miss Blanche Linthicum, associate secretary of the elementary department; Mr. A. V. Washburn, Jr., of the young people's, adult and extension department with W. P. Phillips as the general secretary of that department.

The convention music will be led by the famous B. B. McKinney of Nashville. Mr. McKinney's new songs have been sung around the world. Alabama's J. O. Williams, business manager of the Sunday school board, Dr. P. E. Burroughs, secretary of education and J. N. Barnette, associate secretary of the Sunday School Administration will be present.

One of the most interesting personalities on the entire program will be Dr. G. S. Dobbins, Professor of Religious Education, at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Kentucky.

The general theme of the conventions will be "Come . . . learn—Go . . . teach" With a constituency of over 20,000 teachers and officers in the State of Alabama, a record breaking attendance is anticipated.

C. L. Wilkins Writes About Education

Please allow me space to write a few words to the citizens of Chilton County.

All of you who have been attending Sunday school through the last quarter surely have learned a new and good lesson. We have studied about the great walls of Jerusalem being torn down and rebuilt, and the great men who took God for their counsel.

Let us stop for a minute and think. Are the walls of our great county wrecked? Can we stand still and see our children grow up in ignorance? Do you feel that all other things should come between our children and their education? It seems that the thought of education is being trampled under foot. It seems that everything else must come first.

The schools of our county are now on the verge of being forced to close, after only a little over a half term. I want to say, as a member of the County Board of Education, that the Board has done the very best with the situation that we knew to do. We tried to make what money we had go as far as we could. If there has been any of the tax payer's money spent unwisely, it is simply because we did not know better.

I want to say just here, in regard to the two buildings which were burned, and are being rebuilt—the money that the Board is using in rebuilding is insurance from the other buildings, and not money taken from the school funds.

We have tried to run the school business on a cash basis, and I cannot afford to ask our teachers to work for nothing. Let us ask our Governor to find a place somewhere on his desk for the interests of our schools. May he consider the need of education for tomorrow.

We need good roads, we need jails and prisons, but above all, we need education for our children. That is full of principle, and honest.

The walls of Jerusalem were built by someone in a position like his—someone who had a mind to work. These gates were built and fastened securely. Are you a gate for someone to pass in by? If we were all building up walls of education for the county, we would not have so much use for prisons.—C. L. Wilkins.

WATERMELON FOR CHRISTMAS

Mr. V. J. Best, of Clanton Route 6, reports that he enjoyed a watermelon on Christmas day, along with his family and several visitors. "Uncle Jim" stated that he grew the melon on his own farm, pulled it during the last days of September, and kept it in his house until Christmas. He said, too, that it was fully as sweet as any watermelon he had ever tasted. He made no extra arrangements for its preservation, such as burying in cottonseed, as is the usual custom, but kept it on the floor in a bedroom of his home. The melon weighed about 40 pounds.

BAPTIST YOUTHS MEET IN BIRMINGHAM

Address by Kagawa Was High Point of Southwide Rally In Birmingham

Birmingham, Ala., Dec. 31.—Thousands of young people from the Southern Baptist convention moved to Birmingham Tuesday preparatory to the opening of the fourth southwide Baptist training union conference. The conference has as its keynote, "faith is victory."

After the opening session, at which Dr. Roy C. Angell, of San Antonio, Texas; Dr. Dean Crain, of Greenville, S. C., and Dr. Perry Webb, of Pine Bluff, Ark., spoke, the conference plunged into three days of intensive work.

The meeting is drawing Baptist leaders from 18 states and will continue through Friday night, when Dr. Toyohiko Kagawa, social worker and international Christian, of Japan, will address the meeting on "Staking all in Christ."

Georgia sent 300 deleates and Tennessee 500, and other states from 50 each on up.

During the meeting exhibits of Baptist Training union, missionary, editorial and books are on display in the lobby of the Municipal Auditorium where all general sessions are being held.

The Baptist Sunday school Board met Monday and adopted the five year plan which has as its main objection, 500,000 new members by 1940.

WIFE OF NEWT TRACY DIED SUDDENLY LAST MONDAY

Mrs. Mandy Tracy, age about 75, wife of Newt Tracy, of Cane Creek community, died suddenly on Monday morning about 7:30 o'clock. Mrs. Tracy was in the cow pen preparing to milk when a little child happened to see her fall. The little child went for help, and by the time she was gotten in the house to the bed she was dead. Apparently she was in perfect health when Mr. Tracy left her a few minutes previous.

Funeral services were held at Mineral Springs Tuesday, with Rev. W. P. Lowery officiating. Spigener was in charge. Burial was in the adjoining cemetery.

Before her marriage she was Miss Mandy Giles. Besides her husband, she is survived by one brother, Martin Giles, and three sisters—Mrs. Susan Wagoner, Mrs. Polly Gore, and Mrs. Ada Glass. She had no children. Mrs. Tracy died in almost the identical place where she was born three-quarters of a century ago.

RECENTLY ELECTED LIEUT. GOV. OF KIWANIS, THIRD DIVISION

Mr. John L. Hollis, prominent member of Clanton Kiwanis Club, and superintendent of Mitchell Dam, was recently signally honored by his Club when he was elected Lieutenant-Governor of the Third Division of that organization. Mr. Hollis's picture appeared in The Kiwanis Courier, a monthly magazine published by the Alabama division. In connection with the election of Mr. Hollis, The Courier stated:

John was born in Talladega County near Lincoln in 1894. He was reared on a farm and fate so ruled that he got only so far as the 7th grade in school. At the age of 15 he signed up under Uncle Sam in the Engineering Dept. and started to work as a water-boy. Four years later he left the service as an "Engineman."

John then spent about three years with the Gulf States Steel Co., as a rigger and erector. Followed, then, an apprenticeship as a machinist with the Golden Foundry & Machine Co., of Columbus, Ga.

In 1921 John cast his lot with the Alabama Power Co., where he passed rapidly through various stages of employment until he is now Superintendent of the Mitchell Dam hydro plant.

John joined the Clanton Kiwanis Club in 1930 and became its president in 1932. He has served in various capacities in Kiwanis and is certain to give the 3rd Division a great year of service in 1936. More power to you—John.

DANCE HELD AT CITY HALL LAST THURSDAY NIGHT

A dance, sponsored by the Chilton County League of Young Democrats, was held at the auditorium of the City Hall in Clanton on Thursday night, December 26th. Leon Johnson and his orchestra, from Montgomery, were here to furnish the music. The festivities began at 9:00 o'clock, and lasted until around 2:30 Friday morning. Reports of the affair were that some 65 couples attended, and that it was one of the highlights of the social season for the younger set of this community.

NEW DEAL AT LOWEST MARK IN NATIONAL TEST BALLOT

Additional gains in opposition to policies of the New Deal are recorded in the current issue of The Literary Digest as votes from 41 states sent the total balloting in its nation-wide poll almost to the million mark.

Support of President Roosevelt's administration declined to a new low of 41.49 per cent, as compared with 42.31 per cent last week end 61.14 per cent in a similar poll of the same magazine in the Spring of 1934.

A variation of one per cent in the support column on the question, "Do you NOW approve the policies of the Roosevelt New Deal to date?" represents a probable shift of about 40,000 of the 40 million who ballot in a national election, the publication points out.

First returns were tabulated this week from Arizona, Idaho, Montana, New Mexico, Rhode Island, Utah and Wyoming. Six of the seven show strong sentiment against the New Deal, Utah alone of the newcomers indicating a majority for the administration.

About 77 per cent of the total population of the country is reresented by the 41 states which now figure in the poll returns. These states cast 78.5 per cent of the total vote which elected Mr. Roosevelt in 1932.

Eleven of 13 Southern and border states continue to support the New Deal. They are joined in the "yes" column by only one state in another section—Utah.

Georgia remains in third place among the administration supporters with its percentage of 67.2 shifting only slightly. Alabama, however, appears ready to nose this state into fourth place after fractional gains which place the percentage at 67.13.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Roberts spent the Christmas week with relatives here.

Supreme Court Killed The AAA

Decision Is Handed Down In Such Forceful Terms That Little Doubt Is Left That Bankhead Act Will Meet Same Fate

Washington, Jan, 6.—The Supreme Court today struck down the New Deal's farm recovery program provided for in the Agricultural Adjustment Administration by holding the law an unconstitutional attempt to control production.

The decision was rendered with an opinion so sweeping as to make reenactment of any similar measure seem impossible without constitutional amendment—a long and difficult task.

Striking at the very heart of the law, the decision held that control of crop production even by voluntary agreements and the payment of bounties exceeded the limitations placed on the power of the Federal Government.

Bankhead Act In Danger

A stunning blow at what the New Deal considers its outstanding recovery achievement, the decision was in such forceful terms that it left no doubt that the Bankhead cotton control act would also be declared invalid. It also appeared definitely to scrap the Kerr-Smith tobacco act and the potato control law.

The decision served to strike down processing taxes on wheat, rice, tobacco, corn, hogs, sugar beets and sugar cane, paper, jute, peanuts and rye, as well as cotton. Crop production control programs for all these commodities fell with the decision. The decision was considered the most important in political significance since the Civil War.

Reverberations over the court's decision were expected to sound furiously through the coming political campaigns.

The Government was expected to be liable for benefit payments to farmers already contracted for.

Six To Three

The court's devision on the case was announced as six to three, with Roberts writing and reading the opinion of the majority group.

Only the three regular liberals, Justices Harlan F. Stone, Louis D. Brandies and Benjamin N. Cardozo, stood for the law.

59 PER CENT OF NATION IS AGAINST THE TRIPLE A

Poll Is Announced As Supreme Court Declares Triple A Unconstitutional

In these times of straw votes the revelation of how the wind is blowing on some current questions is very interesting. The latest is how America stands on the Agricultural Adjustment Act.

A recent nation-wide poll, taken from a cross-section of the country by the American Institute of Public Opinion, reveals that fifty-nine per cent of the people of America are against the AAA and 41 per cent favored it. The question asked was: "Are you in favor of the present administration's agricultural policy as embraced in the AAA?"

This question was a very live one until the Supreme Court of the United States Monday declared the Act unconstitutional. It has likely received more criticism and more praise than any one single law enacted by the New Deal. The main criticism of it in this part of the country seemed to be that it favored some and discriminated against others.

To those who think the lines of the two great political parties of the country are withering away and people are no longer regarding party tenacity, this poll will likely be an eye-opener. The Democrats voted 70 per cent for and 30 per cent against the AAA. The Republicans voted 8 per cent for and 92 per cent against.

Only one section of the country gave the AAA a majority—the South. Even the western States do not favor it, they voting 44 per cent for and 56 per cent against it. It has been expected by the Democrats that the rain of checks sent by the Democratic administration into the midwest would hold that section of the country; but it has failed. Only three States in that section favor it—Iowa, Kansas, and North Dakota. In the South four States voted against the AAA—Oklahoma, Tennessee, Virginia and Florida. New England went strongest against it, casting 78 per cent against and 22 per cent for.

Young people the nation over voted 58 per cent against the AAA, while those on relief voted 59 against it. An extremist explained his vote against the AAA by saying: "That's the damnedest racket ever hatched. Wallace must have started in where Al Capone left off." This was a retired policeman. The other extreme is expressed by a young secretary: "Any Roosevelt policy must be good."

The AAA is one of three issues upon which Republican opposition has been shown in the National Weekly Poll to be solidly and unequivocably united. The other two are government spending for relief and the Supreme Court.

In a poll on government spending last October, approximately nine out of ten Republicans felt the government was ladling out too much cash for relief and recovery.

The following month they voted 9 to 1 against limiting the Supreme Court's powers.

AUTO STOLEN AND WRECKED ON LAST SATURDAY NIGHT

Last Saturday night when Mr. R. J. Sumner went out to drive his car home, he found that it had been stolen. He immediately notified city and county officers, and about the same time that he was turning in his notice, the sheriff was notified of a bad wreck on the Birmingham highway about two and one-half miles above Clanton.

Officers went to the scene of the wreck and found Mr. Sumner's car, which had been wrecked along with another car. Report was made that the driver of the other car was a man named Jones. Several members of the party in the Jones car were seriously injured and were taken to Central Alabama Hospital.

It was found that the Sumner car had been stolen by a man who gave his name as Robert V. Whitfield, of Columbus, Ga., one of the men at the local CCC camp. Whitfield also was injured in the wreck and was taken to the hospital for treatment, after which he was lodged in the county jail under a charge of auto theft.

Whitfield stated that another member of the CCC camp was with him and stole the car and was driving it at the time of the wreck, escaping injury and getting away from the scene before the arrival of officers. However, the officers state that they had gathered no evidence which would lead them to believe that the stolen car carried any passengers other than Whitfield. He is being held in the county jail, pending further developments in the case.

M. VAN SMITH CARRIED TO THE VETERANS HOSPITAL

M. Van Smith was carried by Martin's ambulance to the Veterans Hospital at Tuscaloosa last Sunday for treatment.

Mr. Smith has been ill with pneumonia for several weeks. Finally one of his lungs abscessed, according to local doctors, necessitating his removal to a hospital. Reports are that an incision will be made, and the abscess relieved by drainage.

It is expected that Mr. Smith will be held at the hospital for several weeks if his condition improves, for a thorough treatment. He was accompanied by Ruben W. Lowe and a local nurse.

FRANK PALMER ELEVATED TO SYNDICATE DISTRICT MANAGER

Mr. Frank Palmer, who for the past two years has been on the road for Investors Syndicate, has been elevated to district manager of that company for the north-central district of Alabama. Mr. Palmer's headquarters will remain in the Comer Building, Birmingham. He will not be taken off the road but will remain in close touch with his clients in Chilton county and other parts of the district.

As stated in The Union-Banner some weeks ago, Mr. Palmer is a former Clanton young man, having attended school here in former years. His parents were the pioneer hotel operators of Clanton. The Union-Banner is glad of Frank's record with Investors Syndicate. Mr. Palmer led the entire state in personal production for the past three months.

Anti-Sales Tax Meeting Friday

County-Wide Gathering of Consumers Anti-Sales Tax Association

Chairman T. M. Taylor of the Chilton County Anti-Sales Tax Association, announces a county-wide meeting of the association at the courthouse in Clanton on Friday, January 10th, at 10 o'clock.

Mr. Taylor announces that Messrs. W. B. Gill and Keeton Arnett, field workers for the State association, will be at the meeting. Mr. Arnett will be the speaker and will be introduced by the local chairman.

All merchants of Chilton county and any other interested parties are invited and urged to attend the meeting.

The semi-annual report of the county treasurer of Chilton county has been filed with The Union-Banner, and the same will be published in full in next week's Union-Banner. Look out for your paper so that you may get this report.

SINGING AT COURTHOUSE NEXT SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Mr. Jesse C. Jones, chairman, announces that there will be regular monthly singing at the courthouse next Sunday afternoon, beginning about 1:30 o'clock. Singers are asked to take notice and be present. Visitors are always welcome. A supply of the new books will be available.

JUDGE AND SOLICITOR HERE

Circuit Judge Arthur Glover and Solicitor Winston Huddleston, of Wetumpka, were in Clanton Monday attending to some court matters. They were invited to dinner at the Dixie Cafe by Mr. "Catfish" Eubanks.

On a recent previous occasion while the Judge and Solicitor were in Clanton they were participants, with Mr. Eubanks and others at a quail dinner at a local cafe.

President's Message To Congress

[EDITORIAL]

The Constitution of the United States provides that the President "shall from time to time give to the Congress information of the state of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient." In the fulfilling of this mandate of the Constitution, our presidents, until the recent remarkable performance of Franklin D. Roosevelt, have throughout the history of the country, either sent a written message to Congress, or appeared before Congress and given information of the state of the Union, and made recommendations to Congress.

No longer, under dictator Roosevelt, is this time-honored custom followed. He sends his edicts to the Congress in the way of commands that Congress "MUST" do so and so, and like trained circus animals jumping through a hoop, Congress places its approval on the command of this power-drunk dictator.

Pretending to carry out this provision of the Constitution, Mr. Roosevelt last Friday, on the assembling of Congress, sent to the Congress word to hold a night session in order that he might at the evening hour, over a national hook-up, broadcast to the country. Then after the galleries were well packed with his political hangers-on to vociferously cheer their idol, these same political leeches being paid out of the taxpayers' money to whoop it up for Roosevelt and his New D al, the president spoke.

With a setting of this kind, the mighty Roosevelt dramatically addressed the Congress, the galleries and the country. It was the most remarkable performance by a president in the history of the country. The harangue was entirely void so far as giving information of the state of the Union, or recommendations to Congress. It was a political harangue, teeming full of abuse of all who differ with him, and a demagogic appeal to class hatred, intended to inflame and arouse the unfortunate members of society against the more fortunate. Huey Long at his best, or at his worst, never played a sorrier part.

Summarized, his speech amounted to this: "I have foist on this country laws under which any other president could and would establish a dictatorship, and the people lose their liberty. But under me, pharisaical Franklin D. Roosevelt, there is no danger of dictatorship, and liberty is secure." Such piffle from a President of the United States is enough to bring a blush of shame to every thinking American.

State S. S. Meet Held Next Week

The Clanton Baptist Church, will be host of the southern Sunday school convention beginning at 2:30 Wednesday, January 15, and closing Friday afternoon. A like convention for the north half of the state will be held at Florence Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The department of education and training of the Baptist state convention under the direction of Davis Cooper, Jr., of Montgomery, offers an unusually attractive program this season. On the program consisting chiefly of conferences and messages there are 33 speakers and conferences leaders. There are a number of prominent state workers listed as speakers. Among the out-state Baptist leaders who will attend are Dr. R. S. Jones, field secretary of the foreign mission board of the Southern Baptist convention, Dr. Homer L. Grice, secretary of the Vacation Bible school department of the Sunday school board, Nashville, Tenn. Other Sunday school board workers who will make worthy contributions to the program: Miss Blanche Linthicum, associate secretary of the elementary department; A. V. Washburn, Jr., of the young people's, adult and extension department with W. P. Phillips as the general secretary of that department.

The convention music will be led by B. B. McKinney, of Nashville. Mr. McKinney's new songs have been sung around the world. Alabama's J. O. Williams, native of Chilton county, business manager of the Sunday school board, Dr. P. E. Burroughs, secretary of the department of Sunday school administration will be present.

MRS. MARTIN'S LUNCHEONETTE ON HIGHWAY OPENED SATURDAY

The new lunch shoppe of Mrs. Mary Martin opened for business last Saturday. The location is next to Culp's Shell Station near the bus station.

Mrs. Martin is prepared to serve real pit berbecue as well as all kinds of sandwiches, short orders and regular meals. Everything is new, sanitary, spick and span. A specialty is made of pies and pastries. Mrs. Martin will appreciate you visiting her lunch shoppe.

NOTICE TO FARMERS

On another page of this paper is printed an article setting forth the dates and places where farmers may call and receive parity checks. We are informed by Mr. J. W. Fant, County Agent, that he has been instructed to stop payment of these checks.

It is reported that the president will ask Congress to make some kind of provision for payment of outstanding obligations with farmers who have carried out their end of the contracts, but it is not known at this time just what will be done. Hence, the parity checks must be held up until some decision is reached.

PREACHING NEXT SUNDAY AT CLANTON COTTON MILL

We are asked to anonunce that there will be preaching services next Sunday at 7:00 p.m., at the Second Baptist Church of Clanton (at the cotton mill). Rev. J. W. Gibson will do the preaching. Everyone is invited.

U. S. Debt At Highest Figure

Washington, Jan. 3.—The government closed 1935—half of the current fiscal year—with expenditures exceeding income by $1,879,651,192.

The public debt at the end of 1935 was $30,557,324,062.

This debt was an all-time high. It compared with $28,478,663,929 at the end of 1934.

The treasury's statement, showed the government spent $3,781,660,702 in July 1-December 31 period, while its receipts were only $1,902,009,509.

For the full year receipts of $4,470,-349,140 and expenditures of $7,752,-332,000, had been forecast.

Of the half-year outlays $1,674,807,-226 was attributed to "recovery" and relief and the remainder to general governmental operating costs.

Current receipts are running slightly ahead of the $1,845,000,000 reported during the same period last year.

UNCLE REMUS STILL IN FLORIDA

The Union-Banner is in receipt of a card from Mr. C. T. Walker, whose home is near Lawley, but who for the past several weeks has been in West Palm Beach, Fla. Mr. Walker says he is learning to play shuffleboard and likes the game fine. He adds: "I do not know when I will leave Florida."

The Union-Banner hopes a storm does not hit Palm Beach while our good friend is down there. If it did it might change his attitude toward the Land of Flowers.

SHERIFF'S FORCE ARREST EIGHT DURING THE WEEK

The office of Sheriff J. R. Hardy reports the arrest of eight persons during the past week. They are as follows:

Three for violating the prohibition law; two were released on bonds of $300.00 each; the other was arrested to begin serving a sentence imposed in a case in which the court of appeals had dismissed appeal.

One for assault and battery; released and sent to Bryce Hospital at Tuscaloosa.

One for burglary; in jail.

One for grand larceny; in jail.

Two for abusive, indecent and obscene language; bond of $300.00 allowed in each case.

SINGING AT FRIENDSHIP NEXT FRIDAY NIGHT

The singing at Friendship has been postponed from Thursday night to Friday night this week, on account of so many children being engaged in examinations at school during the middle of the week.

All singers are urged to take notice, and be present for the singing Friday night, about 7:00 o'clock. Bring your new books.

DOROTHY WAITE, DELEGATE

Blue Mountain, Miss., January 7—Miss Dorothy Waite of Clanton, Ala., was among the Blue Mountain College students to represent the College at the recent Baptist Training Union Convention held in Birmingham. Baptist young people from all parts of the South were present and were inspired by Kagawa, the Japanese Christian.

RALPH JOHNSON IN HOSPITAL

Word has reached us that Ralph Johnson, better known as "Tobe", is at the Baptist Hospital, Birmingham, recovering from an operation for rupture. Ralph is a popular member of the Upchurch Drug Company staff of clerks. He is expected home about next Sunday, as he is recovering fast.

Hope Is Bright For The Bonus

Special Committee's Report Was Unanimously In Favor

Prospects for payment of the Soldiers bonus is brighter now than at any time during the wrangle over the matter, which has been going on for several years. When the congress met a few days ago, a committee was appointed to consider the bonus payment, and that committee has already reported favorably, with reports that the committee's favorable report was unanimous.

Reports are that an actual bill has not been drawn up as yet, and it is not yet known whether that submitted by the veterans organization will be accepted. The belief is general, however, that a strong fight will be put on again this year for the bonus, and it is very probable that the measure will be passed, even if vetoed by the President, which he has stated he will do unless adequate means is made by Congress for provision of the money.

STOCKHOLDERS MEETING

The thirty-fifth annual meeting of the stockholders of the Peoples Savings Bank of Clanton, Alabama, was held January 1, 1936. All officers and directors were re-elected for the ensuing year. Stockholders were presented with dividend No. 33 and the balance of 1935 earnings was passed to the undivided profits account. The Peoples Savings Bank has entered its thirty-fifth year of service, having been established in 1901.

TWO ARRAIGNED IN CITY COURT

In a special session of city court held at the city hall last Friday, two cases were dispensed with.

One was for public drunkenness; a jail sentence of 60 days was pronounced.

The other was for disorderly conduct, and drew a sentence of 10 days hard labor on the city streets.

One other case was on the docket, but was continued to a future date.

W. H. Wright Buried Sunday

Was Clanton Business Man For A Number of Years. Died In Bessemer

A brief funeral service for Wm. H. Wright was held at Clanton cemetery last Sunday at noon, Dr. A. E. Middlebrooks speaking a few words. Pallbearers were: V. J. Elmore, H. T. Pipes, W. H. Sartor, F. J. Callen, M. C. Broadhead and Evans Parrish. Martin was in charge.

W. H. Wright, familiarly known as Uncle Bill, was 84 years old. He died Friday, January 3rd, at Bessemer, at the home of his niece, Mrs. Burns Marsh. The funeral was held at the home before the body was brought to Clanton by Jacobs, of Bessemer, and turned over to Martin here.

Surviving are: one sister, Mrs. Ed Marsh of Bessemer, and one brother, Bob Wright, in Mississippi. There are several nieces and nephews. Mr. Wright had never been married.

The Wright family was pioneer in Clanton. W. H. Wright, Sr., father of Uncle Bill, with his family owned a store near Cordrey old mill before there was a Clanton. When the railroad was built, about 1871, the family moved to Clanton. They later built a home near where Gray's barber shop now stands, where they lived for a number of years. The father and mother of the deceased were buried in Clanton cemetery a number of years ago.

Wm. H. Wright was one of the charter members of the Clanton Masonic fraternity. He was made an honorary member several years ago.

SATURDAY WAS SUCCESSFUL DAY FOR EVAN PARRISH AND DAIRIES

Mr. Evan Parrish, local manager of Southern Dairies, is well pleased with the business done in cream last Saturday. Mr. Parrish states that over 1,800 pounds of butterfat was purchased for which over $550 was paid to customers of this station. This business is a great help to the people of Chilton County. This much money turned loose every week will help out in several ways.

Mr. Parrish also announces that the station will be open two days each week—Thursday and Saturday—instead of just each Saturday. This will enable them to give better service and that more promptly.

MAZER'S STORE REARRANGES THEIR DISPLAY OF DRY GOODS

Quite a few handy and helpful changes have been made in Mazer's Store during the past few days. All the goods for men have been placed in one section, the piece goods in one section and the ladies department in another.

Mr. and Mrs. Levine, Mr. Aubrey Gore and Miss Vera Poole, the manager and clerks of the store, are well pleased with the new arrangement, and take great pride in showing their friends the various wares that they might be interested in.

SENATOR THOMAS CORRECTS STATEMENT MADE BY PAPERS

Regarding the article published recently in some of the State papers relative to legislators being on the State pay roll, Senator Earle Thomas, of Chilton, wishes to make a correction as regards himself. Some of these papers stated, or inferred, that Senator Thomas was now on the State pay roll. Senator Thomas says: "I am not now on the State payroll. I have never been on the State pay roll except two months—March and April, 1935—when I was supervisor of organization of 'white collar' projects."

LIQUOR AND RELIEF

"A Christmas gift of $75 in cash could be put into each family stocking of 5,247,635 American homes now on relief rations with the money which the liquor traffic expected its victims to pay into its cash registers during the last sixty days of 1935."

This statement is based upon the official figures of the United States Internal Revenue Department for the first ten months of 1935, which reveal a 15 per cent increase in the sales of legally sold beer and distilled liquors as compared with 1934.

Reckoned upon a conservative retail price estimate, the reestablished liquor traffic, up to November 1, has this year taken out of the pockets of its patrons for beer and distilled liquor, exclusive of exenditures for wine and imported intoxicants, some $2,009,071,050, approximately $297,-831,175 more than in the similar period of 1934.

Services were held at the tabernacle last Sunday, morning and night. At the night service Rev. J. W. Enfinger delivered a fine sermon, using as his topic, "Salvation", and his text, Acts 16:30; "What must I do to be saved?" A good number were present and enjoyed this service.

We have Sunday school every Sunday morning at 9:45. On next Sunday evening a special young peoples meeting will be held, in which talks will be made on "Spiritual Mountain Climbing". This should be an interesting program, and all are invited, especially the younger people.

Services are held each Sunday night at 7:30. We have been having quite a few visitors, including several boys from the CCC camp. We are glad to have them any time, as well as all other visitors.

CORN-HOG MEETINGS SCHEDULED IN STATE

Auburn, Ala. — Nine educational meetings of county agents and corn-hog committeemen will be held in Alabama within the next two weeks to make plans for offering corn-hog farmers AAA new adjustment contracts.

The meetings will be held as follows: Enterprise, Wednesday, Jan. 8; Auburn, Thursday, Jan. 9; Rockford, Friday, Jan. 10; Monroeville, Monday, Jan. 13; Selma, Tuesday, Jan. 14; Tuscaloosa, Wednesday, Jan. 15; Jasper, Thursday, Jan. 16; Decatur, Friday, Jan. 17; and Gadsden, Saturday, Jan. 18.

Following the regional meetings, the agents and committeemen will hold community meetings to give farmers detailed information about the 1936-37 corn-hog contracts. The sign-up will follow the educational meetings.

BEST VARITIES OF COTTON SEED NAMED

Auburn, Ala.—The best varieties of cotton for Alabama farmers to plant in 1936 can be determined from a report just issued by the Alabama Experiment Station, giving the results of cotton variety tests conducted on experiment stations and experimental fields throughout Alabama during the past three years.

"The Stoneville 3 and 5 and D. P. L. 11 and 4-8 varieties have been found to be satisfactory in yield, staple length, and lint percentage for any section of Alabama which is not infested with cotton-wilt disease," says H. B. Tisdale, plant breeder of the state experiment station, in the report. "Other satisfactory varieties which may be considered for the wilt-144, Cook 1627 (Wmson.), and Piedmont Cleveland," he adds.

"The Clevewilt, Dixie Triumph, and Cook 144 are good yielding wilt-resistant varieties that produce a staple around one inch in length," the plant breeder advises. "The Cook 912 and Cook 27-54 are good yielding wilt-resistant variety that will produce staple ⅞ to 1 inch in length under average seasonal conditions but under very dry seasonal conditions it will produce staples less than ⅞ of an inch."

After stating the experiment station does not recommend varieties that produce less than ⅞ (or 28-32) inch Mr. Tisdale named the five leading varieties with the average yield of lint per acre and the length of staple in 1-32 inches for a three-year period in different sections of the state.

He advises farmers to study carefully the yields and staple lengths of various varieties of cotton before purchasing planting seed for 1936. A copy of the mimeographed report giving results of the tests may be obtained from county agents or by writing the Alabama Experiment Station at Auburn.

ALABAMA WOMEN SOLD ARTICLES IN CHICAGO

Auburn, Ala.—Farm women of Alabama sold $90 worth of home-made articles at the Home Industries and Sale held this year in connection with the annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation, reports Dorothy Dean, extension specialist in clothing and handicraft of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

The articles sold included rugs, crocheted bags, plaques, hearth brooms, pine needle knitting bags, pine needle baskets, pine needle trays, pine needle hot plate mats, bunny rabbits and toys, homemade ties, crocheted 4-piece set hot dish mats, crocheted luncheon sets, baskets containing crystallized fruit, "Cotton Sans from Alabama," vari-colored afghans, and cards of walnut buttons.

STRAW LOFT PROTECTS POULTRY FROM COLD

Auburn, Ala.—A straw loft in the poultry house is a big aid in helping throw off slumps in egg production during extremely cold spells, advises John E. Ivey, extension poultryman.

The straw loft construction is the least expensive of several satisfactory ways of insulating the hen house veiling, because most of the material used is generally available on the farm, he says. When the poultry house is of the shed-roof type, the type most commonly used in Alabama, the farmer places a wire or slats on underside of rafters and fills with straw or pine needles. Farmers with pointed top poultry houses construct a light frame work of poles or of 1 by 2 or 2 by 2 inch lumber at head-room height in the poultry house, covering the frame work with wire netting, then filling the frame work with wire netting, then filling the space between the false ceiling and the roof with straw.

The straw insulation does not add to the problem of poultry mite and lice control and need not be changed each year unless exposed to an outbreak of contagious poultry disease. Neither does a straw loft control or aggravate dampness in the hen house.

The straw loft not only reduces the cubic air space but also reduces the amount of heat lost through the roff, where the greatest amount of heat is otherwise lost, Ivey points out.

CROPS ARE PERMITTED ON RENTED COTTON LAND

Auburn, Ala.—Land which farmers remove from cotton under the 1936 AAA cotton adjustment program may be put into native or sown pastures, soil improvement crops, soil erosion prevention crops, food and feed crops for home consumption, left idle, according to preliminary administrative rulings for the new program.

ALABAMA PRODUCERS GROWING MORE MEAT

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama farmers are making progress in growing meat at home for home consumption, reveals F. W. Gist, state and federal agricultural statistician, in a special pig report.

Gist said that 10 per cent more pigs were saved in Alabama June 1 to December 1, 1935, than during the same period in 1934. A total of 297,000 pigs were saved compared with 170,000 in 1934.

"Reports indicate that the farrowing of sows next spring will show an increase of 18 per cent over last spring," he says.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to offer our sincere thanks to our friends and neighbors for their sympathy and help during our recent bereavement in the sudden death of our loved one, J. Arthur Thompson. May God's richest blessings rest upon each of you is our earnest prayer.—Mrs. J. A. Thompson and Family.

HE • might • HAVE BEEN A GREAT BUILDER...

BUILDING BLOCKS fascinated John as a little fellow. He would spend long hours with them on the floor. "I am going to build tall buildings when I am grown," he often declared. His parents felt certain he would.

But one day, when he had grown to young manhood, he learned the saddening truth. His health had failed. He could no longer continue his engineering course at college. Eye-strain was a contributing cause.

Today John has a job. He makes a "living." But the tall buildings are being built by someone else!

This story may have had a happier ending—if John's parents had realized the dangers of eye-strain; and guarded against it with proper lighting.

ISABELLA ACTIVITIES

The teachers and students are preparing for mid-term examinations this week. The tests will be given in double periods, according to schedule. Every one is working for these examinations and hoping the new semester will be successful.

Our new building is progressing slowly, due to rainy weather but the entire community hopes that the new Isabella school building will be completed before this semester ends.

The Parent-Teachers Association will meet January 13th for another good program and some good speeches. The parents are all urged to attend.

Isabella basket ball team won over Chilton high last Friday night. The score was 26 to 18. Harry Fox made 9 points, Williams 7, and Deason 5. Isabella will play Jemison this week.

We were sorry that Mr. Matthews was ill last week and was unable to be with us.

We regret very much that schools liable to close February 7, and sincerely hope that something will be done to prevent this disaster

NEW WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC DISTRICT ORGANIZED IN ALA.

Foreseeing a continued improvement in business conditions during 1936, especially in the South, officials of the Merchandising Division of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company have announced the establishment of a new district with headquarters in Birmingham. The new district will be known as the South Central District and will serve the territory comprised of Alabama, Tennessee, North Florida, Mississippi and Louisiana.

Mr. Harold W. Brown who is widely known in electricial merchandising and utility circles throughout the South has been named District Manager, and is establishing offices in the Comer Building.

NEIGHBORHOOD BIBLE CLUB

Mrs. R. L. Huffman was hostess to the Bible Study Friday afternoon. After the study a social hour was enjoyed. A salad plate and punch was served to Mrs. Louis Canoles, Miss Ruby Daniel, Mrs. Luther Bean, Mrs. Aubrey Gore, Mrs. W. M. Bean, and the hostess.

Mr. Will Cove, of Columbiana, Ala., was a business visitor here Saturday.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this opportunity of extending our deepest thanks and appreciation to our friends and neighbors for their loyalty, kindness, courteousness and thoughtfulness shown toward us during the holidays by giving or sending us so many good things to eat. It is the joy of our hearts to know we live in a community and county where people are so kind and generous. May God shower His many blessings on each of you and give you an everlasting resting place of peace and joy.—Mr. and Mrs. Dave T. Smith.

WPA OYSTER REHABILITATION PROJECT GOES FORWARD

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 8.—Equipped with expert government advice on where and when to plant oysters, agents of the Alabama Oyster Commission launched the $110,000 WPA oyster rehabilitation project in Mobile and Baldwin county waters in late December.

A detailed chart of the shoals and reefs in the waters of both counties best suited for growing oysters was prepared for the use of the commission by James Bennett Engle of the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries, who spent the greater part of December engaged in this survey work.

The project was first launched near Bon Secour, in Baldwin county, with a small crew of five men planting shells from the raw houses at the mouth of Bon Secour Bay. Similar operations began on the Mobile county side on December 23, with 100 to 200 barrels being planted daily from the raw houses at Bon Secour, Mobile, Coden and Balou LaBatre.

SINGING AT ENTERPRISE

The singing society met at this place last Sunday afternoon. We had some real good singing, although the crowd was rather small.

The opening song was led by the chairman, I. D. Huett. The directors for the afternoon were as follows: J. E. Varner, T. E. Wyatt, J. M. Williams, J. W. Cagle, J. W. Devaughn, A. O. Boswell, Cecil Yeargan, Marshall Burkhalter, C. M. Billingsley and Philip Headley.

Pianists for the afternoon were: C. M. Bilingsley, Lee J. Grant and J. E. Varner.

We were glad to have all of the visitors with us and invite you to come and be with us every first Sunday afternoon.

IN MEMORY OF LITTLE WILLIAM FRANKLIN KELLY

On Tuesday morning at 5 o'clock a dear loving one was called to the shining gates of heaven. We will wait for the day to come when we shall meet our sweet baby to part no more.

Dear loved ones, do not weep for little William Franklin. He is now sweetly sleeping with Jesus, waiting for that sweet day to come where loved ones will part no more. Our baby was only two weeks old when God called him home. We must not say our sweet baby is dead, but resting in heaven. Oh, it was so hard to give it up.

We loved him. Oh, we loved him. But God loved him more and has taken our sweet baby to yonder shining shore.

Little William Franklin was buried at Samaria cemetery. He leaves to mourn his loss a mother, Father, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kelly, of Highland community; three brothers and 2 little sisters; and a grandmother.—Written by its mother, Mrs. J. W. Kelly.

MRS. J. H. MARTIN PASSED AWAY

On December 11, 1935, the death Angel visited the home of Mr. J. H. Martin and called away the spirit of his wife, Mrs. Susan Alabama Martin, age 65.

For many years Mrs. Martin has been a consistent member of Providence Baptist church, and this church and entire surrounding community will greatly miss her. The many loving friends deeply sympathize with the bereaved family.

Mrs. Martin leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, Mr. J. H. Martin; four sons, W. P. Martin of Donaldsonville, Georgia, E. M. Martin of Clanton, O. B. and J. E. Martin both of Jemison; seven daughters, Mrs. Birdie Cofer of Quinton, Ala., Mrs. Orvil Killingsworth of Montevallo, and Mrs. Lillie Bean, Mrs. Hattie Reynolds, Mrs. Jewel Gothard, Mrs. Lester Lucas and Mrs. Violet Shaw of Jemison.

Mrs. Martin was laid to rest in Providence cemetery on Friday folloing her death. Rev. Johnnie Martin of Brent, and Rev. R. M. Honeycutt of Jemison preached the funeral. Martin was in charge of the interment.

Grieving friends are asking the Lord to heal the broken hearts.—A friend, Howard Roper.

GRAVES CRITICIZED FOR PLACING LEGISLATORS ON STATE PAY ROLL

Twenty of Them Personally On Pay Roll; Kin of 18 More Have Positions

Montgomery, Jan. 4.—At least 38 members of the Alabama Legislature or members of their immediate families were placed on the state pay roll during the first year of the Graves' administration, records of the comptroller's office revealed today.

Heavy criticism has been leveled at Gov. Bibb Graves for permitting widespread employment of lawmakers and their kinsmen, and sharp repercussions are expected at the forthcoming special session.

Close observers declare the jobs given legislators and their relatives, together with various favors granted other senators and representatives, will give the administration complete control of the legislative machinery at the special session.

The combined salaries and expense accounts of the lawmakers and their relatives now attached to the pay roll will approximate $100,000 a year.

Nineteen legislators—five senators and 14 representatives—are drawing monthly salary checks. Close relatives of 18 members of the Senate and House were shown to be on the pay rolls of state departments.

A majority of the lawmakers and their kinsmen thus employed are on the pay rolls of the State Tax Commission and the State Highway Department.

Salaries of the legislators range from $125 to $250 a month, while the pay of relatives of legislators ranges from $75 to $200 monthly.

Legislators whose names appear on the pay roll are:

Rep. John D. Chichester of Jefferson.
Rep. J. E. Hendley of Covington.
Rep. T. P. Tompkins of Russell.
Rep. J. D. L. Byars of Lawrence.
Rep. S. M. Blann of Sumter.
Rep. John T. Heflin of Randolph.
Rep. R. G. Langdon of Pickens.
Rep. Evan J. Owen of Etowah.
Rep. C. J. Owens of Madison.
Rep. A. L. Hanks of Talladega.
Rep. J. B. Reynolds of Dale.
Rep. R. F. Hamner of Dallas.
Rep. R. L. Tolbert of DeKalb.
Sen. Webb Chestnut of Cherokee.
Sen. D. Hardy Riddle of Talladega.
Sen. J. A. Kuykendall of Fayette.
Rep. P. F. DeVane of Choctaw.

Sen. J. L. Kelly of Conecuh is serving as liquidating agent for a bank at Evergreen, under appointment from the administration.

Rep. C. B. Cox of Chilton was on the Highway Department pay roll a part of last year but resigned to accept a position with a road machinery firm.

Senator Earl Thomas of Chilton was on the State pay roll two months—March and April, 1935—supervising the organizations of "white collar" projects.

SIMEON'S PROPHECY

LESSON TEXT—Luke 2:25-35, 40.

GOLDEN TEXT — Mine eyes have seen thy salvation, which thou hast prepared before the face of all people. —Luke 2:30, 31.

PRIMARY TOPIC — When Simeon Saw Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Why Simeon Rejoiced.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Jesus Can Do for the World.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Jesus, the Hope of All Nations.

The occasion which brought Simeon to recognize Jesus as the Messiah was his being offered to the Lord by Mary and Joseph. According to the Jewish custom (Lev. 12), at the age of eight days the male child was circumcised and thus made a member of the covenant nation. In this case the child was given the name "Jesus" which indicated his mission (vv. 22-24). Then at the end of 40 days he was offered to the Lord on the basis of the original redemptive purpose, which was the priesthood of the first-born, and not according to the Levitical order (Exod. 13:2; cf. 32:26). The offering in such case was a lamb for such as could afford it, but for the p or a pair of turtle doves or pigeon was adequate. The Savior thus came to the level of the poor.

I. Simeon's Character (v. 25).

1. Upright. He sustained a right relation to his fellow men. He was "just."

2. Devout. He was of such a character as to enjoy personal fellowship with God.

3. Waiting for the "consolation of Israel"—Messiah. Waiting for the fulfillment of the divine purpose in the coming of Messiah had a blessed effect upon his life, inducing righteousness and godliness. Waiting for the second coming of Christ is set forth in the New Testament as having a salutary effect upon believers (I John 3:3; I Thess. 1:9, 10).

4. Under the sway of the Holy Spirit. One thus enabled would be in a condition to recognize the Messiah. A spiritual mind is absolutely essential in order to discern the divine purpose (I Cor. 2:14).

II. Simeon's Revelation (vv. 26-28).

He was assured that he should not die until he had seen the Lord's Christ. When Christ was brought to the temple, the Holy Spirit upon Simeon enabled him to discern the babe as the promised one. Happy is the one whose character and spiritual experience is such that he can discern the presence of the Lord. Truly it is in him that we live and move and have our being. To be in this state is to practice the presence of God. So definitely was he led by the Spirit that when Mary and Joseph brought Jesus into the temple, he took him up in his arms and blessed God, indicating his personal and affectionate appropriation of the Messiah as his Savior and Lord.

III. Simeon's Song (vv. 29-32).

This is the song known as the "Nunc Dimittis," so named from the Latin words with which it begins.

1. He prays for a peaceable departure (v. 29). Perhaps it was more than a prayer; it was praise to God that now he is having a blessed departure out of this life, having seen and handled the Savior. Truly blessed are the dead who died in the Lord.

2. He praises God for a world-wide salvation (vv. 30-32). The "Nunc Dimittis" is the universal song, thus widely differing from the "Magnificat" in that it is wider than the Jewish hope. Simeon saw Christ as the Light to reveal salvation to the Gentiles. This is the true glory of Israel. It is in keeping with the divine purpose in calling and disciplining this nation to make it the channel through which he might bless all the peoples of the world (Gen. 12:1-3).

IV. Simeon Blessed Joseph and Mary.

The revelation through Simeon caused them to marvel. To have such wonderful predictions made concerning their Babe filled them with amazement. His blessing contained wonderful and even dark words of prophecy.

1. "This child is set for the fall and rising again of many in Israel." This means that Christ was to be a touchstone—destiny would be determined by the attitude of the people toward him. How definitely this has been fulfilled in the experience of that people!

2. "A sign which shall be spoken against." This had definite fulfillment in Israel and is being fulfilled today among many peoples.

3. A sword was to pierce Mary's soul. This perhaps refers to her suffering as she entered into sympathy with his unutterable suffering as he went to the cross, and her desolation afterward.

The Day of Rest

God's altar stands from Sunday to Sunday, and the seventh day is no more for religion than any other—it is for rest. The whole seven are for religion, and one of them for rest, for instruction, for social worship, for gaining strength for the other six.—H. W. Beecher.

Happiness

One of the first steps to contentment and happiness is to learn not to begrudge other people the things they have because you cannot have them.

5 P.M. is a test of how you FEEL

"How do I feel.... Rotten! why do you ask?"

"Because, you are not yourself!"

IT is all so simple, too! That tired, run-down, exhausted feeling quite often is due to lack of a sufficiency of those precious red-blood-cells. Just build up these oxygen-carrying cells and the whole body takes on new life... food is really turned into energy and strength... you can't help but feel and look better. S.S.S. Tonic restores deficient red-blood-cells... it also improves the appetite and digestion. It has been the nation's standby for over 100 years... and unless your case is exceptional it should help you, too. Insist on S.S.S. Tonic in the blood-red cellophane-wrapped package. The big 20-oz. size is sufficient for two weeks' treatment... it's more economical. © The S.S.S. Co.

THANKS PETPLE FOR HELPING GET UP CHRISTMAS PRESENTS

To the People of Chilton County:

On behalf of the Department of Public Welfare, I wish to take this opportunity of thanking those groups and individuals who so graciously and unstintingly gave their time and service to the department in the assembling and delivering of Christmas toys for our children. I wish especially to thank the following: Miss Callie Watts, for her splendid donation of hats to go along with the toys; Verbena P.-T. A.; the Ladies Class of Jemison Baptist Sunday School; Mrs. Hattie Alred and her staff of workers on the sewing project of the W. P. A.; the Farm Foreman; Clanton Kiwanis Club; Hayes Chevrolet Co.; Commissioner Howard Oden; Mr. Fate Littlefield; Mr. Manuel Littlefield; Mr. Harry McClure; Mr. Woody Kaminisky; Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Little; Miss Icie Belle Cobern; Mr. Glover McKinney; Dr. S. J. Ezell; and numerous others who assisted in carrying out the project.

Space does not permit my mentioning the name of each person who aided us in this project, but to each one we wish to express our heartfelt gratitude. We feel sure that each one participating in this project was amply rewarded through the knowledge that many little hearts in Chilton county were made happy through his or her efforts.

Through the cooperation of these individuals and groups, 3,266 toys were delivered to underprivileged children in Chilton County during the Christmas season.

It is our sincere hope that no child in Chilton county was neglected by Santa Claus during the holiday season.—Nolan Meroney, Director Chilton County Department Public Welfare.

CHILTON HIGH CAGE TEAM LOST TWICE FRIDAY NIGHT

The Chilton County High School basket ball teams lost two games last Friday night. The first was lost to the Isabella High School team by the score of 25 to 18. We were unable to get an official line-up on this game. Both teams were rather sluggish, and this game was a rather drab affair. After the game, Coach Varnell promised his team strong work-outs for the coming week.

The second game was between a mixed first and second string Chilton team and Dock Baker's Mt. Pleasant Ramblers. This was a faster game than the first one, and some pretty good basket ball was displayed. Line-ups for this game were as follows:

C. C. H. S.	(18)	Mt. Pleasant	(25)

SHILOH NEWS

Last Saturday and Sunday were our regular preaching days. Rev. W. P. Lowery delivered two wonderful sermons. We did not have so many out Saturday on account of the rain, but we had a large crowd Sunday. We invite you back every first Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Billingsley were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Billingsley.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Keen and family had as their guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Owens and family.

Miss Aileen Mullins was the Sunday dinner guest of Miss Gladyls Poole.

Rev. W. P. Lowery was the Sunday dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Williams and family.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Bice were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Bice.

Miss Truitt Mullins was the Sunday dinner guest of Miss Louise Wilson.

Mr. Carlos Owens spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Bice.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Bice, Mrs. J. O. Bice and little son, spent several hours with Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Billingsley Sunday afternoon.

A large crowd from here attended the singing at Enterprise Sunday afternoon. We are planning on organizing a singing here soon and hoping for the help of other singers.

We are going to tear down our old church soon, but everybody continue to come to church, for we are expecting to have our new one ready to go into.

Don't forget Sunday school every Sunday morning at ten o'clock. We know the weather has been bad and we haven't had Sunday school every Sunday, but come if you can.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Jones, of Montgomery, were the week-end guests of Mrs. Willie P. Jones.

BOB JONES

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

"Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's house, thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's wife, nor his manservant, nor his maidservant, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor anything that is thy neighbor's." You will recognize this as one of the Ten Commandments. God recognizes the right of the individual to own property. A man has a right to own a house, to have a wife, to own an ox, and an ass and other things as well. The socialistic idea which is abroad in the land is contrary to the teaching of God's word. It is true that some of the early church, in order to supply the needs of everybody, decided to have things in common. Annanias and his wife were kil ed because they lied to the Holy Ghost when they said they had brought all their possessions, but had not. This movement on the part of a few of the early Christians was a voluntary proposition and there is nothing in the Bible which would indicate that God desired this as a regular course of procedure for Christians. Then, too, you will remember that Christians and not sinners were doing this. The trouble with most of our ethical procedures is that we try to get unregenerated man to do what regenerated man does naturally. Any reform movement built upon unregenerated human nature is bound to fall sooner or later. Jesus Christ heads a new creation. New wine has to be put into new bottles.

God says that we should not covet our neighbor's property. God tells those who are strong to bear the infirmities of the weak, but He never told the weak to take the property of the strong. If men who are strong financially and by the power of their own personality are able to make money or become great executives, do not become Christian in their giving and Christian in their attitude toward weaker men, then sooner or later unregenerated human nature will violate the commandment, "Thou shalt not covet" and will go further and actually steal the wealth of rich men. The hope of this nation, if we are to preserve our old time American traditions of individual rights, is in the Christian spirit which must come into the hearts of big business men. It may sound strange to express it this way, but the most selfish thing that representative business men can do in this time of stress is for them to be unselfish enough to give their money generously to God for a real gospel program. The worst thing big business men can do is to give to the modernistic educational movement. The old time religion is the only thing that will preserve property rights.

TRAILSIDE PRESERVATION

Montgomery.—The planting of trees in rows equally spaced along highways is a common practice throughout the world. In cities and on many country roads this type of planting is often very much to be desired. In parks and forests, however, it is generally out of place. Trees attaining great size may be set in forest-like masses or in quite irregular groups. It does not require great study of roadside conditions to show that the indiscriminate mowing, slashing, brushing and "clearing out" commonly practiced along roadsides in the country and in forest lands run contrary to nature's methods. These practices have a tendency to destroy the natural order of plant development, sometimes entirely eliminating shrubbery and herbaceous plants which seen in the offscape from the road are highly pleasing.

Of course, it becomes necesary at times to cut back the roadside vegetation, especially along woodland trails where the fire hazard is high, but such clearing operations should be carried forward with great circumspection and with full regard for the natural vegetation in its logical groups and zones.

Thorsby Institute News

School reopened on January 1st at 8:30 a.m. Rev. E. W. Butler made an excellent chapel address for the New Year.

The first semester examinations will be given on Thursday and Friday, January 23 and 24. The second semester will begin January 27.

In case the public high schools of the country have to close, Thorsby Institute can accomodate more day pupils. The tuition, if paid in advance for the semester, is twelve dollars plus one dollar registration fee. The registration fee covers literary society dues, subscription to Current Events and athletic dues. If it is more convenient to pay by the term (six weeks) the charge is $4.50 a term, or $13.50 for the three terms of the semester, plus one dollar registration fee due at the beginning of first term. The school wants only those who are in earnest about an education and does not want those who smoke. High school pupils cannot do their best work and smoke.

A week from Saturday night, the Helen Keller Literary Society will hold an open meeting. An interesting program of short plays, etc., is being planned by Mr. Sutlive and Mr. Maddox.

On February 8 Miss Foss will present her music pupils in a recital to which the public is invited. No admission will be charged.

On Saturday night, Feburary 16th, the Institute's Girls Glee Club expects to give a program of sacred music at the Presbyterian Church, Prattville, of which Rev. J. M. Graham, D. D., is pastor.

CENTER HILL NEWS

As the weather has been so bad and so many colds in this community recently, activities have been slow.

During Christmas week we had a wedding of much interest to this place and surrounding communities, that of Miss Mildred Hayes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hayes, of Pates Chapel to Mr. Burble Price. They were married on Christmas night, at the home of Rev. George, in the presence of a few intimate friends. We wish them many years of happiness and success.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Cobb, who are attending school in Troy, spent the holidays here with their families and returned to school Sunday. Mildred Cobb went back with them and entered school.. Mr. J. O. Raymond and Mable Cobb motored down with them and returned Sunday night.

Mr. Frank Lesley spent Saturday night at home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Lesley.

Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Cobb and sons, Frank and Relius, spent Sunday in Montgomery with their aunt, Mrs. Dock Glass.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Gillespie and baby spent from Friday night to Sunday morning with Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cobb and family.

Mr. and Mrs. William Price were in Birmingham the latter part of last week.

Mr. J. T. Cobb was at home Saturday night.

Leo Collum attended the Southwide B. T. U. conference in Birmingham last week.

Mrs. Lloyd Cobb and little daughter, Peggy Sue, have returned home from Mntgomery.

Rev. Paul Oden of Lawley will show his pictures here Thursday night. Come and see them. This means you.

There was a splendid representation from this place attending the singing at Oak Grove Sunday afternoon and heard one of the best singings that has been held since the all day singings closed.

Everybody remember next Sunday and Sunday night are our regular preaching services. Let us all start the New Year right by attending the first service of the year.—Reporter.

PLEASANT HILL

Health of this community seems to be fairly good at this writing.

We are glad to say that our Sunday school is still moving along nicely. We had a good attendance last Sunday. We were happy to see each one wearing a broad smile, as if to say, we are ready to help carry on our Sunday school. We would like to say to those few absentees, just remember if you are not there your place is vacant. We want to urge you to be with us next Sunday morning. Let's not let a shower of rain or a cool morning keep us out of our Sunday school, for it is true that the more we put in our church, the better it is going to be.

Misses Jesse and Dotha Cleckler, Mr. Osmond Cleckler and Mr. Frank McMullin spent a while Sunday afternoon with Misses Hazel and Alta Mae Blow.

Misses Daisy Elizabeth and Pearline Martin were the Sunday dinner guests of Miss Ollie Belle Davis.

Messrs Lonnie and Vesker Martin left last week to visit friends and relatives in Jacksonville, Florida.

Don't forget our singing next Sunday, beginning at 1:30 o'clock. Everyone has a special invitation to be with us. Come and bring all the good singers you can get to come with you.—Reporter.

LITTLE BOY WINS REUTER'S PRIZE

Master Arline Dawson, the 9-year old son of Mr. Claude Dawson, of Thorsby, Alabama, recently won a prize offered by Reuters Seed Company, of New Orleans. He writes now that he is representing this Company and wants his friends to help him out. He hopes to win another prize. He asks that if you send in for any seed to give him the credit for the order by placing his name on the order.

JEMISON F. H. A. HELPS SANTA CLAUS

On January 1st, the Jemison Chapter held its first annual meeting for the year. A very interesting program was arranged, during which the lives of famous women were given. This was followed by a series of New Year's games.

Plans were made for a mother-daughter, father-son banquet in cooperation with the F. F. A. boys.

Annie Louise Spencer reported on the use of Christmas gifts by the F. H. A. to an unfortunate family. On December 20th, the packages were wrapped by members and carried to Miss Spencer's home. On Christmas Eve night she left them on the unfortunates doorstep. We feel that our club helped Santa Claus in one home, where otherwise he would not have [illegible]

Republican Rally At Clanton 18th

The Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County, Hon. J. N. Dennis, chairman, is sponsoring a Republican rally at the courthouse in Clanton Saturday, January 18th, at 10 o'clock, a.m. The speaker for the occasion will be Hon. C. O. Vardaman, of Birmingham.

Mr. Vardaman is a well-known orator, being noted for his attacks upon the present national administration and the New Deal. In his speech in Clanton he will discuss principally national politics, and will pay his respects to the present bureaucratic regime in control of the government at Washington.

An especial invitation is extended the young voters of the county to attend; also the lady citizens. Mr. Vardaman is intensely interested in the younger voters of Alabama, and takes great pride in enlightening them on the vital political issues of the times. So, if you want to hear the other side of politics—the opposite view from that usually expounded in this the sold Democratic South, don't fail to hear Mr. Vardaman. He is noted for giving voters something to think about. Remember the date, Saturday morning, January 18th, at 10 o'clock. And we expect our own J. O. Middleton will be there, and if he does, he will likely have a few words to say too. Don't miss it.

FROM MT. CREEK ROUTE 2

Editor Union-Banner:

I would like to say a few words to my farmer friends. I am the man wih the coon—just to turn over something white under the shadow of the moon. So, a coon turns over everything that is white; but we poor farmers must have turned over everything that is not white. We have no fuel to heat the old stove to bake the loaf for the relief control. We are bare and can't raise enough cotton to buy any clothes—what Fant knows. With just potatoes and corn, we can't pay the doctor if the baby is born.—A Reader, Mt. Creek, Ala, Rte. 2.

Mr. Sam Stock of Birmingam was a business visitor here Saturday.

Mrs. Grady Heflin, Miss Sophia Mullins and Mrs. P. D. Wilson motored to Birmingham Friday. Mrs. Wilson remained for treatment in a Birmingham hospital, after which she will spend several weeks with her son, Joe. It will be of interest to the friends of Mrs. Wilson to know that her daughter, Sophia, who has held a responsible position in Chatanooga, Tenn., has resigned to take charge of the Wilson Hotel.. The Hotel is being painted and remodeled throughcut.

Dr. and Mrs. Joe Edgar spent last week end in Tuscaloosa with Mr. and Mrs. Leon Mullins.

Mrs. W. W. Fox is spending this week with her sister, Mrs. Eddings, in Birmingham.

Joe Earl Gowan returned Sunday to Atlanta Dental College in Atlanta, Ga.

Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Gowan and little daughter, Sallie, were visitors in Montgomery and Wetumpka Sunday.

Mr. L. E. Duncan of Birmingham spent the week end here with his family.

Miss Alice Brooks spent the week end at her home in Andalusia, where she was called on account of the death of her grandfather.

Mr. and Mrs. Barney Burnett, of Montevallo, Ala., spent Sunday here with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Burnett.

Mrs. Henry Jones returned last week after spending several days with her mother at Lugo, Ala.

Little Jack McCain is recovering after having been quite ill with a severe cold. It was feared that he might have pneumonia.

Miss Kittye Clyde Austin, of Montgomery, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hayes Wednesday night.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

At this writing the European muddle seems to have become more of a muddle than ever. The big talk about European sanctions seems to have evaporated. Having won an election on "applying sanctions" to Italy the Tory party over there seemed to turn about face and with Premier Laval, of France, to attempt to make peace with Mussolini by offering to permit him to help himself to Ethiopian territory. The outcry from other nations, especially the small ones in the League, was so loud and long that Mr. Hoare, who had proposed the plan, resigned as Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs in Great Britain. Mr. Laval would have been forced to resign too, it is said, were it not for the acute crisis in France over domestic affairs.

Just what was back of it all remains a mystery. Perhaps all of the truth will never be told. The most plausable story now going around is that Mussoini refused to be stopped by the threat of sanctions, and that M. Laval informed the British government that an application of an oil embargo on Italy meant war with the Italian dictator. France, it was added, could not guarantee Great Britain that her people would assist in a fight against Italy to help England and Ethiopia. Germany was regarded as an uncertain quantity and the only small nation which could be depended on was Jugo-Slavia which has a time-honored grudge against the Italians.

Now, while the British felt that they could win a war against Italy in the long run, they are said to have realized that Mussolini's air fleet and submarines could do a lot of immediate damage and they shuddered at what might happen in the near future. In addition, war between the two European powers would give Japan an excellent chance to "go ahead" in China, which is something that the British do not relish. So, although applying sanctions was an excellent campaign slogan, it wasn't so good as a promoter of peace. In fact, it spelled war instead of peace. So the impassioned words uttered before the election had to give way to solid, implacable facts after the government had won at the ballot box. Great scorn has been cast at the British Tory party for disregarding its pre-election pledges but as we Americans well know, political platforms and pre-election pledges often prove to have been written by "forgotten men".

Now under the League peace theory it is necessary and proper to apply sanctions to Italy to stop the Ethiopian war. Yet as a matter of fact, the application of sanctions does not mean less warfare but more of it. Sanctions mean that the scrap between a southern European power and an insignificant African empire may spread all over the former continent. So League sanctions after all, as it may now be realized, can mean war instead of peace and they generally will mean just that, because when a proud nation like Italy makes up its mind to fight, it is apt to go to the end of the road regardless of coercion or anything else. The mistake which our theoretical internationalists have been making, and still make, is to believe that League sanctions will enforce peace. Let them now realize that such sanctions are very apt to mean war and more war.

The criticism of the internationalists, and of the smaller nations of the League against British policy has been so vociferious that the British seem now to be trying to do something to counteract it. Sir Anthony Eden has been chosen in place of Mr. Hoare and Sir Anthony is said to be a firm opponent of Italian policy and a strong supporter of the League. It is hinted then that Italy may get some sanctions after all Well, when the indignation dies down, we shall see what we shall see. And let us fervently hope that what Uncle Sam sees will be from this side of the Atlantic only.

THE PRESIDENT A FAIR STUMP-SPEECH MAKER

President (Candidate) Franklin Delano Roosevelt is an astute politician and a stump-speaker from away back. You have to hand that to him; but he is much more of a defender of his ideas than he is a converter of his opposition. In fact, we venture that his purely political speech before Congres, which was spoken more into the "mike" than to Congress, did not change the views of many of those "greedy money changers, serving discredited special interests, spreading fear and discord, and gangling up against the people's liberties," who, according to recent figures comprise nearly sixty per cent of the American people. In other words, the President did not gain any ground by using such harsh terms against those who choose to oppose him politically. Those who were already for him no doubt liked it, but what gain had he from them?

Evidently the President has a pretty poor opinion of American popular intelligence. If those who dare to come out in opposition to his program, and if they constitute anything like half the American people, and if they are as low-down and as ill-bred as he placed them, then the morale of this hemisphere is in a heck of a shape. But such is not the case.

His message on foreign affairs and neutrality were not to be scoffed at, but the rest was most partisian and least presidential, most rhetorical and vainglorious but the least informative. He denounced a plenty, but as to constructivism and statesmanship it was the greatest fizzle in the peace-time history of the United States. Our President is a politician with two capital "I's".

We can't see why it will be necessary to build a new platform at the Roosevelt national convention next year. The one erected in 1932 hasn't even been used yet.

We don't know what emblem those European international fixers wear in their lapel buttons but judging from how straight they are the emblem ought to be a corkscrew.

On the new dollar bill the pyramid is the symbol of permanence. Wonder what stands for fifty-nine cents?

In the good old days mother didn't have to be an expert to read the finger prints on the jam closet door.

That loud noise you hear is the League of Nations protesting to Japan against violating the sovereignty of China.

THE FAMOUS LORIMER BATTLE

Although it occurred only recently as matters of history are estimated, the famous Lorimer Senate battle has already become only a historic struggle so far as many Americans are concerned. An interesting account of this contest, and how some of its developments were used to add fuel to the demand for direct election of United States Senators is told in an interesting way in the current issue of the National Republic, by Prof. Franklin L. Burdette, of the University of North Carolina. In part Prof. Burdette says:

"Twenty years ago the Lorimer election case was still a fresh topic of discussion. Of all contests over the validity of a seat in the United States Senate, that of Wiliam Lorimer is perhaps the most famous. There can be no question that it was one of the most bitter, and that it aroused a maximum of public comment. To the popular mind, more was involved than the Illinois senatorship; the integrity of the Senate itself was laid open to question.

"William Lorimer was elected to the United States Senate by the Illinois legislature, on the 95th ballot, on May 26, 1909. No one can deny that his election was unusual. On 5 earlier ballots he had received only one vote, and no formal announcement of his candidacy was made until the morning of the 26th of May. Moreover, of the 108 votes which he received, staunch Republican though he was, 53 were cast by Democrats. Not even a majority of the members of his own party sitting in the legislature voted for him. To all intents and urposes, it was a Democratic election of a Republican senator.

"During the preceding August the Democratic and Republican parties in Illinois had conducted preferential primaries for the senatorship. The primary, of course, was not legally binding upon the legislature; and that it was not morally binding was demonstrated by subsequent events. The Republican victor had been Albert J. Hopkins, the incumbent senator, and the Democrats had voted for Lawrence B. Stringer. Lorimer, at that time a candidate for a seventh term in Congress, was in no way an aspirant.

"Republicans in the legislature excused themselves for deserting Senator Hopkins, the preference of primary voters, on the ground that he had received only a plurality of the votes. One hundred and fifty persons received votes at one time or another during the long and wearisome deadlock in the legislature. Among the famous Illinois citizens who received consideration, much of it doubtless complimentary, were George E. Brennan, Anton J. Cermak, Governor Charles S. Deneen, George English, J. Hamilton Lewis, Robert T. Lincoln, Frank O. Lowden, William B. McKinley, Henry T. Rainey, and former Governor Richard Yates. The final election of William Lorimer was generally regarded as more than the selection of a dark horse; it was universaly considered a diabolically astute bit of politics.

"Of the personal integrity of Lorimer no one had any doubt, nor was there ever any subsequent effort to portray him as dishonorable. Born in Manchester, England, in 1861, he had come to America as a boy under conditions of abject poverty. He had been successively as a newsboy, a bootblack, a stockyard worker, and the driver of a horse car. He had risen to a position of political and financial power in Illinois through painstaking work and persistent courage. His career was of that type of which Americans are wont to be proud. Politically, he was conservative. It was anticipated rightly that he would align himself with the Old Guard, or the Aldrich wing, in the Senate."

MAN IN THE MOON

OUR STATE'S RICHES

"Count that country rich whose people have the advantage of education, whose people know God and appreciate His goodness, whose people appreciate the higher and finer things of life, and whose people are more concerned for right than might".

The above quotation was penned thousands of years ago, and the soundness of its thought has been proved time after time, by country after country. There are pages in the history of the world which tell of countries which attempted to master the world by the sword, headed by men with warped minds with an insane craving for power. Not many of these men have been considered great on down through the ages. On the other hand, there are historical passages which tell of nations the governments of which were based on intelligence, and headed by men who knew the finer things in life and sought to make them a part of their courts. For the most part, the countries these men headed stand today, recognized as world powers, chiefly because they have chosen the road of right rather than that of might.

Our state officials might well take a leaf from the history of these two groups of countries and their two types of rulers. They might well look to the finer things within the bounds of our state, and seek to build them up, rather than to spend their hours in vain, trying only to think up new ways and means whereby they may build better political machines, and so make for themselves little monarchies within this great republic of ours.

I am informed upon good authority that unless something unforeseen comes to pass, the schools of Alabama must close about February 1st. To my mind no blacker blot could be placed on this page of Alabama's history than that at last, through political planning and bickering, we have reached the place where our children shall not have a chance at an education. I would be glad my readers would think this matter over solemnly, and, at the same time, consider that at the very time our lawmakers were making such a condition necessary, ground was being broken by Gov. Graves for a new $244,000 highway administration building. Which do you consider the more important—Alabama's highways or Alabama's children? Our officials evidently consider the highways more important, and class education as a "non-essential".

SHAME ON "GRANDMA"

Shame on "Grandma". The Montgomery Advertiser has long contended that it was a champion of the rights of the people. It has shed editorial tears as big as coconuts in the past when it had the slightest inkling of a cause to believe that the federal government (under Republican administrations, of course) or any of its officials were using their official positions for political furtherance.

Now, last week, when the president let it be known that he would make his speech to the legislative bodies, and that the speech would be broadcast from coast to coast, The Advertiser admonished its readers to be sure to hear "his majesty". The speech, The Advertiser said, would be a great one, necessarily, inasmuch as it would be coming from so great a man, and, of course, would be non-political.

Then Mr. Fletcher, chairman of the national Republican Executive Committee, asked officials of the two big broadcasting systems that Republican speakers be allowed the same amount of time as the president in which to present the Republican side of the questions before the people of the nation.

The Advertiser scoffed at the idea. In substance, The Advertiser asked: "Why should mere citizens be allowed like privileges with the President? And how could a mere American citizen be so presumptive as to demand equal privileges with Mr. Roosevelt?" It stated that the president's speech would be a mere statement of his intentions during the coming session of congress, and not a political speech, and hence the opposition had no right to ask equal speaking time.

But the Republican heads were not fooled. Mr. Roosevelt made his speech, and just as they predicted, it was an opening gun in his campaign for re-election. This speech was like all others he has made during the past three years—nothing constructive, but merely a bitter denunciation of all critics of his New Deal (sometimes bordering on personalities) no matter how sincere these critics might be. Again—"The king can do no wrong."

Listen to the president any time you wish. He does not explain his New Deal—he DEFENDS it from the opening gun. That, within itself, gives away the fact that he is fully aware of its shortcomings and failure. A bigger and wiser man would have the reason to pick out its weaker points and correct them. Or does he believe that would be too big a job? We wonder—and we have our ideas about it.

THE AAA QUESTION AGAIN

Although agitation over the AAA question has died down in great degree, the Institute of Public Opinion chose it as its subject last week in a series of ballotings on important topics of the day on a nation-wide scale.

I think the main reason that agitation has died down about the AAA is divided into several branches. Many farmers refuse to believe that officials will attempt to "put over" the program again in 1936 in its present form because it is so plainly a failure, and is resented so widely by farmers of all sections. Others believe that the plan will be changed radically, while others believe that inasmuch as 1936 is an election year, the administration will pay heed to the widespread dissatisfaction caused by AAA, and will ease up on the program as a political move to hold the farm regions in line, especially the mid-West.

The Democrats are sure that the "solid South" will hold for them, no matter what they do to us. In this belief they are about right. I believe there is no better instance of this Democratic loyalty in the South than that shown in a story of an event in relation to Tom Heflin. The story goes that "Cotton Tawm" had just made the asertion in a talk that he could "smell a Republican a mile, on account of his negro scent", when a heckler asked him what he would do if his party should nominate a negro for the presidency. Tom did not hesitate, but said: "Well, I suppose I'd do like every other good Democrat—I'd just hold my nose and vote for him".

But to get back to the subject. Still others believe that the AAA will be outlawed by the Supreme Court before "planting time", and so are not so much concerned as they were.

This column has long contended that the majority of people do not like the AAA and its ramifications, and the poll spoken of above again proves our contention. In this nation-wide poll on the question, the voters divided up 59 per cent against the AAA, while only 41 per cent were for it. Another check showed that of those in favor of it, 70 per cent were Democrats and 30 per cent Republicans, while of those opposed to it, 8 per cent were Democrats, and 92 per cent Republicans.

That's just another straw to show you which way the wind is blowing. Czar Roosevelt and his Red Raiders are riding for a fall—don't doubt it. That fall, we firmly believe, will be the fall of 1936, too.

PAY POLL TAXES NOW!

Again the time for payment of poll taxes has come around. February 1st is the last day on which you can pay them if you want to have a hand in the all-important elections to be held this year. There are not so many important county offices to be filled, yet you will want to register your vote for or against certain affairs in the national whirl.

It is true, as stated by many Democrats. that your Republican vote in this county stops at Mountain Creek, but good Republicans will want to make their votes burn up the ground as far as they go.

Another thing, if the "grapevine" system hasn't been crossed up, there may be other very important questions of local interest that you may want to vote on this year. In fact, I have already heard of two or three VERY IMPORTANT decisions which Chilton's citizens may be called on to make before we ring out the old and ring in the new a year from now. All is quiet now, but you can bet your pet curl that the old pot will begin to boil in earnest ere long, and you will want to be able to have your say along with others.

Remember, if you are a qualified voter, when any question of interest comes up, you are in position to work, argue and fight (with your ballot) for your side of the question; but if you are not qualified, then all can do is work and argue. Even at that, many people take the view that one who does not think enough of his rights to place himself in position to vote, thinks little of his citizenship, and hence his work and arguments carry little weight. But of you are known as a person who stands squarely for his rights, and takes every chance to secure them, your work and ideas and sincerity will carry much more weight.

PAY THAT POLL TAX NOW—BE PREPARED!—Man in the Moon.

A N. Y. DECLARATION

Statements of proposed Republican principles and program are now coming in with something like regularity. It is no longer sufficient merely to state that "all the Republicans have to do is to stand on the Democratic platform of 1932." It is true that the writers of that platform seems to be the real forgotten men, and that some of their declarations of principles were admirable, but it is equally true that Republican individuals and groups are now coming forward with suggestions of their own.

It will be remembered that in November the New York G. O. P. won quite a smashing victory in capturing the state's assembly. The Republican members of that State Assembly and the State Senators of the same faith recently, at Albany, set forth a declaration of principles for their future guidance.

After declaring for the preservation of the principles of American freedom through the maintenance of local government and constitutional fundamentals the statement says:

"We condemn as inimical to recovery:

"1. Repudiation of government obligations.

"2. Devaluation of the dollar.

"3. Managed currencies and unmanageable deficits.

"4. Huge debt burdens.

"5. The building up of a huge bureaucratic machine.

"6. Subsidizing foreign silver producers and speculators.

"7. Promotion of scarcity.

"8. Encouragement of monoply.

"9. A high cost of living.

"10. Harassing of business.

"11. Experiments tending toward socialisms.

"12. Punitive tax laws.

"13. Spending as the road to prosperity.

"14. Planless, chaotic, inordinately expensive and ineffective treatment of unemployment.

"15. Reckless squandering of the public resources.

" We believe that increased production, increased employment and increased real income are the true objectives.

"To that end we favor:

"1. A government that keeps its word.

"2. A stable currency and an honest dollar.

"3. Cooperation to stabilize world currencies and break down arbitrary restrictions in the way of world commerce.

"4. Balancing budgets, not by increased taxation, but by economy and promotion of recovery.

"5. Encouragement of the flow of savings into productive enterprise.

"6. Taking the government out of business.

"7. Maintenance of competition and suppression of monoply.

"8. Encouraging business revival as the only cure for unemployment.

"9. Local and state responsibility for relief administration, supplemented by the minimum of federal assistance necessary to provide adequate relief.

"10. Development of a long-time program for agriculture, not based on the perpetuation of marginal and inefficient production or creation of scarcity; and tiding over the adjustment period by subsidy, if necessary, paid from the general revenues, and not from taxes that compel the needy to finance the denial of their own needs.

"11. Living within our means and within our laws.

"12. Demobilizing the alphabet."

The New York Republicans are "on their toes" so their friends claim, and because of recent achievements are entitled to a careful hearing.

With no idea of violating our neutrality. we unhesitatingly express the opinion that the bravest men mixed up in the Italo-Ethiopion war are news reel cameramen.—Washington Post.

Our American internationalists want to plunge innocent old Uncle Sam into a political poker game with such nice straightforward performers as Stanley Baldwin, Sir Samuel Hoare and Pierre Laval.

All Turks have to give two per cent of their pay to be used for the purchase of army planes. This looks a good deal like a Doc Townsend military air plan instead of a hot air plan.

The nation's income, Mr. Roper says, is up 5 to 10 per cent. We suppose it would be indelicate at this moment to ask about the nation's outgo.—Boston Transcript.

About the only document we know of that has been as sadly neglected as the Democratic platform of 1932 is the Kellogg Pact.

JAPAN AND RUSSIA

It is of course more than coincidence that, while European powers have their attention centered on the war between Italy and Ethiopia, and the trouble threatens to spread, the Japanese are apparently penetrating further and further into China. This is said to be one of the reasons why the British were not willing to go too far in risking a war with the Italians.

As the Japanese get more and more active in China, there becomes greater danger of "border incidents," so-called, between the Japanese and the Soviet Russians. It is even possible that such incidents, and the rivalry of Japan and Russia over China, may actually lead to war between the Island Empire and the Soviets.

Such a war, if it actually comes, will subject Uncle Sam to another deluge of propaganda. In addition to the racial sentiment against the Japanese near our Pacific coast, we will have to reckon with the Russian activities in America. Every communist in the United States is an active propagandist for the Soviet government. He is therefore a propagandist against Japan, which is Russia's natural enemy just as much now as in the days of the Czar. War between Russia and Japan therefore would mean anti-Japanese demonstrations by Reds and their sympathizers in the United States against Japan, in an attempt to align the United States actively alongside Russia and to send our men and our money across the Pacific to fight for the communists.

It is, therefore, very necessary that sound and sane Americans recognize these facts and be apprised of the situation if actual warfare comes in the Orient. We have had barrages of propaganda from Europe for years, and there will be another barrage on Oriental affairs in case real trouble occurs. There was never a better time for Uncle Sam to "keep his head" than the present.

KANSAS "STEPS ON IT"

Ther may be some interesting crop news come out of the state of Kansas during the campaign year. Reports of the Department of Agriculture on the wheat acreage in the Sunflower State have already induced the politicians to sit up and take notice. The estimate is that Kansas farmers have put out the biggest winter wheat crop in the history of the state, with 14,103,000 acres under cultivation against 1,045,000 under cultivation in 1934. Incidentally the mark set by the well-known AAA for Kansas was 1,288,000 acres, so that this allotment has been considerably exceeded.

Some of the foes of the AAA are already stating that this increased acreage is a warning sign that curtailment will not work. According to H. L. Collins, agricultural statistician of the Department of Agriculture, the increase in wheat planting has been brought about by farmers who are not participating in the government control program but who are hoping to benefit by high prices next year due to artificial scarcity. And they are evidently of the opinion that high prices are of little benefit unless the farmer has the goods to sell.

The best wheat yield that Kansas has had to boast of was nearly 240,000,000 bushels and this was raised in 1931 on 12,240,000 acres. This year, it is to be noted, the acreage is considerably greater than it was then so that if nature is kind the Kansas wheat crop in 1936 may go a long way toward defeating the plans of the AAA.

This brings up another interesting point. If it develops that the crop curtailment program of the AAA is being defeated by th refusal of a great many farmers to go into it, and if the AAA is to be continued as Secretary Wallace says that it will be, then what is the next move? It will undoubtedly be, if the program is continued, to force the farmers to curtail their crops and plant what the government wants them to plant whether they want to or not. This sounds a great deal like Russianism, but it may be the outcome if the courts do not intervene. We have taken the first step. If coaxing fails, will there be federal compulsion?

It is said that they are going to cover the desks down at Washington with rubber so that the feet of the emergency workers will bounce right off onto the floor when the gong rings for quitting time at 4:30.

Even if the fire in the public buildings at Washington did burn up some of Prof. Tugwell's resettlement plans, as reported, we doubt whether or not anybody understood 'em anyhow.

It seems that $1,500,000 in Chinese money is only $550,000 in American money. Once you have that clearly in mind, the idea is to find out how much $550,000 in American money is worth.—Boston Transcript.

ALABAMA ROADS AND ALABAMA SCHOOLS
[AN EDITORIAL]

When you open your newspaper nowadays the main streamers to stare you in the face are: "Public schools to Close on account of lack of Funds," and "Alabama to Spend Thousands to Pave Roads."

We presume that the road from Clanton to Plantersville will be paved at an approximate cost of $150,000. And we also have authoritative information that our public schools will have to close within a few weeks.

Now, we would like for somebody to point out to us something consistent about such business as this. Certainly good roads are something fine and something that should have all the support possible from our public officials. Paved roads are a fine improvement. Lots of money is saved in maintenance costs, and the facilities of travel are multiplied a hundred-fold. We can appreciate paved roads especially well during these slushy winter months.

But what about the education of our youth? Certainly, if we can have full-term schools and paved roads too, there would not be much argument about the matter; but if money is short the question at once arises, which place can we best afford to cut? Can we afford to deprive our children of a fair chance of obtaining an education, in order to build paved roads and have lots other luxuries for which our governments are spending thousands and millions of dollars every day? No we can't afford it. We may continue to do it, but we can't afford it nevertheless.

It seems to The Union-Banner that our government has become one of the awkwardest and most top-heavy arrangements that can be imagined. We are supposed to have the most sensible men amongst us at the head of our various government positions. They are supposed to be able to solve our problems and make our country healthy, progressive, well-balanced and running with the least friction possible.

But the only thing most of our officials today are efficient in is the art of spending money. They can do that, and you can bet they are doing it. Bibb Graves did an excellent job his first term toward bursting the State of Alabama. Meek Miller came very near getting it started back toward sane and safe methods; but when Mr. Graves gets through with it this time, with his rhythmic dancing to the tunes of Roosevelt's New Deal, and his efforts to keep pace with the extravagance practiced by the national Democratic administration, there won't be enough left for Meek Miller or anybody else to pick up the frazzled threads and make anything out of it. About all he will leave us will be a sales tax and about a thousand other taxes to greet us at every turn of the road.

But back to the school question. That is really serious. The school system of Alabama is simply being gypped of lots of the money that belongs to it. This paper believes that there is some leakage in our school system itself, and that our schools could be operated more efficiently; but that leakage is insignificant when compared to the squandering, exorbitant salaries, and graft practiced in other departments.

It is nothing short of a travesty on civilization for a commonwealth like Alabama to extract what it does from its people in the way of taxes and then not be able to give in return a full school term for their children. This is to say nothing of the tremendous borrowing that our governments are indulging in, which is placing the oncoming generations under burdens that are going to wreck ambition and make progress extremely difficult for years to come.

Public officials who cannot take the money that is being collected and give their constituents better school opportunities and more showing for the money spent on all other public enterprises are not worthy of public office, and ought to voluntarily step out and let somebody else there who has more business ability and more sense of responsibility to the public of whom they are servants. And this paper would say the same thing if members of its own party, Republicans, had control of things and could not do any more with it than the Democrats are doing. The matter is much bigger and more serious than politics. The people have a right to more than they are getting, and may God speed the time when they will demand more and not let up until they get it. This will have to be done at the ballot box and nowhere else. We can't do it by selling our votes either. We must consider the matter seriously and vote our convictions, and not be swayed by filthy lucre and insincere campaign pledges.

ENJOIN LEGISLATORS AGAINST VOTING ON SALES TAX ISSUE

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 7—Injunction suits to prevent members of the legislature on the state payroll ffrom voting on the proposed consumer's sales tax will be filed in the courts if Gov. Graves calls for a tax on food and necessities of life in his special session call.

Notice to this effect was served here today by Irby C. Hall, chairman of the Alabama Anti-Sales Tax Association, following a meeting of the executive committee of the organization at which cognizance was taken of published reports that a large number of legislators have been appointed to lucrative positions by the Governor.

Dr. and Mrs. T. J. Marcus of Montgomery visited here last Friday.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

By ANN PAGE

A COLD spell is quickly felt in the higher prices of perishable foods, particularly butter, eggs, vegetables and fruits. As soon as supplies become normal prices drop back. Since increasing supplies of eggs are the rule at this season, higher egg prices are bound to be temporary.

Market prices invite the housewife to serve plenty of salads, for lettuce is cheap. Several varieties of greens are also seasonable and inexpensive. Meat and poultry prices tend to be firm but the simpler and less expensive cuts have additional appeal after rich holiday fare.

Apples and the citrus fruits are the chief values in the fruit market.

Here are three menus at different budget levels for Sunday dinner.

HIGHWAY PATROLMEN ARE IN ACTIVE SERVICE

Montgomery, Ala.—Fully equipped and carefully schooled in the vitally important work for which they will be responsible, the trim 74 men "Gentlemen Highway Patrol of Alabama," went on the roads of the State this past week. Coincidental with the patrolmen going on the highways, State Safety Director, Lawrence B. Tipton, launched the educational program with which it is hoped that the public will be made "safety conscious." Chief McAdory will supervise the operation of the officers from patrol headquarters in Montgomery, and Captain Potter Smith will be stationed at Montgomery, and be in immediate command of forces in the territory extending from Montgomery south, including Mobile County. Captain Van Buren Gilbert will be stationed at Decatur and will be in command of forces in the territory north of Montgomery.

While their stations will be in Montgomery and Decatur, respectively, Captain Smith and Captain Gilbert will be subject to call to duty elsewhere in the state, whenever the occasion requires; and in the performance of their regular duties, their operations will extend to any part of Alabama.

Everything In Readiness For Big Republican County-Wide Rally At Courthouse Saturday

Prominent Republican Leader Of State Will Address Voters of Chilton County at Courthouse

All arrangements have been made for the Republican speaking at the courthouse next Saturday at 10:00 o'clock. Hon. C. O. Vardaman, of Birmingham, will be the principal speaker. Mr. Vardaman is an outstanding Republican and a briliant and interesting speaker. He has given considerable study to the political situation of the day, and will no doubt be able to tell the people of Chilton County some things that will be interesting to them. He is an avowed critic of the New Deal, and as that is a paramount issue right at this time, everybody will want to hear Mr. Vardaman, whether they agree with him or not.

Mr. Vardaman is a comparatively young man, and appeals particularly to the young citizens. The lady voters of the county are especially invited to attend. Large amplifiers will be arranged from the courthouse, so that those outside may hear the speech as well as those on the inside. If the weather is agreeable, there is no reason but that several thousand people should be at the courthouse Saturday to hear this speech. Mr. Vardaman has a message for us, so let's turn out and hear him. Tell your friends about it and have them arrange to attend. If you can't get in the courthouse you can hear the speaking just the same.

This Republican speaking is sponsored by the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton county, and everyone who still has away back in his heart a profound love for good government and civic righteousness should be present. You will hear something that you like.

URGE PEOPLE TO ATTEND TO HEAR MR. VARDAMAN

I want to urge every person who is interested in the county, State and National government to hear Mr. Vardaman speak at the courthouse next Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

Mr. Vardaman is an interesting speaker and I am sure that his address will be educational and instructive and will help us along the lines of better governmental policies.

I want to especially urge the ladies and young voters to attend this meeting.

I also want to call your attention to the fact that all poll tax must be paid by February 1st, in order for the voter to become a participant in the next election. There has never been a time that was more necessary for the voter who is interested in good government to vote, than it is this time. Let me insist that you qualify to vote and vote for the person who will make the best officer in the next election.

Yours sincerely,
GERTRDE P. CALLOWAY.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

We join with our Baptist friends in giving a welcome to the delegates to the Sunday school convention being held at the First Baptist Church.

Our prayer service for Wednesday evening is being called off, also the Workers Council for our Church school officers and teachers scheduled for Thursday night. We urge our members, especially the officers and teachers, to avail themsedves of this fine opportunity of hearing noted leaders in the field of religious education that are in Clanton this week.

A discussion group will be organized within a few days to discuss the problems of courtship, marriage and home-making. Young people from 17 to 27 are eligible to enroll. We shall meet one night a week for two or three months. The night likely to be selected is Monday. Several young people have already signed up for the group. If you are interested, see the pastor. The group will be limited to thirty.

Begin Sunday in the right way by coming to church school. Remain for the eleven o'clock service. Young peoples League at 6:15. Evening Worship service at 7:00.

PENALTY ON PROPERTY NOT ASSESSED BY JANUARY 20TH

Tax Assessor, Arthur D. Martin advises the property holders of the county that after January 20th there will be a penalty of 10 per cent charged against all property not then assessed.

Mr. Martin asked The Union-Banner to carry this announcement last week, but it was omitted on account of oversight on our part.

C. T. WALKER WRITES FORM WEST PALM BEACH, FLORIDA

Editor Union-Banner:

I just want to say to home folks it looks like there is every thing here to make one enjoy life. I have not seen very many large cities, but give me West Palm Beach to live in. There is everything here that one would want and some that you don't want. Well, I take the good and discard the bad. We have good churches here and the most friendly people I ever met.

Bus fare is so cheap you can go places very cheap. It has always been my desire that my last days might be my best days.

Well, hoping that all home folks and people elsewhere a happy new year. So long,—C. T. Walker.

P. S.—Will come again.

CAUSES OF DEATH

This list includes only those deaths occurring in Chilton County. Accidents, etc., that were taken outside the county and died outside the county would not be recorded as deaths in this county. Following is the list of the ones that occurred in this county: Diseases of the heart and blood vessels, 54; pneumonia, 21; cancer, 19; accidents, 18; stillbirths, 17; diseases of the kidneys, 11; infant deaths due to prematurity, 5; tuberculosis, 5; diphtheria, 3; typhoid fever, 3; deaths due to childbirth, 3; colitis, 2; appendicitis, 2; blood poisoning, 2; pellagra, 2; malaria, 1; syphilis, 1; tetanus, 1; undulant fever, 1; unclassified, 7; unknown and others, 8.

West Chilton Citizen Gives Political View

Editor Union-Banner:

We wish to commend the Commissioners Court and Board of Education for some of their recent acts, whereby they seemed to regard the wishes of the people and to remember who placed them in office. We allude to their filling vacancies and paving roads. That is the way they should do, and have respect for the taxpayers. He seems to be the "forgotten man" until collecting time.

They also manifest in their recent acts a spirit of loyalty to the people who gave them office. Yes, loyalty. We would stress that word a thousand times.

We urge every Republican that can, and all others, to attend the speaking on the 18th at Clanton. Hear the other side awhile. The side that is holding up the banner of Americanism. Americanism has enemies galore. What would we do without Americanism? It is slipping away from us. Better wake up before it is gone. This year is a momentous time with us. Some old time poet in eulogizing America has said: "Thy reign is the last, and the noblest of time. Most fruitful thy soil, most inviting thy clime." Are we just going to sleep on and let our fair land pass into strange hands? This looks to us like a time of serious danger. And the most dangerous of all is the foe within. Where is any remedy? About the best remedy in sight is an immersion into the pool of Lincoln Republicanism. Not just any system called Republican, but a system of the old time Lincoln stripe. Let the people arise in their might, stand loyally together and drive out all isms and factions that are boring within and destroying us.

It is not impossible at all to do this It has been done right here in Chilton County. We think this year a good time to lift the banner of right and layolty to true Americanism in our country. We are all "fed-up" on New Deal statistics, codes, doles, alphabetical titles, the destruction of crops and continually pounding in our ears the so called good things the New Deal has done for us, just as if we were a lot of ignoramuses. Go to the common masses, see how they are fed and clothed under the New Deal. That will tell the tale.

We would not forget to emphasize what J. N. Dennis said about fair elections in a recent issue of The Union-Banner. Surely no good Democrat or good Republican wants any vote buying or vote selling in our county, or bleck-belt methods either. But simply fair elections and no sharp practices.

Just look where Alabama is today. Can't keep the schools going. But talking a sales tax. Legalized sale of strong drink. What management! And that after tax are piled mountain high.

Don't forget Mr. Webb's article a few weeks ago on the high school question. Stop chasing dollars and think. Protestants, are you all asleep? The depression still lingers with us. "Happy days" are not here yet. We have noted business is shy under Democratic rule. The buying power is not restored to the masses. This is no time for idle thought while Americanism is slipping away.—A Republican.

HAVING A FINE MUSIC NORMAL SCHOOL AT MONTGOMERY CHURCH

Prof. W. M. Devaughn reports that the normal music school being taught by Profs. W. Lee Higgins, Eugene H. Whitt and himself, at the Madison Avenue Baptist church, Montgomery, is progressing exceptionally fine, notwithstanding the very inclement weather last week. It has run for only one week and classes only at night. This week they began holding classes in the afternoon also. There are five more weeks of school, a concert being announced the night of February 15th. Rev. W. H. Camplain, formerly of Verbena, is pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church.

Prof. Devaughn says that he and Prof. Whitt are planning on running a night school at Clanton after the Montgomery school closes. All who would likely be interested in a school here are asked to get in touch with Prof. Devaughn, Mr. Wiley Bean or T. E. Wyatt at Clanton.

SEVEN ARRESTS BY SHERIFF'S FORCE DURING PAST WEEK

Sheriff J. R. Hardy and his deputies made seven arrests during the past week. They were as follows:

Two for violating the prohibition law; one was released under $300 bond, and the other is held in jail.

One for driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated; in jail.

One for making whiskey and possession of still; this man was placed in jail to begin sentence imposed in a former case. The case had been appealed to the Court of Appeals, and when this court dismissed the case, the man convicted reported to the sheriff to begin service of his sentence.

One for assault and battery; in jail.

One for bigamy; in jail.

One for parking on highway without lights; he is being held in the county jail, pending a preliminary hearing. As a result of his parking without lights, a bad wreck occurred, killing one person and severely injuring two others.

SINGER AGENCY MOVED TO NEW PLACE UP STREET

Mr. James H. Daniel has moved his place of business from the Dollar Store to the Clanton Shoe Shop, next to Calloway Drug Company. Mr. Daniel is sole agent in Chilton county for Singer Sewing machines and Vacuum Cleaners. He handles parts and gives service on machines and cleaners.

Mr. Daniel within a few months will round out his second year in Chilton county. He states that during these two years he has had good business and has enjoyed his stay in our county.

TWIN BOYS

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Deloach (Louise Headley) announce the birth of twin boys December 30, 1935, weighing six pounds each. They have named them James Arnold and Jesse Donald. Mother and babies are doing fine.

DRIVERS WARNED AGAINST PARKING WITHOUT LIGHTS

State and County officers are again stressing the importance of good brakes and lights, especially when driving on the state highway.

Officers warn also against parking on the state highway when it is possible to get off the cement. They advise that drivers clear the highway is possible, but if not, then be sure that parking lights and rear lights be left burning. These are requirements of the state law, and state officers say that they will be enforced as rigidly as possible.

MORRIS DUKE HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Morris Duke, son of Commissioner and Mrs. Charlie D. Duke, was injured Saturday night in an auto accident about two miles east of Clanton.

Morris was riding on the running board of a car driven by Leonard C. Easterling. As the car rounded a sharp curve it skidded into a bank. As the car neared the bank, young Duke jumped for the bank, but hit a wire fence which threw him back partly under the car, which pinned him down.

He was taken to Central Alabama Hospital, where it was found he had sustained slight leg and back injuries. He was released by hospital attendants on Monday.

HEALTH UNIT SHOULD BE KEPT

We note that there is some question as to whether or not the county health unit will be carried on. Reports were that the matter was kept over for consideration by the Commissioners Court last week, and it is not yet known if it will be continued.

The Union-Banner believes the unit should be kept, by all means. Of all departments to which public money is expended, we believe this one of the most important.

We understand that this service costs Chilton County taxpayers only about $166 per month, while there are several divisions of the county government which cost as much or more which, in our humble opinion, are not nearly so important.

We believe it would be safe to say that the health unit will be, and has already been beneficial in some way to half the people of the county, and we believe that any department which affects that large a part of the people as a beneficiary is well worth while.

Dr. Kimmey and his helpers have visited schools and given medical attention to hundreds of pupils who, no doubt, would not have had benefit of such attention but for the unit. When epidemics threaten he is already on the job to quell them before they can get under way. There can never be any way to correctly ascertain just how much the unit has been worth, both in lives and in money.

There is one thing we all do know, however—that the health of the people is of first importance. This the unit is interested in and working for.

County Pushing Organization Against Consumers Sales Tax

Plans are being drawn up by the Chilton County Anti-Sales Tax Committee to put up a determined fight against the enactment of a general sales tax for the State of Alabama.

At a meeting held Monday night, plans were studied for furthering the campaign, and beat committeemen and workers were selected in each of the 16 beats in Chilton County, through which the committee hopes to inform the people of this county of the truth concerning the consumers sales tax. These plans have not been perfected, but when they are, information will be given out through the local papers, as well as by special workers in each beat.

The plan which is being worked on by the Governor and the Legislature to get this sales tax on the statute books is a smooth one. This plan calls for a temporary arrangement, whereby a three per cent sales tax would be enacted by the state legislature, to terminate some time this fall, when the electorate would be allowed to vote on the question. But this plan has been worked in other states in the past. The usual procedure is to have a plan of this kind put over, then forget it, and when the temporay arrangement runs out, then make it permanent, without allowing any vote on it.

One fortunate feature about the sales tax is that the general public, which has not come into contact with the sales tax, does not know just how bad it really is. When the gasoline tax was first put on, it was not considered much of a tax, and that it could be done away with, if desired. Yet the gasoline tax is still with us, and has been multiplied many times over, until it is quite burdensome, as any owner of an automobile well knows.

The governor and legislature are using the pitiful school condition as a political football to try to get the people of the state to submit to this special tax, in order to save the schools. If the state government would only use a little economy in their manipulations now and then, there would be no need for new taxes to run the schools.

During the campaign for governor, Bibb Graves stood in the Chilton County courthouse and uttered these words:

"If there is a sales tax measure written on the statute books of Alabama while I am governor, you people will put it there with your votes." The packed courtroom thundered its applause of this statement. Now Governor Graves is pussyfooting on this question. He wants to put on a "temporary" sales tax, knowing full well the history of such affairs.

The Union-Banner wishes to place itself on record as an uncompromising enemy of any consumers sales tax. We submit that "Economy—not more taxes" is what our state government needs more of. We do not consider this a political fight. We know as well as any individual that our taxes at present are far too high. Governor Graves, in his campaign, stated that the present revenue was adequate for the needs of the different state departments, and that no new taxes were needed. We agreed with him then, and we still maintain that contention to be true.

We urge our readers to study this problem. Consider it as another tax, and a prohibitive one. If your taxes seem high now, think what they will amount to when you must pay a special tax on everything you buy from a toothpick to an automobile. It would be bad enough if you only paid three cents on every dollar you spent under the plan. But if the tax works along the same lines that it has in other states, the tax wording will read: "for a 3 per cent consumers sales tax on each purchase of $1.00 or fraction thereof." The majority of your purchases are for amounts less than $1.00, but you will pay a three cent tax on each, just the same. Suppose you make four 25-cent purchases in spending a dollar; in making those purchases you will pay 12 cents sales tax, and your purchases will amount to $1.12—not $1.00 as is the case now. Think what such an outrageous tax will cost you over a period of a year.

Knowing all the sly workings of

The Union-Banner Launches Huge Subscription Campaign Called Good Samaritan Plan

Will Lend Aid To Churches Or Auxiliaries Of Churches in Raising Money for Needed Objects

A few years ago The Union-Banner conducted what it called a Good Samaritain Trading Contest. We are now launching the second Good Samaritain Plan, which is similar to the first in some respects, but markedly different in general arrangement. It is similar in that it is intended for a benefit to churches; but different in that it is purely a subscription promotion drive, and no business concern is connected with it except this paper. We have enlisted no outside help in putting on the campaign, and it is no lottery or chance affair. No capital prize is offered, but it is arranged so that the compensation to the churches will be attractive enough for them to work for.

Nearly all of the churches of the county are in need of being repainted, repaired, or renovated in some way; one of the greatest obstacles is a way to raise the money. We think we have a plan that will help solve this matter, not for one church but for as many churches as wish to work for it. And the beauty of the plan is that every church, large or small, has an absolute equal footing. The amount of compensation will be determined only by the work done by these interested in each church to enter—the more work the more compensation.

As explained in the page adv. elsewhere in this paper, the plan is open only to churches and to bona fide auxiliaries of churches. Turn to this page and read every word on it. We believe it will interest you.

VETERANS AUXILIARY MEETS

Chilon Auxiliary No. 13, United Spanish-American war veterans, met at the Chilton County courthouse Sunday afternoon, January 5, at 2:00 p.m., in a special business meeting, which was very well attended, and a congenial atmosphere was a feature of the meeting.

This meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. Eula Higgins. Several interesting talks were made by different members.

The meeting adjourned to meet again at the courthouse on the first Sunday in February, at 2:00 p.m. All members are urged to be present.

Officers of this auxiliary are as follows:

President, Mrs. Eula Higgins; Senior Bice President, Mrs. Rhoda Green; Junior Vice President, Mrs. Ludie Jones; Chaplain, Mrs. Alma Jones; Patriotic Instructress, Mrs. Pearl Sewell; Historian, Mrs. Lula Sanson; Guard, Mrs. Elizabeth Merchant; Color Bearers, Mrs. Emma Sewell, Mrs. Dora Mitchell, Mrs. Mary E. Smith; Conductress, Mrs. Lula Best; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Dora Calloway.

This auxiliary was recently organized. Its plans call for a monthly meeting on the first Sunday afternoon in each month at the courthouse at 2:00 p.m.—Mrs. Dora Calloway, Secretary.

REPUBLICAN EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETING SAT.

The Chilton County Republican Executive Committee is hereby called to meet at the courthouse on Saturday, January 18th, at 10 a.m., to attend to any and all business properly coming before said committee.

Hon. C. O. Vardaman of Birmingham, will address the committee.

All Republicans and their families and friends are cordially invited to come and hear the address of Mr. Vardaman. You cannot afford to miss this treat. Come. Time—January 18th, at 10 a.m. Place—courthouse at Clanton.

J. N. DENNIS,
Chairman County Republican Com.
J. Z. Mims, Secretary.

OFFICERS ARRESTED NEGRO ON TRAIN LAST SUNDAY

City and county officers held train No. 10 last Sunday afternoon long enough to make search for a negro, Jimmie Lee Gilchrist, for Montgomery officers.

Local officers had just been warned to be on the lookout for the negro, and were furnished a good description of him. It was then about time for No. 10, so Chief Browder and county officers met the train and asked that it be held until they could search for the negro.

He was found in the rear of the negro coach, and made no attempt to hide his identity. He was wanted in Montgomery for shooting his wife the night before. He was removed from the train and released to Montgomery officials.

The negro had only been paroled from the state penitentiary on Friday, having served 14 months of a 30-month sentence for murder. Saturday night, in a scrap with his wife, he shot her, the bullet grazing her stomach. He was immediately carried back to prison to finish his sentence before standing trial on the new case.

FARMERS UNION MEETING AT JACKSON CHAPEL SATURDAY

A county-wide meeting of the Farmers Union will be held at Jackson Chapel schoolhouse Saturday morning, January 18th, at 10 o'clock. This is a regular monthly meeting, and all locals of the county are urged to send representatives.—J. L. Williams.

MOTION PICTURES TO BE MADE OF CCC WORK IN ALABAMA

Washington.—Motion pictures of the work of the Civilian Conservation Corps in nine State Parks and one Recreational Demonstration Project in Alabama will be filmed in January and February, Conrad L. Wirth, assistant director ofthe National Park Service, announced today. The work of the Corps in the parks is under joint supervision of the Park Service, Robert Fechner, Director of Emergency Conservation Work, and Col. Page Bunker, Alabama State Forester.

The parks are Cheaha State Park near Oxford, in Cleburne and Clay counties; Little River Park near Uriah in Monroe and Escambia counties; DeSoto park near Fort Payne in DeKalb county; Gulf Park near Foley in Baldwin county; Valley Creek Park near Plantersville in Dallas county; Cedar Creek near Citronelle in Mobile county; Chewacla (Wrights Mill) Park near Auburn in Lee county; Chattahoochee park near Gorden in Houston county; and Chickasaw Park near Linden in Marengo county.

1 Killed, 3 Hurt In Wreck Last Sunday

Mildred Dean Collins, age 5, was killed, and her mother and 8-year-old sister, Maxine, were seriously injured Sunday night about 10:00 o'clock two miles above Jemison, when the pick-up truck they were riding in plowed into the rear of a parked truck on the highway. The child was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert Collins of Keystone, Ala. The truck which carried the Collins family was diven by Carlton Collins, also of Keystone.

The family had been visiting relatives at Thorsby Sunday, and were on their way home. A short distance above Jemison a transfer truck, without lights of any kind, was parked on the highway, the operator cleaning out a stopped gas line. Collins stated that another car had him blinded, and that he did not see the truck until only a few feet from it. The Collins car struck the truck and turned over. Carlton Collins suffered a broken arm, besides the other injuries already mentioned.

Martin's ambulance was called, which brought all the injured people to the Central Alabama Hosital. The state highway patrolmen reported to the scene and took into custody the driver of the truck. He is charged with violation of the Alabama statute against parking motor vehicles on the state highway without lights.

Funeral services for the Collins child were held Monday afternoon at 3:00 at Thorsby Baptist Church, with Rev. Dewey Robinson officiating. Burial was in the Thorsby cemetery, with Martin in charge.

TUGWELL IS SILENT ON FUTURE OF AAA

Agriculture High Official Pays Brief Visit To Birmingham

Dr. Rexford Guy Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture, smiled graciously at newspaper reporters during a 10-minute stopover in Birmingham Sunday, posed obligingly but hesitantly for his photograph and said, in answer to a query:

"I will say that I predict that President Roosevelt will be reelected."

Other than that, Dr. Tugwell had "nothing to say."

Expectant reporters asked him about the Supreme Court's invalidation of the AAA, the resettlement project as a substitute for the AAA, and Gov. Futrell's proposed substitute for the AAA.

"I have nothing to say," was the only answer they got.

Dr. Tugwell arrived at Municipal Airport in a Delta Air Line plane, en route from Arkansas to Atlanta in connection with work on resettlement subsistence projects

Later in the day an Associated Press dispatch from Atlanta said Dr. Tugwell had stopped only briefly at Atlanta.

The reporters there could have changed the Birmingham Date line to Atlanta and printed the story in toto.

Dr. Tugwell had nothing to say in Birmingham, and he said just as much, no more, no less, in Atlanta.

RECORD BREAKING 4-H CLUB WORK PREDICTED

Auburn, Ala.—A record-breaking enrollment in 4-H club work in Alabama during 1936i s predicted by T. A. Sims and Elizabeth Delony, state 4-H club leaders, who estimate that 65,000 to 70,000 farm boys and girls of the state will enroll during the year. This will be an increase of over 40 per cent above the 45,000 enrolled in 1935.

Among the projects to be carried out by 4-H club boys and girls during the year are cotton, corn, poultry, peanuts, calves, pigs, clothing, and food preservation.

To promote and strengthen club work and to assist the boys and girls in carying out their projects, the State Extension Service, in cooperation with county boards of revenue, has employed 4-H club agents to spend their entire time working with farm youths of the state, announces Dr. L. N. Duncan, president of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute and director of the State Extension Service.

STATE GAME NEWS

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 15.—In addition to approving a plan for organizing an Alabama Wildlife Federation, the State Conservation Board authorized six new hunting and fishing regulations at its bi-annual meeting here January 6.

I. T. Quinn, state conservation commissioner and chairman of the board, said the new federation would embrace the state's 65 conservation organizations and all other institutions and agencies interested in conserving Alabama's wildlife resources.

The state federation then will be affiliated with a National Wildlife Federation to be created at the February meeting of the North American Wildlife Conference in Washington. The new regulations follow:

1. On and after January 15, 1936, all persons or firms dealing in, storing, buying, transporting or otherwise shipping furs, skins or pelts of fur-bearing animals shall prowide and keep for regular inspection: (a) the name and address of each person from whom furs, skins and pelts of fur-bearing animals have been received or purchased; (b) the fur-catcher license number of the catcher from whom the furs, skins and pelts of fur-bearing animals have been received, or purchased: (c) the number and classification of furs, skins of pelts of fur-bearing animals with reference to kind and or cost of tag required for each kind of fur, skin and pelt; (d) and the date such furs, skins or pelts were received or purchased.

2. On and after January 15, 1936, attempt to take shoot or kill any attempt to take, shoot or kill and wild bird or animal from a motor boat, power boat or from any floating craft or device drawn by or propelled by a motor boat or power boat at any time is hereby prohibited; provided that the restriction herein set forth shall not in any way conflict with the Federal Migratory Bird Treaty Act.

3. On and after Jan 15, 1936, the taking, catching or killing or any attempt to take, catch or kill any species of fresh water fish or salt water fish by any means or device other than with hook and line, troll, fly or spinner in any of the waters of Bon Secour River or in any of the waters immediately adjacent thereto north of a line running directly east from a point on the west bank of Bon Secour River, known as Allen's Landing, is hereby prohibited at all times.

4. On and after January 15, 1936, the taking, catching, killing or any attempt to take, catch or kill any species of fresh water fish or salt water fish by any means or device other than with hook and line, troll, fly or spinner in any of the waters within the boundary of Gulf State Park in south Baldwin county is hereby prohibited; provided that a limited

5. On and after January 15, 1936, the taking, capturing, shooting, killing or any attempt to take, capture, shoot or kill any wild bird, whether resident or migratory, at any time with the boundary of Gulf State Park in South Baldwin county is hereby prohibited; provided that a limited number of such wild birds may be taken from time to time by the holder of a scientific permit in full force and effect issued by the Commissioner of Conservation of Game, Fish and Seafoods for the purpose of study of the food habits of such wild birds.

6. On and after January 15, 1936, the transportation or shipment by land or water of untagged raw furs, skins or pelts of fur-bearing animals from one point to another within the state, or from any point within the state to any point without the state is hereby prohibited at all times.

FARM INCOME DOUBLED DURING LIFE TRIPLE A

Auburn, Ala.—Cotton prices more than doubled during the life of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, which was killed the past week by the U. S. Supreme Court.

Not only did the price of cotton double but the farm cash income in the United States in 1932 was $4,328,000,000 compared with an estimated cash income of $6,800,000,000 for 1935.

These figures are given by Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the State Extension Service, in reviewing the fact that progress was being made in solving some of the knotty agricultural problems before the AAA was declared unconstitutional.

REA OFFERS FINANCES FOR WIRING FARM HOMES

Auburn, Ala.—The rural electrification administration will finance the wiring of houses and other farm buildings in areas where rural line construction is making electricity available, announces Morris L. Cooke, administrator of the Rural Elecrification Administration.

PROFITABLE POULTRY REQUIRES CLEANLINESS

Auburn, Ala.—To make poultry profitable in 1936 it is necessary for farmers to have clean chicks and surroundings, and to practice clean feedings, management, and marketing, states John E. Ivey, extension poultryman.

NEW $5 POULTRY HOUSE POPULAR WITH FARMERS

Auburn, Ala.—The newly developed pole-sack-cement poultry house, which can be constructed for less than $5, has proved to be one of the most popular developments in the history of the Alabama Experiment Station.

Since the announcement of this project last October the poultry department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute has received over 6,000 requests for detailed information on how to construct the house.

Each party requesting information has been sent a bulletin describing the house, listing the necessary materials for its construction, and giving the instructions and blueprints.

The new house is constructed of pine poles, croker sacks, and a cement mixture. The frame work consists of small skinned poles, while the sides and roof are made of croker sacks stretched tightly over the framing and painted with three coats of a cement mixture comosed of 12 pounds of cement· 2 pounds lime, 1 pound salt, and one-half pound alum, and one and one-fourth gallons of water.

In preparing the mixture, farmers should put the salt and lime through a sieve to rid of lumps. The water should then be added and the mixture stirred slowly. The cement is then added and stirred thoroughy until a thin paste is formed. Finally, the alum is added and the mixture is ready for use.

Farmers interested in further information may obtain a bulletin from the county agent or by writing directly to the Alabama Experiment Station, Auburn.

KUDZU IS VALUABLE THREE-WAY FARM CROP

Auburn, Ala.—Kudzu is an important 3-way crop which a large number of Alabama farmers should grow on their farms.

"The crop is good for soil erosion control, hay production, and livestock grazing," says J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, who advises that the kudzu crowns should be set between February 15 and the middle of March.

When setting crowns farmers should be careful not to allow them to dry out between digging and planting. The crowns should be at least three years old and should be planted 5 to 10 feet apart.

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs is one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxines. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the system. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

Lesson for January 19

JESUS PREPARES FOR HIS WORK

LESSON TEXT—Luke 3:21, 22; 4:1-13.

GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve.—Luke 4:8.

PRIMARY TOPIC—When Jesus Grew Up.

JUNIOR TOPIC—When Jesus was Tempted.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Making a Right Start for Life.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Finding God's Way for Life.

The statement of the subject of this lesson is not quite satisfactory. His baptism and temptation were not means of preparation, but were respectively his formal entrance upon his work and the first conflict with the devil, whose works he came to destroy.

I. Jesus Entering Upon His Mediatorial Work (Luke 3:21, 22).

1. His baptism (v. 21). In his baptism we see the symbolic act of Jesus dedicating himself to the work of redemption through the cross, or the act of consecration on his part to the work of saving the world through his death and resurrection. His baptism did not mean his obedience to the law of God, but his entrance upon the sacrificial work which on the cross of Calvary made a real foundation for full righteousness.

2. His anointing (v. 22). As he thus dedicated himself to the task of bringing in a righteousness, he was anointwith the Holy Spirit.

3. The heavenly recognition (v. 22). This act of devotion to the divine will was attended by the declaration of divine approval. "Thou art my beloved Son; in thee I am well pleased."

II. Jesus' First Conflict With the Devil (Luke 4:1-13).

Jesus went from the place of anointing and heavenly recognition as the Son of God to meet and to spoil the arch enemy (Heb. 2:14). Instead of the temptation, therefore, being a preparation for his messianic work, it was a demonstration of the inseparableness of the divine and human natures in the incarnation. It is to be noted that the Holy Spirit, not Satan, led Jesus into the wilderness to be tempted.

1. The place (v. 1). It was in the wilderness of Judea. The first man, Adam, was tempted in a garden, with the most pleasant surroundings. The second man, Jesus Christ, was tempted in a barren wilderness, surrounded by wild beasts (Mark 1:13).

2. The method (vv. 2-12). Christ as the world's Redeemer sustained a threefold relationship: the Son of man, the Messiah, and the Son of God. Therefore, Satan made each one a ground of attack.

a. As Son of man (vv. 2-4). Satan made his first assault upon Jesus as a man by appealing to the instinct of hunger. Satan urged him to use his divine power to convert a stone into bread. Hunger is natural and sinless. Real human life experiences hunger. The appetite of hunger was normal and right. The temptation was to satisfy a right hunger in a wrong way. To have yielded in this case, though his hunger was desperate, would have been to renounce the human limitations which he had taken for our sins. To use divine power to satisfy human needs would have been to fail as Savior and Mediator. To do right in a wrong way is to fail.

b. As Messiah (vv. 5-8). Here the temptation was to grasp his rightful dominion by false means. The devil offered to surrender unto him the world, if he would adopt his method—worship him. The force of this temptation was in the fact that the kingdoms of the world are Christ's by God's covenant with him. God's method by which Jesus was to possess the world was the sacrificial death on the cross. The temptation which Satan is placing upon the church today is to get possession of the world by other means than that of the cross.

c. As Son of God (vv. 9-12). Here Satan tries to induce Christ to presume upon God's care. He quotes a messianic psalm to induce him so to act. To do the spectacular thing in order to get publicity is to fall into Satan's temptation. For Jesus to have placed himself in danger in order to get God's special help in delivering him would have been to sin. To test God as to whether he will keep a promise is the greatest distrust; it is to sin and fall.

d. Christ's defense (vv. 4, 8, 12). It was the Word of God. He met every onslaught of the enemy with "It is written." Our defense is God's Word. May every Sunday School teacher and believer know how to use it.

e. The issue (v. 13). Satan was vanquished. If we but trust God and use his Word, we too can overcome the devil.

Burdens

Bear your burden manfully. Boys at school, young men who have exchanged boyish liberty for serious business—all who have got a task to do, a work to finish—bear the burden till God gives the signal for repose—till the work is done, and the holiday is fairly earned.

The Best Way

Choose always the way that seems the best, however rough it may be. Custom will render it easy and agreeable.—Pythagoras.

WORLDS SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

Birmingham Sunday School Council and the Alabama Council of Christian Education are cooperating with the Worlds Sunday School Quadrennial Convention, meeting in Oslo, Norway, July 6 to 12, 1936.

The last convention of the WSSA was held in Rio Janerio during the summer of 1932, and was largely attended by delegates from the United States. Eleven world gatherings have been held in widely separated areas during the last 50 years, such as London, Jerusalem, Rome, Zurish, Tokyo, Glasgow· Los Angeles and Washington.

In writing of the welcome Norway will accord Oslo Convention, the Rt. Rev. Johan Lunde, Bishop Primate of Norway, states among other things that His Majesty Haakon VII, King of Norway, will act as the Convention's guardian.

The Convention theme is "'Kristus Verdens Haap", "Christ the Hope of the World", and the sessions will be presided over by Sir Harold MacKintosh, of Halifax, England, president of the World's Association. Earnest churchmen, and outstanding Christian statesmen, have accepted places on the program, among whom are Dr. Kagawa, Japan; Dr. Miao, China; Prof. Camargo, Mexico; Dr. James Kelly, Glasgow; Dr. Luther Weigel, Yale niversity and Dr. Robert M. Hopkins, General Secretary WSSA. These and others will present challenging messages.

A youth conference for young people 18-25 is being organized by Rev. George Stewart of Stamford, Connecticut· and his committee.

In addition to the attractions of Norway, whose fjords and "land of the midnight sun" are unique and world renowned, the WSSA has arranged for a number of officials, inexpensive post-convention tours, directed by outstanding religious leaders who have had wide experience in conducting parties in various parts of the world. Countries to be visited will include England, Ireland, Scotland, Scandinavia, Russia, Germany, Belgium, Holland, Switzerland and France.

Dr. R. H. Crossfield, pastor of the First Christian Church, Birmingham, is to serve as leader of the party which will visit Scandinavia, Russia, Germany, the low Countries and France.

Dr. Crossfield and D. R. Price, Secretary, Birmingham, and Alabama Councils of Christian Education, have been appointed as the official representatives of the World's Association in Alabama and will assist delegates from the state in arranging the trip to Oslo and Post-Convention tours.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Be Sure They Properly Cleanse the Blood

YOUR kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as nature intended—fail to remove impurities that poison the system when retained.

Then you may suffer nagging backache, dizziness, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, puffiness under the eyes; feel nervous, miserable—all upset.

Don't delay? Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are especially for poorly functioning kidneys. They are recommended by grateful users the country over. Get them from any druggist.

SPECIAL SUNDAY RATES

for Long Distance telephone calls AND REDUCED PERSON-TO-PERSON RATES after 7 every evening

Two reductions in long distance telephone rates now in effect, offer you even greater econony in conducting your social and business affairs with people in other cities.

1 The same reduced rates which have been in effect on long distance Station-to-Station calls after 7 P. M., are now in effect all day Sunday on most Station-to-Station calls on which the day rate is more than 35 cents.

2 Rates are now reduced on Person-to-Person calls every night after 7 P. M., and all day Sunday, on most calls on which the day Station-to-Station rate is more than 35 cents. Previously, only Station-to-Station rates were reduced at night.

These new lower "long distance" rate periods for Night and Sunday calls will make the telephone more useful to more people in more ways. It means a broader service at lower cost. Use "long distance" freely to keep in touch with friends and relative—to clear up the week's unfinished business.

Note the following typical three-minute rates.

5 P.M. is a test of how you FEEL

"How do I feel.... Rotten! why do you ask?"

"Because, you are not yourself!"

IT is all so simple, too! That tired, run-down, exhausted feeling quite often is due to lack of a sufficiency of those precious red-blood-cells. Just build up these oxygen-carrying cells and the whole body takes on new life... food is really turned into energy and strength... you can't help but feel and look better. S.S.S. Tonic restores deficient red-blood-cells... it also improves the appetite and digestion. It has been the nation's standby for over 100 years... and unless your case is exceptional it should help you, too. Insist on S.S.S. Tonic in the blood-red cellophane-wrapped package. The big 20-oz. size is sufficient for two weeks' treatment... it's more economical.

HIGHLAND NEWS

We had a large crowd out for Sunday school last Sunday. We are really glad that our Sunday school attendance is getting better and hope it will continue to grow.

Next Sunday afternoon is our regular singing afternoon. We invite all who will to come and be with us. We hope to have a large crowd and plenty of good singers. So come on every body and do your best.

Find Out

From Your Doctor if the "Pain" Remedy You Take Is Safe.

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it — in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains . . . and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store — simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

This chapter is constructing signs for the F. F. A. and F. H. A. clubs of Isabella to be erected at various places leading to the school. There are several achievements that we hope to accomplish in the future by the cooperation of all the members.

The F. H. A. club was called to order by the president, Frances Sexton, January 8th. Devotional, by Gladys Turner. Minutes were read and roll was called by the secretary, Mary Carr Mims. The Life of Ellen H. Richards, by Sara Calfee. Jokes, by Frances Mims. Business: The plan in helping the F. F. A. chapter with the Isabella F. H. A. and F. F. A. sign boards were agreed upon.

We selected for our F. H. A. club motto: "Face your Troubles with High Courage." Our song is "Club Song."

The Cosmopolitan Literary society discussed business and the program was short. A long and interesting program was planned for the next meeting.—School Reorter.

OBITUARY

On January 3, 1936, the death angel took its flight into the home of C. J. Chandler, of Pletcher, and bore away the sweet spirit of our dear father, Mr. J. P. Chandler. God has blessed us with a loving, kind and agreeable father until his death at the age of 67 years.

How it grieves us that father has gone from us, but God's will be done, not our's. Father leaves to mourn his death, a wife, three sons—C. J. of Pletcher, Otto and Lester, of Selma; three daughters—Mrs. M. L. Williams, Clanton, Mrs. J. F. Rain, of Demopolis, and Miss Frances Chandler of Pensacola, Florida. Also four brothers and two sisters.

The funeral was at Pilgrim Rest Sunday, January 5, Rev. Littlejohn officiating with Brown's Funeral Home in charge.—Mrs. M. L. Williams.

W. H. WILSON WRITES ABOUT ROAD SUPERVISOR

Editor Union-Banner:

Our very attentive, humble and trustworthy Representative and Senator, C. B. Cox and Earl Thomas, who wish to comply with all promises made and say they are going to carry out every promise just as the "Little Colonel" has in Montgomery. The "Poor Little Colonel" is so humble and so little that he has never realized that there is an office in Montgomery for the Governor of Alabama, but he has to stay in Washington a lot of his time to get orders what to do, how much tax to put on certain things and on everything that the laboring man uses; how much money he can spend for a certain class of people and let the schools close from the children of our State and county—the men and women of tomorrow, who should be taught and have the principles enstamped in their minds and hearts never to go into office with a promise to lower taxes, especially homestead and auto taxes and then do as our present officers have done.

Mr. Cox says the Legislature will be called within the next week for a special session, and he and Mr. Thomas will pass a bill to put a road supervisor in Chilton county, full time at $75 a month and mileage. This is probably to keep their promise to the Probate Judge and Commissioners of our county not long ago concerning the paving of the Selma Highway. I understand Mr. Cox says such supervisor would save the county much money, but it looks like he thinks the man he voted for can make the same promise he made, and what was that?—W. H. Wilson.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

We read quite a good deal about the Oxford pledge which college and university students are taking in many sections of the United States. This pledge binds young people not to cooperate with their government in any kind of war. We do not find any outstanding spiritual, soul-winning Christian leaders supporting this movement. The modernists are heading it up. Duties never conflict. A man has duty to his home and to his country and to his God. There can be no conflict. My Christian duty to my country is to do all in my power to keep my country out of war. To the limit of my personal influence I am to witness for Jesus Christ and do all in my power to influence my nation to do what I think Jesus would have it do. However, if my country goes to war, I have an obligation to my country. I am a part of my country. God expects me to do my duty to my country. I have no right to accept the blesings and benefits of my government and refuse to cooperate with my government in time of war.

The writer is unqualifiedly opposed to this nation becoming embroiled in any foreign wars. He is glad that he has lived ong enough to see vindicated the position of William Jennings Bryan, who as secretary of state did all in his power to keep us out of the terrible world war. However, when this nation went to war Mr. Bryan, the great Christian statesman, wired the president of the United States, offering his services to his country and telling the President that he was willing, if necessary, to serve as a soldier in the trenches. Bryan is a good example for the young people in this nation. He was true to the Bible, true to his conviction, true to his government, and true to his God. Paul never made any attack on the Roman government. He claimed the benefits of his Roman citizenship. Jesus Christ sent a man down to the seashore to catch a fish to get a piece of money out of the mouth of the fish to pay taxes. Rome was a military nation. Jesus supported Rome when He paid taxes. There isn't one thing in Christianity that justifies any man's refusal to stand by his country. Paul got in trouble for preaching the gosel of the grace of God. He thus obeyed God rather than man. The gospel has nothing to do with human government. The gospel is the good news that Jesus Christ died on the cross to save sinners. It is my duty to give this good news to the world. There is nothing in giving this message which conflicts with my dtuy to my government in any particular. My government has no right to interfere with my giving this message. Every Christian should remember that he is to render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's and to God the things that are God's.

ROBINSON SPRINGS

Next Saturday and Sunday are our regular meeting days. The pastor, Rev. J. R. Cost, will preach Saturday at 11, Saturday night at 7:00, and Sunday at 11. There will be Sunday school at 10 Sunday morning. Everybody is invited to all services.—Curtis Parrish.

Mrs. J. Watts Moore, who has been in a Birmingham hospital for several days, remains ill. Her condition is not considered serious, however.

Mrs. P. D. Wilson is in Birmingham spending some time with her son, Joe. Mrs. Mullins is recuperating from a recent illness.

REFUGE NEWS

Sunday school at this place was very well attended last Sunday although there is always room for improvement. Let us think more seriously about what Sunday school means to us and especially our children, and try to attend Sunday school every time we are not providentially hindered.

We regret to say that there is quite a bit of sickness in this community. We hope that every one will be well and can be at services next Saturday and Sunday. These are our regular preachng days. There will be preaching Saturday at 11:00 o'clock. We will have Sunday school Sunday at 1:30 p.m., and preaching at 2:30. Let's everyone try to be on time at all services. We are always glad to have visitors and you are always welcome at Refuge. Don't forget the change in the time of having Sunday school next Sunday. Every Sunday except the third, we will have Sunday school at 10:00 o'clock.

ANDREW JACKSON STEPHENS

Andrew Jackson Stephens, one of the most prominent farmers of the Haynes community, died Sunday afternoon at his home. Mr. Stephens was 66 years of age. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at Union church, near Haynes, with burial in the cemetery at that place.

CANE CREEK

Bro. Norris filled his regular appointment Saturday and Sunday. We were glad to see the large crowd out for services Sunday. We were also glad to have the visitors with us. We invite you to come back again.

Bro. Norris has arranged to preach twice a month. The second and fourth Sunday in each month. If the weather permits there will be preaching on Sunday night of every preaching day. However, this will be announced at the 11 o'clock service.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely. Let's make this quarter one of the best. Come and bring someone with you.

MT. SPRINGS NEWS

Next Sunday is our regular preaching day. Sunday school at 10 in the morning and preaching at 2 and 7 o'clock. Let us begin the new year by attending church and Sunday school regular. If you fail to be there you will miss two good mesages by our able pastor, Rev. L. L. Stanley.

The Sunday school elected new officers and teachers for the new quarter.

On January 20th we are planning on a spend the day at the church for the purpose of doing some repair work and setting shrubbery. Would like for every one interested in the church to keep this date in mind and meet there with necessary tools, etc.

We are very sorry to hear of Mrs. Matt Stephens being ill. Also of the death of Mr. and Mrs. Gore's baby. We extend to them our heart felt sympathy.

Mr. Carl Lillie of Ohio is at home with his family on the Lay Dam road.

On the road between the church and Lay Dam road glance to your right and left and see the preparations for two new home sites. Mr. Marvin A. Rutherford and Mr. Ewin C. Williamson are planning to build way out on the mountain.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Giles are moving ino the new home being built by Mr. Leander Wagoner.

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Rutherford and family of Clanton were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Williamson Sunday.

We want to urge every one in this community that does not attend Sunday school and church elsewhere to come and be with us in our services every Sunday. You are always welcome.

Let us make this the most prosperous year of all in our church work.

BASKET BALL REPORTS

Mt. Pleasant 27 — Vermont 13

Dock Baker's Mt. Pleasant "Ramblers" defeated the Vermont team 27 to 13 last Friday afternoon at Vermont. The first half was very hotly contested. Mt. Pleasant was leading 13 to 9 at the half.

This team plays the Thomas Junior High team next Friday afternoon on the Mt. Pleasant court. These two teams have already met twice, the Mt. Pleasant team winning the first 23 to 13, and Thomas Jr. taking the second 16 to 13. A good game is expected.

Also, on Friday afternoon the Mt. Pleasant and Baker School girls tied 2-2, and stopped without taking extra time period to decide the game. These two teams will meet again Friday afternoon on the Mt. Pleasant court. The first game of the Mt. Pleasant double header will begin at 2:00 p.m.

Mitchell Dam 27—Maxwell Field 11

The Mitchell Dam team defeated one from Maxwell Field on the Mitchell Dam court Friday night 27 to 26. This game was fast and furious throughout and at the end of the third quarter the Maxwell Field team was leading 24 to 17. Here the Mitchell Dam outfit took a scoring spurt, however, and nosed out their visitors by their one lone point.

Mt. Pleasant 42—CCC 11

A team from Mt. Pleasant made up of present and former Mt. Pleasant players visited the local CCC camp Wednesday night, January 8, defeating the camp team 42 to 11. Coach Walker has a fairly good team, but they were no match for the smooth working Mt. Pleasant aggregation.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Robinson of Clanton, Mr. Thomas Hayes, and Mr. Cleo Hill of Birmingham were Tuesday dinner guests of Miss Poly Collins.

A very sad accident occurred Sunday night above Jemison. Mr. Carlton Collins, Mrs. Delbert Collins and two little daughters, Maxine and Mildred Dean, were in a Ford Pick-up and ran into a truck which was parked on the side of the road, that did not have a danger light. Little Mildred Dean, who was 5 years old, was instantly killed.

Miss Elizabeth Austin spent the week end in Selma and Montgomery.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bosworth spent Sunday in Clanton with Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Reagan.

The Lutheran Ladies Aid Social will be held at the home of Mrs. M. J. Soberg on Thursday of this week. Everyone is invited.

Little Helen Louise Meade is much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Gerald and Mr. Johnson of Birmingham spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Stulive.

Misses Frances and Pauline Spivey of Maplesville are the guests of their cousin, Mr. Leo Spivey, for a few days.

UNIVERSAL CREDIT OFFERS EASY PAYMENT PLANS TO CUSTOMERS

New $25.00 Per Month Plan Offers Thrift With Safety At Low Cost

Under the New UCC Plans, after the usual low down payment, the Ford buyer can purchase his Ford car anywhere in the country on installments of only $25.00 a month.

The cost of this extension of credit is only ½ of 1 per cent per month on the original unpaid balance and insurance.

Where the $25.00 per month plan is not used, and the Ford buyer wishes to vary the terms of his transaction, the cost is figured by multiplying the unpaid balance plus insurance by a multiplier determined at the rate of ½ per cent per month for the total number of months the transaction is to run.

The major factor that makes the $25.00 per month UCC low cost, easy payment plan possible is the great lasting value and public acceptance of the Ford V-8. More than 2,200,000 Ford V-8's have been sold in a period of four years (including two years, 1932-33, which covered the most difficult period of the late depression).

Ford V-8 performance, economy, and beauty in the past is the guarantee of Ford superiority and value in the future. Greater and greater value with each passing year has brought unequaled dollar value in the new Ford V-8 for 1936.

A truly helpful credit strvice with friendly treatment is the business philosophy behind UCC credit operations. The convenient terms and low cost and safety features offer Ford buyers real economy and safety through a company that serves the Ford market exclusively. UCC plans are available to Ford Purchasers at Clanton Motors, Inc., Clanton, Ala., who is the authoriped Ford dealer in Chilton County.

With the usual low down-payment, $25 a month buys any type of new Ford car. Financing at ½ of 1 per cent a month, or 6 per cent for 12 months. You receive insurance at conference rates. Complete fire and theft insurance—and $50 deductible collision, and protection against accidental physical damage to your car. The Universal Credit Company offers exclusively the Authorized Ford Finance Plan.

The regular monthly meeting of the W. M. S. will be held on Tuesday of next week, January 21, at 2 o'clock at the Baptist church.

Buy your Garden and Field Seed from Wyatt Drug Co., Thorsby, Alabama.

The P.-T. A. meeting will be held Friday afternoon at the public school building. All members are urged to be present to attend to some important business.

Mrs. P. P. Goggins left Sunday to make a visit in Birmingham.

Miss Bertha Littleton of Birmingham spent the week end in Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Piper and Miss Mae Woods made a visit in Blocton Sunday with their sister, Mrs. J. J. Lucas.

Mr. Tommie Childress is again confined to his bed at the home of his daughter, Mrs. E. C. Cox.

Thorsby Institute News

Next Saturday night at 7:30 in the auditorium of Thorsby Institute three plays will be given by members of the Helen Keller Literary Society under the direction of Mr. Sutlive and Mr. Maddox. Every one is invited. Admission will be ten cents.

The first semester examinations will begin a week from Thursday. The second semester will begin Monday, January 27.

Last Friday the Pushmataha and the Philomathic clubs had a joint meeting in the auditorium. A pageant entitled "ifts of the Months" was given with Mary Louise Reinhardt as reader, and Miss Foss pianist.

On the afternoon of February 8th, at 3:00 o'clock, the music pupils of Thorsby Institute will give a recital under the direction of Miss Katheryn Foss.

On February 23 the girl's glee club is to sing at the Vesper service at 5:00 o'clock in the community Congregational church in Birmingham.

Christian Endavor News

On Sunday evening, January 12, the newly elected officers of the Christian Endeavor were enstalled at a candle lighting service. As the officers took their places at the front of the church the pastor read a verse of scripture to each one. The sponsor then made a few remarks and lit the candle of the president, who in turn, passed the light to the other officers. Following this a duet "Follow the Gleam" was sung by Mrs. Maddox and Mrs. Sutlive. The entire Christian Endeavor group then formed a circle and the pastor gave a short message. The service was dismissed with the singing of "Blest Be the Tie that Binds" and a benediction.

A Correction

In the issue of December 26, 1935, in the local W. M. U. report of the Thorsby Baptist church, it was reported that $12 had been given to The Hundred Thousand Club. In the printing only $1 was given.

FARMERS ORGANIZING TO FIGHT FOR PROGRAM

Auburn, Ala.—Over 20,000 leading farmers of Alabama became members of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation during the past two monhs, reports J. L. Edwards, president, in pointing out that state farmers are manifesting more interest in organization than ever before.

Since the Supreme Court ruled the AAA unconstitutional, farmers are now manifesting even a greater interest in cooperation and organization, he said. "Farmers are organizing to make a united fight for a farm program to take the place of the adjustment program and to fight for other things beneficial to agriculture.

"The farmers realize that all other groups are organized and that they must be organized if they are to place the farming industry on a parity with other industries.

SOCIETY

Mr. and Mrs. John Hollis of Mitchell Dam and Mr. and Mrs. J. Hance Alred were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cohen Stapp, in Selma Sunday.

Mrs. W. W. Fox will return from a visit to friends and relatives in Birmingham the latter part of the week.

Mr. Floyd Smith spent the week end in Prattville with relatives.

Mr. L. E. Duncan of Birmingham spent the week end here with his family.

Miss Margaret Floyd spent the week end in Clayton, Ala. She was accompanied home by her mother, Mrs. W. E. Floyd, who is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hayes for the week.

Mr. and Mrs Sam Box and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Young attended the young Democratic dance held in Clanton last week.

The friends of little Bobby Alexander are delighted to know that his eyes are not seriously injured. Bobby was shot by an air rifle last Thursday. He was rushed to Montgomery for treatment by Dr. Mertins. Mrs. Alexander and Bobby returned home Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Wade and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Callen were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cohen Stapp in Selma Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Hosea F. Downs spent Sunday afternoon in Montgomery.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hayes and children motored to Montgomery Sunday afternoon.

Judge and Mrs. L. H. Reynolds, Omar Reynolds, Mrs. John Newell, Richard Reynolds and Katheryn Newell spent Sunday afternoon in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Higgins of Gadsden were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Omar Reynolds and Mrs. Hattie Alred Sunday.

Mrs. J. P. Hayes and Mrs. James Wade were visitors in Montgomery last Wednesday.

Mrs. J. C. Page Hostess

Mrs. J. C. Page entertained members of the Thursday Club on last Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Two tables were arranged for bridge. After a series of games Mrs. James Wade and Mrs. Dubb Huddleston were awarded prizes.

At a late hour refreshments were served to the following members and guests: Mrs. Dubb Huddleston, Mrs. J. Hance Alred, Mrs. James Wade, Mrs. Omar L. Reynolds, Mrs. Hugh Jones, Mrs. L. F. Gerald, Mrs. J. Lee Smith and Mrs. Arthur Johnson.

Grammar school P.-T. A. Meets

Members of the Grammar school P.-T. A. met Friday afternoon at 2:30 at the Grammar school. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. J. W. Hayes. After a short business session, a program was rendered. Several of the piano students of Mrs. Barney Roberts, Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Billingsley took part on the program. The devotional was conducted by Rev. Middlebrooks.

About fifty members were present. The half-holiday was awarded Mrs. Curry Thomas' room.

PLEASANT HILL

We are glad to say that health of our community is slowly improving.

We are thankful to report that our Sunday school is yet doing fine. We had a mighty good attendance last Sunday. We also had the pleasure of enrolling a new member. This, too will mean more help to carry on our church work.

Next Saturday, Saturday night and Sunday and Sunday night are our regular meeting dates. We want to urge everyone who can to be present. Brother Robinson always has a message that will revive our hearts, so let's go and put something in our church and help to make our community and chuch one of the best.

Misses Ollie Belle Davis, Minnie Bolton and Odell Ellison spent Saturday night with Misses Hazel and Alta Mae Blow.

Messrs. Dewey Cleckler, Houston Mims and Miss Pearlene Martin were the Sunday dinner guests of Miss Dotha Cleckler.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Davis, Miss Hazel Blow and Miss Lillian Mims were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Martin.

Miss Ollie Belle Davis spent Sunday with Miss Daisy Martin.

Don't forget our week end services. Visitors are always welcome.—Reporter.

LITTLE LUCY McLEAN

Lucy McLean, age 2, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. McLean, of Maplesville, Route 2, died at noon last Sunday, January 12, from a spinal ailment. Funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at Pilgrims Rest church, with burial in the cemetery at that place, Martin in charge.

SINGING AT SHILOH

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala., January 15.—At the mid-year commencement exercises at the University of Alabama which are scheduled for January 25th, more than 150 graduates will receive their degrees. The degrees will be conferred by President George H. Denny.

Dr. James L. Kassner, president of the local chapter of Sigma Xi, scientific society, has announced that Dr. Dr. Edward Bartow, head of the department of chemistry and chemical engineering at the University of Iowa, a former commander of the water analysis department of he A. E. F. during the World War, and resident of the American Chemical Society, will speak at the University of Alabama on Saturday, January 18.

Dr. Bartow is being brought to the University campus under the auspices of Sigma Xi. The subject of his lecture will be water purification.

By a recent decision of the Tuscaloosa Commission Board to purchase a site for a municipal airport, facilities for potential expansion of a school of aeronautics, and provision of a laboratory for present courses in aeronautics engineering at the University was assured.

Provision of the land by the municipality was required for the WPA approval of the airport project. Another important factor in making arrangements was the assurance that the University of Alabama School of Aeronautics will make use of the field.

TEMPLE CHURCH

We are asked to announce that the Rev. A. T. Hickman, of Birmingham, will preach at Temple church next Sunday, January 19, both morning and evening. Everyone is invited.

HAS IT COME?

Riding out from Boston the other noon we noticed a sign that would be a fair companion to the "United States Salvage Association" we noted in our last issue. It was on Cambridge Street and, in large letters, covering the entire window, we read "Liberty Exterminating Service." We did not stop to inquire what particular method of procedure was there in vogue for, in truth, it sounded so much like a new federal bureau that we were inclined to give the place a wide berth. —From "On the Surface."

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

Now that the 1936 campaign is approaching rapidly we are beginning to hear more and more from different localities in the United States about prospective Republican candidates. We are told that the candidates must be from the West, that he must be constructive enough to win the confidence of the East, and yet progressive enough in a traditionally Republican way to win the West —providing of course the G. O. P. is to have any chance to win the election against the present administration in the 1936 campaign. Some time ago it was all Colonel Knox and President Hoover in the newspapers. Then we began to hear more about Governor Landon, of Kansas, and other prospective candidates. Now Senator Borah, the Idaho Progressive, is very much in the limelight, and we are being told by the newspaper correspondents that he intends to enter various state presidential primaries and to make himself a real candidate. Some political wiseacres tell us he is doing this to "head off Hoover," others that he is trying to assure a "liberal Republican" candidate for President in the United States.

Be that as it may, the present political developments recall a statement made a few years ago by Claudius C. Huston, for a time Republican National Chairman during the Hoover administration. Some time after his resignation and after Republican national defeat, Mr. Huston made a political statement which has turned out to be a prophecy so far as political developments from that time on have been concerned. It might not be a bad idea for every Republican leader and student of political affairs to read this statement if it is still available. Mr. Huston outined three things which would have to come to pass within the organization of the party of which he is a member if the G. O. P. were to regain the presidency again. First, he said, the so-called "Hoover group" would have to relinquish much of its party authority in order to bring about the strongest and most effective reshaping of the organization. Second, he continued, the so-called "Old Guard" group, whose strength at that time had already been quite reduced, must become even more flexible in dealing with the party problems. Third, he concluded, some of the authority for direction should fall upon the shoulders of the really liberal and Progressive Republicans, the sort who had remained Republicans and had not gone off after strange gods. Many of the Western Republicans, in his view, were compelled to demand in party declaration about ten times as much as they were willing to accept in order to get what they desired.

Mr. Huston could now point with pride to the fact that his outline has been "filled in" by subsequent events. The Hoover group has relinquished much of its authority and the Old Guard have voluntarily retreated to the point where they have almost become "off guard." And the Western Republicans, of the liberally constructive type, are noting that the mantle has been dropping about their shoulders.

The real difficulty, many knowing Republicans are now saying, is that the party leaders must see to it that this leadership which has gone West does not fall into the wrong hands. There are "progressives and progressives." But the Republican West will demonstrate its right to have a big voice in the control of the G. O. P. if it proves its ability to lead, not as an army of experimenters but as a rejuvenated Republican host, and puts the right sort of leadership to the forefront.

As one constructive Republican leader put it the other day: "The Eastern Republicans want to defeat Roosevelt. To do so they are willing to go West for their candidate providing he is a real Republican candidate. What they want is leadership and a platform so broad and constructive that all Republicans can unite on it." The G. O. P. leaders are confronted with some real problems. Their ability to solve them properly will go a long way toward writing the decision of the 1936 campaign.

MORE AMENDMENTS

In a recent address Representativ Huddleston, of Alabama, one of the Democratic congressional leaders, made the rather disturbing statement that thoughtful members of Congress fear a strong attempt will be made soon to secure the enactment of socialistic amendments to the American Constitution. Representative Huddleston has never been an alarmist nor a sensation seeker. His statement bears food for considerable thought.

Most Americans may be surprised to know that in the recent Congress no less than sixty-five resolutions were introduced to amend the Constitution of the United States. Of course not all of them were socialistic or designed to change of fundamental law. Yet enough of them of the radical type to give cause for considerable alarm on the part of thoughful Americans. They went all the way from curtailing the power of the Supreme Court to pass on the validity of legislation, to permitting Congress to enact almost any kind of legislation it pleases under the "welfare clause."

The Constitution of the United States is, of course, the very cornerstone of American social and economic life and American traditions. Every school boy is aware of that. Never, before, however, has there been so concerted an effort to change that law. Fortunately amending the Constitution is a long drawn out process and one that must necessarily have careful consideration. It is to be hoped that if, and when, any of these socialistic amendments are offered to the people for consideration, they will be summarily rejected.

Congressman Huddleston offered the opinion, acording to the Associated Prses, that a great many of the acts passed by the last Congress were unconstitutional, and that when the Supreme Court scraps these acts the radicals will speed up their appeal for Constiutional amendments on the theory that they are "working for the people."

"There are members who are greatly disturbed over the situation," Mr. Huddleston is quoted as stating. "They are the more thoughful members and those with the better type of legal training, too."

Most of the resolutions introduced in Congress to amend the Constitution, were introduced by so-called "liberals," Congressman Huddleston said.

"But the only thing they are liberal in," he added, "is in spending other people's money. It is amazing that they should steal the name of 'liberals'.

"True liberalism consists of standing for the greatest possible freedom of action on the part of a citizen, whereas these false liberals are all for restricting his freedom of action and for his regimentation under governmental control."

Congressman Huddleston is a statesman and not a politician whose mere purpose is to discredit the New Deal. He is a member of the great political party whose victory gave hte Nwe Dealers the chance to seize the reins and to start driving. His views are worthy of serious consideration. Now is the time, above all, when proposed constitutional amendments should be viewed with suspicion until they are clearly demonstrated to be fundamentally sound and helpful in the maintenance of American ideals.

LITTLE ALICE IN THE AAA

One of the unintentional results of the New Deal agricultural program as it has worked out so far has been the tremendous aid extended to foreign agriculturalists. Instead of widening our exports the AAA has restricted production to the point where the alien farmer has been able to import his commodities to the United States.

The much heralded reciprocity tariff agreements were supposed to find foreign markets for our American farm products. Not only has exporting been rendered impossible by the AAA's curtailed production, but the most important tariff treaty entered into up to this time—that with Canada—has been actually designed to aid the American manufacturer at the expense of the American farmer.

The foreign trade situation as it applies to farm commodities was admirably set forth in a radio address recently by Stanley F. Morse, executive vice president of the Farmer's Independence Council of America. Mr. Morse said:

"For you farmers the most alarming effect of the attempted bureaucratic control of agriculture is the $90,000,000 which went to foreign farmers for their competing products imported into the United States during the drouth reduction has resulted in the importation of 252 million pounds of meat products, 255,000 head of live cattle and pork products and live swine equal to a total of 170,000 hogs. Other imported farm products, most of which should have been raised on our own farms, include 22,000,000 pounds of butter, 58,500,000 bushels of grain, 41,250,000 pounds of tobacco and 66,000 bales of cotton.

"What these importations mean to American farmers is indicated by the fact that it would have taken nearly 14,000,000 acres to produce them. This would haven given additional employment to over 500,000 people. Our vice president, Dr. Burkett, estimates that the AAA reduction program has decreased employment by two and one-half million.

"One of the results of the AAA is to aid foreign farmers. At a congressional hearing last winter I heard Secretary Wallace explain that the increased farm production abroad caused by the AAA program would raise the incomes of foreign farmers so that they could buy more manufactured exports from the United States. His theory seemed to be that this would increase our industrial prosperity and result in greater domestic purchases of your farm products. Perhaps you can figure this out yourselves."

Alice in Wonderland seems to have gone into agricultural economics in America. There is no other way to figure it all out.

MAN IN THE MOON

STILL GOING DOWN—

Inasmuch as the Literary Digest polls have become such accurate barometers in political affairs of the nation, they are watched very closely by millions who want to know just which way the wind is blowing in the national political scramble. The release of the results of the 8th week of the current poll has just been made, and the New Deal continues its downward plunge. The president and his policies started off in the first returns of the poll on the short end of a 53 per cent and 47 per cent poll—that is, only 47 per cent of the votes were in favor of the president, and 53 per cent were against him. In every week's returns since, save the third week, the New Deal has continued to drop. During the third week the president's percentage gained .21 of one per cent, while during all the other seven weeks it has dropped in various percentages.

In last week's results, 1,688,462 votes had been polled. Of these the New Deal gets a total of 643,514, or 38.11 per cent while the count against surged over the million mark with 1,044,948, or 61.89 per cent of the total. The Digest figures that each per cent when the poll is finished will represent approximately 400,000 voters in the regular national election.

The comparative vote by states remains the same as last week—36 against the president's measures, and 12 for them, although the popular vote favorable to the resident dropped 1.42 per cent during the week. In addition to this, The Digest has tabulated all the ballots received so far where the state was not named, and has marked these in one bunch just like it was another state, so that these have their weight in the total poll; they have called this "State Unknown"; this also is aligned against the president, 57.99 per cent of its 17,813 voters voting "no".

With the states lined up the same the electoral vote of course remains the same—399 against the president and 132 for him—over 3 to 1. The popular vote is almost 2 to 1. In the electoral college 266 electoral votes are required to elect the president. According to this, the Republicans will have to lose from their total two more than the Democrats now have, altogether, in order for the Democrats to win. We don't think they will do this—not yet.

SOMETHING NEW—

In last week's issue of The Chilton County News my good friend Billy Smith started something new — "Passing Footprints of the Times"—right on the front page, too. Billy is a good sport, and we take each other's barbs in a friendly manner. Really, I'm right glad that he has seen fit to put his out on the front page, though, for there they will be much easier for me to find. It's an interesting column, and you'll enjoy it.

Among other things Billy had to say in opening his column last week was one in reference to the Digest poll. Billy says that, personally, he puts very little stock in these polls, whether they please him or wrinkle his brow. If he doesn't believe in them, then how could they cause wrinkles in his brow? However, if we are not sadly mistaken, his paper had lots to say about the 1932 and 1934 polls, which favored the Democrats, and, inasmuch as it was his paper which was having all this to say, we must presume that he surely must have had knowledge of such publication, and that it was favorable in his sight. Why such change? We think we know.

Furthermore, in last week's issue of The News, in "A Most Unfortunate Decision on the AAA", a front page editorial, the editor took the trouble to set out in detail the personal and political history of all those members of the Supreme Court who saw fit to rule the AAA unconstitutional, although this number contained Democrats. He pointed out which were "small time" lawyers, which were "corporation" lawyers, and the like. But not one word did he utter concerning the three members who voted in favor of keeping the AAA—they were above reproach in his eyes, I presume. Some time ago, when the Supreme Court ruled Mr. Roosevelt's "Gold Clause" constitutional, The News, (and Billy) extolled the virtues of these revered and ripely sensible gentlemen of the supreme bench. He couldn't see anything wrong with them then. He thought they possessed the good sense that comes with ripe old age then, but now he believes that this good sense has become over-ripe—rotten, in fact. Truly, a little time makes a lot of difference.

But getting back to Billy's consistency, or lack of it, let's dig up a little history back in 1932, when he was so anxious to do and die for dear old Democracy and the dear people. He was so bitter against an administration which "oppressed the masses, undertook to poke an unwelcome finger into business, and destroy the fine American individualism that has built the nation".

Leisurely scanning the pages of the 1932 file of The Chilton County News, which at the time carried the name of Billy Smith at its masthead as editor, makes interesting reading, considering the pronouncements of policies of The News since that time. We wish we could open the book and point out all of those flaming editorials of 1932, and then turn and match them against later ones, before all our readers. Here are a few.

On January 28, 1932, The News asked:

"Shall we throw overboard the American principle of individualism in business in favor of alien theories of government ownership?" And since that time The News has fought relentlessly on the side of the NRA, which undertook to manage each and every individual business from bootblack to bank president. Why? For no other reason, we believe, than that his majesty, the most Honorable Franklin Delano Roosevelt, than which there was never greater, (in a Democratic sense), had decreed that all good Democrats should so do. If there were other reasons for change of heart we would be glad to know what they were. Certainly his views in 1932 and those since did not align, and there must certainly have been a reason.

On May 19, 1932, The News deplored the fact that "government is costing the American taxpayers the outrageous sum of $5,000 a minute", and now when our government is spending 13 million dollars a day, almost two times as much, we have as yet heard no outcry from The News nor "The Footprints of Time". Why? Republicans were running the country when it was costing seven million a day, and that was outrageous; but Democrats are squandering the 13 million a day now, and that's okey-dokey. Strange!

On June 30, 1932, The News bloomed forth with a double-column editorial: "Of Interest to Every Merchant", warning the merchants that their government was seeking too big a hand in running their businesses, beseeching them to turn to Roosevelt and less governmental meddling. Since then The News has supported every governmental effort to throttle business in every nook and cranny of the nation. Again, why? We believe we have the answer to this one, too. At that time a plank in the Democratic platform called for less governmental supervision in business — "less government in business and more business in government" was their very phrase. But since the administration about-faced after election and disregarded the platform almost in its entirety, of course The News, being carried on by good Democrats, had to do a complete flip-flop on this question too. If that wasn't the reason, then we would like to have the real one.

On July 28, 1932, just after Mr. Hoover had asked for and fought for 150 million dollars with which to begin the RFC, and congress had finally allowed it, The News had this to say:

"The national budget, according to late reports, has not been balanced, in spite of the highest taxes in our history. It is expected that 'relief' measures, involving hundreds of millions of dollars, will shortly be passed. If the present trend keeps up, the working, tax-paying citizen will be in need of relief. It will be cheaper to do nothing than to produce—cheaper to give away property than to own it. And political waste and extravagance continue undiminished".

Since that time The News has defended the colossal spending of the Roosevelt bureaucrats time after time, although those measures of which The News spoke have been hoisted far above the very dreamiest heights the most radical mind could envision at that time. Why? Because Czar Roosevelt so willed, and to The News, "the king can do no wrong".

If one would take the trouble to scan thru that long line of editorials of 1932 in The News, we repeat, he would be interested—and amused.

On October 20, 1932, The News carried an editorial: "Republicans Need Ammunition". That may have been true then, but today, thanks to the most insane and reckless administration in the annals of the nation, conducted by Mr. Roosevelt, Republicans have plenty of ammunition. We have but to cite any one of hundreds of instances of Democratic inconsistency. This political arsenal is replete.

"Consistency—thou art a jewel".—Man in the Moon.

MORE FEDERAL CAPITALS?

A new set-up for federal direction in the United States has been recommended to the President by the national resources committee of which Harold L. Ickes, Secretary of the Interior, is the chairman. The plan would divide the United States into ten or more "provinces" with each having a sort of subcapital or "little Washington," as its seat of government.

It was said that the regional set-ups of new sub-capitals were recommended for national resource study and operations but it has been added by some of those who favor the plan that the federal government is becoming so complicated that it cannot all be directed from Washington and that regional capitals are necessary to take care of some of the agencies, so that all federal offices in each "province" might eventually be consolidated in the regional capitals to be set up.

Of course the critics of the New Deal were quick to say that government activities and government bureaucracies at Washington have grown so—in spite of campaign promises to the contrary—that it is necessary to set up ten or twelve more capitals in order to get room enough to house all of the government workers. In this respect it is recalled that only a short time ago recommendations were made that certain government bureaus be moved from Washington to Baltimore because there was no longer room for them in Washington although all available business and office buildings have been taken over by the government, to say nothing of the homes of former society leaders, the halls of which now resound to the click of the bureaucratic typewriter.

One significant feature of the plan must not be lost sight of, however. The dividing of the country into ten or more federal regions means the beginning of the end for state governments. One of the objects of a great many people who believe in regional federal planning is to do away with the states and the state governments provided for in the Constitution. As the federal government spreads itself out with sub-capitals and as it takes over the functions and activities which formerly belonged to the states, as it has been doing there becomes less and less need for state government and state capitals and things center more and more in the federal system.

It is a noteworthy fact that when a "Proposed Constitution for the Socialist Commonwealth of America" was drawn up by a committee representing the Socialist Lawyers Association it was rovided that "it shall be the duty of Congress to divide the territory of the Commonwealth into such regions as it may determine for the purpose of limited self-government, and shall issue to such regions charters of local self-government."

This "constitution" would pretty well do away with the states and divide the territory of the United States into "regions." Getting rid of the states is a prime socialist purpose If there were no state governments it would be much easier to fashion the United States into a socialistic dictatorship.

DEMOCRACY AND THE FARMER

In a recent address, Fred S. Sexauer, President of the Dairyman's League Cooperative Association of New York, said: "Neither Fascism, Nazism or dictatorship is the solution to the problem of industry or agriculture. If farm organizations are to be preserved, democracy must be preserved. There are no independent farm organizations in the regulated society of Germany, Italy or Russia. Nazism, Fascism and Communism cannot live with farm organizations and in the conflict farm organizations die a violent death where one of these forms of government dominates. More than we sometimes realize, economic security for the farmer is tied to individual freedom and to democracy."

Individualism has long been one of the salient traits of the typical American farmer—an individualism that is perfectly in tune with the theories of democracy, even as it is aggressively opposed to the theories of paternalistic or dictatorial governments. The best farm cooperatives are an example of that farsighted individualism. They represent the collective effort of a large number of individuals, all interested in the same problems, who have banded together to work for a common cause through their own efforts, money and abilities. If there are profits, they divide them; if there are losses they must always absorb them. And their success, as Mr. Sexauer has discovered from his wide experience, is dependent on the maintenance of democratic government.

A WORD FROM LABOR

There have been a great many more or less wild statements about how the labor vote is going to be "delivered" to the proponents of the "more abundant life" in the next election. Yet there are some indications that statements of this kind may be erroneous now just as they were in the past. It has always been impossible to "deliver" the labor vote to any candidate or any party and it will doubtless continue to be impossible. People who labor do their own thinking and come to their own conclusions just as folks do in other walks of life. By no means have all the labor leaders embraced the New Deal. In a recent address, Fred F. Schultz, prominent Illinois labor leader and candidate for the Republican nomination for congress in his district, said:

"The New Deal has subsidized the American labor movement and is directly responsible for the factionalism existing therein.

"The labor movement has been used as a political football by the Democratic party. I take issue with any one who says that labor, organized or unorganized, has received any increase in wages while living costs have soared to new heights.

"The average income has been reduced 20 to 30 per cent and the cost of living has increased as high as 50 per cent. That, together with the cheapening of the value of the dollar, has forced labor to take a reduction in wages."

"I'd like to see a return of the days when industry made good profits, for in those days labor was really paid for its services. I am highly in favor of a protective tariff that really protects—one that takes in consideration the wages paid in foreign countries and would make it impossible for foreign manufacturers to undersell American manufacturers in this country."

In an address at the annual luncheon meeting of the National Railway Council in New York recently, Francis A. Chase, executive secretary for the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen for the New England and New York districts, characterized the New Deal as a "Queer Deal", and said, in part:

"After three years of wheeling about in circles the Roosevelt administration is now standing in the way of national recovery by an utter lack of national objective. I am opposed to the Roosevelt administration because it has repudiated every pledge and promise made to the American people."

If some of its leaders are to be taken seriously by their statements it becomes apparent that the time has not yet arrived when labor can be delivered en bloc to any political organization.

WHERE IS THE MONEY TO COME FROM?

According to Edward F. Loomis, President of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, in an article in the Forum for December, the railroads of the nation are in danger of being forced to a policy of the most drastic economy, with possible further reduction in employment, because of the heavy burdens saddled on them by various social-security laws, including the railroad retirement act.

At the present time, the railroads are among the most heavily taxed of all industries. Last year their taxes came to $243,812,000—a figure exceeded only by their 1929 taxes, when business was booming and railroad revenues were much greater.

Many of the principal railroads of the country have been unable to earn their fixed charges, which include bond interest, for the past three years. Railroad net operating profit this year is averaging less than 2 per cent per annum.

The new financial burdens, such as the social security acts, are imposed without regard to income. They will run far into the millions and they can be paid in only two ways—one, by making it possible for the rails to do more business and earn more money, or second, by a policy of retrenchment which will decrease railroad employment, cut down purchasing, and adversely affect all business.

The situation is one of the utmost gravity, particularly at a time when all the energies of the nation are needed to bring recovery.

The railroads are certainly not opposed to social security for their workers—many had liberal pension systems long before government pensions were thought of—but it is obviously impossible for them to spend more millions than they can collect.

In the good old days when a young man and woman were married they felt that they were married for life. Now when young couples get hitched up most of 'em don't even have a five-year plan.

The old fashioned man, who as a boy, was contented on Christmas with a fifty cent shirt and a twenty-five cent machine-made necktie now has a son who isn't even satisfied with a new automobile unless it has a radio in it.

A lot of folks objected when President Jefferson paid $18,000,000 for all the Louisiana Territory. It would cost the government that much now to take a tree census of Philadelphia.

NO UPSETS

The proper treatment for a bilious child

A cleansing dose today; a smaller quantity tomorrow; less each time, until bowels need no help at all.

ANY mother knows the reason when her child stops playing, eats little, is hard to manage. Constipation. But what a pity so few know the sensible way to set things right!

The ordinary laxatives, of even ordinary strength, destroy all hopes of restoring regularity.

A liquid laxative is the answer, mothers. The answer to all your worries over constipation. A liquid can be measured. The dose can be exactly suited to any age or need. Just reduce the dose each time, until the bowels are moving of their own accord and need no help.

This treatment will succeed with any child and with any adult.

Doctors use a liquid laxative. Hospitals use the liquid form. If it is best for their use, it is best for home use. The liquid laxative they generally use is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Any druggist has it.

OF INTREST TO TEACHERS

Due to an act passed by the special session of the legislature in 1933, whereby all teachers certificates were automaticlly extended to July 1, 1936, about 15,000 Alabama teachers certificates will expire June 30, 1936.

The certificates contain a clause that allows extension upon condition that the teacher take a certain special course during the summer months. The special act of 1933 allowed this clause to be disregarded until July 1st of this year. However, the state department of education is now serving notice that henceforth the clause will be respected,and teachers are warned to take due notice to this effect.

The department makes the following announcement to all teachers:

"The Division of Instruction requests that all teachers who have completed requirements for the reinstatement or issuance of a new certificate send in their applications as promptly as possible. Since the new certificate wlil bear the date of July 1, 1936, there will be no overlapping in the periods of validity of the certificate now held and the one to be issued.

"The continuance of conditional permanent certificates upon the basis of experience does not require a fee, though the first issuance of a conditional permanent certificate does require a fee.

"Every certificate bearing date of 1928, or thereafter, requires for reinstatement the fulfillment of conditions printed in the face of the certificate. The holder of such certificate should therefore make his plans to meet in full the state requirements, if he desires to continue to teach in the schools of Alabama.

"Since there will be some changes in certificate forms this year, it is suggested that each teacher read carefully the face of the new certificate upon its receipt.

"In order to relieve congestion as much as possible, it is our desire to begin the issuance of certificates bearing date of July 1, 1936, about January 15th."

TEACHERS RETIREMENT PLAN IS BEING DRAWN

A plan is on foot to retire teachers in the schools of Aabama at a certain age, or after a certain number of years service. The plan is modeled after the Civil Service Retirement System.

In nearly all other professional lines such retirement organizations are in effect, government employees, railway employees, and others having their own retirement systems.

Plans for the Alabama Teachers Retirement System have not been perfected, but tentative plans call for retirement at the end of 35 years of service as a teacher, or at the age of 65. The tentative plans also call for a retirement pay rate of 50 per cent of the monthly salary of individual teachers, with the maximum to be paid being set at $100.00 per month.

We are informed that a meeting will be called in the near future when all plans will be considered and agreed upon. Soon after that date it is expected that such plan will be tendered to the State legislature, who will act upon it in the form of a regular bill in the legislature.

The plan would be along the same line as that accepted in like retirement systems, the state holding back a certain percentage of each teacher's salary, to be placed in the retirement fund. This rate has not been decided, but will be decided upon when the meeting is called to consider other plans for retirement.

In a recent poll taken of all teachers in the state, only a very small percentage of Alabama teachers signified that they were not intreested in a retirement act, but the majority were highly in favor of it, and very enthusastic about the matter.

INFORMATION CONCERNING SCHOOLS OF ALABAMA

With the threat of closing hovering over our schools, many requests have been sent into the educational department at Montgomery concerning the reason for the shortage of money to run schools. So many have come in, in fact, that a sheet of information in regard to the question has been prepared. The title of this sheet is: "What is the Outlook for Schools in Alabama?" It is in question and answer form, and we reprint it in full below:

Q—Why do we hear so much of the schools closing in January and February of this year?

A—(a). Because of a lack of sufficent revenue to run the schools beyond that time;

(b). Because the budget law prevents boards of education from going in debt to run schools;

(c). Because Federal relief funds are no longer available to run schools.

Q—Why is there not sufficient revenue to keep the schools open?

A—(a). Because under the Budget Act state appropriations for schools cannot be paid in full on present revenues;

(b). Because revenues available to operate the schools are still about $5,000,000 less than five years ago.

(c). Because assessed valuation of property on which state, county, and local school taxes are collected has decreased $322,000,000;

(d). Because only a small part of the total increase in tax collections by the State goes to the schools and even this small increase has largely been offset by decreases in the state per capita fund, (Public School Fund).

Q—Has the cost of schools increased?

A—)a). No, although the school load has increased 10 per cent. About 60,000 more children are now attending school than in 1930, requiring additional teachers, classrooms, equipment and transportation.

(b). In spite of these increases and even if appropriations are paid in full, education will cost approximately $1,000,000 less this year than in 1930.

Q—How much additional revenue will be needed to pay present appropriations in full?

A—$3,841,438.

Q—Why is the State the only governmental agency which can provide the $3,841,438 additional funds needed?

A—Because the counties, cities, and other school districts in general are levying all the taxes the Constitution allows and Federal relief funds are no longer available for schools.

Q—Can the schools be saved?

A—Yes; there is only one way, and that is for the Legislature to meet and provide the revenue needed to pay the appropriations in full.

FOREST FIRE HAZARD DEFINED

Montgomery.—The public has heard quite a bit about the forest fire hazard prevailing at different times and places, but there appears to be some doubt in various quarters as to just what this term as used by foresters really signifies, states Col. Page S. Bunker, Alabama State Forester. The fire hazard, according to Col. Bunker, is the probability of loss of the forest values by fire. The degree of such probability of loss of the forest valvalues by fire. Degree of such probability is indicated by percentages, no risk or danger whatever being considered as a zero hazard while certainty of complete destruction is regarded as a 100 percent hazard. Varying probailities between these two extremes are indicated by corresponding percentages.

A great many conditions contribute to the fire hazard. Prominent among these is the character of vegetation. Resinous timber species usually are damaged more by fire than are the hardwoods and other resistant kinds of growth. Frost killed grass and herbage ermit the spread of fire at a much more rapid rate than does green and succulent vegetation. Dryness of the atmosphere and the prevalence of winds comprise two of the greatest elements of the hazard.

Even with threatening natural conditions, however, the hazard may remain comparatively low in many localities provided no one sets fires, either purposely or accidentally. In fact, the presence of people in the woods when the natural factors of the hazards are fairly high adds very greatly to the total probability of loss. This fact is expressed in what is known as the occupancy rule which states that for any given class of people the number of ignitions will vary in direct proportion to the number of people in the woods.

Beware The Cough

From a common cold That Hangs On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Creomulsion not only contains the soothing elements common to many remedies; such as, Syrup of White Pine Compound with Tar, fluid extract of Licorice Root, fluid extract of Ipecac for its powerful phlegm loosening effect, fluid extract of Cascara for its mild laxative effect and, most important of all, Beechwood Creosote is perfectly blended with all of these to reach the source of the trouble from the inside. Creomulsion can be taken frequently and continuously by adults and children with remarkable results.

Thousands of doctors use Creomulsion in their own families as well as in their practice knowing how Creomulsion aids nature to soothe the inflamed membranes and heal the irritated tissues as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled. Druggists also know the effectiveness of Beechwood Creosote and they rank Creomulsion top for coughs because you get a real dose of Creosote in Creomulsion, emulsified so that it is palatable, digestible and potent for going to the very seat of the trouble.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritations and especially those stubborn ones that start with a common cold and hang on for dreadful days and nights thereafter. Even if other remedies have failed, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund every cent of your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Don't worry through another sleepless night—phone or go get a bottle of Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)

MRS. MATTIE LOU GIPSON

Mrs. Mattie Lou Gipson, age 33, wife of J. T. Gipson, of Billingsley, died at the Central Alabama Hospital Monday at 12:30, after a short illness. Mrs. Gipson was a member of one of the most prominent families in the Billingsley community. She had been a member of Big Springs church for 17 years.

The funeral was held at 2:00 p.m., on Tuesday, with Rev. G. G. Williams officiating. Burial was in the cemetery at that place, with Martin in charge.

Surviving are: her husband, J. T. Gipson; four children—Beatrice, 15, Talmadge, 13, Louis, 8, and Mary, 3; her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Patrick of Billingsley; two brothers—W. A. Patrick of Billingsley and Tommie Patrick of Montevallo; four sisters—Mrs. Effie Beadlecomb of Fremont, Ala., Mrs. Susie Turner, Mrs. Effie Spigener, and Mrs. Ruby Gipson, all of Billingsley.

Pallbearers were six nephews—Horace, Morris, Norman and Carl Patrick, and Hawthorne and Joe Turner.

MASON CLARK

Funeral for Mason Clark, former resident of Chilton county and son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Clark, of Mountain Creek, who died Sunday night at his home in Atlanta following an illness of pneumonia, was held Tuesday at 11 a.m. from the Coosa River Baptist church, in Elmore county, with the Rev. Leroy Priest, of Montgomery, officiating. Burial was in the churchyard cemetery with Masonic honors.

Mr. Clark was born and reared in Chilton county, near Mountain Creek, but had lived in Atlanta for some time, where he was engaged in business.

IN MEMORY OF LITTLE JAMES WILLARD GORE

On last Wednesday night, January 8, about 8:30 o'clock, a dark gloom came over Mineral Springs community when the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Gore and bore away their darling baby, James Willard, who was 8 months old, to his eternal home. He was a baby that was loved by everybody that knew him, for he was always smiling.

But God knew best and called him home. Weep not, dear loved ones, for we know everything was done that human hands could do. We know that there is a place vacant in the home, but your loss is heaven's gain. Just put your trust in Jesus and live a life so when we depart from this earth we can meet our loved ones who have gone on before.—One who loved him.

W. A. REYNOLDS IN FLORIDA

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Reynolds are at Eustis, Fla., on a vacation trip. While there Mr. Reynolds must be combining business with pleasure. He owns quite a bit of property there, and The Union-Banner has received a circular which advertises the Reynolds property for sale at auction today, January 16th.

FRANK LOCKWOOD DEAD

The death of Frank Lockwood, of Montgomery, was announced early this week. Mr. Lockwood was a nationally known architect. Several years ago he drew plans for the Chilton County High school, and later for the Chilton County courthouse. He was well known in Clanton, and had many friends here.

Watch this paper for Murray-Bell Hardware Company's Anniversary Sale next month.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends and relatives for their kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and death of our darling baby. Especially do we thank Dr. Franklin and Dr. Lawrence and the many friends for their beautiful flowers. May God's richest blessings rest upon each and everyone is our prayer.—Father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Gore, and little brother.

NOTICE

Preaching at the home of J. T. Daniel of Lomax, Sunday, January 19th, at 2:30 p.m. Everybody invited.

BROTHER OF DR. GOWAN IS DEAD IN MISSISSIPPI

News has been received in Clanton of the death of Dr. W. A. Gowan at the family home in Kosciusko, Miss.

Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Gowan and Mrs. Oscar Jones left Monday for Kosciusko, after receiving news of the serious condition of their brother. He died Tuesday afternoon.

Along with this comes news of the serious illness of Dr. Gowan's 82-year-old mother, ill with pneumonia. She is not expected to live.

IN MEMORY OF LITTLE JAMES WILLARD GORE

The death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Gore on January 8, 1936, and bore away the spirit of their loving baby. He was only eight months old. He was always so kind and good and won friends wherever he went, with his sweet smiles. It seemed so hard to give him up, but still we know it was God's will. The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away, blessed be the name of the Lord.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his father and mother and little brother, grandfathers and grandmothers, and a host of relatives and friends.—His loving aunt, Naomi Heflin.

FRANCES JANE ALLEN

Mrs. Frances Jane Alen, age 89, died Thursday afternoon, January 9, at her home 1½ miles west of Cooper. Mr. Allen was born in Tallapoosa county, but had lived at her home near Cooper for the past 37 years.

According to the best information we could secure, she is survived by two sons, J. T., and A. H. Allen, both of Cooper.

Funeral services were held at Chestnut Creek church on Friday afternoon, Rev. J. D. Hughes officiating. The remains were brought to Clanton cemetery for burial, with Martin in charge.

SANDERS URGES FRIENDS TO ATTEND SPEAKING SATURDAY

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space to stress what I believe the importance of the citizens of Chilton county attending the speaking of Mr. C. O. Vardaman at the courthouse in Clanton next Saturday morning. Mr. Vardaman comes to the people of Chilton county as a fine speaker, well posted on State and national affairs. I am sure that he will have something of interest to all whether you agree with him in politics or not. I would especially urge the young voters of the county to attend. Lots of our young voters have never heard the New Deal program discussed. I understand that Mr. Vardaman will make especial appeal to the younger citizens of the county, as well as the lady voters. Whether I can attend this meeting or not, I hope that everybody possible will avail themselves of this opportunity.

And too, I would like to stress the fact that the dead line for paying poll tax is approaching near. Let us all look after this very important matter on or before February 1st, as that is the last day.—W. L. Sanders.

BIDS FOR LANDSCAPING YARDS OF THE CLANTON POST OFFICE

Postmaster H. F. Downs announces that he is receiving bids on the work of seeding and planting in the grounds around the Clanton Clanton Post Office. Specifications and full information about placing bids may be received from the custodian, Postmaster H. F. Downs.

Watch for coming of poultry car early next week. Remarkable prices for your Hens, Ducks, Geese, and Turkeys.—Chilton County Exchange, Evan Parrish, Mgr., Clanton.

exponents of the sales tax, the local committee will do everything in its power to acquaint the people of the county with the truth regarding the subtle legal robbery that is being perpetrated. The local committee will send representatives into every beat to secure signatures to petitions against the enactment of a sales tax law. When these people come to see you, if you do not fully understand, ask them to explain in full. After this, if you feel that we need an extra tax, and if you feel anxious to help pay it, then you don't have to sign, of course. But if you feel that your taxes are high enough at present, and are unwilling to pay more, then by all means sign the petition. When the petitions are in, the committee expects to call a county-wide, non-political mass meeting to protest the enactment of this temporary sales tax, and to draw up resolutions to that effect. When that meeting is called, by all means attend and voice your disapproval.

Further announcements in regard to plans will be made through the papers of the county, just as soon as released. Watch for them.

DR. V. J. GRAGG IS NOW A LICENSED PLANE PILOT

Dr. V. J. Gragg has at last really sprouted his wings. The flying doctor has been licensed for some time to make solo flights, but now he is a full-fledged pilot, licensed to carry passengers, except for pay.

Dr. Gragg went to Birmingham last Tuesday and took the examination for a "Private Pilot's License", and passed with flying colors. He was showing his papers around the city Tuesday afternoon. He holds these papers, pending arrival of his regular license from Washington.

Dr. Gragg explained that this license gives him the right to carry passengers, land on any field, etc. In short, it gives him all flying rights except that as a transport pilot.

DON'T BLAME YOUR GROCER

THE increase in food cost has been caused by the inflation of prices through taxes and other measures entirely beyond your grocer's control.

The expense of governmental participation in many activities running into billions of dollars must be paid by someone.

The grocer and other business men cannot pay these taxes entirely out of their own pockets. Too, they must conserve some money for still higher taxes to come.

Governmental losses due to participation in the electric light and power business must also be made up in taxes—taxes which your grocer—AND YOU—must pay!

The Union-Banner Offers To Help With Its

GOOD SAMARITAN SUBSCRIPTION PLAN

Here Is The Plan

The Good Samaritan Subscription plan is open only to churches or to some bona fide auxiliary of a church, any denomination, white and colored. As many churches as desire may enter the campaign on exactly the same footing with exactly the same opportunity to earn money for the church. The church or auxiliary can use the money thus raised for any purpose it desires. There is no central prize offered to the one obtaining the most subscriptions, but each church will be paid whatever amount it earns through the plan. No big church will have the advantage over the smaller ones unless it works harder and turns in more subscriptions. Honest pay for honest work is all there is to the plan. There will be some bonuses, however, which will be explained further down in this announcement.

This plan is conducted solely by the regular management of The Union-Banner. There is no outside promotion, but every cent of the money raised in the campaign will go to the treasuries of the churches and to The Union-Banner. All the money will strictly be kept at home.

The date for entering is now open. The church or auxiliary must have a treasurer to handle the campaign for the church; the regular church treasurer may do it, or another one for this specific purpose may be appointed. Every member of the church, or other interested party, working for the plan will turn their subscriptions over to this treasurer, and The Union-Banner will deal only with this treasurer. The treasurer may turn in subscriptions and make payment at any intervals most suited to himself and to the church.

All the church has to do is to elect its treasurer, and have this treasurer drop The Union-Banner a card expressing the desire to enter the plan. All the necessary blanks will be mailed him or her, and work may begin then and there. In writing the card be sure to give the name of the church, the name of the pastor, and the name and address of the treasurer. Or the entry may be made in person at The Union-Banner office.

No subscription may be taken for more than two years nor less than one year. The price at which subscriptions may be sold will be straight one dollar per year for both new and renewal subscribers. The compensation for the churches will be figured on a sliding scale; the more subscriptions sold the greater becomes the percentage to go to the churches. A book containing 75 receipts, numbered from 1 to 75, will be furnished each treasurer. On the first 20 receipts issued 20 per cent will go to the church; on the next 15 receipts 25 per cent will go to the church; the next 10, 30 per cent; the next 10, 35 per cent; the next 10, 40 per cent; and the next 10, 45 per cent. When this book of 75 receipts has been sold on the above basis, a bonus of $10.00 will be given the church. All money must be turned in to The Union-Banner, who thereupon will reimburse the treasurer with whatever amount of money is due the church. After the first receipt book of 75 subscriptions has been used by a church, a satisfactory and attractive arrangement will be made for all additional subscriptions written. That part of the plan will be explained in due time.

No Central Prize is offered, but every Church will get in Cash whatever it earns. No one will have advantage over the other. This plan is no lottery --- just simply honest compensation for honest work. As many churches may enter as desire. They will not be working against one another, but every church will be working for itself. The harder one works the more compensation. Enroll your church now.

VOTERS IGNORED BY STATE DEMO'S

Some Delegates Are Reported Ready To Resign; Want Vote

Following its action in disregarding the widespread demand of Democrats throughout Alabama to vote upon the delegation to represent Alabama democracy at the national convention to be held in Philadelphia next June, the democratic state executive committee named all district delegates and alternates Saturday, supplementing previous action in naming the state-at-large delegates at a meeting in November.

The plan to name nine Alabama congressmen from the nine Alabama districts on the district delegation was abandoned when it was learned that some of the Alabama congressmen had determined, if named, to decline to accept designation by the committee on the grounds that the people were entitled to vote to name the delegates.

Ratifies Previous Action

The committee ratified its action in naming Governor Graves, Senators Black and Beankhead and Chairman John D. McQueen as delegates from the state at large, and selected Pitt Tyson Maner, of Montgomery, the governor's private secretary; Dr. F. Marion Inge, of Mobile; Mrs. Angus Taylor and J. T. Stokeley, of Birmingham, as alternates.

WILLIAMS - MOORE MARRIAGE

On Sunday afternoon, January 12, at 2 o'clock Miss Jettie Williams of Concord-Billingsley was quietly married to Mr. Clarence Moore of Bethsalem.

The wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Williams, in the presence of only a few close relatives and friends.

They will make their home in the Bethsalem community. Their many friends join in wishing them a long life of happiness and prosperity.

STOKELY SALE AT BLUE FRONT STORES THIS WEEK

The three blue front stores—Clanton Cash Store, Peoples Cash Store and Thorsby Cash Store—are this week end, Friday and Saturday, January 24th and 25th, conducting a special sale on Stokely canned goods.

At this season of the year canned goods are in special demand, inasmuch as fresh vegetables and fruits are scarce. For the next several weeks they will continue to be a scarcity of these things from the gardens and orchards. So, the housewives could do no better than put in a large stock of Stokely canned stuff while these specials are offered. Your pantry full now will come in handy during the coming weeks while the scarcity of fresh foods last. And Stokely products, as you no doubt already know, are so fine that you will like them even better than fresh ones. The above three stores invite you to visit them this week end. Look at their array of bargains elsewhere in this paper.

VISITORS FROM COOSA COUNTY

The Union-Banner was pleased Saturday to have three of our good Republican friends from Coosa county visit us. They are Messrs. Leo Hull, G. A. Glenn and Jones Varner, all from Titus Route 2. These gentlemen were here to hear the Republican speaking at the courthouse, the principal speaker for which was Mr. C. O. Vardaman, now of Birmingham but originally from Coosa county. We were glad to have these gentlemen visit us.

EIGHT ARRESTS DURING WEEK

The office of Sheriff Hardy reports eight arrests during the past week. They were as follows:

One for driving while intoxicated. Released on $300 bond.

One for public drunkenness and abusive, indecent and obscene language; in jail.

One for violating the prohibition law; in jail.

One for assault and battery and abusive, indecent and obscene language; released on $300 bond.

One for reckless driving; released on 100 bond.

Two for speeding; released on $100 bond in each case.

One for violating Section 97 of the Alabama "Rules of the Road"; released on $100 bond.

The last four named arrests were made by state highway officers Henley and Waites. Section 97 of the Highway rules, pertains to parking vehicles on the highway without lights.

HOLDS HIGH POSITION WITH BROWN-SERVICE

GRADY D. BROADHEAD

FUNERAL CO. HAS SPLENDID RECORD

Local Man Is Promoted To Position of Company Superintendent

Brown-Service Funeral Company, according to the superintendent, Grady D. Broadhead, during the year 1935 enjoyed the largest business in the entire history of the firm. It had a premium income during the year of $1,500,000. The company now has a total of 103 funeral homes, with 150,000 policy holders in the State. Upwards of 5,000 funerals were furnished by the company last year. In Chilton County 60 funerals were furnished for policy holders in Chilton county by Spigener Funeral Home of Clanton.

Mr. Grady D. Broadhead, formerly of Clanton but now of Montgomery, is superintendent of the Company. Mr. Broadhead spent part of last week in Clanton assisting the local agents, Messrs. Dave Boyett and W. B. Higgins.

In another place in this paper is a large advertisement from Brown-Service, in which is pointed out that recently $100,000 was deposited with the State, in compliance with the insurance laws of Alabama. This is conclusive proof to the policy holders of the strong financial condition of the company. It is always ready at all times to make every compliance with the State laws regarding the conduct of such companies, according to Mr. Broadhead.

During recent years funeral insurance has become one of the foremost businesses of that nature in this section of the country. The promoters point out the saving of millions of dollas to the policy holdes, and Bown-Service is the pioneer of funeral insurance. They are to be congratulated upon the splendid progress they have made as well as the excellent service they have rendered.

Locally, the company has a fine set of men in charge. Mr. Sam Cope, the manager of Spigener Funeral Home here, is a splendid fellow and well liked by everybody. The two agents, Messrs. Boyett and Higgins, also enjoy the respect and admiration of a large circle of friends in Chilton county. It is always a source of pleasure to deal with these gentlemen.

"LIBERTY AT THE CROSS ROADS" ON AIR TUESDAY NIGHT

The National Reublican Committee is putting on a very fine program one or two nights a week regarding the general trend of politics in the nation. The next series will be next Tuesday night at 8:30 o'clock, and it is broadcast over the Mutual Broadcasting System. It can be gotten here over WGN Chicago.

The two largest broadcasting systems refused the Republican committee the right to broadcast, so they got in on the Mutual system. Their programs are as fine as you ever heard. Listen in on it next Tuesday night, January 28th.

AN OLD FRIEND WRITES FROM WEST PALM BEACH, FLORIDA

Editor Union-Banner:

If this little bit don't fall into the garbage basket you can print it.

Well, I would like to be at the Republican meeting today. Anyway I may get home by the time politics gets at boiling heat. Let me say to the old maids and widows of our party to shuffle around and get a lot of votes for our party. As I lost my good Christian wife 12 months ago you may think I am advertising for another good woman. Any way, if I should gain the confidence of another I hope she will be a Christian woman. God bless the influence of the Christian mothers and fathers of this land. Yours for a bright future.—C. T. Walker.

KIWANIS PLAY AT HIGH SCHOOL FRIDAY NIGHT

"Cicero Steps Out," Popular Play To Be Given; Fine Entertainment Promised

Starring a collection of the most outstanding amateur talent in this section "Cicero Steps Out," a hilarious musical comedy, will be presented at the Chilton County High School auditorium next Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock under the auspices of the Clanton Kiwanis Club.

With Miss Ruth Kennedy, of Atlanta, Ga., recognized as an outstanding theatrical coach, supervising the production, it is expected to be one of the most enjoyable presentations ever staged by a local cast, according to those who have seen rehearsals.

"Regardless of the type of entertainment you prefer, 'Cicero Steps Out' will strike a new note and bring an entirely different attitude toward amateur theatrical performances." Miss Kennedy declared in commenting on the play. It is not just another "home talent play," she declared, but is packed with amusing situations, moving with thrilling speed from the start to the moment the final curtain falls.

The following is the cast of characters:

Simpson—a supposed Butler—Jno. Thomas Marlar.

Miss McWhiffle—Dean of Women—Miss Irene Smitherman.

Polly—a popular student—Miss Jane Pitts.

Ruth—Polly's roommate—Miss Mary Robinson.

DeBohunkus—head of Hillendale Seminary—Dr. Jesse Sam Gowan.

Mrs. Botunkus—by far the better half—Miss Potsy Polk.

Chas. G. Smith—Prof. by proxy—Ed Glasscock.

Cicero Socrates Smith—a janitor by necessity—L. D. Easterling.

Dora—a lisping student—Julia Ruth Hester.

Peter—engaged to Dora—Geo. Parr.

Chorus girls—Billy Johnson, Myrtle Pitts, Lillian Smith, Elizabeth Hogan, Deenie Hollis, Eugenia Newton, Thelma White, Helen Newell, Theda Wyatt, Gertiwyl Vinson, Celia Gerald, Nell Rockett, Olive Rainer Elmore and Nell Ross Mullins.

BOARD OF REGISTRARS IN SESSION HERE SOON

In another place in this paper is a notice from the Chilton County Board of Registrars stating that they will be in session at the courthouse in Clanton Monday, January 27th and for ten days following. All those who are eligible to register and have not already registered should not fail to take advantage of this opportunity. This may be your last chance before the elections that come off this year.

We especially urge the Republicans of the county to round up those about you who should register. This is a matter that should not be overlooked. And also the payment of poll taxes should be looked after too. February 1st is the last day on which these can be paid.

ONE FINED IN MAYOR'S COURT

When city court was called last Monday morning, only one case was on the docket. This was for public drunkenness, and a fine was imposed.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY TO PAY DIVIDENDS ON STOCK

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 13.—The Board of Directors of Alabama Power Company today declared the regular quarterly dividends on its $5 preferred stock, payable February 1, 1936, to stockholders of record January 20, 1936.

PLANTERSVILLE MAN KILLED IN CAR CRASH

Elmer Reynolds, 26, was instantly killed near here early last Sunday night when the gravel truck in which he was riding skidded in a muddy road and threw him from his seat.

Cecil Wilson, driver, told Coroner Andrew Brislin, of Dallas County that Reynolds was lighting a cigaret when the truck skidded. Brislin held Reynolds, death was accidental and no charges were brought.

Mrs. Delia Traywick of Clanton Rte. 1, spent the week end in Lanette, Ala., visiting her daughter, Mrs. W. B. Foster.

Spirited Republican Meeting Held At Courthouse Saturday

Hon. C. O. Vardaman Spoke To Packed House; Hundreds Braved Inclement Weather To Hear New Deal Tactics Flayed

The courthouse was jammed last Saturday morning for the Republican rally, although the weather looked very threatening. Large crowds were assembled outside the courthouse and listened to the speaking, which was broadcast over large amplifiers. There were between one and two thousand people who heard the New Deal taken up piece by piece and its many autocratic and socialistic features fully explained. The speakers were often interrupted by enthusiastic cheers from the large audience, which literally drank in the eloquent discussion of the political issues now before the American people.

A large number of young voters were noticed in the audience, which shows that they are taking an interest in our political affairs too. This is encouraging. The Republican party of Chilton county is interested in the young voters of the county, and every effort is going to be put forth to show them that we are interested in them. It was indeed encouraging to see the large number of them at the speaking last Saturday morning.

As per the call issued last week, the Republican county executive committee was called into session at the beginning by the chairman, Mr. J. N. Dennis. The roll of the various delegates was called by the secretary, Mr. J. Z. Mims. The committee voted favorably upon the question of holding a primary election for the choosing of its candidates to run in the elections of 1936; another meeting of the committee was called for February 1, at 10 o'clock, to attend to matters relative to the coming campaign and for the election of various delegates.

Mr. Dennis called upon Col. J. O. Middleton to take charge of the meeting and act as chairman for the remainder of the activities. Mr. Middleton responded with a few choice and very fitting remarks. The house was brought down with loud applause when Mr. Middleton made the statement that "The Republican party of Chilton county will never take another licking lying down but that it would make itself a militant, fighting organization." Col. Middleton introduced Judge W. L. Longshore, of Birmingham, formerly of Shelby county, who spoke for a few minutes regarding the Constitution of the United States and the Supreme Court. These two American institutions were pointed to by Judge Longshore as being the only things we have left of the genuine American spirit and liberty for which our forefathers fought, bled and died, but that this spirit would be lived over anew after a Republican was elected as president in November, 1936.

Mr. Middleton then introduced the principal speaker of the day, Hon C. O. Vardaman, of Birmingham. The latter took charge of the "mike" and for an hour held the crowd spellbound with one of the greatest Republican speeches the people of Chilton county have listened to lately. The almost incessant cheers the listeners gave the speaker showed plainly that the good old-time Republican spirit still lives in the hearts of the people of our county. Mr. Vardaman took up the Socialistic-Democratic New Deal, which he termed as not a square deal but a raw deal, and the way he showed up the defects and inconsistencies of the present administration was very interesting and profoundly enlightening. And the large crowd liked it immensely, as was manifested by the applause given the speaker. The entire speech was interspersed with humorous anecdotes, now and then, which lent considerable variety and interest to it. All in all, it was a wonderful speech, as was the meeting in general. Everybody went away feeling fine, because another thorough good, old-time Republican love feast had been enjoyed by everybody to the fullest extent.

At the close of Mr. Vardaman's speech, a resolution was offered to the meeting, which was read by the chairman and adopted by the body. The resolution follows:

Be it resolved, that we do hereby reaffirm our faith in the Constitution and Courts of the United States of America, which for one hundred and forty-five years have protected

PATIENCE URGED WHILE ROADS ARE REPAIRED

The torrential rains of the past few weeks, and especially of the past week end have played havoc with Chilton County's roads. Ugly gullies now show where but a few weeks ago smooth gravel stretches of road were to be seen. Numerous small bridges and fills are gone. To put these roads back in condition will cost thousands of dollars, and much hard work will have to be done.

All this work will take much time. We have learned long ago that makeshift methods in roadbuilding are worse than useless. As the work is taken up in the different sections of the county, an attempt will be made by all commissioners and overseers to see that substantial fills and bridges are built where there are washouts.

The people of the county are urged to be patient with the road crews until they can have time to get to the many different jobs. Give the fellows a little time. They will be thankful, and will be able to give you better roads, too. Then you will be thankful.

NEW CITY SCHOOL SYSTEM STUDIED

City Council Is Studying Plans For a City School System

At a special meeting of the city council last Tuesday night, the question of creating a city school system was advanced. By this, the schools of the City of Clanton would become a separate school unit within itself, instead of being a part of the county school system, as it now stands.

Supt. Luther Little attended the meeting, and gave figures on what the city could expect from the state and county as its share of the total money coming to Chilton county.

Under such a plan the city would receive all school taxes on all property assessed within the city limits. On the present plan, the whole county school system is run on a per capita cost plan, each white child in the county getting the same amount of money allotted for education. The city fathers were considering whether or not by a city system, they could take the revenue from school taxes on city property and run a longer term than they can now do by the county plan.

Supt. Little explained that his department was interested in getting all money possible for the schools of the county, but equally as anxious that each child, whether urban or rural, should get an equal amount.

After much discussion, members of the council decided to pass the matter for the present, until they could make further investigation of all matters pertaining to the change. After such investigation, further action will be taken on the project.

SORE THROAT EPIDEMIC

Dr. J. M. Kimmey announces that there is an epidemic of sore throats in and around Clanton, and asks that everyone cooperate with the county health department in stopping it.

Tuesday afternoon Dr. Kimmey was making investigation at all soda founts and public drinking fountains in the city. He states that much can be accomplished if people with sore throats will refrain from coughing or sneezing into the air in closed rooms, etc., but rather to cough or sneeze into a handkerchief. Besides the discomfort, Dr. Kimmey states that sore throats may easily run into much worse ailments.

LIGHTNING STRUCK HOME OF J. W. KELLEY SATURDAY

Last Saturday morning about 6:15 o'clock lightning struck the home of J. W. Kelley of Highland community. The family consisting of about six were seated at the breakfast table. Lightning seemed to come through a window and struck the eating table around which they were all seated. Mr. Kelley reports that the bolt apparently lifted the table from the floor and gave the dishes a severe shaking. No member of the family was hurt, except some were quite severely shocked.

Upon further investigation of the premises, however, Mr. Kelley found that his mule had been killed. No sign could be seen about the barn, and no sign about the house was in evidence except a cracked window pane.

BAPTIST SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS HAD SPLENDID SESSION HERE LAST WEEK

Clanton was host last week to some three hundred Baptist Sunday school workers from the southern portion of Alabama. They were in session here for three days—Wednesday, Thursday and Friday—at Clanton Baptist church.

Those attending report that it was one of the best sessions ever held,and Clanton received praise as being a very gracious host to those in attendance.

COUNTY SCHOOLS TO CLOSE FEB. 14

No Hope Is Held For Any Further Help From State

According to official announcement given out by Luther Little, County Superintendent of Education, all the schools of Chilton County will close February 14th. This is the approximate date; the official closing date will be given out when the County Board meets on Friday, January 31st.

The State budget plan for schools classes them as a "non-essential" part of the state's departments, and the school allotment is thus cut far short of the usual figure.

Failure of the state department to make any provision for the further maintenance of schools is given as the reason for closing.

Supt. Little stated that at least two-thirds of the schools of Alabama will be closed by the last of February, only a few running further, due to later starting dates.

Not much hope is held out that anything will be done to keep the schools going, although something might be figured out by that date. So far no plans have been made for keeping certain schools running by private subscription, but this may be worked out in case nothing is done in the way of state aid.

WILLIE MAUD KELLEY WON ROCKER AT TIFFIN'S

Miss Willie Maud Kelley, of DeMabel's Beauty Salon, was awarded the rocker given away last Saturday by Tiffin Furniture Company.

The Tiffin Furniture Company will give away a rocker every other Satuhday until further notice. Call by the Tiffin store and ask for particulars. The plan will be explained in full.

NEGRO SINGERS TO SING AT C. C. H. S. NEXT FRIDAY

The Owens Singers, negro musical group from Elizabeth City, N. C., will sing at the Chilton County High School at the chapel service Friday morning, January 24th, at 10:15.

These singers are singing all the week at the colored Methodist church of Clanton, which is carrying on a series of revival meetings, conducted by Rev. Geo. F. Owens, negro evangelist of Elizabeth City.

SHELBY COUNTY SINGING CONVENTION MARCH 22nd

The Shelby County Singing Convention will meet on the fourth Sunday in March, (March 22) at the High School auditorium, Calera, beginning at 9:30 a.m. The Stamps Quartet of Dallas, Texas will be present. Every one is invited to attend.

MUSICAL CONCERT AT MONTGOMERY FRIDAY

Prof. W. M. Devaughn announces a concert for Friday night of this week at the Madison Avenue Baptist church, Montgomery, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. The program will last for about one and one-half hours. This is a mid-term concert for the Higgins-Whitt-Devaughn singing school. There will be an admission of 10c and 20c charged. Prof. Devaughn says that this bids fair to be a real A-No. 1 program, consisting of varied numbers.

Prof. Devaughn says that they are still figuring on having a night school at Clanton soon. Watch the papers for further announcements.

HELP TO MAKE HIGHWAY SAFE

The state law enforcement department now has several motor cops on the highways in an effort to stem the high tide of auto accidents which have been the record for the past several years.

The two located in Chilton county are officers Henley and Waites. Both are gentlemen who want to be accommodating and help you to observe rules and regulations pertaining to highway traffic. If they stop you, it does not necessarily mean that you are "pinched". Drivers are stopped for examination of drivers licenses, sometimes to allow the officers to explain some rule or regulation that some drivers are not aware of, or for other reasons.

The patrolmen are not stationed here to arrest people, necessarily, but rather to help make highway travel safe for all. Of course, if one persists in breaking the rules of safe travel, he may find himself signing a bond.

The law sets the maximum speeds for passenger cars at 45 miles per hour, and for trucks at 35 miles per hour. The patrolmen are anxious to have all motorists cooperate with them in making Chilton county's part of the state highway safe for travel.

CARD OF THANKS

During our recent bereavement caused by the illness and death of our daughter, Vivian Best, our neighbors and friends were very kind to us. Words fail us to express our gratitude for all the sympathy and acts of kindness extended us, and we only can say that we appreciate everything that our friends and neighbors did. Esecially do we thank Dr. J. P. Hayes, our pastor, Rev. J. S. Holland, and Mr. J. Mell Martin, the undertaker.

May the choicest blessings of our Lord rest with you all, is our most earnest prayer.—J. V. Best, Family.

The Man Who Knows

Whether the Remedy You are taking for Headaches, Neuralgia or Rheumatism Pains is SAFE is Your Doctor. Ask Him

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it — in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains . . . and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store — simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

LUCY ELIZABETH McLEAN

On Monday morning, January 13th, at 12:15 o'clock, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. McLean, of Adams, and bore away the spirit of their baby daughter, Lucy Elizabeth McLean. Little Lucy lived to be two years and eight months old. She was the sunshine of their home, and loved by all who knew her.

Lucy leaves to mourn her passing, her devoted parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. McLean; eight brothers, four sisters and a host of relatives and friends.

She was laid to rest in Pilgrims Rest cemetery on January 14th, at one o'clock. Little Lucy is gone but not forgotten. The voice we loved is still. The patter of her little feet have ceased. Her spirit lives on in that land of hapiness. So, weep not, dear ones, but prepare to meet her in the sweet bye and bye.—Written by her cousin, Bessie Williams.

BOB JONES

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

There is a conspiracy to rob American young people of their faith in the traditions of their country, their loyalty to the Bible and to old time authoritative religion. For the last few years this conspiracy has been working in schools, colleges, and universities of this nation. College professors have raised questions in the minds of their students about our form of government and about the religion of our fathers. We should bear in mind that the "capital system" against which you hear such a tirade was operating in the days of Jesus. He did not denounce this system. He condemned the individuals who under the capital system were not doing their duty. He never once condemned the system. Jesus did not come to destroy the law, but to fulfill it. The law says "Thou shalt not covet anything that belongs to thy neighbor." Jesus did not tell the poor man to take away his neighbor's property. Jesus exhorts the man who is prosperous and who is strong to bear the infirmities of the weak. His appeal always is to the individual whether the individual be rich or poor. The "socialistic gospel" which modern men are preaching is not the gospel which Jesus Christ preached. You can not save men in mass. You must save them as individuals.

Young people in their conventions under the stimulating oratory of modernistic dreamers talk about building a new world. They say the present world in which we are living is not right. This we all have to admit. Suppose I am living in a house which is not in the best of conditions. The roof leaks and there are cracks in the floor, and there are many defects about which I could complain. So, because I do not like the defects, I decide to build a new house. I go out and build a house with no leaks in the roof, and no cracks in the floor. The house is complete. It looks lovely, but the foundation is not good. The storm comes and the new house falls and the old house with its defects still stands. In our house of government there are leaks in the roof and cracks in the floor, but there is some mighty good timber in the old house. It has weathered many storms. It is built on a pretty good foundation. I recommend that we patch the roof and fix the floor and let the old house stand.

IN MEMORY OF LITTLE GENE GLASS

On January 16 God saw fit to call our little darling away. Little Gene was sick only a short while. All that loving hands could do was done, but God's will must be done in all things.

We want to thank our friends and doctors for the kindness shown during sickness and death. Dr. Ballad and Dr. Franklin were faithful until the end. We appreciate their kindness and favors.

Little Gene was 22 months old. He was laid to rest at Oak Grove, on January 17, at 11:00 o'clock. Rev. Green of Jemison preached the funeral. We thank Mr. W. J. Northcutt for singing. The pallbearers were: Lonnie and Lester Northcutt, Ernest Coffer and Sam Collins.

Little Gene leaves to mourn his loss his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Glass, his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Edwards and Mr. and Mrs. Jap N. Glass, and a host of relatives and friends.—Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Glass,

Oratorical Contest

There is already much interest manifested in this county in the oratorical Contest on James Madison. The schools which have enrolled up to this time include Chilton County High School, of Which Mr. L. C. Warr, is principal. The contest will be directed in this school by Mr. Warr or an instructor appointed by him; Maplesville High School, Maplesville, Ala.; Jemison High School, Jemison Ala.; Thorsby Institute, Thorsby, Ala.

This contest is conducted with high schools, junior or senior, public or private, accredited or unaccredited, as well as with grammer and consolidated schools doing some high school work. It is the school which enrolls in the contest, and not the pupils. Enrollment is by the principal or an instructor in the school, and after the school is enrolled as many pupils as desire may participate. To be eligible a pupil must be under 19, February 1, 1936. This means that the pupil must have been born subsequently to February 1, 1917.

School eliminations will be held in all participating schools on or before Friday, February 28, county contests between competing schools on or before Friday, March 13, and congressional district contests, except those for Jefferson County, the ninth district, will be held within the dates March 30 to April 11, inclusive.

Orations must be original, must be memorized and must not require more than six minutes for delivery. A contest bulletin, giving all rules for conducting contests, is furnished all enrolled school. Final date for entry is February 22, but entries should be made much earlier than that, account of the necessary preparatory work. Each congressional district champion will compete in the state finals to be held at Birmingham, April 24. First prize at the state finals will be $100; second $50; third $25; and the six remaining state finalists will each receive $10. The winner of first place will be, of course, champion of Alabama. Hotel bills and railroad fare for each state finalist and chaperon will be paid by the sponsors of the contest, and entertainment programs will be arranged for the occasion.

The contest is sponsored by The Birmingham News-Age-Herald. Artemus Calloway is Oratorical Contest Editor for The News-Age-Herald and all communications regardng the contest should be addressed to him.

ENDORSES SPEAKING AT COURTHOUSE LAST SATURDAY

Editor Union-Banner:

I have been thinking what a fine speech was made at the courthouse last Saturday. Although the weather was bad, we had a very large crowd out to hear the speaking. We heard some fine talks and the facts brought to our faces.

Our friend spoke on the way the money was being used. I have been thinking about the roads, for instance. The money was given for roads when some of it could have been taken to give our children an education, as the schools will soon have to close if some money is not gotten some way. The government is talking of having to put some kind of a tax on the poor old farmer to get money to run the schools. If the government was as interested in all the farmers as it is in the relief farmer, we would all have a better chance to make a living. When one of the relief farmers cannot meet his bills he is set free and want to say I like very much the stand allowed more for his next crop. I the Probate Judge and the Commissioners have taken about spending the county's money. They have been elected by the people and it seems to please them that they will be remembered. Will all the people in beat 12 please remember these things when you go to the polls to vote next time. —Yours truly, P. M. Martin.

THE F. E. AND C. U. OF A. MET SATURDAY, JAN. 18th

The F. E. and C. U. of A. of Chilton county, Alabama, in a general convention, this the 28th day of January, 1936, do pass the following resolutions:

Resolution No. 1

Whereas, relief from mortgage debts and interest burdens are primary needs of the farmer, and

Whereas the present price of farm commodities are far below cost of production, and

Whereas, gambling on farm commodities by cotton exchanges, boards of trade and other speculators, serve to hold the price of farm products down, and

Whereas, thousands of farm mortgages have been foreclosed and farmers driven from their homes, and

Whereas, thousands of farmers are being taxed above their ability to pay.

Therefore, be it resolved: That we urge our representatives in Washington, D. C., Senator John H. Bankhead and Congressman W. B. Oliver, to support our farmer's union program by enacting into law the following legislation:

First: The passage of the "Frazier Lemke Refinancing Bill" to enable farmers to refinance their farms with money at a low rate of interest and the principle to be carried over a long period of years.

Second: That the government guarantee the farmers cost of production plus a small profit as they do the railroads and other enterprises.

Third: That Congress pass an act to prohibit gambling, speculating and extortion profits on all necessities of life, thereby enabling producers and consumers to buy and sell these commodities based on cost of production, cost of manufacturing and cost of distribution.

Fourth: That Congress enact into law "The Farm Moratorium Act" to enable farmers to save their homes from mortgage foreclosures.

Fifth: That Congress assess and collect taxes according to ability to pay.

Resolution No. 2

Whereas, the Governor of Alabama is arranging for a special session of the Legislature, and

Whereas, the proposed Sales Tax to be brought up at this special session is a tax on the people least able to pay, and

Whereas, this tax, if enacted, will reduce the purchasing power of the masses of Alabama, and

Whereas, many people in Alabama are already below a subsistant level, and

Whereas, many people in Alabama are on relief rolls and are being fed and clothed with tax money, and if said sales tax is enacted and collected, the taxpayers of Alabama will be paying a compound tax, and

Whereas, the Hon. Bibb Graves, Governor of Alabama, in his pre-election campaign speech at the courthouse in Chilton county, Alabama, pledged his support against the Consumers' Sales Tax, and said "If a sales tax is placed on the statute books of Alabama the people will do it." Therefore, be it resolved

First: That the Hon. Bibb Graves, Govenor of Alabama, preserve his honor by living up to his campaign pledges.

Second: That he use his influence and veto power to prevent the levying of this tax upon a people who are unable to secure a decent living, and also prevent a further decrease in the buying power of the masses.

Be it further resolved: That the F. E. and C. U. of A. feels that education is an essential function as well as a direct obligation of the State, and that our school should not be permitted to close at a half term. We feel that money should be made available with which to run our schools through economy and not by additional taxes.

Resolution No. 3

Whereas, our State Senator, Hon. Earl Thomas and State Representative, Hon. C. B. Cox, is to represent the taxpayers of Chilton county, Alabama in the coming session of the Legislature, and

Whereas, we feel that they should cast their votes according to the wishesof the majority of the people.

Whereas, we feel that a majority of the citizens of Chilton county, Alabama, are opposed to the consumers' sales tax: Therefore be it resolved, that the F. E. and C. U. of A. urge our representatives from this county to use their vote and influence against the proposed sales tax.

Be it further resolved: That if they favor the tax individually, they should give the voters of Chilton county a vote on this important question.

Resolution No. 4

Wheras, our officials derive their powers from the consent of the "governed", and

Whereas, many officials in legislative halls enact laws against the will of the "governed", and

Whereas, the electorate has within it's power to eliminate all such officials. Therefore be it resolved

First: That each elector inform himself on all issues of the day; the actions of all officials and the principles advocated by all candidates out for election and strive to eliminate all unworthy officials and candidates.

Be it further resolved: That we urge all voters to pay their poll tax on or before February 1st, as there are many important officials to elect this year.

Resolution No. 5

Whereas, the builders of this country (Thousands of grey-haired fathers and mothers) sacrificed their energy religiously and financially to make this a great nation, and

Whereas, thousands of the "old-aged" are in dire need of food, clothing and medical treatment, and

Whereas, the neglect of this great obligation is a disgrace on the nation and a sin before God. Therefore be it resolved

First: That the Government take from the fields and factories the "old-aged" and pay them an adequate pension.

Second: That a new pension law be enacted or the old one amended to the extent that the paupers will be taken from the poor houses and all the old-aged provided for equally.

Be it further resolved: That we urge all officials in every phase of government to use their vote and influence for the passage of such pensions.

Be it further resolved that the secretary be authorized to send a copy of these resolutions to the following: United States Senator, John H. Bankhead; United States Congressman, W. B. Oliver; Governor of Alabama, Bibb Graves; State Senator, Earl Thomas; State Representative, C. B. Cox; National Union Farmer; The Union-Banner; and The Chilton County News.

Be it further resolved that we urge all farmers to join the "Farmers Union" and help us in our efforts to secure equity, establish justice and apply the "Golden Rule".

FARM ALMANAC AND FACTS BOOK WILL BE DISTRIBUTED TO FARMS

Publication of a "Farm Almanac and Fatcs Book" which will be distributed to the rural population in all parts of the country was announced today by the Ford Motor Company.

The book is of a convenient pocket size, containing 48 pages. It is unusual in makeup and content, presenting an extensive array of handy tables, statistics and charts for the assistance of the farmer and business man. Other sections are designed to aid the farm wife.

This first Ford Almanac is published for 1936 and is now being distributed. It carries a readily available calendar on the back cover and contains tables showing the time of rise and set of sun and moon in all parts of the country every day of the year. Other helpful and interesting astrological and astronomical information is included.

Among the other prominent sections of the book are: A list of memorable historic events for each day of the year, facts about the universe, explanations of physical phenomena, a list of important festivals and anniversaries for the year, rules for foretelling weather conditions, population statistics, facts and records on farming as an industry, discussion of the farm of the future, information on citizenship and naturalization, a brief review of the history and development of the United States, "do's and don'ts" for use in emergencies, poisons and their antidotes, instructions for flower and vegetable gardening, crop seed sowing instructions, a list of places of interest to the tourist, parcel post rules and regulations, temperature and rainfall chart, dates of killing frosts in all parts of the country, and a table of distances between the principal cities of the country.

Stories on the founding and development of the Ford Motor Company and about the Ford Rouge Plant, word pictures of famous Edison Institute Museum and quaint Greenfield Village, established within a few milse of the Rouge Plant, are other features of the Ford Farm Almanac.

Fewer Aches and Pains More Health and Pleasure

PAIN drags you down—physically, mentally, morally.

Why continue to endure it? Try Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills for Headache, Neuralgia, Muscular, Rheumatic, Sciatic, and Periodic Pains. They seldom fail.

Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills are pleasant to take and prompt to act. They do not upset the stomach, cause constipation or leave you with a dull, depressed feeling.

Ask your druggist or any of the hundreds of thousands enthusiastic users. Probably you too can find relief.

I think all Dr. Miles medicines are wonderful, but Anti-Pain Pills are my favorite.
Mrs. Doc Blankenship, Stamford, Texas

I have used your Anti-Pain Pills only a short time, but they have given me prompt relief. They did for me in a week more than any other medicine I had taken for a year. Phil Goller, Milwaukee, Wisconsin

I am never without Anti-Pain Pills. I think they are much better than anything else I have ever used. Sometimes when I am tired and nervous, and feel like I would go under, I take two Anti-Pain Pills and in a sort time I feel like a different person. Mrs. S. Tidabach, Stroudsburg, Pennsylvania

Your Anti-Pain Pills have been used in my home with wonderful results. I recommend them.
Maggie Belle Dudley, Vanceboro, N. C.

Your Anti-Pain Pills helped me a great deal. I have used them for years. I carry them everywhere in my purse and always keep them in the house. They have saved me a great many sick headaches.

MRS BOSHIA ROPER BURIED AT SAMARIA

On last Wednesday night, Jan. 15, the sweet spirit of Mrs. Boshia Roper, age 44 years, passed on to its reward.

She was a true Christian and God has called her home. She will be remembered by her friends in Clanton, as Miss Boshia McKee, having lived in and near Clanton until her marriage to H. Milton Roper in 1915.

A daughter of the late Bryant McKee, she is survived by her husband, three daughters, Augusta, Ovell and Lucille, and one son, Stanley; her mother, Mrs. Georgia McKee; sisters, Misses Mattie and Ila McKee, Mrs. J. M. Parrish, Mrs. E. Dennis, Mrs. E. B. Culp and Mrs. A. J. Devaughn; brothers, G. O., J. E., and E. M. McKee.

Funeral services were held at Samaria church Friday morning, Rev. Ellisor of Verbena, and Rev. W. S. Cox of Clanton officiating. Pallbearers were her six nephews, Herschel, Milton and Norton Dennis, James and Derrell Parrish and J. W. McKee.

Interment was in Samaria cemetery, with Griffin, of Prattville, in charge.

"Jesus can make a dying bed feel soft as downy pillows, while on his breasts I lean my head and breaths my life out sweetly."

VIVIAN L. BEST

Miss Vivian L. Best, age 36, died at her home about three miles west of Clanton, in the Baker school community, last Wednesday afternoon, January 15.

Funeral services were held at Liberty Hill church at 2:00 p.m., on Thursday, with Rev. J. S. Holland officiating, assisted by Rev. A. L. Foshee. Burial was in the cemetery there, with Martin in charge.

She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James V. Best of Clanton Route 6; and two sisters—Mrs. Buck Durbin, and Mrs. Wilton Frith.

Pallbearers were: Homer Smith, Woodrow Smith, Jack Jones, Milton Wilkey, Fonza Shaw, and Jesse Wright.

Special music was rendered by a quartet composed of: Wilbur Ward, Leonard Culp, Hiram Littlejohn, and Alphus Littlejohn; Miss Virginia Eubanks, accompanist.

THE DOCTORS ARE RIGHT

Women should take only liquid laxatives

Many believe any laxative they might take only makes constipation worse. And that isn't true.

Do what doctors do to relieve this condition. They use a liquid laxative, and keep reducing the dose until the bowels need no help at all.

Reduced dosage is the secret of aiding Nature in restoring regularity. You must use a little less laxative each time, and that's why your laxative should be in liquid form. A liquid dose can be regulated to the drop.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara — both natural laxatives that form no habit even with children. Syrup Pepsin is the nicest tasting, nicest acting laxative you ever tried.

BROWN-SERVICE FUNERAL COMPANY DEPOSITS

$100,000.00 WITH STATE TREASURER

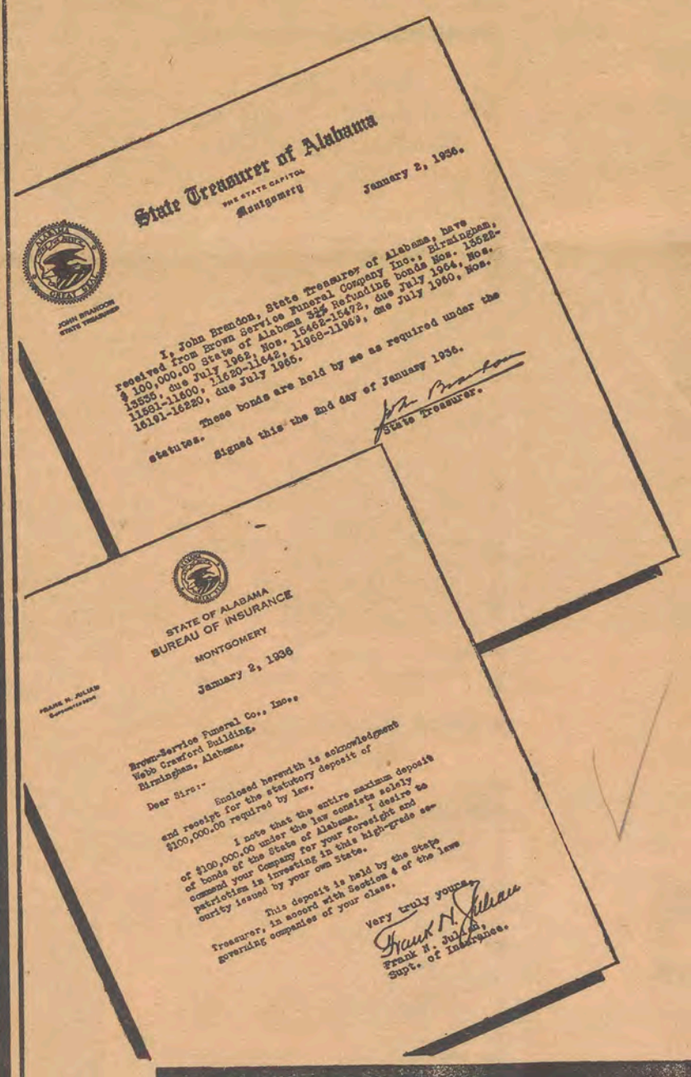
in Registered Bonds of the State of Alabama.

FIRST to Make Deposit for Policyholders' Protection!

"Brown-Service" Puts Up One Hundred Thousand Dollars ($100,000.00) Under State's New Burial Insurance Law to Further Protect "Brown-Service" Policyholders!

● A little over a year ago . . . when we published the advertisement "Stars Fell On Alabama," which is reproduced in miniature size below . . . Brown-Service Funeral Co. pledged its whole-hearted cooperation and support of any laws which might be passed by our Legislature which would further strengthen the Burial Insurance Companies and give EVEN MORE security and protection to the policyholders.

● Now . . . a year later . . . such a law meanwhile having been passed, which required from us a deposit with the State Treasurer in the sum of One Hundred Thousand Dollars ($100,000.00)—Brown-Service Funeral Co. again evinces its 100% cooperation by making this huge deposit, as is evidenced by the letter reproduced below from Hon. Frank N. Julian, Alabama Superintendent of Insurance, and by the receipt from the State Treasurer of the $100,000.00 deposited by us. This deposit was entirely in Registered Bonds of the State of Alabama. Thus Brown-Service Funeral Co. becomes the First Burial Insurance Company in Alabama to make the required deposit!



State Treasurer of Alabama
MONTGOMERY
January 2, 1936.

I, John Brandon, State Treasurer of Alabama, have received from Brown Service Funeral Company Inc., Birmingham, $100,000.00 State of Alabama 3½% Refunding bonds Nos. 13526-13550, due July 1962, Nos. 15462-15472, due July 1964, Nos. 11501-11600, due July 1965, Nos. 11620-11642, due July 1966, Nos. 16191-16220, due July 1966.

These bonds are held by me as required under the statutes.

Signed this the 2nd day of January 1936.

John Brandon
State Treasurer.

Birmingham, Alabama.

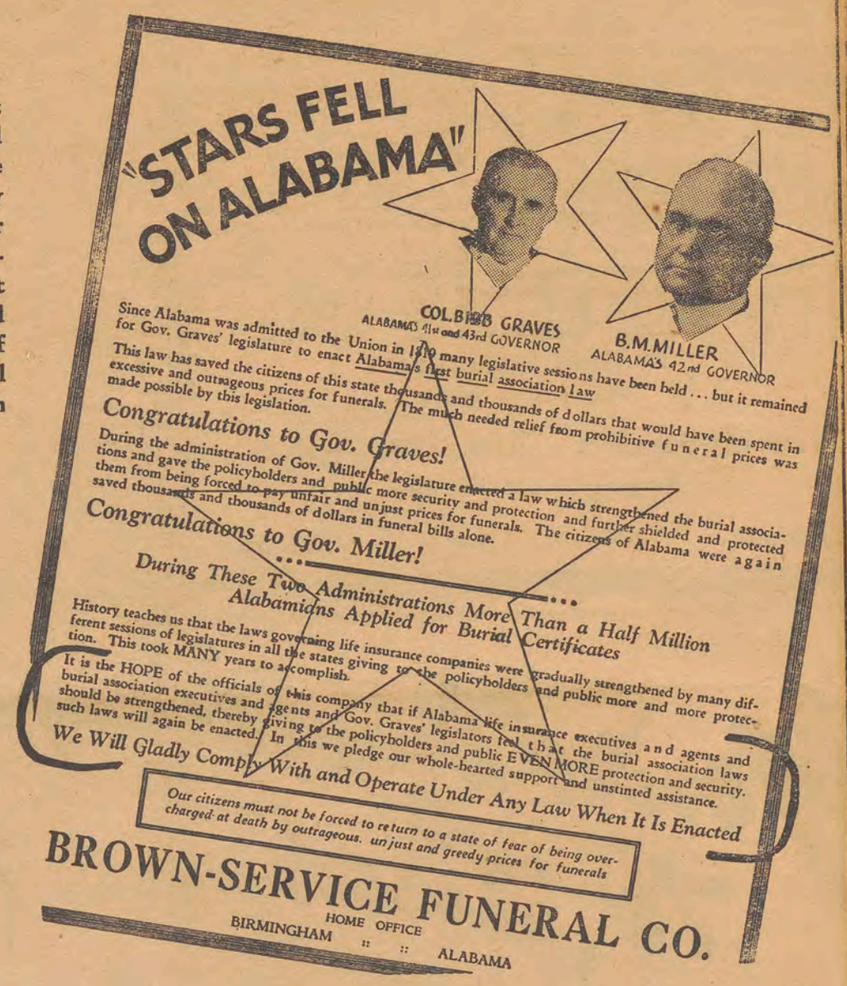
Dear Sirs:

Enclosed herewith is acknowledgment and receipt for the statutory deposit of $100,000.00 required by law.

I note that the entire maximum deposit of $100,000.00 under the law consists solely of bonds of the State of Alabama. I desire to commend your company for your foresight and patriotism in investing in this high-grade security issued by your own State.

This deposit is held by the State Treasurer, in accord with Section 4 of the Law governing companies of your class.

Very truly yours,
Frank N. Julian,
Supt. of Insurance.



● Incidentally: The deposit required from Brown-Service Funeral Co. (on account of the size of this Company) is exactly the same that is required to be deposited by even the largest of our Life Insurance Companies, $100,000.00!

● Brown-Service Funeral Co. always hastens to comply with all legal regulations and welcomes the opportunity now afforded to further safeguard the interests of its vast and ever-growing army of policyholders. Scattered all over Alabama, Brown-Service's 103 modern and thoroughly-equipped Funeral Homes, assure prompt and efficient servicing of every Brown-Service Funeral Contract.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

FARMERS ADVISED NOT TO MIX WHITE AND YELLOW CORN

Auburn, Ala.—"While the farmers of Alabama are contemplating what to plant this year, more attention should be paid to the varities of corn grown for sale," advises R. J. Goode, commissioner of agriculture, and Dr. M. F. Jackson, farm products agent of a leading industrial plant of Birmingham. "Growers should produce either white or yellow corn and not mix the colors," they state.

"The mills in Birmingham require graded corn of one variety, and cannot use mixed corn for conversion into grits, meal, or livestock feed. Corn that is to be converted into meal and grits must be white, free of weevils, and should not grade below No. 2.

"Corn for livestock and poultry feed should be a yellow variety.

"Thousands of bushels of corn," they continue, "are shipped into Birmingham each year from the West, due to the fact that the Birmingham mills are unable to procure their requirements of graded corn from Alabama.

"Therefore, if the farmers will exercise more care in selecting their seed corn, growing either yellow or white corn and not allowing the varieties to become mixed, they will realize a better price for their product."

For information on the best variety of corn to plant, farmers are advised to consult their county agents.

SIX ADVANTAGES OF LESPEDEZA EXPLAINED

Auburn, Ala.—Lespedeza has six distinct advantages as a legume and hay crop in Alabama.

"First of all, it is a good soil builder, often doubling yields of feed crops which follow," says J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, in advising farmers, particularly those in the Tennessee and Coosa Valleys, to increase their lespedeza plantings this year.

"Besides, it is a splendid hay crop, makes excellent pasturage, is very easy to grow, does not require inculation, and farmers may produce their supply of seed at home."

Though lespedeza's greatest value as a hay crop is limited largely to North Alabama, Mr. Lowery advises that it may be grown on practically all soils of the state. It should be sown by broadcasting in late February or early March. A satisfactory method is to sow it on young grain crops and cover slightly with a spike-tooth harrow to prevent drifting of the seed. Another method is to sow lespedeza broadcast on land which has been slightly disked or harrowed. No additional covering is needed.

Farmers planning to sow lespedeza should advise with their county agents as to the best varieties and fertilizers to use in their particular counties.

RED SQUILL SHOULD BE USED IN KILLING RATS

Auburn, Ala.—"Red squill is the most nearly fool-proof rat poison known to man," says Prof. J. M. Robinson, head of the entomology department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, in advising farmers to rid their farms of rats during the winter months.

An advantage of red squill is that it kills the rats but does not kill domestic animals or poultry. Another advantage is that it usually drives the rodents under ground to die, thereby preventing unpleasant odors. In addition, it acts slowly and does not scare off late-coming rats with the bodies of dead or dying rats near the bait.

Oven-cured red squill powder is better than the sun-cured type, he points out, in recommending that the poison be mixed with different ingredients to provide a variety of bait. A pound of poison to 15 pounds of hamburger meat makes a good bait; or a pound of poison may be mixed with 15 pounds of cheap canned salmon or mackerel and a pound of oatmeal. Another good bait can be made by mixing a pound of poison with 16 pounds of corn meal and enough water to make it crumbly.

Prof. Robinson advises that the bait be placed where animals cannot get to it and where the rats and mice are likely to run. Although red squill will not kill other animals it may cause them to vomit.

BEST COTTON CROP AND CORN FERTILIZERS ARE NAMED

Auburn, Ala.—Dean M. J. Funchess, director of the Alabama Experiment Station, has written all fertilizer dealers in Alabama urging them to cooperate with the Experiment Station in getting more farmers "to use the most economical grade of fertilizer" under their corn and cotton crops this year.

"We must learn to produce as cheaply as possible so as to be able to meet competition; and the proper use of fertilizers offers one of the most effective means of reducing the cost of production," he says.

After giving experimental facts showing that Alabama farmers need to "approximately double the nitrogen content of some of the fertilizers now sold," Dean Funchess recommends the use of 600 pounds of 6-8-4 under each acre of cotton. He gives the following example:

"Three and one-half acres of land fertilized with a ton of 3-8-5 (600 pounds per acre), according to our exeriments, would produce 3,250 pounds of cotton. On the other hand, 3½ acres fertilized with a ton of 6-8-4 fertilizer would produce 4,079 pounds of cotton. Subtracting the cost of the fertilizer in each case, we find that the value of the product from a ton of 3-8-5 would amount to $104.66, while the value of the product from a ton of 6-8-4 would be $133.53. Putting these results another way, they mean that the farmer who uses a ton of 6-8-4 is better off after paying the code price for the fertilizer than the farmer who uses a ton of 3-8-5 if this be given him free."

If lower grades of fertilizer than 6-8-4 are used, the cotton should be side-dressed with nitrate.

Epxeriments have shown that it will pay farmers to use only a side dressing of nitrogenous fertilizers under their corn and that this be applied 40 days after planting, he states.

C. C. H. S. BASKETEERS WIN 17 TO 18 OVER ISABELLA HIGH

The cagesters of C. C. H. S., in a heated contest with the boys of Isabella High School, won by the close margin of 18 to 17 last Friday night at the local gymnasium.

After leading the Isabella cagesters through three periods, by a comfortable margin, the Isabella boys showed courage and perseverance in a last minute effort to even or excell the count, but to no avail. The stellar preformance of Clive Aldridge, Carl McDowell and Charles Wilson was pleasing to the supporters of C. C. H. S. These boys, at their guard post, showed they were interested in the hardwood pastime and most of all, their school.

The offensive attack for the local boys featured George Moore and Windal Massey, while Isabella offense rested with Williams and Powell.

Local boys are showing improvement and will continue to improve with your support. Come out and see the boys in action.

The schedule for the remainder of the season is as follows:

January 24—Montevallo High school at Clanton.
January 31—Billingsley High school at Billingsley.
February 7—Verbena at Verbena.
February 12—Montevallo at Calera.
February 14—Billingsley at Clanton.

Wetumpka, Holtville and Jemison dates pending on matching schedules.

TREE PLANTING IN ANCIENT EGYPT

Montgomery.—Apropos of the tree planting now in progress in various parts of the State, the Alabama Commission of Forestry points out that the transplating of trees was a feature of ancients as well as modern forestry. While forestry appears to have been practiced as far back as 3500 B. C., the earliest recorded instance of operations involving the transplanting of trees from their place of origin to a foreign land is found in the account of an Egyptian expedition to the Land of Punt now known as Somaliland adjoining the present empire of Ethiopia, during the reign of Queen Hatasu of Eighth Dynasty.

The object of this expendition seems to have been to explore the lands from which incense was brought and the history of the enterprise is depicted on the walls of the Temple of Hathor at Deir-el-Dahari. It reads: "Laden was the cargo to the uttermost with all the wonderful products of the Land of Punt, and with the different nut woods of the Divine Land and with heaps of the resin of incense, with fresh incense trees, with ebony," and so on. It is said that thirty-one incense trees, packed in tubs, were carried on board the ships, and that it took six men to carry each tub. A later inscription, dated about 1200 B. C., quotes Rameses III of the Twentieth Dynasty: "I have planted trees and shrubs to the end that the people should sit under their shade."

STATE GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 21.—Noting increased interest in Alabama in wildlife conservation, Commissioner I. T. Quinn of the State Conservation Department has appealed to the hunters and fishermen to make 1936 a banner year for cooperative effort.

"More citizens of Alabama today are actually interested in helping the Department of Conservation in the development of a constructive wildlife program than ever before," said the commissioner.

"They are aiding individualy and collectively, many of them, in game and fish protection and building up the game resources of their respective communities by planting fish in suitable public waters and planting food and establishing cover for game.

But their number, as compared with the vast army of hunters and fishermen, is small. I fear that the great majority of those who enjoy sports afield with rod and gun believe that the only responsibility they have is to contribute a little revenue to the state's official organization by buying hunting license and less than 50 per cent of the hunters do this."

Mr. Kelly Gentry of Montgomery was in Clanton last Saturday. Mr. Gentry is a former Chilton county man, a son of the late Jack Gentry of Cane Creek, and a Republican. We are always glad to have Mr. Gentry visit his old home county.

IN LOVING MEMORY

In loving memory of little James Williard Gore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Gore, who departed from this world of heartaches and sorrows on January 7, 1936. We loved him, yes we loved him, but Jesus loved him more and He has sweetly called him to yonder shining shore. The golden gates were open, a gentle voice said come, and with farewells unspoken, he calmly entered home.—Written by his aunts, Josephine and Naomi Heflin.

SHE might HAVE BEEN A GREAT WRITER....

EVEN before she learned to read, little Jane "play read" to her playthings. She "wrote" them letters, and stories, and books. She was going to be a great writer, she told everyone, and—why not? As the years slipped by, little Jane became big Jane. She studied. And wrote. And studied. Then one day the skies fell around her. Eye-strain, headaches, a nervous breakdown . . .
True, Jane is still writing—shopping lists, postal cards, now and then a letter. But no reader has even seen a story bearing her name.
How easily the entire course of Jane's life might have been altered by ample lighting for studying and reading! Eye-strain would have had little chance to undermine her nervous system.

JESUS DECLARES HIS PURPOSE

LESSON TEXT—Luke 4:16-30.

GOLDEN TEXT—The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he hath anointed me to preach the gospel to the poor; he hath sent me to heal the broken-hearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bruised, to preach the acceptable year of the Lord.—Luke 4:18, 19.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Preaches to His Home Folks.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus' First Sermon

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Choosing a Life Purpose.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What Jesus Came to Do.

I. Jesus in the Synagogue (v. 16).

On the Sabbath he went into the Synagogue according to his custom. He no doubt went that day with a new and definite purpose, but how refreshing to know that it was according to his habit. Many young people have been safeguarded from the pitfalls of the world because of the habit of reading the Bible, praying and going to church.

II. Jesus Reading the Scriptures (vv. 17-19).

1. The book handed to him (v. 17). It was not only his custom to attend the place of worship, but to take part in it. This privilege was not confined to the rabbis (Acts 13:15). Jesus, therefore, used the liberty accorded him.

2. The passage read (Isa. 61:1,2). It is not entirely clear as to whether this was, providentially, the Scripture reading for the day, or whether it was specifically chosen by him for that occasion.

3. The content of the passage (vv. 18, 19).

a. The mission of the Messiah (v. 18).

(1) To preach the gospel to the poor. The good tidings which Jesus proclaimed are peculiarly welcome to the common people. By "poor" in this case is primarily meant those who were poor in spirit (Matt. 5:3).

(2) To heal the broken-hearted. The gospel of Christ meets the needs of those whose hearts are crushed by the weight of their own sins or by a burden of sorrow and disappointment.

(3) To preach deliverance to the captives. This meant deliverance from the bondage of the Devil (John 8:36).

(4) Recovering of sight to the blind. Christ did actually make those who were physically blind to see (John 9:6, 7) and also opened the eyes of those who were spiritually blind (I John 5:20).

(5) To set at liberty them that are bruised. The power of Christ can free the most utterly hopeless ones.

(6) To preach the acceptable year of the Lord. The primary allusion is to the year of jubilee (Lev. 25:8-10).

b. The special enduement of the Messiah (v. 18). He was the anointed one predicted by Isaiah, the Messiah.

III. Jesus Expounding the Scriptures (vv. 20, 21).

1. He closed the book and sat down. It seems to have been the custom of the Jewish teachers to sit while teaching.

2. "This day is this scripture fulfilled." This statement is no doubt but the gist of what he said. He thus declared that he was the Messiah.

IV. Jesus' Reception by the People (vv. 22-30).

The critical hour had come. The people were amazed. They admitted his gracious words but were unable to admit his claims. His reception was characterized by

1. Ignorant prejudice (v. 22). They said, "Is not this Joseph's son?" as if to say, "This is our fellow townsmen with whom we have been acquainted for years. Surely, he cannot be the Messiah."

2. Unbelief as to his supernatural power (v. 23). They challenged him to exhibit examples of divine power.

3. Personal jealousy (v. 24). Jealousy often prevents us from seeing the essential worth of men in our midst.

Jesus adduced two outstanding examples of the willingness of foreigners to believe God.

a. Elijah was sent to a widow at Serepta (vv. 25, 26). Many widows of Israel were passed by, doubtless because they would not have received the prophet.

b. Naaman, the foreigner, of the many lepers, was the one cleansed. (v. 27).

4. Violent hatred (vv. 28-30). This comparison of the Jews with foreigners so offended their pride that they tried to kill him. He showed them that just as Elijah had brought blessing to one who lived in Sidon, and Elisha to one in Syria, while the people of Israel went on suffering, even so the Gentiles would receive the blessing of his saving power, while they, the chosen nation, would suffer in unbelief.

Pity

Pity and forbearance, and long-sufferance, and passing the gentlest sentence, are as certainly our duty, and owing to every person that does offend and can repent, as calling to account can be owing to the law; and he that does not so is an unjust person.—Jeremy Taylor.

Hurt by Little Things

Little minds are too much hurt by little things. Great minds perceive them all, and consequently are not touched by them.

Messrs. J. E. Easterling and John D. Armstrong went quail hunting Tuesday.

THE SUPREME COURT AND CONSTITUTION BULWARK OF THE AMERICAN GOVERNMENT

[AN EDITORIAL]

Since the recent decision of the Supreme Court of the United States declared the second mainstay of the New Deal unconstitutional, much attention has been directed toward that great tribunal as well as its nearest kin, the great Constitution of the United States.

Some have even tried to ring in politics into the Court's decision, which is nothing short of the deepest ingratitude. The Supreme Court is composed of the ripest, most deliberate, most unbiased and most non-partisan minds in this great country of ours. It was provided in the beginning of our governmental structure to serve the identical purpose which it has served during the past year, and past years.

It is composed of members from both great political parties, and is as nearly equally divided as is physically possible for it to be—four to five. And to those who seem to want the AAA decision to appear political, we will point out that the four Democrats on the Justice Bench were exactly equally divided on the decision. Two Democrats, Messrs. Brandice and Cordozo, voted in favor of the New Deal and the other two Democrats, Messrs. McReynolds and Butler, voted against the AAA. Four Republicans voted to kill the AAA—Messrs. Hughes, Roberts, Southerland and Devanderveten; and one Republican, Mr. Stone, voted in favor of the New Deal.

In the first place, it is preposterous to charge these great men with being biased politically; but if politics is considered, it will readily we seen that the lines of both parties were deserted by the Justices. The Union-Banner believes that these gentlemen were guided only by their patriotic duty in rndering this decision. They are entirely too great a set of men to base a decision of so great moment on political prejudice, and they should not be charged with such mal-practice.

And another thing, they were not passing on the desirability of the AAA, but strictly upon its constitutionality. It is their job to determine if a measure meets the criterion set out by the greatest of all human documents—the Constitution of the United States, and in this case the Court found that the central federal government was vesting itself with more authority over the people than it was supposed to. It holds check upon the government to keep it from exceeding its authority. In short it is a silent guardian of the liberties of our people and a preserver of our great Union. The part it has played in maintaining national supremacy within the limits of the Constitution, in upholding the doctrine of international law and the sancity of treaties and in affecting the trend of our economic, social and political development cannot be overestimated. We can rely upon the Supreme Court to maintain supremacy of the law over the arbitrary exercise of governmental power. It has lent powerful aid in uniting this great nation together in the bonds of law and justice. The destruction of the NRA and the AAA are two outstanding examples of inestimable service of the great tribunal to the people of the United States.

Compared with the present Congress of the United States—or rather contrasted—Congress might justly be termed a collection of timid white rabbits with no courage and no more back-bone than a jelly fish, untouched by the present-day attacks upon America and American institutions by autocracy and other foreign and alien influences. Congress is afraid to exert the power which it has under our government, but has supinely submitted to turning it all over to Dictator Roosevelt to be usurped just as his "Master Mind" may direct. The Supreme Court is composed of big souls, unafraid and awake to the interests of their constituents. It is fearless; it has courage; it is serving the American people. It is SAVING THE NATION.

Thorsby Institute News

The Helen Keller Literary Society program was postponed from Saturday night to Monday afternoon on account of the bad weather. It is very rarely the Society has postponed a meeting, but it seemed best to do so.

Two weeks from Saturday at 3:00 p.m. in the auditorium, Miss Foss's music pupils will be presented in a recital. Everyone is invited.

Monday night three members of the faculty, Miss Leech, Miss Ford and Miss Mattingly, entertained at the dining hall for the rest of the faculty and wives of the two men teachers and invited guests. Various contests were participated in and much enjoyed. Delicious cake and sherbet were served.

Next Monday the second semester will begin. Any one missing to enroll should register at once with Mr. H. R. Maddox, Registrar, and pay the registration fee of one dollar. Since Thorsby Institute started in 1906 it has never failed to run nine months, which has been a special advantage to those attending regularly.

We appreciate very much various canned fruits, vegetables, etc., that have been recently given to the boarding department by Mrs. Bob Davenport, and Mrs. N. Laurell.

Miss Onita Klingelhoefer, with Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Polk of Clanton, and daughter, Mae Annice, of Thorsby Institute, spent Saturday in Birmingham. They went to see the Holy Land exhibit.

We are sorry to learn that Dwight Mixson is suffering with pneumonia.

Mrs. E. W. Butler went to Birmingham last Tuesday to visit her daughter, Mrs. Clyde Abercrombie, and to see the Holy Land exhibit. As she was returning Wednesday afternoon and hurrying to catch the bus she slipped on a wet street and broke her hip. She is in St. Vincent's Hospital in Birmingham.

ATTEMPTED ROBBERY AT WILL HAY'S STORE HERE

Mr. Will Hayes reports an attempted robbery at his store across the railroad last Wednesday, January 15.

Mr. Hayes stated that two well dressed men came into his store and one of them asked for a pack of cigarettes, offering a $10 bill in payment. Mr. Hayes gave him the cigaretts and his change. About that time the other man had opened a drink, and offered a $5 bill in payment for that. After he had been given his change, the first man then asked for change for another $5 bill. As the five ones were laid on the counter, he placed his five on top of the ones, saying, as he did so: "Just give me back my ten and take all this change back. Meanwhile the other man was trying to attract attention by asking the price of various articles in the store.

Mr. Hayes told him that half of the money on the counter was already his, and reached for it. As he did so, his visitor ordered him to replace it, threatening to shoot. By this time Mr. Hayes was out on the sidewalk, and told him to go ahead and shoot. Seeing that their game was frusterated, the two left in such a hurry that Hayes could not get their tag number.

This old money changing crook act is one of the oldest practiced, yet it seems to keep on working. Local people are warned to be on the watch for this, as these same men may be back in Clanton at any time. Mr. Hayes stated that he believed they were the same men who pulled the Grooms robbery at West End last year.

As a result of plans just released for the placing of a fifty-man side camp of he Civilian Conservation Corps at the Mound Park reservation, intensive work on the restoration of the aboriginal Indian remains near Moundville will begin soon. Colonel George F. Baltzell, of Fort McClellan, Dr. Walter B. Jones, State Geologist, and Congressman W. B. Oliver, who has been very much interested in the Mound Park development, are largely responsible for the establishment of the camp.

Mr. J. L. Ruffin, the Purina dealer, is in Atlanta a few days of this week attending the southeastern Purina convention. All the Purina representatives in this convention are learning new methods of improving flocks, higher production pointers, Etc. When Mr. Ruffin returns he will no doubt be able to tell his customers lots of new thing about poultry, feeds, and so on.

HUEY P. LONG PARTY IS WINNING IN LOUISIANA

New Orleans, Jan. 21.—Louisiana voters today cast their choice for and against the "dictatorship" of the late Senator Huey P. Long in a Democratic primary marked by a shooting, slugging and collapse of arbitration of disputes in New Orleans and the ejection of a number of federal "observers" from the polls of Lake Charles.

Elsewhere in the state, at last reports, the election was being carried out without major disturbance as throngs choked the voting booths under the free poll tax law with a vote that was expected to approach the half million mark before the polls closed at 7 p.m.

Judge Richard Leche, Huey Long's candidate for governor, held a huge majority in today's Democratic primary with practically no votes reported except from New Orleans.

Reports from 281 of the state's 1,575 precincts, of which 243 were from New Orleans gave Leche 100,081 votes to 38,498 for Congressman Cleveland Dear, anti-Long candidate.

The New Orleans district, it must be remembered, was supposed to be the strongest anti-Long district in the state. Judging from the above returns, the Long party will score a land slide when the returns are in from the rural districts of the state, where Long's greatest strength lay.

The anti-Long group headed by Mayor Walmsley of New Orleans, has made their fight as supporters of the New Deal. In fact, that was the only issue involved. The Louisiana voters, however, evidently are still inclined to side with the Huey Long decision to fight the inequalities of the so-called New Deal.

A GREAT BASIC IMPROVEMENT IN GASOLINE

NOT just anti-knock—NOT just a new grade—NOT just a new color!

New Quick-Vapor Gasoline

A new modern quick-vapor volatility fuel for your modern motor. Even at winter temperatures it produces the necessary "gas" in your motor more quickly. That's important! For it's the "gas"—vapor—not the liquid gasoline that gives the power, the drive in your motor.

Refinery perfected to vaporize faster, more evenly and more completely, the new gasolines quickly give you all their smooth power.

Refining discoveries have set a new high in eliminating impurities such as sulphur and gum. The new gasolines are above best aviation specifications for purity.

- Easy Starting.
- Rapid Warm-Up.
- Smooth Acceleration.
- Full Power.
- Added Economy.
- Eliminates Vapor-Lock.
- Anti-Knock Performance.
- Uniformity in All Seasons.

Be the first! Good gasolines will all come to this within a year. Be first to thrill to the new performance of your car with this new fuel.

Give your car a fair test. To get the full new feel of this new fuel, use up the old gasoline in your tank. Try two complete tankfuls of this new gasoline to check the noticeably different performance. See, hear and feel the difference.

Today AT ALL PAN-AM STATIONS

"The finest fuel you can put in your motor. PAN-AM Ethyl specifications are even higher than aviation grade."

"New, improved Orange PAN-AM gives you finest performance with highest anti-knock properties at regular price."

"Quicker starting—quick pick-up—more complete vaporization. Better than many old-style 'Hi-Test' gasolines."

RETURN OF SANITY

In the process of trying to mind everybodys else's business, some of our officials presently in office have demanded such increasingly large amounts of material about business operations as to impose upon some concerns a serious load of extra clerical detail. And having found excuses for getting hold of such business and personal material, they feel it their duty to expose it to public curiosity, to competitors' scrutiny and to racketeers' and others' use. This disregard for confidences cannot be too strongly objected to, and it is to be hoped that the now indicated return of national sanity will bring along a return of respect for privacy.—New Haven Register.

According to the philosophers of old, just two things are certain—death and taxes. This can now be amended to read—death and higher taxes.

A scientist has set out on a voyage to discover just what is a tuna fish. Our definition: a tuna fish is a guy that plays the saxaphone.

Wouldn't you like to be as certain about any one thing as the average Brain Truster is about everything?

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

One of the noteworthy developments of the political situation during the past few months, from a Republican standpoint at least, has been the growth of Republican National Chairman Henry P. Fletcher, in acquaintance and popularity in G. O. P. circles. Before his election as chairman Mr. Fletcher, of course, had a national reputation. But it was a diplomat rather than a politician, although he had long been known as a staunch Republican. Mr. Fletcher took the chairmanship when it was rather a thankless job. The chances of defeating the Democrats in a national way seemed decidedly slim. There was little if any money in the treasury. There was a dearth indeed not only of money to carry on a campaign, had such a campaign at that time been called for, but there is said to have been actually a scarcity of cash to pay the current expenses of the G. O. P. elephant.

Mr. Fletcher went ahead and didn't publicly complain, just striking a blow for his cause here and there, whenever the opportunity was afforded. No doubt, even now, if he were asked about those lean and discouraging days, he would only smile diplomatically and begin to talk about the excellent prospects which he believes the Republicans have of winning the country in this year of grace, 1936. Perhaps the reason Mr. Fletcher went valiantly ahead is that he is a good soldier, and was a good soldier back in the days of real soldiering when he was a member of Teddy Roosevelt's famous Rough Riders. Anyhow, he did carry on.

Be that as it may, it must be admitted by all who have watched the situation that Mr. Fletcher has been developing as a political leader along with the growth of Republican political prospects. One thing which has gained him friends has been his courage to strike out when a good punch seemed to be called for. He apparently has that all too rare ability to strip off the husks and get down to the grain of the situation, avoiding glittering generalities. His speeches and statements are direct and to the point.

In his address the other day commenting on the President's broadcast of his message before Congress, Mr. Fletcher, at the luncheon of the Union League Club of Philadelphia seemed to have the ability to "get down to cases," and to clothe his thoughts in language which the public might understand. For example: on the question of budget balancing Mr. Fletcher said:

"The cold facts continually upset the hot New Deal retensions. On the day the President delivered his speech to Congress, assuring it we were approaching a balancing of the budget, the United States Treasury issued its statement as of the close of business December 31, 1935. It shows a deficit for the first half of the current fiscal year of nearly $2,000,000,000—an increase of ten per cent over the deficit at the corresponding period last fiscal year. It shows the New Deal is now spending $1.95 for every dollar it takes in. It shows this deficit is occasioned not only by the so-called relief expenditures, but by the increase in the routine expenditures, which, for the first six months of the current fiscal year, were higher than they have been in any corresponding period in the peacetime history of this country, and $397,000,000 higher than they were for the corresponding period last year. In the face of such figures, it is absurd to make the statement the administration is approaching a balanced budget.

"You cannot balance a national budget, any more than the housewife can balance her budget, by trick bookkeeping. The only way to balance a budget is not to spend more than you take in. Frugality and prodigality are not synonymous. They cannot work together in the same harness."

In getting "down to brass tacks," Mr. Fletcher has produced some argument which cannot be answered by calling somebody a bond-holder. In the early days of his chairmanship when things were breaking against the party he proved that he could "take it". The Union League Club address proves also that he is able to "dish it out" when the occasion warrants.

AN EPITAPH TO REPUBLICAN DIVISION IN CHILTON COUNTY

The fine spirit at the Republican rally here last Saturday wrote the epitaph to any division that may have heretofore existed in the Republican party of Chilton county. Our people have concluded that truthfulness still exists in the old adage that "In union there is strength," and also that the Republicans of Chilton county do not favor the present Democratic rule in our nation, State and county.

The Republican party of Chilton county cannot afford to harbor division and differences among itself, and absolutely no justification can be offered for any such ideas. We have too big a job to perform. It will take our united strength to do the work that is before us, and all petty differences of the past MUST be forgotten.

The thing for us as a party to do in the future is to treat with silent contempt the effort of anyone to arouse malice and hatred among any of us as groups or individuals. If somebody begins to spew out something vile about somebody else, the thing to do then and there is to politely walk off and leave him to tell his grievances to a telephone pole or to some other inanimate object more similar to himself. We all realize what is the proper thing to do, and we must do it. The epitaph to any division has been written, and let us keep it written.

The Republicans are going to put up a solid fight this year in Chilton county. And we are coming out in the open with everything that we have to do. The issues must be put squarely up to the people, so that there will be no mistake and no doubt as to what we mean. An open, united, militant Republican party in Chilton county can win the elections in this county this year, and we simply must do it.

The Union-Banner makes this solemn appeal to the members of the party everywhere: That we stand united, all work together, countenance no back-biting, but try and enlist everyone into our ranks who will help in fighting the battles that are before us. Let us welcome all into our party. We need the help of all, and just because of some past differences is no reason we should not get into harness together now and pull for the one common cause of good, sound, business-like management of our governmental affairs, which the Democrats have shown us that they are not able to give. The Republican party has given it, and they will give it again. Let us give them the opportunity.

SOME WORDS OF THRIFT

We are living in a New Era. The old copy book maxim about saving one's money and the value of thrift and perseverence are now distinctly "out". We have been told that we are through with the horse and buggy age, despite the fact that the Supreme Court was accused of trying to put us back there through its sound and patriotic decision on the NRA. Just what era we are in, now that horses have been left behind—though there are still a lot of folks who seem to be buggy—has not yet been satisfactorily demonstrated. Doubtless Prof. Rex Tugwell would tell us that this was a period of transition, a time when things were being taken away from those who did neither. Perhaps Secretary Wallace would have another answer—maybe he would call it the golden age of prosperity through shortages. But at any rate, call it what you will, this is not an age of economy. Nobody is being advised to save by those who are now in power throughout the nation. And Uncle Sam himself is setting an example of profligacy for his children by spending nearly two dollars for every one he can possibly take in.

Yet there have been great Americans who believed in thrift and economy. To prove it, the magazine Industry and Labor recently printed a series of excerpts from the wisdom of those who preached economy. Quite properly the first man quoted is President Jackson whose birthday was so recently celebrated by the New Dealers. Also quite properly the list closes with some words of wisdom on economy from the pen of President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Believe it or not, here you are:

Save your money and thrive, or pay the price in poverty and disgrace.—Andrew Jackson.

Teach economy. This is one of the first and highest virture. It begins with having money.—Abraham Lincoln.

Economy makes happy homes and sound nations. Instill it deep.—George Washington.

Save, and teach all you are interested in to save; thus pave the way for moral and material success.—Thomas Jefferson.

Experience teaches that it is the men and women who pay attention to small savings that become wealthy.—James A Garfield.

Extravagance rots character; the habit of saving money while it stiffens the will also brightens the energies. If you would be sure that you are beginning right, begin to save.—Theodore Roosevelt.

If a man has not that care for the days that have not yet dawned which we sum up in the whole idea of thrift and saving, then he has not opened his eyes to any adequate conception of human life * * *.—Woodrow Wilson.

Every man has a right to his own property, which means a right to be assured to the fullest extent attainable, in the safety of his savings. By no other means can men carry the burdens of those parts of life which in the nature of things afford no chance of labor—childhood, sickness, old age.—Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Moscow warns Japan to be careful because Russia is building a new navy which is good deal like threatening a grizzly with a fly swatter.

MAN IN THE MOON

THE REPUBLICAN MASS MEETING

I was very much disappointed last Saturday because I was unable to attend the Republican mass meeting at the courthouse and hear Mr. Vardaman and Mr. Longshore make their speeches. I am sure it must have been gratifying to those good solid Republicans who have kept the faith and have not been whip-sawed off course by the New Deal, or rather the "raw deal", as Mr. Vardaman so aptly termed it.

I am informed that Mr. Vardaman fed our good old Democratic friends raw meat to chew on, and that he covered the ground all the way from Aaron to Zebron, with numerous interesting side trips along the way as he came to them. Mr. Vardaman is an interesting speaker, and I would have enjoyed hearing his talk.

By the way, however, for a man to make interesting revelations about this so-called New Deal, he has but to be the possessor of a wide vocabulary, and the knowledge to put the right part of it in front of the other. It doesn't take much study to make up a good speech against the New Deal. In fact, a speaker could hardly be expected to cover all its shortcomings—they are too numerous.

I believe, if I were to start to make a talk against the New Deal, I wouldn't set out to tell about what the New Deal has failed to do—that would take too much time. A better way would be to tell what it has done—the patience of an audience wouldn't be taxed in listening to this—it would be over too soon. About all that can be said is that the New Dealers have tried out a big pack of experiments, and as is usually the cast with experiments, the most of them—practically all—blew up. I had that happen to me a few times while making experiments in high school.

Mr. Roosevelt and his "red raiders" have had so many experiments blow up in their faces, however, that they have become used to it, and nothing surprises them any more. In fact, I don't believe they will be very much surprised when we beat the socks off them next November. I am quite sure they have a strong premonition of impending disaster, if the usual test kites run true to form as they have in the past.

CREPE ON THE DOOR

Hang crepe on the president's door. One of his pet children is dead. That makes two. Last spring the Supreme Court killed the NRA, and now it has taken care of the AAA. Newspaper reports from Washington state that the president is plainly downcast, now that his two main "pillars" have been removed.

It seems I have read somewhere about a building that was built on sand, and when the floods came and the winds blew that house fell, and great was the fall of it.

When President Roosevelt started building his house of sand he was warned that it was unconstitutional—built on sand. Maybe he thought the days of floods and winds were over, but today he is a sadder and, we hope a wiser man. If he had taken some advice from sensible members of his own party—if he had even reasoned honestly with himself—we might have been spared this humiliation.

Not much remains of the New Deal, as little as there was of it in the beginning. But there are some ardent supporters of the president who look at the death of the AAA differently from Mr. Roosevelt.

We quote The Alabama Herald, of Birmingham:

The Death of The AAA

The Supreme Court declared the AAA unconstitutional. No one is surprised. The decision was expected. It has been predicted since the inception of the litigation.

The AAA has served a useful purpose It is well that it has come to an end. The nation has reason to be thankful for the highest court's declaration that the government, as a permanent proposition cannot control production of farm products. If the government had that power it might be seriously abused. It is well that it has been decided that the government has no such power.

This is not to say that the AAA was not worth while as a temporary measure. It was probably the quickest way to accelebrate recovery and get agriculture on the up grade. There can be no question about the Bankhead cotton law bringing much money to Alabama that would not have reached the state but for the law. It has served its day perhaps and the time arrived to discard it. That the discard was by judicial decree is all the better.

Again we say, as we said, when the NRA was nullified: "Thank God for the Supreme Court of the United States."

We hear, however, that another move will be made to keep the AAA in deed if not in name. If this succeeds, all we can hope for is that the new will not be as bad as the old. Certainly it could not be worse.

I am surprised to read such as the above in The Herald, inasmuch as this publication, along with many other Democratic sheets in the Alabama, has been so strong for anything Mr. Roosevelt was for. They, however, have seen the light. Maybe more of their brethren will "go therefore and do likewise".

MY PET PROJECT

Several times I have suggested a small broadcasting station for Clanton and Chilton county. I have made the suggestion in this column, as well as to various civic bodies and city and county officals. At first the response meter showed absolutely nothing, but each time I have mentioned it, I think a few more have been a bit impressed with the idea.

I intend to get together the necessary facts and figures regarding the cost of a small station, say a 100-watt or 200-watt station. Then I intend to put the matter up to the Kiwanis Club, and the City and county authorities.

I think of nothing that would go so far toward putting our city "on the map". And I believe it would be easy to secure enough advertising contracts to keep the station going at least 10 hours a day. The local advertisers, I am quite sure, would be glad to take part in such an enterprise, and state and national manufacturers and distributors could surely be relied on for quite a bit of advertising.

You see, the way it goes, an advertiser would have a quarter hour or half hour allotted to his program. Part of the time would be given over to his advertising, and part of it to music, newscasting, special talks by city and county officials on topics of current interest, or other entertainment of one kind or another.

As to special broadcasts, the station would come in fine in telling the people of the county all about returns on elections, or paly-by-play descriptions of baseball, basket ball and football games in this immediate neighborhood. Maybe each week's programs might be topped off by old-time barn dance programs on Saturday nights, or with amateur hours of the Major Bowes variety, wherein local talent would be given a chance to perform.

While I am preparing the necessary figures, I would be glad to have the people and officials of Clanton and Chilton County to study over this matter. We'll talk about it again soon.—Man in the Moon.

IF 'OLD HICKORY' COULD SPEAK

January 8 was Jackson Day over the United States and in some quarters it was pretty generaly observed. There can be no criticism of this. Old Hickory was a sturdy American and a strong constitutionalist. He opposed nullification and he was against governmental interference in the business of the individual when this could possibly be avoided.

This year, as is generally the case, the observation of Jackson Day was a partisan one. Why this should be true in these modern day of the New Deal is a little difficult to understand. It is easy to visualize Old Hickory's approving of some of the planks of the 1932 Democratic platform—now apparently forgotten—but it is a little hard to see how he would have given any great amount of approval to the theories of the New Deal, most of which are diametrically opposed to the working theories of Andy himself.

For example, in his second message delivered December 6, 1830, President Jackson said:

"It was a leading object with the framers of the Constitution to keep as separate as possible the action of the executive and legislative branches of the government. Experience abundantly demonstrates that every precaution in this respect is a valuable safeguard to liberty."

Again in his fourth annual message, Jackson wrote: "We should bear constantly in mind the fact that the considerations which induced the framers of the Constitution to withhold from the general government the power to regulate the great mass of the business and concerns of the people have been fully justified by experience, and it cannot now be doubted that the genius of all of our institutions prescribes simplicity and economy as the characteristics of the reform which is yet to be effected in the present and future execution of the functions bestowed upon us by the Constitution.

"Limited to a general superintending power to maintain peace at home and abroad, and to prescribe laws on a few subjects of general interest not calculated to restrict human liberty but to enforce human rights, this government will find its strength and its glory in the faithful discharge of the plain and simple duties."

These are characteristic phrases of Old Hickory, designed to enunciate principles which were deeply embodied in his being. Yet it is doubtful whether they were quoted by any speaker at a Jackson Day dinner this year, from the President himself down to the humblest backwoods state legislator.

Jackson is a fine name to conjure with because it represents a fine American. Maybe his principles were pretty sound, too, but they certainly wouldn't do for recounting at a New Deal "experience meeting."

A lot of pacifists seem to think we don't need any navy for defense. Maybe they are counting on "Pop-Eye, the Sailor Man."

When they're under six they write letters to Santa Claus. When they're over sixty, they sign Townsend petitions.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Things have come to this: A diligent working man manages to save up $100 and sets up a peanut and popcorn stand. Immediately he is singled out as a "capitalist" and "extortionist" and is made the subject of attack by political yawpers, communist agitators and tax eaters and is fortunate if he manages to save the peanut roaster and corn popper.—Pueblo, Colo., Indicator.

THE TOTAL DEBT

The gross public debt—federal, state and local—has increased from 39 billion dollars in 1932 to about 50 billion dollars at the present time, according to a study just issued by the National Industrial Conference Board. Of this public debt, about 29.5 billion dollars is federal debt and 20.5 billion dollars is state and local debt.

This debt total is equal to approximately one year's national income at present levels. It is also equivalent to approximately one-fifth of the national wealth. Servicing of this debt requires about 2.8 billion dollars annually, which represents more than 20 per cent of the revenue receipts of all governmental units from all sources.

In all of the New Year's talk about the return to normal conditions and prosperity which is still "just around the corner," it is well to consider the situation as to the total debt in the United States. This debt must be paid sooner or later and it can only be paid by those who are taxpayers or who possess property or live in the United States. And it is also worth remembering that when the paying is done the greater burden will fall on the wage worker and the man who is paid a salary each week or each month. Therefore, so long as we believe that prosperity can be secured by vast outlays of public money, either in the nation, the state or the comunity, we can expect to feel not sound recovery but a sort of fever which feels for the moment like good times.

For as the National Conference Board's study with respect to the federal debt points out, it is not primarily the amount which makes the situation serious but the fact that we have no assurance when the upward trend will be arrested and consequently have to look forward to the possibility of greater taxation and even inflation. For as the Board adds, "the banks of the United States—national, state, loan and trust companies, mutual savings banks, stock savings banks, private banks, and the Federal Reserve Banks—have absorbed almost $5 out of every $6 of the additions to federal debt since June 30, 1930. Banking institutions at the end of last June held direct federal obligations of about 14.5 billion dollars, or 53% of interest-bearing debt outstanding, exclusive of issues to the Adjusted Service Certificate Fund and other special funds, no part of which is held by the public. The principle function of the banking system for some time has been the financing of the federal deficit."

If the policy of government spending and financing through the banks continues the inevitable result will be inflation. And real inflation is something which no thinking person in the United States wants to experience.

THE AAA DECISION

It is a little early as yet to visualize the importance of the Supreme Court's epoch making decision invalidating the AAA. Even the Brain Trust professors themselves—who are supposed to know much about everything—seemed to be somewhat stunned by the sweeping character of the decision. It is now feared, because of the lines of reasoning followed by the majority of the Court that other pet New Deal measures may go into the discard.

The principal points of the unconstitutionality of the bill seem to center around the processing tax and the subject of states' rights. The Court held that Congress was not making a legal use of its taxing power when it assessed taxes on certain groups of our consumers and then turned the money over to another group of our citizens. This it was held, is class legislation and not for the general welfare.

So far as state's rights are concerned the Court ruled that it is beyond the province of the Congress of the United States to regulate the farming industry of the country. Farmers are not engaged in interstate commerce and the federal government has no right to go into a state and hire or coerce them into doing certain things about their crops.

There was less open bitter criticism on the part of New Deal leaders against the AAA decision than there was over the on invalidating the NRA. The real reason perhaps is that the decision did not come as a surprise. Good lawyers everywhere expected it. There were even some evidence of efforts on the part of certain New Dealers to prepare for the inevitable aftermath.

Following the decision we can, of course, expect the usual demand from radical sources that the balance of our government be upset and that Constitutional amendment be adopted preventing the Supreme Court from interferring with the will of Congress and the executive as expressed through Congress. This would be, of course, only another step toward the autocracy of Stalin, Hitler or Mussolini. There is little chance that any such amendment will be adoted. The fact is that as time goes on and the force and effect of the decision is felt it will become more and more popular. After the NRA was invalidated we heard all sorts of dire predictions about what would happen to the country. But business commenced steadily to pick up, and a referendum held now on the NRA would certainly be an enlightening election, especially for the New Deal leaders.

When we hear that the farmers are "hostile" to the Supreme Court decision we must remember surveys show that only a portion of the farmers were in favor of the AAA in the first place and that farmers as a class are among our firmest constitutionalists. And it is not to be forgotten either that if the invalidating of the processing tax brings down the cost of living, as seems likely, the housewife who carries the market basket and does her own shopping is not going to be at all displeased.

SPENDING

History does repeat itself. In one year the Emperor Caligula wasted and squandered the whole of that magnificent treasure chest amounting to some 2,700 millions of sesterces that Tiberius had laboriously acquired.

That was a great year in Rome. Old houses were demolished and new ones built. The accent was on public works, which happened to be new palaces for the government. Mountains were leveled and marshes were drained. Doles in coin were tossed to the mob in the streets. The pleasure interest—theater and games—was subsidized. Wheat poured in from abroad. It was a "new era," and old men who said "these things cannot be" were stopped on the highways and derided. Go with the dance!

Then the funds ran out. "Look to the tax authority," said Calgula, and he proceeded under the guise of law, to confiscate the property of poor and rich alike. He instituted sales taxes. He put a toll on prostitution. He coerced men into making him their heir and then denounced their selfishness if they did not commit suicide to make good the commitment. Rome began to understand what it meant to pay.—The Sphere.

More and more as time goes on are we disposed to applaud the originator of the plan that put the Atlantic between America and Europe.—Ohio State Journal.

We understand that whiskey is going to come in a lot cheaper from Canada under the new reciprocal treaty, but how about some new corkscrews from Japan?

Oil companies have decided not to sell gasoline to intoxicated auto drivers. Well, we never thought it was good even for a sober man to drink.

Scientists say that elephants once roamed over what is now the state of Georgia. That was, of course, before the founding of the Republican party.

Some fellows seem to earn their reputation for piety simply by wearing a pair of squeaky shoes to church.

We understand these ski suits with the tight trouser-leg bottoms are a fine thing to keep from having ants in your pants.

One Democratic statesman insists that a law ought to be passed prohibiting straw votes. Why not make it illegal to publish returns of straw votes unless they favor the New Deal?

It is said that the political leaders in Washington are planning for a short and snappy congressional session. It is much more apt to be long and sappy.

Motorcycle Circus Here Sunday, 3rd

Featuring a score of dare-devil stunters, who will plunge motorcycles and automobiles into dangers that to the average on-looker will seem nothing short of sure suicide, a two-hour stunt circus will be presented at Gragg Field in Clanton on Sunday afternoon, February 2, according to an announcement this week by Mrs. Lois Davis, noted promoter of hair-raising thrills, and former well-known parachute jumper, under whose supervision the show is being staged.

One of the most thrilling features of the program, Mrs. Davis explained, will be a five-mile, tough-track race in which at least a score of motorcycles will engage. Drivers of these machines will defy danger as they urge every possible ounce of energy from their machines in the fight to be first over the finish line.

"The death drag," too, will cause chills to race up and down your spine, she declared. In this stunt, a man is dragged across the field by a speeding motorcycle. But of all the thrilling moments of the show, Mrs. Davis said, one of the most exciting will be reached when four blindfolded drivers race their automobiles across the field.

In addition to these, there will be dozens of other features which will furnish more excitement that ordinarily is absorbed in half a life-time, it is claimed.

The climax of the entire show is reached when Gus McCormack crashes his speeding motorcycle through a flaming board wall. This is recognized by stunters throughout the country as one of the most daring feats accomplished by either motors or automobiles.

Among noted stunters who will take part in the program are: Gus McCormack, Charlie Harris, Ashley Haynie, Mrs. Ashley Haynie, Gene Wilsox, H. Lee Davis, A. A. Gordon, Jack Crawford, Buddy Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Marshall, and several others.

Digest Poll Closes

Last week The Literary Digest's recent poll on the New Deal closed. Ballots were sent out asking this question: "Do you now approve the acts and policies of the New Deal to date?"

There were returned, 1,907,681 votes. Of these, 712,368, or 37.34 er cent, vote in favor of the New Deal, while 1, 195,313, or 62.66 per cent oppose it. This is a majority of 482,945, or 25.32 per cent against.

As against the 62.66 per cent opposed to the New Deal now, a percentage of 61.15 were for it in 1934.

Another interesting angle is that the recent poll shows that 37.05 per cent of the 909,368 voters who stated they voted for Roosevelt in 1932 now vote against him and his policies, while only 11 per cent of the 888,028 who state they voted for Hoover are now in favor of the New Deal. This poll drew 58.46 per cent more ballots than the 1934 poll, showing the increase in interest in the nation's affairs.

In the final report, 36 states were against the New Deal, with a total electoral vote of 399, while 12 states favored it, with an electoral vote of 132. It requires 266 electoral votes to seat a president. During the campaign the Democrats will have to double their poll strength in electoral votes and add two extra in order to win. The Republicans can lose 133 electoral votes and still win.

The 12 states and their percentages favoring Mr. Roosevelt were: Alabama, 67.27; Arkansas, 60.11; Georgia, 67.35; Kentucky, 59.02; Louisiana, 58.27; Mississippi, 72.53; North Carolina, 64.58; South Carolina, 70.25; Tennessee, 63.58; Texas, 60.62; Utah, 53.73; Virginia, 52.33; State average, 62.47.

In the 36 states voting against the New Deal, the percentages in opposition ranged from that of Florida, 50.75, to that of Massachusetts, 80.11; their state average was 63.93. The percentage of "state unknown", that bunch of voters who failed to state where they voted, was 55.37.

Summarized, the poll shows that the 36 states are 1.46 per cent stronger against the New Deal than the 12 are for it. As a whole the poll shows the Republicans now holding a 3-to-1 edge over the president. Whether this is true, of course, no one knows. However, in previous polls, the Digest has never missed as much as two per cent, and if this one runs anything like true to form, we will have a new president after next January.

PLEASANT GROVE
JEMISON

There are a few people on the sick list this week. George Harold Woodley is suffering with his tonsils. Arliss Hodgens has been sick. Mr. Childress is also sick. Miss Dulcie Champion is improving in the hospital.

Mr. Carl Dawson entertained a few of his friends at his home Friday night. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davenport and children, Mrs. R. C. Champion and sons, Messrs. BAILEY CASH DIED LAST FRIDAY

Bailey Cash, 98 years of age, died Friday, January 17th, at the home of J. B. Sammons, in the Mineral Springs community.

Funeral services were held Friday morning at 11:00 o'clock at Collins Chapel, Rev. R. M. Honeycutt officiating. Burial was in the cemetery at that place, with Martin in charge.

Mr. Cash is survived by one sister, Mrs. Polly Robinson, and several nephews and nieces.

He was one of the four Confederate veterans living in Chilton county. The three who now remain are: Rev. R. M. Honeycutt, Jemison; J. W. E. Gulledge, Verbena Route 2; and T. J. Teel, Clanton.

66 BELOW IS COLDEST EVER RECORDED IN U. S.

For the all-time low record of temperatures for the United States is 66 degrees below zero—reported from Riverside Ranger Station in Yellowstone Park, February 9, 1933. The world record is 90 degrees below zero in northern Siberia, while 78 below zero has been experienced in Alaska. Only two States, Montana and Wyoming, have been colder than 60 below zero since the Weather Bureau started keeping track of the weather.

Several States—New Hampshire, New York, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Idaho, and Washington—have records of 50 or more below.

Every state has subzero temperatures on its weather records. The cold wave of February, 1899, brought weather of 2 below to northern Florida and zero to the Alabama coast. States as far south as Tennessee have had temperatures 30 below zero. The record for cold in Texas is 23 below. Temperatures of 16 to 18 below have been recorded in Louisiana and the northern portions of the east Gulf States.

4 H CLUB WORK OF CONCORD SCHOOL

We called a meeting Thursday, January 16th. all members were present. Mr. J. W. Fant, Chilton County Agent, was present and made us a talk. His subject was raising poultry. DON'T BLAME THE SHOE MAN

THE minute a hide comes off the back of a cow, it's taxed; when it goes through the tannery, the tanner is taxed; when it goes through the shoe factory, the shoe manufacturer pays still further taxes; when the pair of shoes gets to your local shoe man, he too must pay taxes; when the shoes get onto your feet, you may not be conscious of all these taxes, but you know the price you've paid for the shoes, and after a little thought, you know that much of the price you've paid is because of taxes.

Shoe prices are going up. Your shoe man can't help it. He has no control over the increase of prices brought about by governmental activities and expenditures. He'll have little to say about having to pay his part of the loss occasioned by governmental participation in the electric light and power business at less than cost. The government will have to make up those losses through the collection of taxes which your shoe man, and you, must eventually pay—even though this tax may not be labelled "To pay for losses in operation of governmental electric business."

Does Your Church Need

Repainting - Repairing - Enlarging?

The Union-Banner Offers To Help With Its

GOOD SAMARITAN SUBSCRIPTION PLAN

Here Is The Plan

The Good Samaritan Subscription plan is open only to churches or to some bona fide auxiliary of a church, any denomination, white and colored. As many churches as desire may enter the campaign on exactly the same footing with exactly the same opportunity to earn money for the church. The church or auxiliary can use the money thus raised for any purpose it desires. There is no central prize offered to the one obtaining the most subscriptions, but each church will be paid whatever amount it earns through the plan. No big church will have the advantage over the smaller ones unless it works harder and turns in more subscriptions. Honest pay for honest work is all there is to the plan. There will be some bonuses, however, which will be explained further down in this announcement.

This plan is conducted solely by the regular management of The Union-Banner. There is no outside promotion, but every cent of the money raised in the campaign will go to the treasuries of the churches and to The Union-Banner. All the money will strictly be kept at home.

The date for entering is now open. The church or auxiliary must have a treasurer to handle the campaign for the church; the regular church treasurer may do it, or another one for this specific purpose may be appointed. Every member of the church, or other interested party, working for the plan will turn their subscriptions over to this treasurer, and The Union-Banner will deal only with this treasurer. The treasurer may turn in subscriptions and make payment at any intervals most suited to himself and to the church.

All the church has to do is to elect its treasurer, and have this treasurer drop The Union-Banner a card expressing the desire to enter the plan. All the necessary blanks will be mailed him or her, and work may begin then and there. In writing the card be sure to give the name of the church, the name of the pastor, and the name and address of the treasurer. Or the entry may be made in person at The Union-Banner office.

No subscription may be taken for more than two years nor less than one year. The price at which subscriptions may be sold will be straight one dollar per year for both new and renewal subscribers. The compensation for the churches will be figured on a sliding scale; the more subscriptions sold the greater becomes the percentage to go to the churches. A book containing 75 receipts, numbered from 1 to 75, will be furnished each treasurer. On the first 20 receipts issued 20 per cent will go to the church; on the next 15 receipts 25 per cent will go to the church; the next 10, 30 per cent; the next 10, 35 per cent; the next 10, 40 per cent; and the next 10, 45 per cent. When this book of 75 receipts has been sold on the above basis, a bonus of $10.00 will be given the church. All money must be turned in to The Union-Banner, who thereupon will reimburse the treasurer with whatever amount of money is due the church. After the first receipt book of 75 subscriptions has been used by a church, a satisfactory and attractive arrangement will be made for all additional subscriptions written. That part of the plan will be explained in due time.

No Central Prize is offered, but every Church will get in Cash whatever it earns. No one will have advantage over the other. This plan is no lottery --- just simply honest compensation for honest work. As many churches may enter as desire. They will not be working against one another, but every church will be working for itself. The harder one works the more compensation. Enroll your church now.

C. C. C. Camp In Clanton Is Doing Some Splendid Work

Anyone having an idea that the local CC camp is a loiterer's paradise has a big surprise coming if he will but visit the camp, look over the accomplishments already effected, allow the many different departments and duties explained to him, and in short give the camp and its work a thorough inspection and examination.

A representative of The Union-Banner had the pleasure of such a tour of inspection last Friday, together with Mr. Victor Norris and Mr. Vernie Teel of The Chilton County News, conducted by Prof. T. Horton Walker, special instructor at the camp. To say that we were very much surprised would be putting it mild. We were invited on the inspection tour by Mr. Walker, and enjoyed every minute of it.

At the camp, Mr. Walker began by explaining that when it was first determined to set up the camps, the question arose as to just what governmental division could handle the project most efficiently. Finally it was decided that inasmuch as the camps were to be run along general army lines, it would be best to put it in charge of the army. Accordingly, each camp was placed in charge of competent army officers who knew the business and how it should be run. Then Mr. Walker proceeded to the different departments of the camp, explaining each in detail, assisted by two officers at the camp.

First came the administration building, from which all activities of the camp are directed. Desks for the different oficers in charge are here, with their necessary files neatly arranged about the desks or on the walls. All was spick and span, which at once gave one the impression that real old time army discipline is carried out in full.

Next came the recreation hall, which is likewise spick and span. Checker boards, card tables, ping pong tables, and other articles of amusement are all over the room, for those boys who wish to meet there after work hours for games, to talk, or to just lounge around and pass the time away. Outside this building a bulletin board hangs, with all camp notices posted thereon. This board is scanned daily by all members of the camp for any notice of interest to any certain camp members, as well as special orders, etc.

The library is kept well stocked with magazines of every kind, new and up-to-date. Numbers of books have been provided by camp authorities, and there is a special case which contains books which have been donated to the camp.

The supply room is full of new wearing apparel of every kind—underwear, socks, uniforms, shirts, caps, boots—in fact everything from a cap down, and from an overcoat in. All these goods are arranged in neat rows, and the room is kept very orderly.

We were carried to a room where the soil maps are made by a specially trained man in this kind of work. He gave a short description of his work—all very technical to us—but which gave us a good idea just how thorough is the nature of all the work set out to be done by the camp officials.

The work shop, where boys are taught the rudiments of carpenter work and cabinet making, is an interesting part of the camp equipment. Saws, drills, etc., of all kinds are here, and are allowed to be used by the boys, under expert instruction. We were shown samples of the work done in this place, and it is exceptional.

The camp has a room where lessons in typing are given to fit any boys for this kind of work who might care for it. The camp rents a number of typewriters for use of camp members, and we were told that quite a few are taking advantage of this opportunity.

In the sleeping quarters, two long rows of army cots stretched before us, all neatly made up, with clean linen, blankets, etc. This room has adequate heating facilities. In front of each cot is an individual locker, in which each member keeps his personal belongings.

The dining hall is neat and orderly. When we arived, the rows of tables were already set for the next meal. In the rear competent cooks were busy preparing the noon meal, according to a menu worked along lines to provide the most wholesome food possible. The army has always had a reputation for keeing a man well and fit, above all else, and the local camp is fully equipped along this line. Preparation of the meals is under constant inspection, and an accurate daily record is kept of all food products used, together with their cost. Any time a camp inspector may drop in he can tell at a glance what any day's food cost for the camp has been, as well as costs for the month "to date". While here we were shown the cans of food already prepared to take to the boys at work in the fields away from camp. These cans are built on the thermos bottle principle, and the food is as hot when the boys get it as it is when it leaves the kitchen.

We were shown a bed wherein were sprouted over 150,000 baby pines to be used in reforestation work in the county. Last year the boys gathered thousands of native pine cones, and the little pine sprouts were sprouted from these seedlets. Officials told us they expect to plant hundreds of thousands of these this year. They already have requests for a great number, and expect more.

A poultry house is being built. The boys will give part of their own wages to buy baby chicks to raise here. This work will be well under way in the near future.

The camp has a nice ring where the camp pouts are held. Last year many good scraps were promoted here, and the people of the town spent many exciting evenings here. Competent instruction is provided in physical education, and in one building a poster is erected, showing a boy before and after receiving physical education. In the former the boy is stooped and forlorn looking, while in the latter the same boy stands erect, looks wide awake and ready to meet any emergency. This is one of the most important parts of camp life.

An incinerator has been built at the rear of the camp, and all refuse is placed in this, even tin cans getting a good burning before being hauled away and dumped. In this way the camp is kept clean of all litter which might otherwise collect.

In the bath house there are a number of gleaming lavatories, sanitary toilets, and an excellent shower bath room. The floor of the bath room is a strip affair, made in sections which may and "must" be taken out and sunned or aired daily. There are two sets of these floor sections, and one is used while the other is getting its airing. In this room, also, there are facilities where the boys may wash their own clothes, if they wish. A small pool has been built in the door of the bath room in which is kept a chemical which kills germs of athlete's foot; the bather steps into the pool as he enters the room and again as he leaves; there is little chance of spread of the disease, even if there should be cases of it in camp.

A camp exchange is conducted, where members may buy minor needs, such as cigarets, tobaccoes, etc., and the profits from this go toward upkeep of the recreation room, to buy any articles, such as games, dominoes, checkers, cards, pictures, etc.

One whole row of buildings are for use of regular army officers stationed here to look after the camp. These are likewise kept spick and span in true army regulation fashion. Many of the officers have gone in for special kinds of work, and there were on exhibit various lamps and other articles which had been made in the camp workshop.

All furniture at the camp has been made by boys in the workshop. Pine has been used for the most of this work, burned over with a blow-torch, and then rubbed down to a beautiful finish. All tables, benches, racks, etc., are uniform in appearance, and very neat.

A great deal of work has been done on the grounds. Walks have been made, ornamental trees set, and other work toward making the camp more beautiful.

Someone is kept in each building all the time, and he is responsible for the appearance of his building. As we entered each separate building, attendants stood at strict attention until their inspection was over, showing the excellent effect of strict army discipline again.

One very important part which I almost forgot to mention is the camp hospital. On the day we visited, this department had a full house on hand. The beds were clean and orderly, the building well scrubbed and gleaming, and attendants were clad in immaculate uniforms. Patients were reading, lounging, and some were asleep. A well-stocked medicine chest showed in one of the rooms. The boys are drilled in first aid. All this department is in charge of a competent physician.

There are so many different interesting departments that I may have forgotten some. The whole camp was so different to what I expected to find. A regular routine is followed, and each member knows this well. There is a certain time to do everything, and everything is done at that time; there is a place for everything, and everything kept in its place. Rigid military discipline prefails throughout and the result is fine to observe.

Camp officers explained that they were glad to have visitors, and to show them over the place. I think they feel that there is some kind of mistaken idea regarding the camp, and they are quite anxious to correct it. If there is anyone who believes that the camp is anything less than a model one, that person owes the camp a visit to set him right and do justice to officials and members.

We were told by Mr. Walker that the educational average is about the sixth grade. All kinds of boys are there, from college graduates to illiterates, although we were informed that only one boy had reported to camp who could not read and write and that since entrance he had learned enough of the "three R's" that he could write home to his people.

No matter what your opinion of the camp, by all means visit it. And no matter what your opinion is, prepare for a surprise.

After going over the camp, Mr. Walker went with us to two of the farm projects on which the boys have worked—the farms of Mr. J. N. Dennis and Mr. Rudolph Moates. On this trip we were accompanied by an official in charge of the soil erosion work, and he explained the work in detail.

In this work, farmers' fields are terraced and ditched to do away with gullies. To go into the description would take too long, but all this work is under the supervision of men especially trained in such work, and the projects are quite interesting. To really understand and appreciate this valuable work, one must visit one of the jobs, itself, and then its worth is apparent.

Unsightly gullies give way under this scientific application of methods to symmetrical ditches, so built that they will never again be any deeper or wider than they are intended. In the Dennis field (to my own personal knowledge) the biggest problem has been in getting rid of excess water, especially in the case of exceptionally big rains which fill the ditches fast, heretofore, no terraces could be built big enough to take care of this surplus, and bad washes always resulted. From now on, by the use of scientifically built terraces, all surplus water will drain into the main ditch as fast as it gathers, and will be carried away. And the main ditch will not be washed out either, thanks to further application of scientific methods.

All in all, as I said in the beginning, the local camp is a model one. Nothing could be more carefully arranged, more rigidly inspected, nor more scrupulously clean. The work that is being caried on is on equally as high a plane. The whole merits everyone's inspection. After your inspection, I am sure you will approve.—Paul C. Mims.

Republican Meeting

and defended the rights and liberties of all persons without fear or favor, and

Be it further resolved, that we do hereby rejoice as farmers, laborers, housewives, salaried employees, merchants, and liberty loving Americans, that the written Constitution, with its definition of powers, still protects and insures home rule by the States, and still looks to an indestructible Union composed of indestructible States, and.

Be it further resolved, that we do hereby condemn and denounce the craven and cowardly attacks, and attempted attacks, on the Constitution and Courts of the United States, whether such attacks come from the President of the United States, Secretary of Agriculture, spineless rubber stamp members of Congress, socialistic and communistic brain trust advisors, or paid propagandists, and

Be it further resolved, that we do hereby condemn and denounce the using of taxpayer's money to pay large and exhorbitant salaries to thousands of down and out politicians, who have been repudiated by the voters, to travel around over the country praising the New Deal and extolling its few doubtful virtues, and

Be it further resolved, that we do now urge Congress, the President, Secretary of Agriculture, and all others who have taken the oath to support and defend the Constitution, to cease these attacks on the Constitution and the Courts, and to devote their energies to a return to sound government; to give the farmers the greatest aid possible by removing from around his neck these governmental regulations; to abolish hundreds of bureaus; to reduce the deficit and thereby balance the budget; and to restore confidance to business so that it may freely buy the farmers' products, and

Be it further resolved, that a capy of these resolutions be sent to The Union-Banner and a copy to The Chilton County News.

In the midst of Mr. Vardaman's speech the Clanton fire whistle went off. It blew and blew as though a whole city block was endangered; but when the firemen got together and got the fire-fighting equipment ready for action, it was found that only an automobile had been on fire and had already been outed. Somebody suggested that it was probably smoke protruding from a bunch of Democrats to which fire had been set by the hot Republican speeches being made through the loud speakers from the courthouse. But the alarm caused only slight disturbance among the crowd which was taking in the speaking.

In his closing remarks, the chairman, our own J. Osmond Middleton, made a few more brief statements which stirred the very souls of the Republicans present. All during the day Mr. Middleton was at his best, and paid flowing tribute to the Republican party of Chilton county which has given us in the past such fine and staunch characters as Commissioners Alex Glasscock, Moses Robinson, Squire Waldrop, Sank Collins, T. J. Dorminey and W. H. Conway. Mr. Middleton said: "We will not break faith with these men, whom we now hold in the fondest memory, and whom we cherish for their fidelity, honesty and Christian character."

Mr. Middleton paid especial tribute to the service being rendered the party by the present chairman and secretary, Messrs. Dennis and Mims, by the editor of The Union-Banner, and by other loyal Republicans, such as that fine little Republican woman, Mrs. Gertrude Calloway, who are always on the firing line in the service of the party.

After the meeting closed the visitors, including Ralph and Charles Kennamer, Jack Roberts, Charles L. Turner and Judge Wallace Sloan, of Montgomery, and Mr. Vardaman and Judge Longshore of Birmingham, were carried to the Exchange Hotel for dinner. Among the local men at the dinner were: Messrs. J. N. Dennis, J. O. Middleton, W. H. Gillespie and J. Z. Mims.

CITY TO BUY PIANO FOR CITY HALL

At the special meeting Tuesday night, a motion was made and carried that the city buy a piano for the city hall auditorium.

Mayor Jones explained that various bodies, such as the Study Club, the Music Appreciation Club, the League for Young Democrats, etc., had found it to their advantage to secure the auditorium for their meetings, plays, etc., and had signified that they were willing to pay fees for use of the hall and the piano, and that the instrument would thus pay for itself.

MITCHELL DAM BASKET BALL TEAM GOING STRONG

The Mitchell Dam basketball team is going places and doing things in a big way. This team is one of the members of the Montgomery City loop, and has its regular dates for league play at Montgomery.

The Dammers defeated the May & Green team Tuesday night, and are now regarded as "tops" in the circuit. The sports editor of the Montgomery Advertiser, in writing of the game Tuesday night is quoted as follows:

"Mitchell Dam's convincing victory over May & Green establishes this team as the chief threat in the city loop."

MELVIN MIMS TAKES OVER THE BUS STATION

Announcement is made this week of a business transaction, whereby Melvin Mims becomes operator of the bus station on Seventh Street, just above the Dixie Cafe. He has purchased the interest of Mr. Parker Taylor, who plans to give all his time to his produce business.

Mr. Mims will continue to drive the Betsy Ross Bread truck, and will leave the management of the bus station in the care of Mrs. Mims, assisted by Mr. Bill Minor.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Mims are experienced in this kind of business having been connected with the Dixie Cafe for some time. Mr. Minor, also has had quite a bit of experience in this line.

Mrs. Audell Miller made a business trip to Birmingham last Tuesday.

THE above chart shows a substantial increase in sales to farmers for the first six months of 1935 as compared with the first half of 1932. This stimulation of business has resulted in an increase in employment and payrolls in many industries In the farm implement industry, for example, employment in the first 10 months of 1935 was more than 2½ times as great, and payrolls were more than 3½ times as great as in the first 10 months of 1932 For industry as a whole, it is estimated that at least 40% of the increase in factory employment from 1932 to date is due to the improvement of rural purchasing power. In 1932 the farm cash income was $4,328,000,000, as compared with an estimated farm cash income of $6,800,000,000 for 1935

Cox and Thomas Offer Local Bills

Will Increase County's Operating Cost $6,800; Voters Have No Voice

At the special session of the Alabama legislature, to convene in the near future, Chilton County's representative, Charlie Cox, and Senator Earle Thomas, will offer five local bills, which will concern Chilton County only.

These bills have been advertised in The Chilton County News, but The Union-Banner wishes to set them forth, inasmuch as The News carries them only as advertising matter, and does not comment upon them.

The bills are as follows, in substance:

1. To require the Commissioners Court of Chilton County to advertise for and accept bids on all county purchases which exceed $150.00.

2. To require the Commissioners Court of Chilton County to appropriate yearly the sum of not less than $3,000 for the purpose of establishing and maintaining a health unit for the county. (The Commissioners Court has never been asked for more than $2,000 per year for this purpose, which was granted).

3. To fix the compensation of the members of the Commissioners Court of Chilton County at $75.00 per month each.

4. To require the Commissioners Court of Chilton County to appropriate the sum of $4,300 annually to pay the salaries and traveling expense of a county agricultural agent, clerical assistant to this agent, an assistant county agricultural agent in charge of 4-H club work, and a county home demonstration agent. (The county now pays $2,100 to the county agent's department).

5. That there be appointed a road supervisor in Chilton County. That his salary be not less than $2,400 per year, expense account in the sum of not more than $100 per month. This road supervisor to have complete supervision of the road system of the county, and complete charge of all county road machinery.

The above bills will be presented at the special session of the legislature, as stated above, and their passage urged. All of these bills are signed by C. B. Cox and Earle Thomas.

Is Judge Now

J. O. Middleton, trustee in the office of the U. S. referee in bankruptcy, was appointed last week as referee by Judge Charles B. Kennamer, of the U. S. District Court in Montgomery, to succeed Judge Malcolm C. S. Carmichael, who is seriously ill at his home, 209 Cloverdale Road, Montgomery.

HON. J. O. MIDDLETON

The immediate appointment was made, it was said, to insure the continued functions of the court.

Judge Middleton is popular and well known in Montgomery where he has practiced law in Federal courts for a number of years. He formerly was an assistant U. S. district attorney under the late Judge Henry D. Clayton.

The many friends of Judge Middleton in Chilton County, where he now spends a part of his time, will be pleased to know of his appointment, and will feel very kindly toward Judge Kennamer, who saw fit to place this signal honor upon this favorite son of Chilton County. We are all proud of "J. O.", likewise we are all grateful to the very likable Judge C. B. Kennamer.

ELIZABETH JOHNSON RECEIVES DEGREE

University, Ala., Jan. 23.—Miss Elizabeth Johnson, Clanton, will receive her degree in Law school from the University of Alabama at the mid-year commencement set for January 25.

Miss Johnson received the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1934.

CHILTON VETERANS WILL RECEIVE $249,747 BONUS

Upon full payment of the bonus, Chilton County veterans will receive the sum of $249,747.

The total for all Alabama's veterans is $26,888,528. There are 50,867 World War Veterans in the state. The exact number in Chilton County has not been given out.

These figures were recently placed in the Congressional Record by Rep. Patman of Texas, who sponsored the bill. Rep. Patman also sponsored the bonus bill which was vetoel and killed last year, which carried provision for payment, by the striking of two bilion dollars in "printing press money", an inflationary measure.

The present bill carries no provision for resources for money for payment. The president has signified that he will veto any bonus measure which does not provide ways and means for payment other than by inflation.

HOME MAKERS SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS TO MEET FRIDAY P. M.

The Home Makers class of the Clanton Baptist Sunday school will meet at the home of Mrs. Jean Wyatt Friday afternoon, January 31st, at 3:00 o'clock. All members of the class are urged to attend.

GOOD SAMARITAN PLAN GETTING STARTED FINE

Churches Taking Advantage of Liberal Offer Made By The Union-Banner

In spite of the exceptionally bad weather since the plan was originated, there has been quite a bit of interest created among the churches of the county over the Good Samaritan Subscription plan offered by The Union-Banner, in which the churches, or some auxiliary, are enabled to raise a nice sum of money for their use as they see fit.

The churches already enlisted in the plan and now working are: Pleasant Valley, C. B. Huett, treasurer; Maple Springs, E. H. Bowles, treasurer; Mt. Carmel W. M. U., Mrs. M. W. Mims, treasurer; Union Grove, P. M. Martin, treasurer.

The most appealing feature of the plan is that every church has an equal chance. There is no central or capital prize offered, neither is it in any form a lottery, but simply the churches are paid a nice commission on all subscriptions sold; and the more subscriptions sold the more becomes the commission earned. And on top of this commission, when a certain number of receipts have been written, a bonus of Ten Dollars ($10.00) will be paid the church. Complete details of the plan will be gladly furnished upon request.

Fast Work Will Pay

In order to make the game a little more interesting, The Union-Banner is offering an additional bonus of Five Dollars ($5.00) on top of all the above to the church which turns in the first completed receipt book of seventy-five subscriptions. The second one to turn in a completed book will be given $2.50 extra and the third one $1.00 extra. So, you see it will pay you to work fast under this plan. And too, The Union-Banner will not continue to sell for One Dollar a year very long. The regular price is $1.50, and it will go back to that price before long. It will pay you to get your subscription shaped up yhile the price is still one dollar straight.

Bonus Is Passed Over FDR's Veto

Both Houses Over-Ride By Big Margins; President Urges Speed

The long contested bonus bill fight came to an abrupt end last Monday when the Senate voted to pay the bonus by a vote of 76 to 19.

The House of Representatives carried the bonus bill by a wide majority last week, but the bill had been vetoed by President Roosevelt. However, a majority vote to over-ride the veto was easily secured. The House voted to over-ride by a vote of 324 to 61.

Immediately after notice was given of the over-riding vote, President Roosevelt asked that payments be made as quickly as accuracy would permit. The total amount to be paid out to all veterans will be $2,491,000,000, and word has gone out that payment will start on the different allowances about June 15th. The payments will be made in $50.00 "baby bonds," which are cashable.

"A READY MADE FAMILY"

"A Ready Made Family", a 3-ac comedy, sponsored by the Clanton Dramatic Club, and directed by Miss Alice Polk will be given at the auditorium of Chilton County High school at 8:00 p.m., on Friday night, February 7th.

Included in the cast are: Mrs. Hortense Glasscock, Miss Mary Robinson, Miss Corrine Polk, Mrs. Lila Jones, Miss Euzebia Lee, Mrs. Morris E. Jones, George Parr, Ed Glasscock, Julian Evans and Clifford Jones.

LITTLE BOY BLUE

Since the Republican meeting at the courthouse in Clanton on January 18th, a number of people have asked The Union-Banner to reproduce the poem "Little Boy Blue," which Hon. C. O. Vardaman used in his lecture. We have procured the poem from Mr. Vardaman, and are reproducing it below:

Little boy blue, come blow your horn,
There's a government agent counting your corn
Another one is lecturing the old red sow
On the number of pigs she can have and how.

Pa's gone to town to find out what
He can do next month with the old weadow lot.
Ma's at the radio hearing 'em tell,
How, under the New Deal, there ain't no hell.

Aunt Mamie's in Washington, drawing big pay
From the PDQ and the AAA.
The hired man quite when the work didn't please,
And got a job triming the government trees.

They'll be telling you soon, if you don't take care,
Where you can live and what you can wear;
What you can pay for your pants and your shoes,
So this is no time to be taking your snooze.

Little boy blue may be buried deep,
Under the Red Tape but he's not asleep.

REPUBLICANS, PAY YOUR POLL TAX AND REGISTER

This week finishes up the time in which the law allows the payment of poll taxes. Saturday, being February 1st, is the last day. And the Board of Registrars are in session at the courthouse.

The Union-Banner wishes to urge upon the Republicans of Chilton county the importance of getting all poll taxes paid up and registering those who are eligible. The presidential election comes off before another chance will be given to qualify, and all citizens will want to have a part in that election. This week will wind it up, so let's everybody get busy these last few days and do some good honest missionary work by arousing some interest in these important matters.

MOTORCYCLE SHOW AT GRAGG FIELD SUNDAY

Gragg Field will be the center of excitement and entertainment next Sunday afternoon, February 2, when one of the biggest thrill shows ever presented in Chilton County will be seen at the local flying field, according to Mrs. Lois Davis, who has been in Clanton for the past two weeks making arrangements for this event.

Preceding the show and as introductory features to Sunday's program, H. Lee Davis, Jr., husband of Mrs. Davis, will drive an automobile, while blindfolded, along the city's more important streets Saturday afternoon. Car furnished by H. N. Smith Motor Company of Clanton. Mr. Davis is recognized in aviation circles as one of the best stunt men in the profession. For many years, he played such dangerous roles as wing-walking, rope ladder feats, parachute jumping and other stunts.

Sheriff J. R. Hardy will fasten the blindfold over his eyes immediately before the drive starts from the courthouse. The drive will progress along Main Street to the Wilson Hotel, circling along the Selma Highway and the paved Highway to the McKee Service Station.

At noon Sunday before the show, Mrs. Davis will be hostess to the riders, with Mayor C. Fenn Jones, at a luncheon at Nell's Eat Shoppe here.

The show will begin promptly at 2:30 o'clock and will continue for at least two hours, featuring stunts, races and thrills that will be something new to the people of Clanton, according to Mrs. Davis.

$ $ $ It Will Rain Dollars $ $ $

A feature of the program will be the raining of dollars. The management of the affair does not give the details of this part of the program, but they assure the spectators that it will happen. It will be worth the admission price to see the scramble for these rained dollars.

The affair is sponsored by the county high school P.-T. A. Tickets will be on sale from now until Sunday at Upchurch Drug Store.

Read more about it in the big adv. elsewhere in this paper.

E. H. LITTLEJOHN FIGURING ON COMMISSIONER 3rd DISTRICT

Mr. E. H. Littlejohn from the western part of the county was in Clanton last week, and talked very much like getting into politics again. Mr. Littlejohn says he is likely to announce for Commissioner from the Third District in the near future. He was a candidate for that place four years ago. Mr. Littlejohn says that if he gets into the race he will get in from the start to make it warm for somebody, in fact, he believes he is going to win. And if he does he says he will render service that will be strictly in line with the progress and best interest of the county.

ERNEST MIMS IN HOSPITAL

Ernest Mims is in Central Alabama Hospital suffering from a broken leg which he received in a friendly tussle one night last week. Hospital attendants stated that the break was a bad one, the jagged bone piercing the outer skin.

He was resting easily Tuesday morning, and attendants stated that the break was healing as well as could be expected.

KING GEORGE V OF ENGLAND WAS BURIED LAST TUESDAY

Early radio listeners last Tuesday morning heard the funeral ceremonies for King George V, England's beloved monarch, who died last week. The royal ceremony was complete in every detail, with "The Dead March" from "Saul" being played by His Royal Majesty's Coldstream Guards.

Next came the "minute guns", when the giant cannon mounted in Hyde Park, London, boomed out their salute to the dead king. Interspersed with these could be heard the gong of "Big Ben", the giant clock, said to be the largest in the world.

As the march was started to Windsor Castle, where the king's remains will rest with former English kings and queens, the Royal Scotch Guards band, a bagpipe ensemble, led the march. More giant guns boomed, bells tolled, whistles blew in deep tones, airplanes zoomed overhead and the sound of their motors could be heard plainly. The announcer stated that all flags were at half-mast except one, the "Prince's Ensign", which signified that the new king had been installed and that England's royal line of kings still carried on. The announcer further stated that the entire highway leading to Windsor Castle was banked with flowers for the whole route.

The broadcast of the ceremonies came by short wave from Station 2LO, London, and was broadcast in America on a nation-wide hook-up. While American listeners were listening in early in the morning, it was then the noon hour in London.

BOARD OF REGISTRARS IN SESSION HERE NOW

The Chilton Couny Board of Registrars are in session at the courthouse in Clanton Monday, January 27 and for ten days following. All those who are eligible to register and have not already registered should not fail to take advantage of this opportunity This may be your last chance before the elections that come off this year.

We especially urge the Republicans of the county to round up those about you who should register. This is a matter that should not be overlooked. And also the payment of poll taxes should be looked after too. February 1st is the last day on which these can be paid.

PASTOR'S CONFERENCE

The Pastor's Conference of the Chilton and Unity Baptist Associations is called to meet at the Clanton Baptist Church next Monday, Feb. 3rd, at 10:00 o'clock.—S. J. Ezell, President; J. W. Jones, Secretary.

JONES - MINOR

Mr. and Mrs. J. Andrew Jones announce the marriage of their daughter, Mary Edith, to William E. (Bill) Minor. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Minor.

Mrs. Minor attended Chilton County High School, graduating with the class of '35. Mr. Minor is a graduate of Sidney Lanier High School of Montgomery, finishing with the class of '30.

They will make their home with the groom's mother, Mrs. A. N. Minor.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Matson, Mrs. Delia Traywick, Miss Roberta Traywick and Mr. Stuart Armstrong, all of Clanton, attended church at Highland Sunday.

CLANTON LADIES THANK PEOPLE FOR HELP IN STATE S.S. MEETING

The ladies of Clanton who composed the committee for securing homes for the delegates attending the State S. S. convention here last week, wish to express their thanks for the ready response by the people of the city in helping care for the visitors. The people were very generous in lending their homes and otherwise helping care for those who came to our city from other places to attend this convention; all of which is greatly appreciated.—Mesdames J. P. Hayes, J. R. Mullins, E. E. Upchurch and J. D. Rockett.

FOUR FINED IN MAYOR'S COURT

Last Monday morning in Mayor's court, four cases were on the docket, all for violating the prohibition law. Convictions were ordered, and a fine of $5.00 and costs was assessed in each case.

FOUR ARRESTS BY SHERIFF

The office of Sheriff Hardy reports four arrests during the past week. They are as follows, together with dispensation in each case, so far:

One for public drunkenness; released on bond of $100.

One for robbery; pending preliminary hearing.

One for abusive, indecent and obscene lauguage; in jail.

One for assault with intent to murder; this man is being held for state authorities, who will return him to the state penitentiary. He had been released on parole last Thursday on the above charge. It is expected that he will be returned to the state prison to finish his former term there before standing trial on the present charge.

LOUIS PRINCE PLACED IN JAIL ON ROBBERY CHARGE

Louis Prince, Clanton jeweler, was placed in the county jail Monday night on a charge of robbery. He was taken into custody by city and county authorities.

Early Monday night local officers received a rush call, and when they arrived, found that Mr. Prince and his wife and a former customer had become embroiled in a quarrel and fight over a watch which the young lady customer had bought from Prince some time ago.

According to the report given by officers. Mr. Prince sold the watch to the young lady on terms some time last summer. That the payments had been made until only $1.00 unpaid balance remained. Mr. and Mrs. Prince and the young lady were all rooming at the same rooming house. Mrs. Prince demanded the balance, which the customer stated was not yet due. When she refused to pay it, Mrs. Prince attempted to take the watch from her, and a fight ensued.

Mr. Prince joined in, tearing the watch from the young lady's wrist by force. A hurry call for officers was turned in and Prince was arrested on the robbery charge.

Officers further stated that Mr. Prince gave a very bitter denunciation of arresting officers and of Mr. Walker, solicitor, who issued the warrant of arrest.

When officers started to jail with him, they stated he placed a pistol in his pocket, which they removed. He then asked that he be allowed to leave it at his place of business as the party passed it, and this was allowed.

Mr. Prince was released on bond of $750.00 Wednesday at noon, having waived preliminary for jury trial.

Man Stabbed In Fight Monday

James Elijah Easterling Was Badly Wounded By Paroled Convict

James Elijah Easterling, young farmer of the eastern section of Chilton County, was stabbed last Monday about 11:00 o'clock at his home by Carlee Baker. Easterling was brought to Central Alabama Hospital immediately and Dr. V. J. Gragg pronounced his condition serious.

Officers took Baker into custody Monday afternoon and placed him in jail, pending Easterling's condition. Baker was released from Kilby prison last Wednesday on a parole of 90 days, according to reports.

The story of the stabbing ran as follows, according to reports given The Union-Banner: Easterling came home from work about 11:00 o'clock and found Carlee Baker and Lonnie Mims there, both drunk. Easterling's wife had already asked them to leave, but they refused, and were cursing and acting boisterously. They seemed to want to fight among themselves, and Easterling told them to fight all they wanted, but to get out of his house to do it. Mims resented this, and Easterling started to put him out by force. As they grappled, Baker cut Easterling with a knife, just at the base of the neck on the left side.

When Easterling was brought to the hospital, Dr. Gragg stated that he had lost much blood, and that he fainted as he attempted to leave the table after his wounds were dressed.

Late Monday evening reports were given out that he was not expected to live.

Barn Destroyed By Fire Sat'day

Rufus Powell Sustains $2,500 Fire Loss; Had No Insurance

Last Saturday morning fire destroyed a barn at the home of Rufus Powell, about three miles east of Clanton on the Higgins Ferry road, near Concord schoolhouse.

It is thought that the barn was set on fire, although Mr. Powell had no proof, and stated that he had no idea of anyone who held any kind of grudge against him.

The barn contained two mules, three head of cattle, over 400 bushels of corn, quantities of velvet beans, oats, hay, fodder, cotton seed, and other feedstuffs, all kinds of farming tools, and Mr. Powell's Ford car. All were lost.

Mrs. Powell stated that she was up at 11:30 o'clock and noticed no light anywhere. Shortly after midnight Mr. Powell was awakened by a noise which he supposed was one of the mules kicking the side of his stall. When he looked out the south end of the barn was burning full blast. He rushed out to save his car, which was parked in the north end of the barn hall, but when the opened the hall doors the draft drew the fire through the hall on him so that he could not get into the car to start it.

The loss is estimated at between $2,000 and $2,500. Mr. Powell is a farmer, who also works as road overseer for the county. Part of the goods lost in the fire were the property of T. J. Powell, better known as "Uncle Tom" Powell. No insurance was carried, according to reports.

SINGING TO BE HELD AT THE COTTON MILL

Announcement is made that there will be a singing at the Second Baptist Church of Clanton (at the Cotton Mill) on Friday night before the first Sunday in each month, and on the third Sunday afternoon in each month. The Friday night singings will begin at 7:00 o'clock, and the Sunday afternoon singings will begin at 2:00 o'clock.

Singers and lovers of music are invited to bring new books and attend, to enjoy the singing and to take part if they wish.

Revival Running

Revival services are being held all this week at the Clanton Gospel Tabernacle at the corner of Third Street and First Avenue. This series of meetings began last Sunday, and will continue through next Sunday, February 2nd, with announcement made at that time regarding further services.

REV. T. GRADY MANGHAM

These services are under the direction of Rev. T. Grady Mangham, evangelist, of Tampa, Florida. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone to attend all services.

JUST BUREAUCRACY

The idea of creating "little Washingtons," "sub-capitals" in 10 or 12 cities scattered about the country "to simplify and accelerate the complicated functions of the federal government," is worthy of the genius of Secretary Ickes, Secretary Wallace, Federal Relief Administratotor Hopkins and other members of the New Deal with whom it originated. Bureaucracy, under this land, would be able to spread over from Washington, where it is now cramped for room, into numerous other cities, and the number of employees on the federal payrolls increased almost indefinitely. The plan also would offer an excuse for a new building orgy for the agencies in the "sub capitals" would have to be provided with office space.

The amount of red tape necessary to carry on the business of the government would be multiplied many fold. Many matters submitted to the "sub capitals" would have to be referred to Washington for final decisions.—Rochester, N. Y., Democrat and Chronicle.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

We have a heard a great deal of late about the probability of the re-election of President Roosevelt and whether his chances are growing greater or less. The meeting of the Republican National Committee at Washington, fixing the date and place of holding for the Republican National Convention, got a great deal of publicity and deservedly so. Newspaper writers are devoting columns as to the name of the probable nominee and what chance of ultimate success he might have in the final election.

This year, of course, brings us the great Presidential handicap, a poular election that is unequaled anywhere in the world. And yet, it ought not be forgotten, the election of a Congress is fully as important in November of this year, as is the election of a President. The Congress which is now sitting has been criticised on the ground that it has been more or less of a rubber stamp for the executive department. Our national debt has grown to thirty billions and the federal government is spending money in a manner never before heard of in peace times. A great many political wiseacres very properly attach some of the blame for this on to Congress. If Congress had not appropriated the money, and provided the machinery for spending it, it is pointed out, we would not be running up a national debt that looks like Mount Everest.

Now, no matter whether President Roosevelt is re-elected or not, it is evident that the election of a Republican Congress, or one which is almost equally divided, will divest the legislative body of its rubber stamp qualities for the next two years at least and put a brake on reckless appropriation. If Roosevelt is re-elected a Republican Congress or one nearly Republican will act as a balance wheel. If a Republican President is elected, a Republican Congress will of course be necessary if the party is to attempt to carry out its policies. The New York Herald-Tribune recently summed it up from the Republican standpoint as follows:

"Should Mr. Roosevelt be re-elected, a Republican Congress, to check him, would be indispensible. But a Republican House will be fully as important in what now seems the likelier event—the defeat of Mr. Roosevelt. A Republican President would urgently need a Republican House to circumvent the obstructionist tactics of a Democratic Senate. Therefore, whatever the Presidential result, the more Republicans elected to Congress the better. Here is a task in itself sufficient to keep the Republican machine busy until next November.

"Fortunately, the major issues are the same in the Presidential and the Congressional campaigns. The fight is not only to curb the reckless spending of the New Dealers, but also to put an end to the New Deal tendency to strengthen the executive branch of the federal government at the expense not only of Congress and the Supreme Court, but also of the states. Fortunately, the country already realizes the dangers inherent in the New Deal Policies."

In addition to a national committee, the major parties have congressional committees whose duty it is to look after the fortunes of the congressional candidates during campaign years. The national and the congressional committees usually cooperate closely but have their separate duties to perform.

That the Republican leaders realize the vital importance of electing as many Republicans to Congress as possible this year is indicated by the fact that the congressional commitee is already functioning smoothly, with spacious headquarters and a good organization, and is increasing its activities as the campaign draws near. This is as it should be. There is a legislative as well as an executive branch of our government which has a political background. This fact must not be lost sight of.

HISTORY REPEATS

That history may repeat itself is a phrase which has been used on numerous occasions and doubtless the President got pleasure in employing it at the Jackson Day Dinned in Washington the other night. There ought to be something personally pleasant, at least, in his comparing President Jackson of other days with President Roosevelt of the present period, in spite of the fact that Mr. Jackson was a rugged individualist and Mr. Roosevelt is the leader of the New Deal which has sought to outlaw rugged individualism.

Other phrases, however, have been in the political limelight during the past few months. For instance, there was the one enunciated by Mr. Roosevelt himself about giving business a "breathing spell." In view of later remarks criticizing certain groups of "big business" for seeking to "gang up" for the defeat of the present administration, many persons are beginning to wonder whether this breathing spell, after all, was to be much more than a gasp.

Certainly the insinuation that some sections of business are seeking to "gang up" on the New Deal is being used in an effort to incite suspicion that something is going on under the cloak of business enterprises, that is "dark and sinister, and that at a time when many employes of labor are facing in their respective communities the problem of assisting constructive plans to provide for the unemployed in some sound and permanent way.

If business, therefore, has been given a breathing spell it was evidently too brief to permit business to chart a course very far into the future.

There are now more bureaus of the government checking, regulating or supervising corporations and many individuals in the United States than ever before. If President Jackson ever erred because of lack of ability to obtain the facts the same excuse cannot be offered now. There is a gigantic government force filling every nook and corner in Washington and overillowing to the surburbs compiling statistics, and there ought to be ample data to bring to the bar of justice quickly and quietly anyone guilty of illegal activities or to name out those who are guilty of unethical practices in business or politics.

Instead we get a broad accusation against business, and certain business leaders, regardless of how many of these may be seeking to conduct their operations on sound principles.

The more insinuations becloud the air the longer the business man is inclined to defer improvements not absolutely necesary, and to expand as he otherwise might do. He realizes that he is apt to be tarred in the broad sweep of the brush where there are no specific charges and proofs against specific individuals, a political custom which brings all business under suspician.

When government agents get through examining the books of any corporation the administration should be able to pick out the "malefactors of wealth" without making broad, undefined accusations, which throw a general scare into business at the very time it is seeking to embrace recovery.

After all, big corporations are not owned by plutocrats but by thousands of small investors all over the country, either directly or through the insurance companies in which they have an interest. This multiple ownership of securities is especially applicable to the utilities who seem now to be the principle target of New Deal attack.

But of course "history repeats itself" and if the chages of "ganging up" on the New Deal are not substantiated by something more specific than has come out of Washington to date, the public will soon begin to smell a strong odor of politics. It has been that way before and perhaps will be again. For history repeats itself.

BILLIONS OF DEBT

With the national debt passing the 30 billion mark and still mounting; with practically every state, county and most communities swelling the grand total, the citizens whose taxpaying ability is distinctly limited, wonders how much farther this course can be followed without complete financial collapse on the part of all four.

That there must be a change, a halt, that the wholesale spending with its inescapable burdens on the individual must be stopped is clear to everybody. The problem now is how to put on the brakes. Our chief hope is that a definite and satisfactory manner of doing the necessary thing will be found at Cleveland next June.—Bristol Press.

Not a single person lost his life on American railway trains in 1935. This ought to convince even the densest driver that the locomotive has the right of way at grade crossings.

The claim that the New Deal policies have saved the United States from the grasp of the depression might have a degree of plausibility but for the object lesson spread before us by the British group. They enjoy a state of recovery more marked than our own, and with no such tremendous new debt incumbrance saddled upon this and the next generation, because their governmental leaders have possessed more patience and repsect for proved economic principles that the New Deal has flouted.—Springfield, Mass., Union.

Truth serum may be all very well in criminal investigations but it would never do for one who wishes to rise socially.—Kansas City Star.

Now that he has lost his NRA and his AAA a metropolitan newspaper rises to express the hope that the Supreme Court won't divest Uncle Sam of his BVD's. Don't worry. If the old gentleman ever loses that part of his wardrobe it will be taken from him in a European conference abroad or by a consultation of college professors at home.

What a life! Under six we believe in Santa Claus and over sixty we believe in Doc Townsend.

You can say one thing for the mother kangaroo. She never goes out and leaves the baby at home.

The only thing that can save Uncle Sam now is a strong constitution.

When the AAA was criticised the New Dealers used to say, "Well what have you got in place of it?" Since the Supreme Court decision the critic may now reply: "Well, what have YOU got in place of it?"

They say that money talks but it doesn't speak as loudly as it did since the dollar was cut down to 59 cents.

The up-to-date cook books in their recipes on the various methods of preparing potatoes for the tables always advise the young housewife—"first remove the stamps."

MAN IN THE MOON

TO THE DEMOCRATS

This article is quite different to any that has ever appeared in this column, in that it is intended principally for Democrats. Usually my column is intended for Republicans for the most art, but I wish I could be sure that every Democrat in Chilton County and the State of Alabama would read it. Not that it is such an outstanding epistle, but in the hope that it might cause our Democratic friends who still hold near and dear their rights as free-born American citizens to think twice and consider just what type of party leaders they have in Alabama.

Democrats of Alabama should get their calendars and put a black ring around the date of "Saturday, January 18, 1936", as it was on this date that something of much interest to all of them happened in Montgomery. On that day the state Democratic committee met at Montgomery and definitely decided to "hand pick" their state delegates to the national convention, at which a presidential candidate for their party wil be chosen.

As everyone knows, only death could keep Franklin Delano Roosevelt from being nominated again for the high position by his party, and it is almost a certainty that it would be impossible for the Democratic electorate to name a slate of delegates who would fail to vote for Roosevelt at the convention, whether they were so instructed or not. But that is not the point. The fact that the state committee sees fit to set a precedent and name those delegates without asking the voters of the state as to their opinion in the matter, not even allowing them a chance to vote on such delegates, is enough to enrage the most partisan Democrat.

In effect, the committee says: "Why leave such important matters to the poor ignorant voters? They dont know who they want for delegates. They are not smart enough to pick them. But we are the cream of Alabama's democracy. We are the wise boys.

We know who we want, and we know who we should have. What else matters? We run this business, so why not run it to suit ourselves? It is enough to allow the voters to pay the taxes. What difference does it make if we don't pick the men whom the people want. They will back them any way. They are Democrats."

That is something which has never been done in all Alabama's political history. It has been tried a few times, but there has always been enough good old fair-minded Democrats of the old school to forestall such high-handed action. But that is not the case now. Taking a page out of the book of their demi-god, Roosevelt, they brazenly disregard the rights of the members of the party in the state. What does this show?

There are but two reasons that could possibly cause such action. The first is that the majority of the members of the committee believe the Democratic voters of the state incompetent to vote intelligently. The other is that these members are afraid that Mr. Roosevelt may have lost some of his popularity in the state, and that these voters might pick an anti-Roosevelt delegate. I don't know which reason is the right one—maybe both of them are, in part.

I imagine there will be numbers of Democrats who will wonder what has become of that "by the eople" clause in the definition of democracy. To me it is but another of many proofs that the Alabama Democratic machine is one of the most perfectly rotten ones to be found under God's heaven.

At the convention there were quite a few committeemen who did not want to take such action, but they were snowed under. Fair and square dealing didn't have a chance with the Draper-dominated machine which clicked so precisely. In this action this group has proved that it is so crooked that it can't even run its own business straight. The only parallel for this, I believe, would be a man who would steal from one of his pockets and put his spoils in another pocket.

Democrats, think this matter over. Do you believe you are having your proper share in running your government and picking your own officials? Do you not realize the depths to which this crooked capital gang will go to attain their ends? Can you not realize that they have proved that they consider Alabama's Democratic voters as mere pawns, to be traded back and forth as so many head of cattle? Those hand-picked and instructed delegates will not be your delegates—they are the delegates of Hamp Draper, Ed Pettus and their ilk. Think this over!

ANOTHER SCRAP

Now I've gone and done it. Once again I have raised the "dander" of a member of the staff of The Chilton County News. In my column in our issue of January 16th, I pointed out a few instances of the inconsistency of The News and its sponsors, and at least one of those sponsors has seen fit to start an argument about it. Now I'm not so long on starting arguments—in fact I detest them. However, once they are started, I have never been one to run from a good healthy scrap, and it is too late to start now.

Billy Smith, of The News, in his "Footprints Of The Times", says that my column is one of "Republican Propaganda", yet he did not deny one single charge of inconsistency on his part and the part of his paper, which was pointed out in the article he was discussing at the time. Billy further stated that I had called him by name, but that he could not do that, as my name is not signed to my column. Now Billy knows all too well who I am, and his paper took great pains a few months ago to publish in detail just about all he knew about me. Furthermore, I had an article about that time in which I told my name, and gave my life's history from birth up to date.

Here's what is eating Billy and The News. They KNOW that this "propaganda" I write about them is all true. Don't think for a minute they wouldn't deny it if it wasn't. Nothing would suit them better than to catch me out on something. But they'll never be able to do it, because I print nothing but facts about them. The News is great at starting rumors, but when the cold facts and figures are put to them, into a hole they go, and pull the hole in behind them. I don't shun a scrap with them on any subject. I'm ready any time—"raring" to go.

And, another thing Billy mentioned in his column last week. That regarding a purchase by Commissioner Bean of some tires from Sears-Roebuck & Co., for the county truck. This, too, is just another instance where The News shows a desire to tell just enough to arouse suspician and then stop without telling the whole truth.

He neglected to tell that the truck was in Birmingham on county business at that time, and that it was impossible to buy a tire from a Chilton County tire dealer, because a tire had gone bad on the trip, and a tire had to be bought before the truck could even be driven back to Chilton County. He neglected to tell that Mr. Bean and Mr. Shaw priced tires in several Birmingham stores before finally buying. So far as that goes, we would like to inquire what difference it would make who the tire was bought from, if it had to be bought elsewhere than in the county. He neglected to tell, too, that Mr. Bean bought the best bargain he could find, in the interest of the county.

Why didn't The News explain all this? I can tell you. It was because Mr. Bean happened to be a commissioner elected on the Republican ticket. I dare say that if Mr. Bean had been a Democrat nothing would have been said about the affair. I notice nothing was said about the county being charged $76.15 to pay for the picnic held by the farm demonstration agent last year. Oh no, that was a part of the big Democratic program, where a number of big speakers were on tap to tell all about what a great amount of good the New Deal was doing. The News couldn't see anything wrong in that. Come to think of it, there are quite a few items of interest in that treasuer's report, from which Billy got his tire story. We may go into that further before long.

In order to keep everything straight, suppose we let Billy and The News deny false charges we have brought against them. Let them bring proof of misrepresentation on our part. If we are wrong, we will be only too glad to admit it, and apologize. If we prove ourselves right, then we shall expect The News to swallow the bitter pill without making any faces. I challenge The News to name one instance where we have wrongfully accused them.

While we are on this "trade at home" business, in connection with the question of the Sears-Roebuck tire, there is another thing I would like to mention. Billy says the local merchants were a little hot about this incident. I wonder how many of the local auto dealers appreciated his action when he went out of town to buy his car recently. He wanted a Packard, but he certainly could have arranged for some local dealer to get it for him. Of course that is none of my business, but neither is it any of his where the county buys its tires. He isn't a commissioner. If he is going to advise the commissioners court, he should be given the job of legal advisor to that body. "People who live in glass houses should not throw stones". Come on, Billy, let's hear from you!—Man in the Moon.

THE COST OF SHOES

Will the New Deal policies, some of which have already been invalidated by the United States Supreme Court, result in a higher price for shoes, to the American public? When the buying of drought cattle was first commenced, the packers were permitted to keep possession of the hides, then the government decided to take charge of those coming in. As a result more than two million hides are said to have been accumulated by Uncle Sam and stored in warehouses. The hides are said to be still in storage and deteriorating daily with the results, according to leather experts, that if the hides are not used before long the entire consignment will have been rendered valueless.

This of course will cost the government a lot of money but Uncle Sam is used to writing off losses in these hectic days. But another important thought is that the waste may, through the enforced scarcity of leather for shoes, add many millions of dollars to the shoe costs of our consumers.

The tendency of the price of shoes is to go up anyhow because of the increasing costs which the manufacturers have been forced to bear. Federally controlled scarcity of leather will only tend to increase this cost.

The price of leather has already increased considerably but Uncle Sam continues to hold on to his two million hides that are becoming less useful every day. Of course it may be possible to bring prosperity to all the peole through artificial scarcity, although the courts have held that this cannot be done through the processes of the AAA. But it is even now difficult to see how great benefit will come to anyone from the permanent retirement of two million hides "from circulation" at the cost of the taxpayers. If shoes go up in price because of the scarcity of leather then foot gear will cost the farmer as much more as the worker in the city.

Of course while the New Dealers are trying to increase the cost of leather in this country by impounding the hides in government warehouses, it is possible that Mr. Hull, our genial tariff manipulator, may find some scheme whereby he can lower the price by importing hides from South America and other alien lands. Then we will have the picture of Americans wearing shoes made from foreign grown hides while American hides are spoiling in American warehouses at the taxpayers' expense. It may be possible to extend this scheme a little further by importing the shoes from abroad rather than by merely bringing in the hides. Then the joy of our State Department tariff makers ought to be complete.

CHINA AND SILVER

By the terms of the November decree of the Chinese government private hoards of silver are required to be exchanged for currency. The amount privately held is not known, but there have been estimates runing into the billions of ounces.

If the Chinese government suceeds in obtaining any considerable portion of these vast stores there will be no shortage of the metal to meet Mr. Morgenthau's requirements. If the demand for silver for hoarding and monetary uses in China is no longer to exist, then the intrinsic value of the metal has been reduced. Silver was worth 25 cents an ounce before the government manipulation started only because of the demand for it in the arts and for hoarding and monetary demand eliminated, the intrinsic value must fall.

By putting up the price the government has actually reduced the outside demand and the eventual price. And the higher the government forces the price the lower its long-time value will become. Eventualy this insane policy must be abandoned, and when it does the government will have to take a tremendous loss on its holdings.—Chicago Tribune.

George Peek makes the suggestion that one way to help the American farmer would be to bar competing products now beginning to pour in from Canada. This suggestion is entirely too sensible and lucid to appeal to college professors.

Since Santa Claus' nose doesn't seem to be any redder in the days of prohibition, we are inclined to believe that it is caused by the cold weather, or else—.

It is a noteworthy fact that the more enthusiastic a man is about the "share-the-wealth" idea the less he has of his own to divide up.

TWO DECISIONS

There has been some disposition on the part of distinguished New Dealers, since the decision of the Supreme Court invalidating the AAA, to emphasize the two decisions rendered. This is doubtless due to the fact that the court was divided 6 to 3 on the constitutionality of the act and did not render a unanimous opinion as it did in the NRA case.

The intent is evidently to infer that great weight should be given both decisions. The fact is however, that the majority decision is the decision of the court just as it has always been in all Supreme Court cases. When the question of a divided court is brought up it must be remembered that, figuring on a percentage basis, the Court decision got a 66 2|3 vote and the AAA had to be content with 33 1|3 per cent support.

Now back in the 1932 election, which has always been regarded as a Roosevelt landslide and which the New Dealers considered as authority from the people to go ahead on a program of which most of the people had never heard, it is to be remembered that Mr. Roosevelt's percentage of the vote was a little more than 57 while Mr. Hoover received approximately 40 per cent of the ballots. So Mr. Hoover, who was regarded as badly defeated, got more support from the country than the AAA did from the Supreme Court. Here were two decisions, also.

It would be, of course, absurd to have unanimous vote or even a unanimous electoral vote as authority to go ahead with his policies. The same thing might well hold true of the force of Supreme Court decisions. The point to be considered is that this is a democratic country, or has always been, and the majority must and should rule. It is only when strongly organized and usually unscrupulous minorities get into power that a free people are apt to suffer.

Politics has never entered into Supreme Court decisions. In further substantiation of this it is interesting to know that of the three distinguished Justices who sustained the AAA legislation, one was an appointee of President Coolidge and another of President Hoover. The third was an appointee of President Wilson.

POPULARITY OF AAA

Of course it may be a litle late now to speculate on the popularity and vote-getting power of the AAA. The United States Supreme Court seems to have settled the AAA in a complete way.

At the same time it is interesting to note this International News dispatch from Waltham, Mass:

"Fred R. Viles, hog raiser, today had nothing but praise for the Supreme Court on its AAA decision. He asserted he is for the Constitution always. To date the Viles has received $17,000 for not raising his normal quota of squealers. The PWA spent $33,000 more on draining a ditch on his hog farm."

A great many political experts pointed to the vote of the farmers of the country on the corn-hog program as an indication of the direction in which the farmers are politically tending. It is true that a majority of the farmers didn't vote, and it is also true that wheat acreage in states like Kansas this year is greater than before in spite of the efforts of the AAA. Yet we were informed time and again that the signing up of farmers of the Middle West to the Wallace program indicated that that section of the country was almost solidly for the New Deal.

Yet here comes this interesting dispatch from Waltham, Mass. It indicates that Mr. Viles must have been one of the nation's greatest personal gainers by the AAA. Yet we should note what he has to say about the Supreme Court decision. Can it be possible that other farmers who accepted AAA easy money did not approve of the plan? We wonder.

It is hinted that the theatrical world is not entirely satisfied with the Federal Theater Project of the Works Progress Administration. But there is still time for Mr. Wallace to take hold, and pay the producers a bounty for not producing plays. And even the bitterest critics of the New Deal might be inclined to say that the money for such bounties would often be well spent.—Worcester Telegram.

Some folks are critical because it is said that the Democrats at Washington planned to charge $50 a plate for the Jackson Day dinner. Oh, well, after they pay the processing tax on the food what do you expect 'em to be able to do?

Yes, the holidays are a great time for billing and cooing. The cooing comes around Christmas and the billing on January 1.

Famous last words: "The AAA will be made a permanent American institution."—Henry Wallace, just before the Supreme Court decision.

Anyhow we should like to know how Andy Jackson really would have acted at a fifty dollar banquet.

The best break the Republicans can get will be to have the potato stamp law still in effect during the campaign next fall.

The Ethiopians may have a climate like that of the Californians. But anyhow they are not afraid to admit it when it rains. In fact they sort of brag about it.

FARM WOMEN DO HUGE BUSINESS ON MARKETS

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama farm women sold $291,689.67 worth of farm products on the 16 curb markets in the state last year, reports Helen Johnston, state home demonstration agent. The sales during the year were almost $30,000 more than in 1934 when $264,822.08 worth of products were sold.

Reports from county home demonstration agents indicate the following: amounts sold on the various market: Montgomery, $106,576.06; Mobile, $13,956.18; Dothan, $10,812.56; Florence, $7,635.41; Selma, $4,354.99; Decatur, $4,149; Opelika, $2,351.78; Auburn, $2,315.82; Athens, $2,189.59; Anniston, $2,062.22; Troy, $1,692.72; Tuskegee, 1,609.87; Talladega, $591.09; and Jasper, $839.38.

4-H HEALTH CONTEST FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

Auburn, Ala.—Another state-wide health contest will be conducted for Alabama 4-H club boys and girls this year, announce T. A. Sims and Elizabeth DeLoney, state 4-H club leaders.

The healthiest boy and girl will be given a free trip to the National 4-H Club Congress late in the year. County winners will also be recognized by awards and certificates.

The contest will be conducted as it has been during the last several years. Boys and girls in the various counties will compete in county-wide contests and then the winners in the county contests will compete in a state-wide contest to be held either in Montgomery or Birmingham. County and state health officers will cooperate.

REPORT OF HEALTH DEPT.

Records of the Health Department show the following cases of reportable diseases during the month of January: Three cases of diphtheria, 35 cases of pneumonia, 39 cases of influenza, 4 cases of chickenpox, 1 case of tuberculosis, 1 case of scarlet fever. There has also been reported during the month quite a number of cases of septic sore throat, but due to the fact that many of those having this disease did not call a physician the cases that were reported by physicians do not represent all those that did occur.

It is of interest to note that of the 35 cases of pneumonia reported 16 of them were children. A very large per cent of the influenza reported was among adults as was the case with the septic sore throat. All three cases of diphtheria were among children, and bears out the statement that diphtheria is a disease chiefly of young childhood.

UNION GROVE

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give me a small space in our dear old paper to say a few words from Union Grove. We were glad to have Bro. Carroll with us again Sunday, after a spell of sickness. This was his regular meeting day. The crowd was small, but the Good Book says "Many are called but few are chosen."

The matter of our church entering The Union-Banner's Good Samaritan Subscription plan was taken up and passed upon favorably. We want to say to the public that we want your help in this undertaking. You can get the paper from us as cheap as you can anywhere; the regular price is $1.50, and you can get it through this plan for $1. The Union-Banner is one of the best papers in the State, through which you can get all of the correct news of the county. And too, you will be helping the church.

I, P. M. Martin, was elected clerk and treasurer, and six helpers were appointed to work for the church. So, the public is asked to please help us out in this worthy cause. When one of these workers calls on you, please let them have your subscription.—P. M. Martin, Jemison Route 2.

BULL ASSOCIATIONS IMPROVE LIVESTOCK

Auburn, Ala.—F. W. Burns, extension livestock husbandman, has launched a campaign to get bull associations organized throughout Alabama so that dairymen and farmers with one to ten cows may use purebred bulls and increase their milk and butter production.

After stating that 86.2 per cent of Alabama's dairy cows are in herds of 10 cows or less, Mr. Burns points out that farmers and dairymen should begin producing cows as "we shall have an increased demand for high-producing cows all over the state in the near future."

TRUCKING MISBRANDED SEED VIOLATES STATUTE

Auburn, Ala.—Any trucker who is not a common carrier and who hauls misbranded seed from one state to peddle it in another state violates the Federal Seed Act, warns the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Selling misbranded seed in interstate commerce is also an offense, and the peddling trucker could be punished for either or both of these acts.

150,000 STATE FARMERS WANT NEW FARM PROGRAM

Auburn, Ala.—More than 150,000 Alabama farmers have expressed their desires that a new farm program be worked out to take the place of the AAA, report county agents to Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the state extension service. Very few farmers in the state have expressed their desires that there be no such program.

Determined to fight for a new national farm program and other things beneficial to agriculture, farmers of the state continue to flock into their farm organization. Reports from headquarters of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation in Montgomery indicate that approximately 30,000 farmers of the state have recently become members of their county and state farm bureaus. The membership of the Farm Bureau is now the largest of any time during the history of the organization.

NINETEEN CHILTON COUNTY STUDENTS AT AUBURN

Auburn, Ala.—Among the 2,215 students enrolled at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute this year, 19 are from Chilton County. The student body at Auburn for 1935-36 is the largest in the history of the College.

The list of Chilton County students follows:

B. M. Billingsley, Thorsby; Jane Fair Billingsley, Thorsby; James B. Boykin, Malesville; James N. Dennis, Clanton; H. L. Harris, Clanton; R. M. Hayes, Maplesville; Joyce Howard, Jemison; Jno. PAN-AM INTRODUCES NEW QUICK-VAPOR GASOLINE

Great Basic Gasoline Improvement Steps Up Performance Eight Different Ways

Three new improved gasolines are now offered the public at all Pan-Am stations without increase in price, according to announcement today by J. McCrory, Division Manager of the Pan American Petroleum Corporation. The new gasolines mamrk the greatest advance in automotive fuel in several years, and are based on refining discoveries in which Pan-Am has pioneered.

Pan-Am Quick-Vapor gasolines are so named because they vaporize faster, more evenly and more completely. Since it is the "gas" or vapor, and not the liquid gasoline that gives power, these faster vaporizing fuels give smooth power instantly and more efficiently.

The superiority of Pan-Am Quick-Vapor gasolines can be proved now during winter weather, when they provide instant starting, no matter how long the car has stood in a cold garage, and give rapid warm-up without waste of gasoline and without choking.

These features not only provide more pleasure in driving and a new thrill in performance, but they save on gasoline, save on motor oil and save on automotive up-keep.

All Pan-Am stations in town have the new Quick-Vapor gasolines, and Pan-Am men are inviting motorists to try the new fuel in their cars to see, hear and feel the difference for themselves.

CHESTNUT GROVE

We are glad to state that the health is good here at present.

Misses Gladys and Clarisse Lucas of Siluria spent the week end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lucas.

Miss Frances Lucas spent the night with Miss Margaret Nabors Sunday.

GOV. APPOINTED DELEGATES TO AMERICAN WILDLIFE MEETING

Montgomery, Ala.—Gov. Bibb Graves has appointed 22 delegates to represent Alabama at the North American Wildlife Conference to be held in Washington, D. C., Feb 3-7. The appointments were made at the request of Commissioner, I. T. Quinn.

One of the purposes of the Washington Conference will be the organization of a National Wildlife Federation. This has been proposed by a special conservation committee created by President Franklin D. Roosevelt and of which Commissioner Quinn is a member. The committee met in the nation's capital early in January to prepare for the conference.

STEREOPTICON FICTURES AT MAPLE SPRINGS CHURCH

Rev. Paul Oden will present his stereopticon pictures and lecture on the Life of Paul at Maple Springs church Thursday night, January 30, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

FARM AGENCIES JOIN IN EROSION CONTROL

Auburn, Ala.—The Soil Conservation Service, the Alabama Extension Service, and emergency work camps (CCC) have united in conducting in Alabama the greatest soil conservation program ever conducted in the county.

The joint program includes terracing, planting of vegetative crops for erosion control, crop rotation, and reforestation. In general, it includes protecting land from washing away and converting unprofitable land and fields into money-making projects.

Eleven assistant county agents have recently been employed to supervise the soil conservation work. These agents are J. W. Wible, Greenville; M. B. Smith, Dadeville; George M. Burns, Lineville; A. C. Harrell, Jr., Linden; T. G. Amason, Troy; T. A. Ventress, Clanton; W. H. Tucker, Opelika; Davis W. Pittman, Livingston; J. A. Medlock, Greensboro; T. D. Alldredge, Anniston; and P. L. Wright, Carrollton.

OBSERVERS CONFIDENT TENANT BILL WILL PASS

Auburn, Ala.—"Observers believe that the Bankhead-Jones Tenant Bill, known as 'The Farmers' Home Act,' will be enacted into law at this session of Congress," advises Walter L. Randolph, executive secretary of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, who is spending several days in Washington working on national farm legislation.

"The purpose of this bill is to promote home ownership by tenants," he says. "It would make available credit on a liberal basis in such a way as to enable worthy tenants to purchase and own their own farms and homes."

ALABAMA FARMERS REPAY ALL LOANS

Auburn, Ala.—"Alabama is the only state in the Union that met its production credit loans 100 per cent on the dollar in principal and interest in 1934," writes Jesse B. Hearin, president of the Production Credit Corporation of New Orleans.

Inquiry reveals that approximately $930,000 was loaned to Alabama farmers by the eight production credit associations located at Bay Minette, Ozark, Auburn, Anniston, Huntsville, Russellville, Demopolis, and Montgomery.

Mr. Hearin reports that the Alabama Associations are at present receiving applications for loans in 1936.

More eggs were being laid per 100 hens on January 1 than on the corresponding day in the last three years. The average for farm flocks was 19 eggs per 100 hens and pullets of laying age.

NOTICE - WORLD WAR VETERANS

The following notice is issued to all Chilton County World War veterans by the Commander and Adjutant of the local post of the American Legion:

"We have today (Tuesday) received a letter from the state department Adjutant stating that he would mail American Legion Posts proper forms and applications for payment of "Bonus" (adjusted service) certificates. We expect to have proper forms by next Monday night, February 3, when the regular meeting of our American Legion Post will be held at the courthouse at 7:00 p.m.

We feel that the American Legion in a large measure is responsible for this measure being enacted into law, and whether you are a member of the Post or not, we welcome you to this meeting, where we hope to have all available information necessary to cash or reduce to cash your adjusted service certificates.—Percy M. Pitts, Post Commander; V. C. McKee, Adjutant."

CARD OF THANKS

May we take this way of trying to express our appreciation to friends during the extended illness and during the most trying hours during death of our precious husband and father.

May we especially mention Mr. and Mrs. M. L. White, Mr. Burns Goodgame, Dr. Ezell and Dr. Napoleon Johnson, who helped us untiringly to bring sunshine to his heart during his year of failing health. While we are praying with and for you, may you not forget us ever in your prayers, because our grief is more than it seems we can bear.

Spigener Funeral Home gave us such a sympathetic and sweet service. God bless them.—Mrs. W. F. Culpepper, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Erwin and Mr. and Mrs. Luther Culpepper.

"Circus of Science" to Tour America

Artist's conception, drawn from photographs, of the General Motors Parade of Progress on the road. The traveling "world's fair on wheels" will bring to American communities the contributions of industry to human welfare. The giant streamlined buses are joined together on location to form continuous exhibition halls, and are built as large as practicable for present-day roads. When under way, with the vehicles spaced 200 feet apart for safety, the caravan is two miles long.

SOCIETY

Jeanette Ross Celebrate Fourth Birthday

Mrs. L. C. Ross entertained at a delightful birthday party on last Friday afternoon honoring her little daughter, Jeanette, who was celebrating her fourth birthday. The Valentine idea was effectively carried out in the decorations. The birthday cake, which centered the dining table was covered in tiny red hearts.

Games were enjoyed for several hours. Little Gussie Rainer Higgins was awarded the prize for pinning the donkey's tail on. Attractive favors were given the little guests. Only members of the Ross Kindergarten and neighborhood children were included, due to the extreme cold weather. The chilren enjoying the afternoon were:

Harold Gene Parks, Gussie Rainer Higgins, Carolyn Klinner, Richard Reynolds, Bobby Webb, Dave Boyett, Jr., Polly Webb, John Will Pitts, Jack Elmore, O. K. Welch, Mary Lee Gray.

Blind Made Goods For Sale

Members of the Clanton Study Club are sponsoring a Blind Made Sale this week and next week. The sale will be held at the store of J. R. Mullins & Sons, and articles may be purchased at any hour of the day during the neyt two weeks.

These articles are made by the blind and deaf at Talladega, Ala. They are reasonably priced and neatly made. The Civic Committe in charge of the sale consist of Mrs. Grady Heflin, Mrs. L. C. Ross and Mrs. J. W. Hayes. This committee will appreciate your interest and cooperation in making this the best "Blind Sale" ever held in Clanton.

THE GENERAL MOTORS PARADE OF PROGRESS

America is soon to be given a heartening look at evidences of its present progress and an inspiring glimpse of the continued advancement which the future holds, through inauguration of the world's first caravan of science built to visit the people of the nation in their home towns, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., President of General Motors Corporation, announced recently.

Known as the General Motors Parade of Progress, this unique traveling exposition will seek to portray, especially for that vast portion of the population living in smaller towns, the contributions of a new age of scientific progress to the comfort, happiness and welfare of 126,000,000 Americans.

An important purpose of this "world's fair on wheels," according to Mr. Sloan, is to foster a better understanding of how industry and science work together even during depressions to lay the foundation for new advances. Specific examples of the results accomplished by industrial research are presented in the belief that an understanding of their significance will inspire increased confidence and add to the momentum of business recovery.

Heralded as a "circus of science," the huge exposition will be carried by a fleet of especially built motor transorts which are themselves portents of the future. The 28-vehicle caravan, which is two miles long when in transit with units spaced at 200 foot intervals for safety and as courtesy to other motorists, is scheduled to start its showings early in February, and to travel more than 20,000 miles within 12 months, displaying its exhibition of marvels to an audience running into millons.

Announcement has been made that the caravan will visit Clanton in the near future.

Lawrence Gerald, Jr., who attends school at the University, spent the holidays here with his parents.

Grady Reynolds, Jr., who is a sophomore at the University of Alabama, spent last week end here with his parents.

Mr. Bill Inzer spent the week end in Montgomery.

The many friends of Miss Emma Sue Morris will be delighted to know that she is recovering rapidly from a nervous breakdown at Hilcrest Sanitorium in Birmingham. Miss Morris was teacher of the first grade in the grammar school for several years and made many friends here and through out the county. Friends who have visited Miss Morris recently say she is improving rapidly and hopes to soon be entirely recovered.

Mrs. Arthur Johnson Hostess

Members of the Thursday Contract Club were entertained last week by Mrs. Arthur Johnson at a delightful spend the day. Bridge was enjoyed before and after the luncheon hour. Mrs. Hugh Jones was awarded the club prize. The members and guests enjoying the day were Mrs. J. P. Hayes, Mrs. James Wade, Mrs. J. C. Page, Mrs. J. Hance Alred, Mrs. Hugh Jones, Mrs. L. F.Gerald, Mrs. Grady Reynolds and Mrs. J. Lee Smith.

Mr. John Hardy of Montevallo attended the dance given in Clanton last Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Winston Stewart and children of Rockford spent Friday night as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George McCain. They attended the dance given by Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds and Mr. and Mrs. Burnett at the city hall.

IN MEMORY

On January 15, the death angel visited our home and took away our daughter and sister, Vivian.
The Lord giveth and

And the Lord taketh away.
His will be done and not ours.
But to know her was to love her.

But Vivian again I hope to meet
In that sweet home above.
There I can fall at Jesus's feet,
And sing redeming love.

Oh, won't that be a happy time?
When Vivian's face I see;
And the golden gates roll open wide
And Vivian welcomes us all.

Then, Oh, how sweet to dwel in heaven
And see dear Vivian smile;
And hear her say as I go in,
Oh, that is my darling friends.

Vivian is gone, I need not weep.
She cannot come back any more;
But soon I hope to meet her there,
And rest on Canaan Shore.

SHELBY COUNTY SINGING CONVENTION MARCH 22nd

The Shelby County Singing Convention will meet on the fourth Sunday in March, (March 22) at the High School auditorium, Calera, beginning at 9:30 a.m. The Stamps Quartet of Dallas, Texas will be present. Every one is invited to attend.

IN MEMORY

On January 7th, the death angel visited the home of Mr. Jadie Mims and bore away the spirit of his loving wife, Mrs. Susie Mims. She was a kind and loving companion, and was loved by everyone who knew her.

All was done for her that loving hands could do, but God saw fit to call her home where there is no pain or sorrow. She was laid to rest at Highland on January 10, with the Rev. Holland officiating. Martin was in charge.

Weep not dear loved ones, for we feel like our loss is Heaven's gain. Mrs. Mims would have been 46 years old on the 16th of January. She was the last of her family.

She leaves to mourn her loss a husband and a host of relatives and friends.—Written by Miss Maudie Foshee.

I FEEL FINE

Mothers read this:

A CONSTIPATED child is so easily straightened out, it's a pity more mothers don't know the remedy.

A liquid laxative is the answer, mothers. The answer to all your worries over constipation. A liquid can be measured. The dose can be exactly suited to any age or need. Just reduce the dose each time, until the bowels are moving of their own accord and need no help.

This treatment will succeed with any child and with any adult.

Doctors use liquid laxatives. Hospitals use the liquid form. If it is best for their use, it is best for home use. And today, there are fully a million families that will have no other kind in the house.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a doctor's prescription, now so widely known that you can get it all ready for use at any drugstore.

How to Keep Colds UNDER better CONTROL

Catching Cold? . . Vicks Va-tro-nol helps Prevent many Colds

At the first warning nasal irritation, sniffle or sneeze, use Vicks Va-tro-nol—just a few drops up each nostril. Va-tro-nol is especially designed for the nose and upper throat—where most colds start. It stimulates Nature's own functions—in the nose—to help prevent colds, and to throw off head colds in their early stages. Used in time, Va-tro-nol helps avoid many colds.

Caught a Cold? . . Vicks VapoRub helps End a Cold Sooner

If a cold has developed, rub Vicks VapoRub on throat and chest at bedtime. VapoRub acts direct—two ways at once: (1) By stimulation through the skin like a poultice or plaster; (2) By inhalation of its medicated vapors direct to inflamed air-passages. Through the night, this combined vapor-poultice action loosens phlegm, soothes irritation, helps break congestion.

Follow Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds

A helpful guide to fewer colds and shorter colds. Developed by Vicks Chemists and Medical Staff; tested in extensive clinics by practicing physicians—further proved in everyday home use by millions. The Plan is fully explained in each Vicks package.

The Boy Scouts will meet Friday night at 6:30 at the city hall.

The Ladies Aid Social of the Congregational church will be held on Thursday, February 6th, at the home of Mrs. C. M. Williams.

The Ladies Guild Social housewarming held at the campus cottage last Thursday evening was a very pleasant occasion. Miss Foss gave us a musical program, presenting some of the younger pupils. This was followed by seated games and refreshments. There were over fifty present, though the night was unusually cold.

The Misses Ruth Maddox and Marjorie Brown from Alabama College spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Smith.

Mrs. E. W. Butler, who has been in a hospital in Birmingham for about two weeks on account of a broken hip, was brought home Sunday afternoon, where she will be glad to see her friends, as she will be laid up for some weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Weldon of Clanton were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Smith

Mrs. Genie Robinson is in a Birmingham hospital for treatment.

Mrs. Genie Robinson and family are expecting to move to Thorsby soon.

Miss Polly Collins is visiting relatives in Birmingham.

Glenn Hayes Marcus, who has been ill for some time, is now doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Jones of Troy were the guests of their parents, Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Jones, on Sunday.

The Misses Katheryn Foss and Louise Fitzpatrick spent the week end in Demorest, Georgia.

Mr. Clifford Johnson of Enterprise spent the week end with his family in Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Johnson have been entertaining guests from Wisconsin this week.

Miss Helen Jenkins and her mother, Mrs. Jenkins, made a trip to LaGrange last Friday and returned Sunday evening.

Miss Marian Fairbank made a trip to Birmingham last week.

Miss Marguerite Davison returned to Thorsby last Thursday after a month spent in Boston and vicinity.

Thorsby Institute News

The Girls Glee Club gave two selections of music at the chapel service Tuesday, under the direction of Miss Foss. They were very much enjoyed.

Two new students have enrolled, one a boarding student, Thelma White, of Clanton, and the other, Florine McCary, of Thorsby. Both are Sophomores.

A week from next Saturday at three o'clock in the auditorium, the voice and piano pupils of Miss Katheryn Foss will give a recital to which every one in invited. No admission will be charged.

On February 14 the Helen Keller Literary Society will hold a Valentine party at the dining hall for its members.

The Junior and Senior classes are seeking subscriptions for the Saturday Evening Post, Ladies Home Journal and Country Gentleman. If you are thinking of subscribing or renewing, please do it through them. Be sure to ask them if it is for the benefit of Thorsby Institute. Other schools in other towns are competing also.

Last Thursday night the Ladies Guild Social was held in the newly enlarged living room of the campus cottage. (The enlargement and addition of two bed rooms were made possible through the generous gift of the Ladies Guild. Mrs. Jenkins also made a donation for this purpose). At the social hour a program of piano music was rendered by the very young music pupils of Thorsby Institute. Those who played were: Peggy Franklin, Annettee Merchant, Helen Louise Meade, Clarence Williams, Marjorie Bentley and Inez Cox. They played very well. Grace Mixson was to have played but was prevented by illness. Louise Fitzpatrick rendered two vocal solos which were much enjoyed. After the program group games were played. Fruit salad, crackers and coffee or cocoa were served. Everyone had a good time.

On February 16 the Girls Glee Club will sing at the night service at the Presbyterian church in Prattville.

On February 22 the annual declamatory contest will take place. Four girls and four boys will participate.

The week of February 3 has been set aside for "Visiting Week". Parents and friends of the school are especially invited to visit classes and chapel during this week. The chapel exercise starts at 8:30 in the morning. Classes run from 8:30 to 3:45 with an hour for noon.

PLAY AT THORSBY

"Tumble Inn," said to be one of the most interesting hilarious musical comedies ever seen in this section, will be presented by the Thorsby Parent-Teachers Association next Tuesday evening, February 4, at 7:30 o'clock, acording to an announcement this week. The presentation will be at the Thorsby Public School Auditorium.

Featuring the town's leading amateur theatrical talent, those in charge of program declare that this will without doubt be Thorsby's best production. Mrs. Margaret Frazier, of the Southern Artists Production Company, arrived last Saturday and is coaching the play.

Taking part in the production are: Sam Bentley, Frances Conway, Elizabeth Austin, Marie Jackson, J. A. Hayes, Milton Higgins, Jack Eastburn, Horace Kendrick, Leo Spivey, Louise Fitzpartick, Lucille Each and Ruth Higgins.

Chorus—Lucille Goodgame, Lucille McLain, Kathleen Honeycutt, Marie Barrett, Olys Pate, Marie Each, Mary Alma Goodgame, Ruby Rayburn, Ruby Maddox, Bobby Wagoner, Marie Hayes, Merle Martin, Marjorie Popwell, Vivian Lowery, Ruby Driver, Lorene Mims, Elizabeth Jean Collins, Joan Rowell, Clarice Ray Collins, Betty Jo Rayburn, Norma Jean Honeycutt, Myra Jean Collins, Dorothy Howard and Don Rayburn.

A baby show will be added attraction.

SINGING AT ENTERPRISE

The singing society will meet at this place next Sunday afternoon, beginning promptly at 2:00 o'clock. We are expecting several visitors and some real good singing. Everybody come promptly at 2:00 o'clock. We will have plenty of new books, both Stamps and Showalter. Visitors are always welcome.

C. H. ROBINSON INJURED IN FALL FROM SCAFFOLD

One day last week C. H. (Lum) Robinson of Beat 16 happened to an accident in which he sustained painful but not serious injuries. While doing some carpenter work at the home of his sister, Mrs. Beanie Bates, near Clanton, Mr. Robinson fell from a scaffold severely crippling both his hands. The injuries rendered him absolutely helpless so far as his hands are concerned, but no other part of his body was hurt to amount to anything. The attending physician says it will require several weeks for complete recovery to be effected.

REV. PAUL ODEN WILL SHOW HIS PICTURES AT NEW SALEM

The Rev. Paul Oden, our associational missionary, will be at New Salem Baptist church next Sunday, Feb. 2nd. to show his pictures of the Life of Paul. Brother Oden will preach at the morning service and show the pictures and lecture on them at the evening service. All members of the church and friends are urged to attend both services—G. H. Carroll, Pastor.

IN MEMORY OF AUNT VIVIAN BEST

Go, pilgrim, to thy home,
To soothe her aching brow,
To cool her burning, feverish lips
We have no aunt Vivian now.

We should not wish her back again
In this dark and dreary world,
Although I know she dearly loved
Her darling friends.

My Lord saw fit to take her home
And set her spirit free.
But while on earth dear Lord I roam.
I humbly trust in thee.

I hope to meet her some day.—Written by her niece, Ruby Frith, Selma, Alabama.

Don't Guess But Know

Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE?

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN.

He will tell you that before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate Bayer Aspirin among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this.

You can get Genuine Bayer Aspirin at any drug store — simply by asking for it by its full name, BAYER ASPIRIN. Make it a point to do this — and see that you get what you want.

GREYHOUND for LOW FARES and CONVENIENCE

Cozy, warm streamlined buses make scenic winter travel most enjoyable by bus . . .

YEAR 'round, season travelers prefer Greyhound Lines' service above all other means of transportation for low fares, convenience and safety. Frequent departures right from the heart of shopping, hotel and theatre districts, a choice of scenic routes, new fast, streamlined schedules make it more convenient. It costs less to travel by Greyhound than to drive your own automobile . . . much more safe, too, with National Safety Council prize-winning drivers at the wheel.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

A thorough discussion of the state University, its history, composition, and functions, will be given by Prof. William M. Hepburn, profesor of law at the University of Alabama, in his commencement address before the January graduating class Saturday night.

Professor Hepburn is repeating with some changes, the address given before the winter initiates of the Alabama Alpha chapters of Phi Beta Kappa. The talk has received editorial comment in several state papers.

Dr. George H. Denny, president of the University, will award degrees to about 150 candidates for diplomas. Mrs. Elizabeth Roberts, Tuscaloosa, will render a musical solo.

The Southern Province meeting of Phi Beta Pi, professional medical fraternity, will be held at the University of Alabama March 13 and 14, according to Dr. Emmett B. Carmichael, Southern Regional Director of the fraternity and professor of Physiological Chemistry in the Medical School at the University.

The need for the scholar and the University man in action today was stressed by Professor William M. Hepburn, professor of law at the University of Alabama, in the address before the January graduating class at the University.

Profesor Hepburn stated that the teacher is one of the citizens best equipped to take part in public life. He cited Woodrow Wilson, and numbers of other university men who have taken an important part in life.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank the kind people for their help during the illness and death of my little playmate. She went by the name of Duxie. Her name, though, was Ruth Kate Cleckley.

She was laid to rest in the Mt. Springs cemetery, Saturday at 2:00 o'clock with Rev. Tom Daniel in charge of the funeral. Thanks for the floral offerings. May God bless everyone.—Lunnie Connell.

ANNOUNCES $25-A-MONTH TIME PAYMENTS AND A NEW UCC 6% FINANCE PLAN

Any New Ford V-8 Car Can Now Be Purchased for $25 a Month with Usual Low Down-Payment

THIS $25-a-month time-payment plan enables you to buy a New Ford V-8 car through your Ford dealer on new low monthly terms.

After the usual low down-payment is made, $25 a month is all you have to pay for any type of new car, including insurance and financing.

Your cost for this extension of credit is only ½ of 1% a month on your original unpaid balance and insurance. This plan reduces financing charges for twelve months to 6%. For example, if you owe a balance of $400 for your car and insurance, you pay $24 for the year of credit; if the balance is $200 you pay $12. Your credit cost for one year is the original unpaid balance multiplied by 6%.

UCC plans provide you with insurance protection at regular conference rates. You have not only fire and theft insurance, but $50 deductible collision, and protection against other accidental physical damage to your car.

The Universal Credit Company has made these plans available through all Ford dealers in the United States.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

It is not the desire of the writer to cast a shadow over the clear sky of human hope, nor would he rob any heart of a legitimate, beautiful dream, However, we had just as well face the facts squarely. Jesus Christ taught that until the end of this age there will be wars and rumors of wars. He also said there will be earthquakes in divers places. We talk about outlawing war. We had just as well talk about outlawing earthquakes. Man in his natural state is in rebellion against all restraint. The devil told Adam and Eve to live their own lives and be their own gods. Men have been trying to do that ever since the fall. When man endeavors to live his own life in his own way, often his way of living conflicts with some other man's way of living. Then there is war. What is true of individuals is true of nations. Men talk much about personal liberty. An individual's personal liberty should end where another man's rights begin. But man has never learned that. Jesus knew human nature. He said He knew what was in man. Because He knew what was in man He said, "Unto the end of the age there will be wars and rumors of wars."

The United States has no right to meddle in foreign wars. We have no more right to meddle with the race problem in Germany than Germany has to meddle with the race problem in America. It is not our business to go across the sea and take care of Ethiopia even though she is being crushed by an ego-maniac who heads up the Italian government. Our busines as a nation is to live at peace with all men as far as possible, attend to our own business and let the rest of the world do the same. The writer believes that is the sentiment of the overwhelming majority of American citizens.

We read in the first chapter of James that we are to consider it a joy to fall into divers temptations. Note the expression "fall in." It does not say "walk in". A fall is unintentional. I may throw myself from a building. That is intentional. I fall from a building and that is unintentional. If on the path of duty we fall into temptations then we have violated the teaching of the Bible which says "avoid all appearance of evil". It is a reflection on a man's character for him to call on the devil. It is a compliment to a man to have the devil call on him. Jesus never called at the devil's house. The devil was constantly calling on Jesus. Jesus never entertained him. He never invited him into his parlor. He resisted the devil. Nowhere does the Bible tell us to flee from Satan. We ae told to flee youthful lusts. We are told to resist the devil and the devil will flee from us. We are to resist him in the power of a conquering Christ. Don't call on the devil. Don't ring his front door bell. When he comes to see you, even though he comes as an angel of light, which will be the way he will come, command him in the name of Jesus Christ to get off your front porch. Resist him and he will flee.

Take Notice

Notice is hereby given, that on SATURDAY, the 1st day of February, 1936, J. A. Mims, the Executor of the last Will and Testament of Susie Johnson Mims, will sell at public outcry, to the highest bidder for cash, the following described lands, to-wit:

The Southeast fourth of Northwest fourth (SE¼ of NW¼) of section four (4) township twenty-one (21) range fourteen (14), also all of the land lying on the South side of the public road as it now runs in the Northeast fourth of the Northwest fourth (NE¼ of NW¼) of section four (4) township twenty-one (21) range fourteen (14), and containing fifty (50) acres, more or less, situated in Chilton County, Alabama, and known as the Monie Baker place.

The said J. A. Mims, as said Executor reserves the right to reject any and all bids for said land at said sale.

Dated, this the 25th day of January, 1936. J. A. MIMS, Executor.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Matson, Mrs. Delia Traywick, Miss Roberta Traywick and Mr. Stuart Armstrong, all of Clanton, attended church at Highland Sunday.

IN REMEMBRANCE OF RUTH KATE CLECKLEY

Last Friday morning at 6:00 o'clock the death angel visited the home of Mr. Robert Cleckley again and took away his darling baby, Ruth Kate. It has been only six months since her darling mother led the way for her children to follow. She was only 10 years old and was confined to her bed only nine days. No one knew what killed her but it sure was sad to give her up.

She is at rest. Weep not, dear ones, for the Lord does all things well. There is a vacant place that no one on earth can fill. All was done that loving hands could do. She leaves to mourn her loss, her father, Robert Cleckley; two brothers, grandfather and grandmother on both sides.—Written by her cousin, Miss Lioner Connell.

NATIONAL PARK SERVICE AIDS STATE PARK SYSTEM

Montgomery.—The cooperation of the National Park Service of the U. S. Department of the Interior has been the main element in the development of Alabama's State Parks, according to a statement issued by the Alabama Commission of Forestry. In some quarters it has been thought that the Civilian Conservation Corps merely moves into a State and starts improving and developing various areas as parks. This is far from the truth, according to the Commission.

In projecting the development of State Parks, the Commission of Forestry selects various areas, either already owned by the State or which can be acquired by the Commission, that conform to State Park requirements as to scenic, educational and recreational values. These areas are listed to the National Park Service with full description together with a general outline of the improvements and developments regarded as desirable and practicable. The National Park Service designates from this list the tracts that it regards as the most suitable for the assignment of Civilian Conservation Corps companies to work upon the projects.

As soon as the various projects are approved, the State Commission of Forestry submits detailed plans for various improvements and structures. These plans involve specifications, drawings, plats and estimates to the same degree of exactness as is required in the most technical branches of engineering, architecture, forestry and landscape architecture. Each item is separately considered by the National Park Service at its regional and Washington offices and if approved, authorized for construction. The C. C. C. men under the general supervision of the Commission of Forestry and the field direction of the State Park Emergency Conservation Work superintendents and foremen then proceed with the work.

The National Park Service in its direction of the State Park Emergency Conservation Work has established and maintains a highly efficient technical staff to check, inspect and advise in all details of the work. The staff includes engineers, foresters, landscape architects, geologists, wild-life experts, architects, historians, photographers and other trained personnel. Every branch of park work and every use to which a park may be put thus receives expert consideration by qualified technicans and consultants. In this way each project is developed as a whole and also in relation to other projects in the State Park System.

The State Park Emergency Conservation Work of the National Park Service is a self-contained and well rounded organization. No other Federal or State official or department is connected with the development or administration of the State Parks, except in north Alabama where the Tennessee Valley Authority renders active assistance in both planning and field supervision. Marked cooperation, however, has been received from certain individuals, land owning concerns, civic and business organizations, cities and counties, the press, the State Geological Survey, the Polytechnic Institute, the State Department of Archives and History, and the State Highway Commission. Through the effective aid of the National Park Service the State Park program of the Commission of Forestry has advanced several decades.

MONTEVALLO WINS OVER C. C. H. S. 26 TO 19

The plucky Clanton Tigers strove hard to overcome a comfortable lead by the boys from Montevallo Friday night. After getting off to a slow start, the cagesters from Chilton outplayed the Montevallo boys in the last half, but the lead was too much to overcome.

The outstanding play of Clive Aldridge, Frank Hogan and George Moore was the feature of the offensive attack of Clanton. The leading scorers for Montevallo were Findley and Eddins.

The local boys play the strong Wetumpka Aggies here February 5th. Don't miss this one.

Lesson for February 2

JESUS ENLISTS HELPERS

LESSON TEXT—Luke 5:1-11, 27, 28.
GOLDEN TEXT—They forsook all and followed him.—Luke 5:11.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Finds Some Helpers.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus and the Fishermen.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Jesus Calls Us.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Our Call to Serve With Christ.

The work of Jesus had now progressed far enough to make more workers necessary. He, therefore, called and trained the helpers needed. The spread of Christianity depends upon the testimony of men and women who have come into an experiential knowledge of Jesus Christ.

I. Jesus Teaching by the Seaside (vv. 1-3).

His fame was now so widespread that the people pressed upon him to hear the Word of God. The manner and matter of his teaching gained the attention of the people, for he taught as one having authority and not as the Scribes. The people came to hear the Word of God. It is true today that people will flock to hear the preaching of the Word of God. The people will not flock to hear the preacher discourse on politics, literature, current events, and human philosophy. These people were hearing the living Word expounding the written Word.

II. The Mighty Draught of Fishes (vv. 4-7).

Before these disciples were called into the Lord's service, it was necessary that, in a most concrete way, they be shown the wisdom and power of Jesus Christ.

1. Christ's command (v. 4). It was to launch out into the deep and let down their nets for a draught of fishes. It was necessary for them to learn that if fish were to be caught they must cast their nets where the fish were.

2. The disciples' hesitant obedience (v. 5). Peter as spokesman explained that they had a night of disheartening failure. They had given themselves to a whole night of exhausting toil, with no success. While they acknowledged their failure and unwillingness to continue on the ground of their own judgment, they expressed willingness to proceed on a new ground of action; namely, "At thy word." Happy are they who are willing to go forth with unfaltering courage on the ground of Christ's commandment.

3. Reward for obedience (vv. 6, 7). By Jesus' guidance they were able to take such a draught of fishes that their nets broke and the boats were in danger of sinking. Abundant success will crown the efforts of the disciples who render implicit obedience to the commands of the Lord Jesus Christ.

III. The Disciples Called to Higher Service (vv. 8-11).

1. The effect of the miracle upon the disciples (vv. 8-10). This miracle was so manifestly the work of supernatural power that Peter acknowledged himself to be in the presence of a divine being, even expressing the fear that comes to all when brought face to face with God.

2. Their new vocation (v. 10). Jesus not only spoke words of good cheer to the disciples, but made clear to them their work in the coming years. They no longer were to spend their time in catching fish, but henceforth were to be fishers of men. Literally, they were to catch men alive. This is the exalted calling of every one who is Christ's real disciple.

3. Response to the call (v. 11). They left all and followed Jesus. They had such a marvelous demonstration of wisdom and power of Christ that they were now willing to give up their temporal interests and give themselves to the new work; that of winning men to Christ. Obedience to Christ meant not only sacrifice, but a life of fruitful service in winning souls for him.

IV. The Calling of Matthew (vv. 27, 28).

Matthew was a despised tax-gatherer. He was called from a remunerative position to give up all and follow Jesus. He, together with James, John, and Peter, gave up all to follow Jesus. He had the courage of his convictions, for he made a great feast to which he invited his old friends so that he might introduce them to Jesus Christ. This act of Matthew was a result of mature deliberation, for considerable time had elapsed since his call. His experience with Jesus was so blessedly real that he desired that his friends should have a like blessing. Men and women of reputation and influence should capitalize on them for the salvation of the lost, introducing their friends to Jesus Christ. Christ is not only able to save all kinds of sinners, but to use them when saved in his work.

Al Smith Condemns The Present Administration

Former Democratic Nominee Will Not Be Candidate Again; Leads Liberty Fight

In a ringing speech last Saturday night before 2,500 members of the American Liberty League, former Democratic presidential nominee Alfred E. Smith bitterly attacked the New Deal and the Roosevelt administration. The speech was made at a League dinner held at the Mayflower Hotel in Washington, D. C.

Smith prefaced his remarks by removing himself from the field of probable candidates. He asserted that he was "born a Democrat and expected to die a Democrat", but that the so-called leaders of his party had denied the faith of their fathers and had gone off after the idols of socialism, rather than clinging to the regular Democratic party standards.

He deplored the fact that his party, with the greatest chance in its history to prove its worth in 1933, had "fumbled the ball". He attacked the administration's repudiation of its 1932 platform from beginning to end, including its enactment of the NRA, the AAA, its foreign policy in trade channels, its failure to balance the budget, the installation of the brain trust, the subsequent leaning to socialist principles, and many other phases of administration procedure. He was especially vehement in his denunciation of the administration for its attack on the supreme court.

He stated that it was a "travesty on justice" for the present Democratic standard bearers to speak of their administration in the same breath with the names and policies of Jefferson, Jackson, and other famed Democratic leaders of the past.

Time after time the former governor's remarks were cheered wildly, and many times bursts of laughter followed his comic remarks relative to New Deal policies.

In closing he repeated his loyalty to the Democratic party, stating that his speech was not one to disrupt the party, but to try to lead the party back to sane and practical Democratic methods, and off the socialistic and communistic paths.

He deplored the administration's high-handed acts, in conjunction with the brain trust, stating that because of them "The Supreme Court is throwing the alphabet out of the window three letters at a time."

He stated that at the coming convention of Democrats, his old line Democratic followers would be faced with the alternative of following off after the false god of socialism or of "taking a walk," adding "and we will very probably do the later." In these remarks he hinted that his part of the Democratic party would never submit to the Roosevelt branch, but would leave the convention if it should come to a show-down.

The Union-Banner has requested the American Liberty League to furnish us with a copy of the speech with the right to reprint it. If it is furnished, it will be published in the near future.

WHY BLAME THE CLOTHING MAN?

THE clothing man is not at all enthusiastic about having to pay more for his stock of clothing because of taxes and other expenses created by governmental activities. Necessarily, if you expect to have a convenient place to buy clothing, somebody must be paid to maintain such a place. Your clothing man gets his pay in the form of "profit."

He's wondering if there's going to be any profit, because he's fearful clothing prices may go so high that people will buy fewer clothes. He's also fearful of the day when he's going to have to begin paying for the enormously increased expenses of government.

No one can sell anything for less than what it costs and expect to stay in business very long. That same thing applies to governmental participation in the light and power business—EXCEPT that the government can make up its losses through the assessment of taxes which your clothing man and you must pay—even if indirectly!

"SCOTTSBORO BOY" STABBED SPECIAL DEPUTY LAST FRI.

Ozie Powell, one of the defendants in the now famous Scottsboro trial, attacked a special deputy last Friday afternoon while enroute from Scottsboro to Birmingham. Powell, in company with two other negroes in the case were being carried to Birmingham for safe keeping for the night. Near Lacon, a short distance from Cullman, Powell stabbed Deputy Edgar Blalock, one of the officers detailed to carry the negroes. Powell grapppled with Blalock, and and when he secured Blalock's gun, Sherifff Sandlin, another officer in the car, shot Powell, the bullet entering the forehead at the hair-line and ranging downward, piercing a portion of the brain, party paralyzing the left side.

The negro was brought to Birmingham for treatment by other officers who arrived on the scene, and Blalock was given first aid treatment at the Cullman hospital.

Gov. Graves has lauded the Decatur officers for their action, and has ordered a special military guard for the negro at the hospital where he is undergoing treatment since removal of the bullet by a brain specialist.

EDGAR R. BAKER

Edgar R. Baker, 48-year-old World War veteran, died Saturday afternoon at the Central Alabama Hospital, following an operation after which complications set up. Some time ago Mr. Baker was a patient at the Veteran's hospital in Tuscaloosa, but did not receive much help.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at Mt. Pisgah church, with Rev. M. Lockhart officiating, assisted by Rev. W. S. Cox. Burial was in the cemetery there with Martin in charge.

Mr. Baker is survived by his wife, Mrs. L. E. Baker; one son and two daughters; father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Baker; and two brothers, M. O., and Ervin Baker, all of Clanton, Route 3. Mr. Baker made his home in the Highland community about three miles southeast of Clanton.

C. C. H. S. WINS A DECISIVE VICTORY OVER HOLTVILLE 17-8

The boys from C. C. H. S. won their contest from Holtville high here, Wednesday, January 22nd, in a very pleasing and spectacular manner. The local bays carried the offensive to Holtville throughout the game. The burden of the offensive for Clanton rested with George Moore and Clive Aldridge, each registering the same number of goals for high point honors. The outstanding offensive players for Holtville were Dennis and Thomas.

Mrs. Amzi Gowan of Brewton is the guest of her mother, Mrs. W. I. Mullins.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cope have as their guest his mother, Mrs. Cope, of South Alabama.

POULTRY CAR IN CLANTON LAST WEEK

Chilton county farmers last week had another reason to be grateful to and proud of the county farm and home demonstration agency here. When a poultry car, operated by the Farmers Marketing and Exchange Association, came to Chilton county last week, $5,164.53 worth of poultry of all types was sold by growers of this section.

A beautiful feature of this, as pointed out by County Agent J. W. Fant, was that the farmers received $2,189.-53 more for the poultry sold than the market price in Clanton on that date. Heavy hens, which were being quoted here at 10 cents per pound, sold for 16 cents and stags, roosters, and other poultry for which there was no market also brought good prices.

It is interesting to note that this transaction alone brought more extra money to the farmers of Chilton county than is annually appropriated by the county for both county farm and home agency. Chilton county's share at present in the expense of maintaining this service to its farmers is only $2,100, it is understood.

The Farmers Marketing and Exchange Association is operated only in connection with county cooperation with this work.

Total poultry sold was 34,281 pounds, being as follows: heavy hens, 26,741 pounds; light hens, 3,553; fryers, 977; roosters, 1,736; turkeys, 192; stags, 513; geese, 436; ducks, 127. and 11 guineas.

PLEASANT HILL

Last Sunday seemed to be a bright day with the people around Pleasant Hill as the weather had been so rough we haven't been having very many out for Sunday school, but it seemed that each one was in a hurry and had to go rain or shine. We are thankful to know that the people around Pleasant Hill are still anxious to go to Sunday school, and not only to go but they seem to be interested. It would be a fine thing if everyone would put as much interest in church as they do in other things that's not worth while. Nevertheless, we are hoping to have a large crowd out next Sunday. We had only a few absentees last Sunday, and it was raining some. Let's go and carry some one with us.

Miss Ollie Belle Davis spent last Saturday night with Miss Hazel Blow.

Miss Central Cost and Miss Lurlene Blow were the Sunday dinner guests of Miss Pearlene Martin.

Miss Dotha Cleckler spent a while last Sunday with Miss Alta Mae Blow.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Driver were the week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Martin.

Miss Hazel Blow was the dinner guest of Miss Jesse Cleckler Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Blow and children spent last Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Hilyer.

Mrs. W. J. Davis is spending this week with relatives at South Calera.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Blow spent a while last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Dock Mims.

Don't forget our Sunday school every Sunday morning. Visitors are always welcome.—Reporter.

KIWANIS CLUB TO SPONSOR FARMERS PROGRAM AT CCC

The Kiwanis Club is sponsoring a program at the local CC camp tonight (Thursday), beginning at 7:00 o'clock.

According to information received, approximtely 40 of the leading farmers of the county have been invited to meet at the above hour in the dining hall at the camp, where dinner will be served.

Following this, Mr. R. Y. Bailey, state co-ordinator in charge of state soil erosion control, will be the principal speaker of several who will make talks on the subject.

This program is being sponsored by the Kiwanis for the benefit of the county's farmers, and all invited guests are urged to be present. The subject of soil erosion will be fully discussed, and much good is hoped for as a result of the meeting.

BETHSALEM NEWS

The singing at this place last Sunday afternoon was enjoyed by all present. We surely do thank the visitors for their cooperation.

The opening song was led by Miss Ettie Charles Wilkins. Prayer was offered by Mr. C. M. Billingsley.

Directors for the afternoon were: Mr. Orbie Devaughn, Miss Ida Mae Wilkins, Mr. Cecil Yeargan, Mr. Edward Wilkins, Mr. J. W. Devaughn, and Miss Leona Bearden. A special was arranged by Mr. J. W. Devaughn.

On account of the weather being rather unfavorable, the crowd was small. Each and everyone has an invitation to come back next fourth Sunday afternoon. Bring your new books.—Reporter

Miss Ruth Prince of Alexander City has returned home after a visit to Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Prince.

GOV. O. K. ALLEN OF LOUISIANA DIES

Corps of Physicians Called But Efforts To Revive Govenor Failed

Baton Route, La., Jan. 28.—Gov. O. K. Allen died unexpectedly today at 10:40 a.m., from what was announced as a cerebral hemorrhage.

Governor Allen was seized with a sudden attack at the executive mansion at 8:50 a.m. He apparently had been in good health and was just preparing to leave the mansion for his executive offices in the state capital.

A corps of physicians was hastily summoned, including Dr. C. A. Lord, one of the physicians of the late Senator Huey P. Long, political associate of the governor.

But all medical attention failed to rally the governor and he died at 10:40 a.m.

THE SMALLEST HEN EGG

CENTER HILL NEWS

The health of this community is fairly good at present considering the weather. Mr. Euell Durbin, wife and little boy have been sick in bed, but are better now.

Since the weather has been so bad we have let our Sunday school go down, but we held Sunday school Sunday and new officers were elected. We hope to keep our Sunday school going now and we ask the cooperation of everyone in our effort.

Last Sunday afternoon was our regular singing time here, but the singing was held at the home of Mr. B. L. Cobb instead of at the church. Quite a few attended and enjoyed practising some songs in the new books.

The young people of this community gave Mr. Leo Collum a surprise party Saturday night.

Mr. Frank Lesley spent the week end at home.

Misses Berney Dean and Mabel Cobb took dinner with Mrs. Viva Carey Sunday.

Mr. Lem Simms and family visit his parents during the week end.

Mrs. J. W. Collum had as her ner guest Sunday, Mr. Eugene Cle ley.

Congress To Repeal Farm Control Laws

President Advises Abandonment; New Bills Thought To Be On Way

Washington. — Congress hustled Tuesday to the final interment of one farm program and to debate on its successor.

The house agriculture committee, acting on the recommendation of President Roosevelt, was ready to approve a bill repealing three phases of AAA crop adjustment—the Bankhead cotton, Kerr-Smith tobacco and the potato control acts.

A brief repealer for all three was introduced in the house late Monday by Chairman Jones (D.), Texas. Senator Russell (D.), Georgia, moved on the other side to wipe out the Bankhead law. Such action was advised by Mr. Roosevelt because the laws were "auxiliary" to the invalidated AAA provisions.

With prompt action forecast for the repealer, the legislative leaders in both chambers were ready to tackle a new program.

On the house floor was the Jones soil conservation-subsidy bill to provide a two-year substitute for AAA. This came out of Jones' committee Monday with a vote of 17 to 6.

VETERAN AGRICULTURAL STATISTICIAN RESIGNS

Montgomery, Feb. 3.—After more than 40 years of service with the Federal Government, F. W. Gist, United States and Alabama agricultural statistician, today announced his resignation. He had served as statistician for the past 20 years, and had been employed in other departments of the Government prior to that.

A native of Alabama, Mr. Gist said he will continue with the State Department of Agriculture in an advisory capacity. He will be succeeded as statistician by J. C. Garrett, his assistant.

VAN SMITH IMPROVING FAST

We are informed by Mr. Reuben Lowe that Mr. Van Smith is improving fast at the Veterans Hospital at Tuscaloosa. Mr. Smith was carried to the hospital a few days after Christmas, suffering from diabetes and an abscessed lung. Mr. Lowe states that the lung trouble has cleared away entirely, and that he is recovering from the diabetes. He is being given regular doses of insulin daily, and is gaining in weight. Attending physicians at the hospital stated that he would be able to return home in the near future.

INTERESTED IN SCHOOLS

Right now the most of our people are very much interested in the school question. However, we believe that one of the County Board of Education has made some kind of a record for interest in schools.

Last Friday, January 31, was the date for the regular meeting of the school body, and although snow covered the roads and Mr. S. J. M. Webb could not start his car, yet he walked the five miles to town through the snow in order to be present at the meeting. Questions of interest in the school business were to be decided at this meeting, and Mr. Webb considered it all-important that he attend.

We believe that if more of our citizens were as much concerned over questions of such vital interest, our public affairs would be in much better shape than they now are.

THRILL SHOW WILL BE HELD ON NEXT SUNDAY

Because of the inclemency of the weather last Sunday, the big thrill show at Gragg Field has been postponed until next Sunday afternoon, February 9, according to announcement early this week by Mrs. Lois Davis, under whose supervision the show is being staged.

Several new acts not on the original program have been added, and all in all, this is expected to be one of the best shows of its kind ever presented anywhere in this section of the state. Featuring more than a dozen of the South's leading trick riders and stunt men and women, there is no possibility of a dull moment throughout the entire show, Mrs. Davis stated.

Beginning promptly at 2:30 p.m., the show will continue for more than two hours. In this issue of The Union-Banner will be found an advertisement carrying in outline the program for the afternoon.

You can't afford to miss the last feature of the biggest thrill show ever staged in Chilton County.

Have you ever seen it rain dollars? Don't miss the mad scramble for them when it rains dollars at Gragg Field Sunday, February 9th.

Tickets may be had at Upchurch Drug Co., in Clanton; Gulledge's Store and Howard's Filling Station in Verbena; and Wright's Drug Co., in Thorsby.

CROWSON WANTS VELVET BEANS

Mr. Willie Crowson of the Central Alabama Miling Company wants to buy some velvet beans. He has been asking about this in his adv., but gets little response. If you have velvet beans which you want to turn into cash, it will pay you to get in touch with Mr. Crowson, in East Clanton.

EVERY SECTION OF ALABAMA AROUSED OVER SALES TAX

Birmingham, Ala.—Spurred to renewed activity by well conceived and cunningly laid plans to impose additional tax burdens on the people, the Consumers Anti-Sales Tax Association of Alabama is driving forward toward completion of one of the most formidable organizations of the kind the state has ever known.

From every section of Alabama, according to Irby Hall, Collinsville, general chairman, and B. C. Apperson, Birmingham, secretary, come reports by outstopken opposition to the apparently deaf ear the governor has turned to the wishes of the people, and the utter disregard of his pre-election pledges.

Determined not to be caught off guard when the time comes to strike the state association fortified by active and functioning county organizations, is daily corralling its forces for a mighty protest, not only to the governor but to individual members of the Legislature through which the governor will attempt to saddle the consumers sales tax on the people.

Mr. Hall, who reached the Birmingham headquarters yesterday from his home at Collinsville, declared:

Never in the history of Alabama's memorable fights against a consumers sales tax have I seen the people so thoroughly aroused. No longer can the governor and the lawmakers utterly heed this voice. The citizens of Alabama, already drained to the last drop by steadily mounting and often useless taxation, are prepared to take drastic steps to correct the situation if this tax is not put on them. We have undisclosed plans for effective action, and we expect to take that action if and when the time comes.

County and community meetings will be held as long as the threat hangs over the people Mr. Hall said.

"We urge the citizens of every county in the state to protest to their legislators, consult their local newspapers for dates of these meetings and to attend them and bring their friends and neighbors.

Devaughn-Whitt Music Institute At Courthouse

School Will Be Taught At Night Beginning Next Week

Profs. Eugene H. Whitt and W. M. Devaughn will teach a singing and music school at the courthouse beginning Monday night, February 10. Classes will begin at 7:30 o'clock and last for 2 hours. Everything about sacred music will be taught including theory for all ages,voice and hadmony. There will be school five nights a week for four weeks.

All class work will be 75c per week There will be 15 minutes of class voice each night, taught by Mr. Whitt.

Mr. Whitt will also give private lessons in voice, at the rate of 12 lessons for $6; there will be three of these lessons given each pupil each week. Mr. Whitt is said to be one of the finest voice teachers in this section of the country.

This school is intended not only for beginners and average students of sacred music, but for teachers as well. The above named two gentlemen are thoroughly competent to handle anything anyone wants to study in this line. If you already know music, this will be your chance to learn more. These teachers will be glad to work with you and assist you in unraveling any part of it you choose to tackle.

Messrs. Devaughn and Whitt invite you to get in touch with them at once if you are interested.

SINGING AT COURTHOUSE NEXT SUNDAY AFTERNOON

There will be singing at the courthouse in Clanton next Sunday afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock. All singers in this vicinity have a cordial invitation to attend. If you like good singing you are invited also. The new books will be used, and a supply of both Stamps and Showalter will be on hand. However, if you have one, bring it along.

NO ARRESTS IN CITY DURING THE PAST WEEK

City Clerk, C. H. Pipes, reported that there were no arrests during the past week by city officers. This is the second week of the immediate past in which there were no city arrests.

Luther E. Foshee Gains Sale Record

Veteran Automobile Salesman Makes Enviable Record During Past Year

During 1935, Luther E. Foshee, popular Chevrolet salesman with the Hayes Chevrolet Co., made a sales record which entitles him to membership in the "100-Car Club."

This "100-Car-Club" is an organization of the Chevrolet sales division, and any salesman in the Chevrolet froce who sells enough units during a year to equal the sale of 100 new units is eligible for membership. This is run on a point system.

For each new unit sale, two points are allowed; for each used unit sold, one point is allowed. When the salesman has sold enough units that his total reaches 200 points, he is eligible.

During 1935, Mr. Foshee sold 82 new Chevrolet units, for a point mark of 164; also he sold 49 used units, for 49 points; total, 213 points

Mr. Foshee has been an automobile salesman since 1925 until the present. His first work of this kind was with Clanton Motors, back in the Model T days; he stayed with this firm until February, 1927.

From this date until January of 1928 he was with Polk Brothers Motor Co., selling Chevrolets. At this time he went into business with Joe Calloway in the Foshee Calloway Motor Co., local Overland - Whippet dealers, where he stayed until the fall of 1929.

After this he went back to Polk Brothers Motor Co., and Chevrolet, until February of 1931, when he went with Reid Motor Co., of Montevallo, Chevrolet dealers for Shelby County. He stayed with this firm until January of 1934, when he came back to Clanton, with Hayes Chevrolet Co., where he remains today.

During all this time Mr. Foshee has made an enviable record as an automobile salesman, and he has hundreds of friends over the county and in adjoining counties, where he has plied his trade. He knows the Chevrolet line from stem to stern, and when he has finished telling a prospect about his product, there isn't much left to tell.

Mr. Foshee carries an adv. in this issue of The Union-Banner, expressing his thanks to his friends for their 1935 patronage.

But Mr. Foshee is not the only one who has been going places and selling cars during the past year. During 1935, J. C. Jones and Rufus White, both connected with the used car division of Hayes Chevrolet Co., and both fairly new at the auto selling game, have made quite a record for themselves.

Each of these gentlemen have sold over 50 used units for the firm, and so are eligible for the "50-Car Chapter" of the "100-Car Club".

Miss Cecile Wagoner is now employed at the Clanton Lunch Room on Sixth Street. She will be glad to have any of her friends visit her at her new place of employment.

FINE NEW SHOE MACHINE AT I. D. ARMSTRONG SHOP

Mr. I. D. Armstrong, proprietor of Clanton Shoe Shop, has just recently installed a brand new American shoe repairing machine, which is said to be the last word in shoe shop equipment. It is the latest model and has the newest gadgets and attachments to finish up shoes in jam-up style.

Mr. Armstrong says that everything in his shop now is new except the workmen, including himself and his trusty helper, Curtis Popwell. Both these gentlemen invite their friends to come in and inspect their new machine. They will take pleasure in showing you how it works, and especially so if they are permitted to show you on your own shoes.

MISS ELOISE JONES BACK IN BEAUTY SHOP PERMANENTLY

Miss Eloise Jones of Eloise's Beauty Shoppe wishes the public informed that she is now out of school and is at her shop now all the time. She will be glad to have her friends visit her and make known their beauty wants to her. She is located in the rear of Service Barber Shop.

J. L. DUPREE CARRIED TO BRYCE HOSPITAL

J. L. Dupree, former Chilton county farmer, who now makes his home in Autauga County, was carried to Bryce Hospital at Tuscalosa last Sunday for treatment, by Reuben Lowe and John Hancock.

Mr. Dupree suffered an attack of fever some months ago which wrecked his nervous system. He has been suffering from this nervous ailment ever since, and was taken to the Bryce institution in the hope that something could be done for him.

Attendants at the hospital stated that it was their belief that a three-months treatment would cure him.

SINGING AT FRIENDSHIP FRIDAY NIGHT THIS WEEK

Mr. J. Dudley Collins asks The Union-Bannner to carry the announcement that there will be singing at Friendship church Friday night of this week, beginning about 7:00 o'clock. The public is cordialy invited, and especially the singers. The new books will be used.

BUSINESS VIEW OF BANK BRIGHT

AAA Not To Hurt, Bonus To Stimulate Trade, Survey Indicates

New York, Feb. 2.—Farm purchasing power is not expected to be materially curtailed by invalidation of the AAA, it is stated in the monthly survey of business conditions by the National City Bank of New York.

"Automobile manufacturers, retailers farm implement makers," the review declares, "take the view that conditions will be much the same as they had previously expected.

"The burdensome surplus of basic farm commodities except cotton has been consumed, and the supplies on the market are in general the smallest in 10 years or more. In some commodities, specifically hogs and wheat of milling quality, there is a shortage and increased production is needed.

"Thus farm markets are better able to stand alone than in many years. Even if all restrictions on production were removed there could be no oversupply until next harvest at the earliest, and not even then in most products."

Touching on the bonus bill, passed over the president's veto, the review said the temporarily stimulateing effect of the payments "is not to be denied."

"Merchants know from experience," the review goes on, "that the recipients will spend them for automobiles, clothing, furnishings, and the other things they need, as well as for the discharge of past obligations."

Concerning the general business situation at this time, the bank's commentators found that while some elements of uncertainty over the outlook have cropped up "there is no evidence of a change in the prevailing hopefulness.

John Browder Died Late Tuesday P. M.

Clanton's Well Known Police Chief Buried In Clanton Cemetery Wednesday Afternoon

John W. Browder, age 44, Clanton's genial chief of police, died Tuesday afternoon at 5:15 o'clock at his home here, following an illness of four days. Stricken last Friday with pneumonia, his condition grew worse rapidly until Monday when it seemed certain that his chances of recovery were gone.

For two years, "John," as he was known to almost everyone was a familiar figure on Clanton's streets. He was more than a police officer. He was an ambassador of goodwill for the city of Clanton. Joining the police force at the death of "Uncle Billy" Foshee more than two years ago, he became chief when Sheriff J. R. Hardy resigned to take over his duties as sheriff.

Surving Mr. Browder are: his widow, Mrs. Mary Will Stewart Browder; two brothers, William Browder and Hubert Browder, both of Montgomery.

Born and r ared in Montgomery County, he came to Chilton County about twenty years ago and for many years was connected with the Alabama Power Company at Lay Dam.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the home. Burial was in the Clanton cemetery with Spigener Funeral Home in charge. The following friends served as pallbearers: Julius Smith, J. T. Thornton, J. A. Nivens, B. R. Plyler, L. T. (Red) Wagoner, and Earl Gore.

SHELBY COUNTY SINGING CONVENTION MARCH 22nd

The Shelby County Singing Convention will meet on the fourth Sunday in March, (March 22) at the High School auditorium, Calera, beginning at 9:30 a.m. The Stamps Quartet of Dallas, Texas will be present. Every one is invited to attend.

School Question Shows A Better Outlook Now

Luther E. Little, County Superintendent of Education, was in high spirit Monday morning when approached as to the outlook for the county's schools.

He stated that at the regular meeting of the county board last week it was found that there would be enough money to run the schools through February 21. The state legislature has been called into extra session, to meet on February 11, and it is thought that the main reason for this call is to devise some means whereby the schools of the state can be allowed a full term this year.

Supt. Little stated that he was not sure what steps would be taken, but that he was fairly sure that something will be done in the interest of the schools. At least the outlook for help is much brighter than has been the case for the past several weeks.

MRS. LAURA HEADLEY

Mrs. Laura Headley, age 71, died Friday night at the home of her son, J. C. Headley, in Clanton.

She is survved by five sons—Yancey, of Billingsley; Otis of Clanton Route 3; and Ballard of Clanton; and Woodrow, of Independence; also two sisters.

Funeral services were held at Billingsley Methodist church Sunday afternoon, with burial in the cemetery at that place.

Mass Meeting Called For Saturday, A.M. February 8

Voters of County Asked To Attend And Discuss Proposed Local Bills Before State Legislature

A mass meeting of the people of Chilton County is called for 1:30 o'clock next Saturday afternoon, February 8th, for the purpose of allowing the people to voice their opinion on the proposed local bills which are to be introduced to the next session of the legislature. A petition has been circulated, and bears the signatures of 76 citizens, including several Chilton County officials.

At this meeting every person will have a chance to voice his reasons for favoring or opposing the enactment of the measures. It is reported that Messrs. C. B. Cox, Representative from Chilton County, and Earle Thomas, our Senator, have been invited to attend the meeting and hear the discussion of the questions covered by the bills.

The bills to be discussed are those which have lately been advertised in The Chilton County News, and which received comment in last week's Union-Banner. This paper is carrying another article in regard to them in this week's issue. The bills, if enacted into law, entail an added county expenditure of $6,800 per year, and a permanent allotment of one cent per gallon of Chilton's share of the gasoline fund to a special "permanent" road fund.

All of these bills are of special interest to every taxpayer in the county, and everyone is urged to be present. Remember the hour—1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, February 8th.

Below is given an exact copy of the petition, together with the names signed:

"We, the undersigned citizens of Chilton County hereby call for a mass meeting to be held at the courthouse in Clanton on Saturday afternoon, February 8th, 1936, for the purpose of discussing the proposed local bills to be presented to the State Legislature, and affecting the local government of Chilton County. The hour to be at 1:30 o'clock on the above date.

The signatures:

J. Lee Smith, C. D. Duke, J. R. Hardy, J. E. Smith, J. T. Thompson, W. W. Wingard, W. D. Spigener, Hoyt Freeman, Gertrude P. Calloway, J. P. Cagle, W. M. Benson, M. M. Benson, S. W. Collins, W. A. IT'S A BOY

Mr. and Mrs. Sam B. Williams are the proud parents of an 11-pound boy, which arrived January 24th. His name is Omer Landon.

Prof. W. Lee Higgins, of Boaz, Ala., was in Clanton a while Wednesday on his way from Montgomery, where he has been teaching a music school. Prof. Higgins begins a school in Bessemer in a few days.

T. W. CHILDRESS

T. W. Childress, age 65, died at his home at Thorsby Monday morning, after a long illness. Mr. Childress has made his home near Thorsby almost all of his life.

He is survived by: one brother—C. R. Childress, of Thorsby; and three daughters—Mrs. E. C. Cox and Mrs. Ernest Porter of Clanton Route 4, and Mrs. Arthur Honeycutt of Thorsby.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at 2:00 p.m., with Rev. J. W. Jones officiating; burial in New Salem cemetery, with Spigener in charge.

COUNTY-WIDE P.-T. A. MEETING TO BE HELD ON WEDNESDAY

A county-wide P.-T. A. meeting was called for Wednesday afternoon, February 5, at 1:30 p.m. The meeting was to be held at the Chilton County High School building.

Plans in the interest of the county's schools were to be studied. The association was slated to consider plans for a basis for promotion of pupils, in case the schools are forced to close before the full term is completed.

All members of the association, as well as all teachers in the schools of the county are urged to attend.

Immediately after the close of the P.-T. A. meeting, the schedule calls for the regular meeting of the Chilton County Teachers Association. This will be held at the high-school building also.

TWELVE HENS ON EXHIBITION AT J. L. RUFFIN'S PURINA STORE

Twelve English White Leghorn hens, each confined to a wire cage eighteen inches square, have been on exhibition at J. L. Ruffin's Purina Store since October 12, 1935. The purpose of this display of laying hens, states Mr. Ruffin, is to prove to the public that scientific poultry feeding is both practical and profitable.

Simplicity is the keynote of this display. Each hen's coop is numbered, and as she lays, the egg rolls into a trough where it stays until it is gathered and the hen is given credit for her day's work. The eggs produced by these hens are of a superior quality not only in looks but also in eating quality.

These twelve hens have not been out of their coop since October 12, yet they have lain 931 eggs, which at local market price brought $24.85. Each hen eats six pounds of all-mash laying mash per month costing three cents per pound. From October 12 to January 31 the total feeding cost was $7.92. A matter of subtraction will prove that $16.93 has been made from these hens in a little over three months.

2 ARRESTS BY SHERIFF'S FROCE

Sheriff J. R. Hardy announced only two arests during the past week by officers with his office. These were as follows:

One for asault with intent to murder; released on bond of $300.

One for burglary and grand larceny; held in county jail.

Sheriff Hardy said he was not sure what was holding down the crime wave, whether the people had decided to abide by the laws, or whether it was too cold to do "meanness."

No full report could be obtained as to the actions of the Chilton unit of the highway patrol. However, one case was called to attention. The sheriff's office was warned to be on the lookout for a certain kind of car with a certain license number. This warning was given to patrol officers, and the car was stopped at Clanton. This car had been in a slight wreck at Birmingham, and had left the scene in a hurry; it was classed as a "hit and run" affair, and the driver was docketed for trial.

John P. Jackson Buried At Pleasant Grove, 5th

John P. Jackson, age 50, died at Woodlawn hospital in Birmingham on Monday night at 9:30, of septicemia (blood poisoning). He had been suffering from the ailment for about two years, when a small sore appeared on the right foot. Not paying much attention to it, he allowed the trouble to grow. A few weeks ago he was taken to Woodlawn hospital, where it was found that his condition was serious. The right foot was amputated in an effort to save his life, but to no avail. The poison had too great a hold, and he could not overcome it.

Until a few months ago Mr. Jackson had lived in the Liberty Hill community, moving from there to the Fairview community, where he was operating a store.

He is survived by his wife, who lives on Clanton Route 3; two sons—Wm. J., and John, Jr., both of Route 3; three daughters—Mrs. M. C. Henley of Thomasville, Ala., Mrs. Joe Grooms of Clanton, and Miss Hazel Jackson of Clanton Route 3.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at 2:00 o'clock, with Rev. Cecil Ellisor in charge, at Pleasant Grove church; burial in the cemetery at that place, with Spigener in charge.

ISABELLA NEWS

The faculty and Senior High School of Isabella held a meeting last week to elect "Miss Isabella" to enter the "Daughters of Confederations" contest. Lela Devaughn was bestowed the honor of being "Miss Isabella", and she has shown in her personality and school work that she has the qualities required for this honor and is a deserving girl.

The F. F. A. Club members gave a very interesting program January 23. The meeting was called to order by the president and reading of the minutes was given by the secretary. This meeting was a serious occasion for some who were present. The following pledges were initiated to be First Degree members of the Future Homemakers of America: Elaine Deason, Edna Johnson, Ethel Lee Griffin, Ruby May Higgins, Mildred Oden, Lona Cummings, Velma Conway, Willie Hayes, Marie Durbin, Adell Scott, and Gladys Sansom.

The Jeffersonian Society program was as follows:

Devotional, Clara Smith.
Roll Call, Secretary.
"With the Nomads of Central Asia," (their customs), Arnold Bryant.
"Public Opinion turns Against the Peace Plan of England and France,", Donald Calfee.
Poem, John Paul Jones.
Jokes, Napoleon Jones.

The Cosmopolitan Society met Jan., 24, and rendered an interesting program. The meeting was called to order by the president, J. C. Jones, and the officers for this semester were elected.

Devotional, Edwin Collins.
"Report on Life of Huey Long," Melvin White.
"What is a University?" by Mitchell White.
"Some Great Orators," Margaret Russell.
"History of Saint Valentine," Chas. Edwards.
Jokes and riddles, Elmer Huey.
Adjournment.

The Cosmopolitan Society seems to have improved since the last two meetings.

The F. F. A. chapter met Jan. 23, and had mostly a business meeting. The meeting was called to order by the president. The chapter, after the parliamentary procedure, was opened for various business matters. Chalmers Jones was elected treasurer. A membership committee of three was appointed by the president for the purpose of enrolling new members. A near date was set for the initiation of green hands into the Future Farmer's Club.

CARD OF THANKS

May we take this way of trying to express our appreciation to our many friends for their kindness during the illness and death of our dear husband, father and son. We sure do thank Dr. Gragg, Dr. Harper and Dr. Johnson and Mr. Martin for their kindness. Our home is lonely without our father, Edgar R. Baker, but God does all things for the best. We trust that God blessed him with a better home in heaven.

We did all that we could to bring sunshine to his heart during his years of failing health and long suffering. He bore it with patience and good heart. There is a vacant place in our home that no one else can fill.

We especially thank our loving friends for the beautiful floral offerings.

Funeral services were held at Mt. Pisgah church, with Rev. M. Lockhart officiating, assisted by Rev. W. S. Cox, with Martin in charge. May God's richest blessings rest upon each and everyone that lent a helping hand.

Edgar is gone. I need not weep,
He cannot come back any more.
But soon I hope to meet him there
And rest on Canaan's shore.

He is survived by his wife, one son and two daughters, his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Baker and two brothers, M. O. and Erwin, all of Clanton Route Three.—Written by the family.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our thanks to the people of this community for their help and kindness during the short sickness and death of our dear baby. May God bless them all.—Albert Culp and Family.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala.—Three new professors, Dr. W. H. Taylor, Prof. R. C. Kolb and Dr. August H. Mason, have been added to the faculty of the University of Alabama this semester.

Dr. Taylor, who comes from the University of Buffalo, where he was assistant Director of the summer session, will be head of the department of drawing and surveying in the school of Engineering. Professor Kolb, who has been instructor in engineering at Rennsselaer, Clarksden Institute of Technology, and Lehigh, and has been professor at Washington University and North Carolina State College, will also be in the Engineering School, holding the position of Aeronautical Engineering.

Dr. Mason joins the English department as assistant Professor of English. He comes from Howard College, where he has done a number of years work in the English department.

Miss Helen Osbond, Instructor in speech at the University of Alabama, will be presented in a reading recital by Zeta Phi Eta, national professional speech arts fraternity for women, according to Frances Ordway, Anniston, president of the University chapter. Miss Osband will be assisted by Miss Emmett Lewis, of the department of music. The recital will be given on February 7th.

Millard "Dixie" Howell, of Rose Bowl fame, was initiated into the local chapter of Alpha Lamda Tau fraternity during a short visit to the University of Alabama, where he attended the mid-term dances.

Dixie will leave soon for Lakeland, Folrida, where he will join the Detroit Tigers in spring training.

Dr. Carlton Palmer, noted lecturer and former member of the University faculty, is scheduled to speak at the University of Alabama on Thursday, February 13, on the subject, "The Joy of Pictures." His lecture is being sponsored by the Tuscaloosa branch of the American Association of University women.

IN MEMORY OF LITTLE JESSE EUGENE CULP

On January 24th, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Albert Culp and took away their darling baby boy. Eugene was sick only one day and night. He was loved by everyone who knew him. Just why God saw fit to take this little 11-months-old baby away we cannot understand, but God doeth things well and for the best.

Little Eugene leaves to mourn, his mother, father, and two brothers, J. P. and Royce Culp. Eugene was laid to rest at Liberty Hill January 25th. with Rev. Holland officiating.

Thou are gone, our precious darling, never more can thou return, till we meet thee o'er the river in that peaceful dwelling place. We shall meet to part no more, no never. Bye and bye, bye and bye, we shall meet to part, no never, in that home beyond the sky.—Written by ones who loved him, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Culp.

PLEASANT GROVE
JEMISON

Winter is bringing us some bad weather this time.

We still have a few on the sick list, but they are gradually improving.

Mr. Lance Franklin was home for the week end.

Mr. Basteen Davenport visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Davenport Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Champion spent Wednesday night with the Misses Champion.

Messrs. Dalton and Sanders Champion spent Thursday night with the Misses Champion.

Mrs. Roxie Price and Mrs. Clyde Champion visited a while Tuesday with the Misses Champion.

Mr. Paul Samples and family visited Mr. Sam Woodley and family and Mr. Jim Woodley and family Tuesday.

Mr. Carl Dawson took dinner with the Misses Champion Thursday. He also spent Wednesday night with Mr. Charlie Childress.

Mrs. Carl Dawson spent Wednesday night with Mrs. Monroe Franklin.

Miss Doris Martin has been visiting her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Erskin Martin.

Messrs. Maurice and Horace Smith and Walter Gentry from Autaugaville have been visiting Mr. J. N. Childress and family.

IN MEMORY

On January 9, 1936, the spirit of Mrs. Janie Allen (grandma, as everyone called her) took it's flight to a better world. She lived a long and useful life and was loved by everybody. She was Miss Janie Satterwhite before her marriage. She was married to Mr. John Allen October 26, 1864, who preceded her to the grave 27 years. To this union was born 4 sons and one daughter, of whom only two are living—Mr. Tom Allen of Cooper, and Mr. Hardy Allen, who lived with his mother and took care of her. No child could be more attentive to a mother than he was. He devoted his life to her. She was 89 years old the second day of this month. Grandma will be greatly missed but we know where to find her. Written by a neighbor.—Mrs. C. F. Partridge.

Do You Ever Wonder

Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE?

Ask Your Doctor and Find Out

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN.

He will tell you that before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate Bayer Aspirin among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this.

You can get Genuine Bayer Aspirin at any drug store — simply by asking for it by its full name, BAYER ASPIRIN. Make it a point to do this — and see that you get what you want.

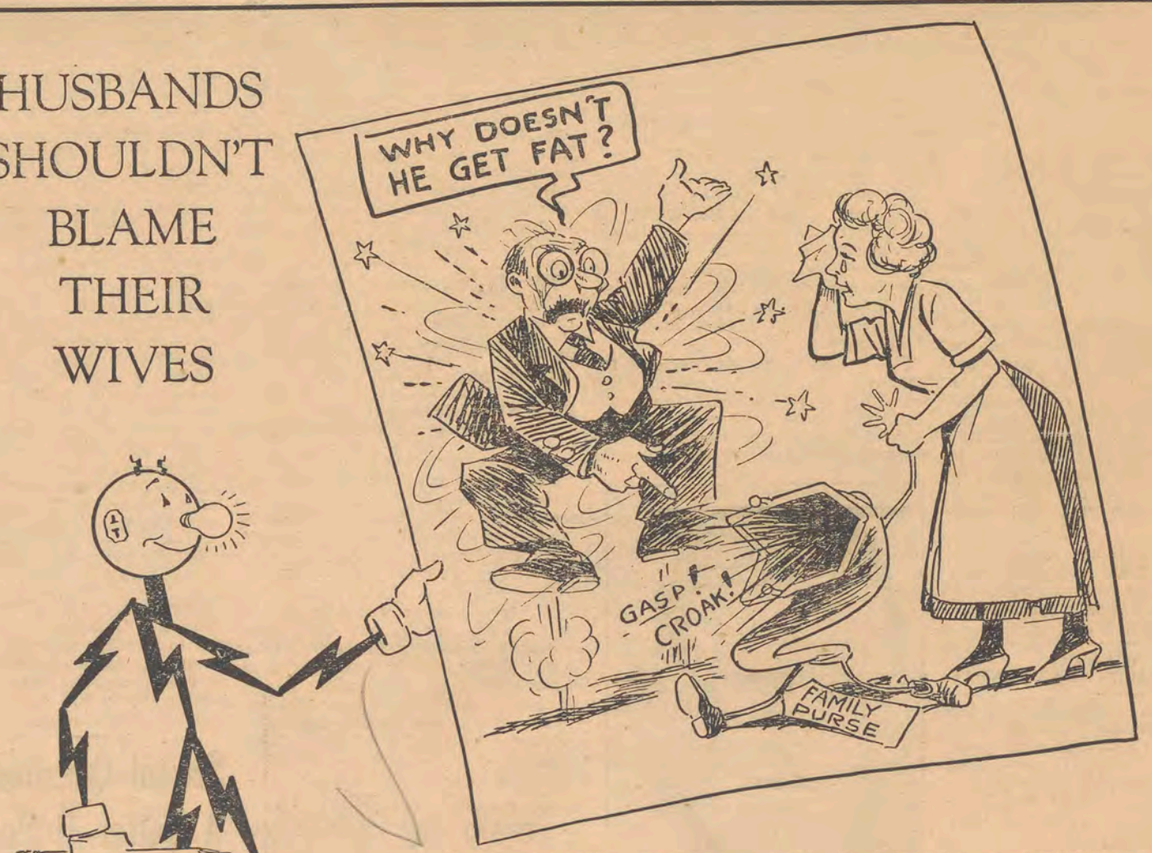
HUSBANDS SHOULDN'T BLAME THEIR WIVES



HUSBANDS shouldn't blame their wives because the household money doesn't go as far as it used to—shouldn't blame them because they're having to pay more for clothing and food.

The wife can't help it. The merchant she buys from can't help it. The manufacturer of goods can't help it. They've all got to share in paying the huge cost of conducting government nowadays. They've all got to help make up the government losses occasioned by its activities in such enterprises as the electric light and power and other businesses.

When a business man persists in selling things for less than what they cost—he "goes broke." When government sells things for less than what they cost, or engages in activities outside the realm of government, it makes up the loss by more taxation.

Wives and husbands may not be conscious of paying these taxes because tax bills are not labelled to pay for any particular venture.

Many people do not pay direct taxes. But pay taxes they must—the taxes are hidden in the price of things they buy.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

PRODUCTION LOANS LIKED BY FARMERS

Production credit loans, being made by eight production credit asociations located at Auburn, Bay Minette, Ozark, Anniston, Huntsville, Russelville, Demopolis, and Montgomery, have meany features which make them well adapted to the farmer's needs, says Jesse B. Hearin, president of the Production Credit Association of New Orleans, who names a number of these features, as follows:

1. Interest rates are low—now only 5 per cent a year. Interest is charged only for the time the money is used.

2. Amount of the loans depends primarily on how much credit the farmer can use effectively and can expect to repay out of his normal farm operations. The smallest loan the association can make is $50.

3. Loans are usually made on security of first liens on crops, livestock, or other personal property.

4. Maturity and repayments are fitted to the operations of the individual borrower. Repayments are made when products are sold.

5. One loan finances the season's operations. Advances are made as the money is needed during the season. Interest is paid only for the time the producer uses the money.

6. The loan may be used for almost every purpose for which farmers ordinarily borrow short term money.

Over 200,000 American farmers are now members of Production Credit Associations, which made 205,893 loans totaling $157,350,000 during the past year.

ALABAMA LIVESTOCK NEED MORE ROUGHAGE

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama needs to produce more hay.

"To supply the roughage needed for Alabama livestock would require the equivalent of 2,527,750 tons of hay, reports J. C. Lowery, head of the animal husbandry department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Last year the state produced 423,-00 tons of hay and 70,000 tons of sorghum forage, leaving a deficit of some 2,000,000 tons.

TUNG OIL INFORMATION OFFERED STATE FARMERS

Auburn, Ala.—Planting tung oil trees north of Monroeville, Greenville, and Ozark in Alabama would probably be attended by considerable risk, says the horticulture and forestry department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute in a special mimeographed sheet giving general information on tung oil production.

For the information of the farmers living in the territory where tung oli trees may be produced the department advises:

"It would seem that 800 pounds would be about an average yield when trees are 6 to 9 years of age and probably 1,000 to 1,200 pounds a good average yield. Indications are that under average conditions yields and return will be small. This does not mean that the better handled orchards cannot be made to return more.

"One should be assured before planting an orchard that sufficient plantings in the general territory are to be made to justify the erection of an extraction plant. And by all means be certain that every plant used comes from high-producing parentage, preferably budded."

Anyone interested in tung oil production may obtain a copy of the sheet giving the full information on the subject by writing the Department of Horticulture, Auburn.

FARMERS ARE GROWING OWN O-TOO-TAN SEED

Auburn, Ala.—Under the leadership of county agents, many Alabama farmers have learned to produce their own O-Too-Tan soybean seed for planting, thereby eliminating an annual expense of $2,000 to $4,000 per county. Many growers have found interplanting corn and beans to be a satisfactory way of producing soybean planting seed.

OAT CROP INCREASED WITH TOP-DRESSING

LaFayette, Ala. — Twenty - seven Chambers county farmers reported a yield of 24 bushels of oats per acre where the crop was top-dressed with nitrate of soda. This is an increase of 9 bushels per acre over the average production of the county, states H. C. Heath, county agent.

POULTRY PROFITABLE FOR SHELBY FARMERS

Columbiana, Ala.—Poultry production is one of the most profitable farm enterprises in Shelby county, states A. A. Lauderdale, county agent. He says that last year Mrs. W. E. Findley, Columbiana, had a cash income above feed cost of $509. E. E. Willis, Vincent, also had a cash income of $239.

In both cases, home-grown corn was used with the supplement mash and for scratch feed and charged to the flock at market price. This method of feeding the corn not only furnished a ready market for the product but also showed a nice profit.

ONLY NITROGEN NEEDED IN GROWING CORN CROP

Auburn, Ala.—"We are recommending that farmers use only a side dressing of nitrogenous fertilizers on their corn in 1936 and that this be applied 40 days after planting," says Dean M. J. Funchess, director of the Alabama Experiment Station.

"Our experimental results indicate beyond question that on average land phosphate and potash are not needed for corn. Fifty crops of corn grown at eight different places in the state show that nitrogen alone makes just as much corn as any of the complete fertilizers," he advises, and then gives the following comparisons:

"The average of a large number of experiments shows that a ton of 2-11-3 fertilizer applied to corn will increase the return by 23 bushels at a cost of $1.04 per bushel. A ton of 3-8-5 fertilizer increases the return by 33 bushels at a cost of 77 cents per bushel. A ton of 4-10-4 increases the return by 45 bushels at a cost of 61 cents per bushel and a ton of 6-8-4 increases the return by 63 bushels at a cost of 47 cents er bushel. However, if corn be fertilized with nothing but nitrate of soda or nitrate of lime, the increase is 146 bushels per ton at a cost of 24 cents per bushel."

Where corn follows a good crop of winter legumes it does not need any kind of fertilizer.

"I know the value of extra nitrogen!"

I may be an "old timer" but I keep in touch with new things. And when any new thing is better, that's what I want.

Ever since I learned that the Department of Agriculture and Immigration of Virginia reported that ARCADIAN, THE AMERICAN NITRATE OF SODA contained extra nitrogen over the guaranteed 16% with an extra cash value as high as 88c per ton, I have used no other.

I know the value of extra nitrogen and I make sure to get that extra value.

For cotton, corn and all other crops it is now proved that brings the farmer big value.

ARCADIAN, THE AMERICAN NITRATE OF SODA

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Overcoming Our Faults.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Test of Our Religion.

In verses 20-26 Jesus sets forth the inner spiritual condition of those who are members of his kingdom. In the lesson text for today he sets forth the principles governing the life of his followers.

I. Love Your Enemies (v. 29).

Love here is not mere natural affection. Love is not sentiment but is the sincere desire for the welfare of another, and the willingness to do all in one's power to accomplish that which is good for the individual. To love friends is easy, but to love enemies is only possible to those who have been born again.

II. Do Good to Them Which Hate You (v. 27).

Love is positive in its nature. The disciple of Christ will not merely refrain from doing injury to one who hates him, but will be concerned with and engaged in doing good to him.

III. Bless Them That Curse You (v. 28).

To bless means to speak well of, to invoke a blessing upon.

IV. Pray for Them Which Despitefully Use You (v. 28).

It is obligatory upon the Christian to pray for those who heap abuses upon him. The best commentary on this is Christ's own example. "Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do" (Luke 23:34). When Christ was reviled he reviled not again; "When he suffered, he threatened not; but committed himself to him that judgeth righteously" (I Pet. 2:23).

V. Patiently Endure Wrong and Injury (v. 29).

The Christian is not to bristle in defense of his rights, but rather to suffer insult, injury, and even loss. This expresses the law which governs the individual's action and should not be pressed so far that evildoers go unchecked. Rightly constituted government has been ordained of God for the protection of the innocent and punishment of evildoers (Rom. 13:1-8).

VI. Give to Every Man That Asketh of Thee (v. 30.)

This text does not authorize promiscuous giving, neither does it mean that any request made by the idle, greedy, and selfish should be granted. There is a giving which injures the one to whom the gift is made. It would not be proper to give a man money to buy whisky. The principle enjoined is to give the thing needed to the one asking. The supreme need of every able-bodied person is to be given a way to earn his living.

VII. Do to Others as You Wish Others to Do to You (vv. 31-35).

This is called the Golden Rule. It is the sum total of Christian duty as it pertains to human inter-relations. If this rule were lived up to, the problem of capital and labor would be solved, war would cease, international relations would be peaceably adjusted, and all profiteering in business would end.

VIII. Be Merciful (v. 36).

This means to be filled with pity and compassion; to enter into sympathy with every need of others. Our supreme example is the Heavenly Father.

IX. Censorious Judgments Condemned (v. 37).

This means that the evil or false in others should not be sought out. We should not sit in critical judgment upon the action of others. This does not, however, prohibit the estimation of others by their deeds.

X. Compensations of Right Living (v. 38).

The believer who gives freely of money, loves sincerely, makes the Golden Rule the standard of his life, shows mercy and kindness to others and refrains from impugning the motives of others, will be fully rewarded.

XI. Danger of Following False Teachers (v. 39).

The teacher who does not know God and the way to heaven will lead others into ruin. Only such as know God should be followed.

XII. Those Who Reprove Others Should Live Blameless Lives (vv. 41, 42.

Evil doing should be removed from our lives before bringing others to account.

XIII. The Sin of Profession Without Fruitbearing (vv. 43-46).

The one who is in fellowship with God will practice the principles which reveal God's nature.

A Rose

Every rose is an autograph from the hand of the Almighty God. On this world about us he has inscribed his thought, in those marvelous hieroglyphs which sense and science have been these many thousand years seeking to understand. The universe itself is a great autograph of the Almighty.—Theodore Parker.

A Good Book

A good book is the best of friends, the same today and forever.—Tupper.

Mr. Jack Hayes returned from a week's visit in Chicago, Ill., on last Saturday.

CROTALARIA INCREASED MONROE CORN HARVEST

Monroeville, Ala.—Experiments on the farm of Joe Sims, Uriah, show that crotalaria greatly increases corn production in Monroe county. The crop also has proven to be a good seed producer.

Last year Mr. Sims planted 10 acres to spectabilis variety of crotalaria and produced 500 pounds of seed per acre. Corn following the crotalaria for the past three years shows an average increase of about 35 bushels per acre, reports A. V. Culpepper, county agent.

FOREST WORK HINDERED BY RAINS AND SNOWS

The recent freak weather in Alabama slowed State Forest Park work to a marked degree, states the Alabama Commission of Forestry. Much time was lost in the CCC camps on account of the swollen streams, blankets of snow and cold weather. These conditions prevailed especially in the north and central parts of the state, although the southern sections were by no means exempt.

Forest surveys, particularly in connection with the determination of the fire damage in the territory not included in forestral districts were hindered very greatly. Certain data require a clear view of the ground, and the snowfall that covered much of the state on several occasions practically stopped work of this character.

While certain conditions, especially snow, aid in the prevention of forest fires, the tendency of wood workers and transients, during cold periods, to build warming fires and leave them unextinguished largely offsets the favorable effect of the unusual weather.

5 P.M. is a test of how you FEEL

"How do I feel.... Rotten! why do you ask?"

"Because, you are not yourself!"

IT is all so simple, too! That tired, run-down, exhausted feeling quite often is due to lack of a sufficiency of those precious red-blood-cells. Just build up these oxygen-carrying cells and the whole body takes on new life... food is really turned into energy and strength... you can't help but feel and look better. S.S.S. Tonic restores deficient red-blood-cells... it also improves the appetite and digestion. It has been the nation's standby for over 100 years... and unless your case is exceptional it should help you, too. Insist on S.S.S. Tonic in the blood-red cellophane-wrapped package. The big 20-oz. size is sufficient for two weeks' treatment... it's more economical. © The S.S.S. Co.

Year 'Round TRAVELERS CHOOSE-

GREYHOUND for LOW FARES and CONVENIENCE

Cozy, warm streamlined buses make scenic winter travel most enjoyable by bus...

YEAR 'round, season travelers prefer Greyhound Lines' service above all other means of transportation for low fares, convenience and safety. Frequent departures right from the heart of shopping, hotel and theatre districts, a choice of scenic routes, new fast, streamlined schedules make it more convenient. It costs less to travel by Greyhound than to drive your own automobile... much more safe, too, with National Safety Council prize-winning drivers at the wheel.

THORSBY SECTION

(Mrs. S. E. Norton, Manager)

Regular services will be held at the Congregational church on next Sunday, February 9th. Sunnday School at 9:45. Worship service at 11 a.m., with Christian Endeavor at 6:30 p.m.

Choir practice at 4:30 Wednesday afternoon under direction of Miss Katheryn Foss.

Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock. Miss Marian Fairbank will give an introductory talk on Mexico, the mission topic for the month.

A business meeting of the church will follow the prayer meeting and a business meeting of the building committee will follow that.

The "Truth Seeks" Sunday school class will have a party on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Clyde Mead.

A very important meeting of the Boy Scouts will be held on Friday evening at 6:30 p.m., at the city hall.

Baptist News

Regular preaching services will be held next Sunday, February 9th, at the Baptist church.

Play at Thorsby Postponed

"Tumble Inn", the three-act musical comedy sponsored by the Thorsby P.-T. A., which was to have been given last Tuesday night, has been postponed to Thursday night, February 6th, at 7:30 p.m. This was due to weather conditions. The play is said to be the best ever given in Thorsby. The P.-T. A. hope and expect a large crowd to hear it. The baby show, an added attraction, is creating great interest.

Tumble in with the crowd to see "Tumble Inn" and enjoy the evening.

Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Ensminger of Birmingham were in Thorsby Sunday evening. Mrs. Ensminger came to give a talk on Mexico at the evening service at the Congregational church, and tell of the recent trip to Mexico and her observations of the country and people. Mrs. Ensminger's talk was most interesting. She also had a number of curios which she had brought with her from Mexico City and surrounding country.

The Congregational Ladies Aid Social will be held on Thursday afternoon, February 6, at 2 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. C. M. Williams. A program on Mexico will be given and a taste of Mexican refreshments will be served.

Mexico is the mission study during the month of February for the Congregational church, in all its various branches of church work, Sunday school, Christian Endeavor, Ladies Aid, etc., as we wish to become better acquainted with our neighbors to the south of us.

Don't forget the music recital to be given at Helen Jenkins Hall next Saturday, February 8th, at 3:00 o'clock, by the music pupils of Miss Katheryn Foss. Everyone is invited. No admission charge.

Thorsby Institute News

Due to the fact that this is visiting week at Thorsby Institute (Feb. 3-8), the chapel services have been of special interest. On Tuesday morning the Girls Glee Club sang two selections: "Pickaninny Sandman" and "Skating."

The Christian Endeavor Society had a party at the campus cottage on Saturday evening. After group games, directed by Miss Davison, refreshments were served.

Dr. and Mrs. Ensminger were visitors at the Institute Sunday.

A music recital of Miss Foss's pupils will be given next Saturday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock. Everyone is invited.

Christian Endeavor News

On Sunday evening, February 2, the Christian Endeavor Society had a special program with the theme of "Mexico and It's People". The program was given to create interest in this country, preceding Mrs. Ensminger's talk on Mexico, which was given at the regular Sunday evening church hour. In the Christian Endeavor program several stories were given (one concerning the origin of the Mexican National Anthem) and the service was closed with a group prayer for greater brotherly love between different races.

MR. J. N. SCOTT WRITES ABOUT CONDITIONS 51 YEARS AGO

Editor Union-Banner:

Here I come with a real message of truth. Just 51 years ago today my wife and I were married at her home at 11 o'clock. That afternoon we started out on our honeymoon walking. We stopped overnight with my grandfather, and they were crowded with company so we had to sleep on a pallet spread down on the floor.

We started out the next morning and walked four miles to Jemison; got on the train and went away up to Helena, Ala. We got off and walked out to old Sulphur Springs church five miles from town to where my father lived; and that was the end of our honeymoon trrip. Just over the hill from the church toward Parkwood, in an old log house, we settled down for the year 1885. My wife had one feather bed and three quilts and fairly good clothes; but as for myself I didn't have anything. I borrowed a pair of breeches from my brother, Wash, to get married in. I did have thirteen dollars and a few cents with which to purchase all our needs to keep house with and suplies for the year. I went to Pelham and bought five plates, three cups and three saucers, three knives and three forks, a quart coffee pot, a frying pan and a little dug-out bread tray which my wife is still using. Then after I had bought our groceries, consisting of a sack of flour and a piece of white meat about as wide as my three fingers, my money was all gone. So the rest had to be bought on a credit, and I came to Helena, made a note for $25 to Ruffin Brothers, but we ran the account up to some over $31. We then bought a mare to plow from old man Dick McGraw for $45; this was on credit, and I likewise bought my fertilizer from Willis Sorrell, Brock's Gap, Ala., on credit. It was with this that we started out to make a crop.

By April our bread and feed for the mare had given out, so we had to go off and hoe for other people for bread and feed. My wife and I both hoed all up and down the south side of Cahaba river, right where the Birmingham highway crosses the river now. The Bain boys gave us two bushels of corn a day; so all we had to eat part of this first year was corn bread and drink clear water After that we never complained of hard times but we were thankful to God for that bread and water. Any way we did not starve to death, but we are yet praising the Lord for His great love shown to us all through this first year.

That fall I owed $96. We made less than a half bale of cotton and just enough corn to do us until December. The grass took our crop while we were working for other people. I carried the cotton to Ruffin Brothers, and it lacked $9 paying them. We got out shingles and boards enough to pay Mr. Sorrell. We left Shelby County and came back to Chilton, leaving only $9 behind unpaid, but we paid that later. So we had the mare clear out of our first year's work.

People now-a-days would call that hard times, but we did not. Those times we had plenty to eat five times a day if it was just cornbread and water. But people back then were hard workers and were tough, came up through the old way and could stand hard times better than people these days. Yes, we were married January 30th, 1885, and we slept on a pallet on the floor the first night; kept house two years without a bedstead or a chair.

I noticed in the papers some time ago where somebody spoke of the old horse and buggy days. Our first years of married life were back of the horse and buggy days. This was back in the old "Coosey Filly" days; and we had one of them, but I am sure there are but a few people living now that ever saw one or know what I am talking about. But all this is the truth, and some people would be better off today if they did not have so many things around them. These were jolly days with us. God blessed us with good health, plenty of corn bread, and we worked hard and slept well.

I know some will laugh, but be careful. They say that laughing is catching. So, we can't always tell just what will happen; but I am looking for a better home and better times ahead. I hope to have more to say about that in the near future, and probably will tell about our second year of married life.

I will close, and may God bless every one that may read this article, and will consider that we are not having hard times but are only receiving according as our works have been. So, with an humble heart, I bid you all farewell for this time.—J. N. Scott.

U. S. POPULATION SEEN 127,521,000

Washington.—The 1935 population of the United States Tuesday was officially estimated by the census bureau at 127,521,000.

The official count is taken as of the middle of the year—July 1.

The new figure represented a gain of 0.71 per cent from 1934 and of 4 per cent from 1930 when the last actual census was taken.

"If the increase should be continued at the rate until the end of the decade," the bureau said, "the nation's population in 1940 would be around 132,000,000."

Indicative, however, of a slowing up in the nation's population growth was the fact that the average annual increase since 1930 was 904,000, "which is only a little more than one half of the 1920-1930 average of 1,665,000."

The rate of gain in 1935 was the highest since 1931 when the population that year gained 0.83 per cent over 1930.

ENJOYS READING BANNER

Editor Union-Banner:

I am writing to let you know how much my husband and I enjoy your good paper. I have read and re-read the dear little poem in your last week's paper, "Little Boy Blue", which Hon. C. O. Vardaman used in his lecture. How true to the present conditions this revised version of it is. We would not be having such hard times as we are having if the hogs and pigs had not been thrown into the river and destroyed by the Big Ikes. Now meat and lard have run up so high we can hardly reach them. It is a sin to destroy what the Lord has given us for our use, and we should not be guilty of such. The last verse of that little poem carries my idea exactly that we shall be dictated to as to what we shall wear, where we shall live, etc.

I told my husband not long ago that ere long a housekeeper would be distated to as to khat she must cook, and just how much; how to make the biscuits, coffee and etc. I told him I would then resign my job as cook and dishwasher, and Roosevelt could take charge of it. He wants to boss everything from the affairs at Washington to the corn in the cribs, the potatoes in the hills, the hogs in the pasture, the peanuts in the stove parching, etc. We have never had such a dictator in the United States since history began. Where is our freedom drifting.

I also enjoyed the piece in your paper last week, "Another Scrap." It was execllent and the truth all the way through. I agree with the views expressed in this article. I believe in standing firmly for the right, and I will do it.

May you have great success with your good paper this year.—Very truly your friend, Annie L. Pierson, Plantersville, Ala.

STATE GAME NEWS

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 4.—Gov. Bibb Graves, in two separate proclamations, has called upon the citizens of Alabama to observe Wildlife Conservation Week and Bird Day during the month of February.

In the first proclamation he set aside the week beginning February 16 as Wildlife Conservation Week and summoned the "wholehearted support of every resident of Alabama in conserving through protection, restoration and rehabilitation all important wildlife species" in this state.

He designated Feb. 21, near the close of the same week, as Bird Day, and reminded the populace that Alabama originated the custom of setting aside one day each year to pay tribute to her 'feathered friends' just 29 years ago. Since then he pointed out, practically every state in the union has adopted the custom and the nation itself now observes an annual Bird Day.

MAPLE SPRINGS

On account of the bad weather last Thursday night the Rev. Paul Oden did not put on the picture show on "The Life of Paul." At this writing no date has been set for him to come again.

The many friends of Mr. Bill Mims are wishing him a speedy recovery. Last reports were that he was very low.

Mr. Maurice Dunlap, wife and mother from Trussville, Ala., were here the past week end visiting Mr. Bill Mims.

Mr. Melvin Lansford was here visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Lansford last Monday night.

Messrs. Arnold Glenn and Joe Lansford spent a while Sunday with Mr. Jeff Price and Mr. Newt Driver.

Mr. Jim Dunlap has just returned from a visit with his mother who is now living at Trussville, Ala., with her son, Maurice. He reported a nice time and that his mother was well and was liking her new home. Maple Springs folks were glad to hear from their old friend, and we want to tell her she is greatly missed, but we still hold a hearty welcome for her any time.

Little Thelma Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Wilson, has been very sick, though at this writing, seems to be improved very much.

Mr. Arnold Glenn spent Wednesday night with his brother, Mr. Oliver Glenn.

Mrs. J. L. Lansford and son, Joe, had as their guests a while Saturday night, Mrs. Loraine Downs, Miss Downs and Mr. Vonnie Lee Driver.

Mr. Ottis Glenn made a trip to Calera Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Buck Roberts have moved back to Clanton.

Mr. Jeff Price spent a while Saturday morning with Mr. W. F. Glenn and sons.

Mr. Joe Wilson was here visiting his father and brother, Mr. W. H. Wilson and G. W. Wilson last week.

The many friends of Mr. Jasper Glenn are glad to know he is much improved. Last reports were that he had improved lots, but was yet in a serious condition.

Mr. Arnold Glenn spent a while Tuesday morning with Mr. Claudious Lewis.

MORE NEWS FROM "UNCLE REMUS"

The Union-Banner has received another letter from "Uncle Remus", who is wintering in West Palm Beach, Fla. It reads as follows:

"Editor Union-Banner:

"The cold weather has reached as far south as Florida. People here at West Palm Beach say this is the coldest weather that has been here in several years, but I think it is very pleasant.

"Anyway, I am catching a lot of fish. A bunch of us went over to Singer's Island and caught 100 pounds of bluefish. The ugliest thing I caught was a stingaree—good night! I caught a half dozen different kinds of fish. It is worth so much to go over to Singer's Island and come home with a big bunch of all kinds of fish.

And that is not all. The people here are all very kind to me. The people of Chilton County are kind to me, too.

I have seen a shark here which weighed 300 pounds.

Yours for a Repuublican victory, or something different from what we have at present.—C. T. Walker."

LEGION MEETING WILL BE HELD SATURDAY NIGHT, FEBRUARY 8th

To Ex-Service Men of Chilton County:

By reason of the down pour of rain Monday night, February 3, 1936, we were unable to have this scheduled "Bonus Meeting" of the American Legion. It was decided among those who were brave enough to face the weather to continue meeting to Saturday night, February 8th, of this week.

The necessary forms and blanks have been received for bonus certificates. However, it is necessary that every man bring with him his pink slip No. 1184-c, and also his discharge in order to get date of enlistment, etc. We trust that Saturday night will be suitable weather and have a good crowd at this meeting.

At this meeting there are matters of importance that will suit every ex-service man that will be touched upon.—Percy M. Pitts, Commander; V. C. McKee, Post Adjutant.

MITCHELL DAM CARDINALS

After winning 24 consecutive games from 13 different teams the Mitchell Dam basketeers were defeated by the strong Sand Mountain team by the score of 29 to 43.

We don't like the idea of offering alibis but our team was considerably weakened in this game. Cobb, our "sure-shot" forward and Dock Baker, our "stellar" guard were out ou account of illness. They have won two games since playing them. One over Mack's Service Station in the Montgomery City League and the other over Selma Y. M. C. A., the scores being 34 to 13 and 39 to 24 respectively.

They have a tough schedule facing them this week, meeting the Men's Clothing Shop in Montgomery Tuesday night and the Sand Mountain five in Guntersville Saturday afternoon.

They have entered the Gold Medal Tournament in Selma, to be played February 15.

CITIZEN SAYS OFFICERS SUPPOSED TO BE SERVANTS OF THE PEOPLE

Editor Union-Banner:

I want a little space to say a few words concerning our conditions. As I see it, we are getting in a critical condition. It used to be when we elected offficers they were supposed to be our servants, and they felt that way about it. They co-operated with the people, whom they served, and used economy and did everything they could do to cut down the expenses of the government—which is the people to whom they were servants. As long as they practiced economy we had plenty of money to supply every need of our people, and our burdens were not so hard on us. In taxation and in every other way, they had some respect and some feeling for their fellowman, who worked hard and supplied the money they needed to carry out their objectives and promises they made to the people; that was in those days.

But things have changed in these days. Instead of trying to be our servants they are trying to be our dictators. They promise everything that is good in their campaign, but when they are elected they will do everything else except what they promised. Who could have any confidence in a man like that. What can we expect of such men as will tell his people a lie? We cannot expect anything good to be done by a man who is crooked. God is not with people like that and says that those kind of folks will not see His Kingdom much less get into it.

We should be very careful how we deal with our fellowman, and do what we promise. Do unto other men as you would like for them to do unto you.

Well, I noticed where Mr. Cox and Mr. Thomas are going to try to pull some great costly stunts, which will pile up another heavy tax upon the people of Chilton County. I am wondering if the people of Chiton County have asked them to have these laws in their behalf, or are they doing it like the man's prayer—just for the benefit of their kinsfolks and no more.

When did we ever before have a Representative from this county go down to Montgomery and dictate to us people what we shall do, for a selfish purpose. If that should be the purpose for the passage of the laws, we should be assured that the Democrats are not getting any better in this country. We should leave them at home next time election comes around.

So, I will close for this time: hoping that we will not be completely robbed this time. I am for less taxes. —J. N. Scott.

SINGING AT ROBINSON SPRINGS

Editor Union-Banner:

I wish to present to your paper that we, the people at Robinson Springs church, had a singing the fourth Sunday in January. There was not many there, but it was a nice singing.

It was bad weather but we are hoping it will be better by the next fourth Sunday evening. We invite you all to come.—Secretary.

GONE INTO THE DISCARD

A handsomely painted croquet set in the relief office at the courthouse possibly is destined to beauty in some dark corner later on, for croquet has never been taken up in a serious way in Brown county. For that matter, neither has ping-pong—another game highly recommended by New Dealers who have deluged the courthouse with play apparatus. Long ago someone started recreation projects here. Although the croquet clubs were sent from somewhere, they were never used. Ping-pong equipment likewise went into the discard, but a number of horse shoes painted in attractive shades were sent to various parts of the county. Meanwhile, county-city officials are concentrating on what they believe is the more important task of supplying food, rather than entertainment, to those in distress—Hiawatha (Kan.) World.

It is such a long time between Supreme Court decisions that things were pretty quiet in Washington. There was no news, the President announced in opening his press conference, except that Charley Michelson needed a hair cut.

To which New Deal Publicity Man No. 1 responded, with a straight face, that "someone has to economize in this administration." It is a tribute to the President's sense of humor that he "joined in the laughter," though a lot of taxpayers are probably wondering why a reference to economy was greeted as a humorous remark.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

An Oregon centenarian, celebrating his birthday anniversary, essays the observation that it is easy to live to be 100 years old. Probably he overlooks the highly important fact that he had already completed the first 50 years of his life before the advent of the motor car.—Los Angeles Times.

Cast your bread upon the water, quotes on editor, and it will return to you after many days, but the dough we sent to Europe will never come back.—Jewell Co. (Kan.) Republican.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

In connection with the Senate Committee's munitions investigation, we have heard a great deal of late about neutrality. There have been demands that the Government enforce its neutrality, in event of war, by mandate of Congress. The plan in general has been to compel Uncle Sam to cease trading in munitions with combatants after war has been declared. Naturally there has been some difference of opinion. One group wants to make the so-called neutrality mandate absolute, while another has advocated giving the President the right to apply the regulations as he deems them necessary.

Critics of this latter plan have pointed out that it would enable the President to follow the lead of the League of Nations, if he so desired, and to "drag Uncle Sam into the League through the back door." Still other Americans have strongly advised against any neutrality mandates which would sacrifice the age-old principle urged by the United States for the freedom of the seas. Certainly this latter contention is not to be dismissed lightly.

One of the most discussed embargoes in the Italo-Ethiopian war has been the so-called oil ban. France and England threatened to apply it and then apparently backed off when they saw that it apparently meant war with Italy. Some observers have been unkind enough to say that England and France were only waiting in the hope that Uncle Sam might employ an oil embargo first. Then they would follow suit, and in case of war with Italy, would blame it on to the United States, and demand that we lead the combat.

In view of all this, it is interesting to note that Senator Reynolds of North Carolina, on his return from Europe where he had studied the situation at close range, declared that the Italo-Ehtiopian dispute contained the makings of a first class European war beween Italy and England over the control of Africa, and that Uncle Sam ought to remain as far away as possible.

Because of this situation, the Senator is quoted as stating that it would be a grave mistake for the United States to enter any oil sanctions agreement, because all we would get out of it would be trouble—and we have enough of that already. Even if sanctions were invoked, the Senator infers, the nations applying such sanctions would cheat on one another. Anyone who remembers the arms embargo fiasco in the Bolivian dispute with Paraguay, and who has any recollection of how bootlegging and rum-running are accomplished when the profits are enormous, can sympathize with this opinion.

"This country should keep its hands off European affairs and adopt a policy of strict neutrality," Senator Reynolds is quoted as saying "The war in Ethiopia is not a war between Italy and Ethiopia. It is a war between Italy and Great Britain over which country shall be imperial in Africa."

Of course the United States wants to keep out of war and remain entirely neutral. It must be remembered that the best way to do this is to maintain a sizeable and capable navy which can enforce real neutrality." This is one fact which the internationalists are too prone to forget.

WHO ARE THEY?

We have already heard from the head of the Democratic National Committee that the campaign of 1936 bids fair to be a dirty one. It is to be hoped that this prediction is not verified and that the fight will be carried on on a highly ethical campaign. This is, however, almost too much to expect. There is usually a great deal of so-called mud-slinging in every campaign. The fact that one prominent political publicity man made his reputation on his alleged ability to "smear Hoover" indicates that this idea of throwing dirt is not a new one.

Already when certain unnamed types of our business men are referred to by men in high places as potential gangsters and brigands, it begins to look as though the 1936 combat is not going to be a battle of roses.

It is to be hoped, however, that if men and groups of men are to be called names that the charges will be specific. After all, there is little to be gained by generalization . If a business man or a group of men are "gangster," if a man is a "political brigand," then the people ought to know who he is. To make criticisms and hurl epithets at a class does little but bring all the men of that group under suspicion, even if the reservation is added that 90 per cent of them are guiltless.

Referring to our business men, however, it must be said in all fairness that never in the peace time history of our country was more loyal co-operation given to an administration than that accorded to the present one when its policies went into effect. The policies were set going in an atmosphere of public fear due to the nation-wide bank closing. A great deal of the policy affecting business was entirely foreign to the American idea of governmental control.

Yet the business of the country, as a whole put its shoulder to the wheel patriotically and pushed for all its worth in an effort to get the ship of state out of the mire of depression.

It was only when wide cracks began to appear in the program, when the parts of the machine showed signs of buckling, when it became evident that billions of dollars were being expended without making a dent in the relief needs, that criticism began to grow. Then it was that men seemed definitely to realize that we were off the American track and on the road to European regimentation which might trade our American initiative for old-world bureaucracy. That these critics were right is evidenced by the decisions of the United States Supreme Court. That 9 to 0 verdict on the NRA certainly indicates that business, and the entire country as well, had a right to question what was going on. But in the meantime it must not be forgotten that when the New Deal was first put under full head of steam and demanded a chance it got such co-operation as has never been accorded by business interests in America or any other free country where freedom of thought was supposed to prevail.

By all means, if there is any minority of "gangsters" or "brigands" among our business men, even our newspaper publishers, we ought to know just who they are and what they are doing to slow up reform and prosperity in this country. The public has a right to the facts, and it is unfair that legitimate business rest unde ra cloud which has been conjured up for an unnamed minority.

WAS THE FARMER ASSESSED?

Exponents of the New Deal seem to be somewhat upset by the order of the Supreme Court for the return to the processors of approximately $200,000,000 in the way of taxes which had been impounded upon mandate of the lower courts pending the final decision by the high tribunal as to the constitutionality of the AAA.

President Roosevelt himself is quoted by the newspapers as having expressed the opinion that the Court had reversed its position of 14 years ago when it ruled on the question of taxes collected under the child labor law.

Attorney General Cummings is quoted as intimating that the decision might result in the filing of scores of other injunctions to hold up taxes and to impede the functioning of other laws enacted under the New Deal.

Most noteworthy of all, perhaps, are the statements accredited by the press to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace in a radio address to the farmers in which the Secretary is quoted as stating that while the return of the taxes to the processors might be legal, he was unable to see the equity of such a procedure, since the money impounded represents charges which had in most cases already been passed onto the consumers or back to the farmers.

This is, indeed, a frank statement on the part of the Secretary of Agriculture, as it concedes a point which has frequently been made by AAA critics against the economic soundness of the farm program. It will be remembered that in theory the government was to tax the processors of certain foods and turn the money over to the farmers who were being paid not to raise certain crops, or to destroy them, thus helping the farmers with Federal checks.

There were some heard-headed students of agricultural economic affairs, in fact quite a number of them, who said that by this tax plan the AAA was only seeking to help the farmers over the fence by the method of having him pull against his own bootstraps.

They inferred that the money which the farmer got through processing taxes was money which had been collected off him, because the taxes were charged against him when he sold his produce— in other words, the money was being taken by the AAA from one of the farmer's pockets and given to him in another pocket in the form of a Government check. When part of the taxes were passed on to the consumer, it was added, this resulted in less consumption, which curtailed the farmer's market and in higher prices generally, which also affects his pocketbook when he goes to spend his money for what he needs.

This charge has been vehemently repudiated from time to time by many professional theorists, who denied that any such a rigamarole was taking place, some of them even stating that the processor was being compelled to bear the burden. Evidently the processors took this latter statement seriously—hence the suits to recover taxes and the impounded $200,000,000.

But now that it is all over, we have a radio statement from the Secretary of Agriculture himself to the effect that it is unfair to pay the processing taxes back to the processors because they have been passed back to the farmer and on to the consumer. Maybe some of these horse and buggy economists who suspected such a thing were not so buggy after all—at any rate, Mr. Wallace is now quoted as opining that there may be something in this "passing the buck back to the farmer" theory.

Now, if the Senators themselves get into a fight over the neutrality bill the most effective sanction will be to shut off the supply of publicity.

MAN IN THE MOON

A SOLID FRONT

Now and then we hear someone discussing the Republican party in Chilton County, and once in a while someone chirps up with something about "the two sides" of the party. The Union-Banner was never sicker of anything than hearing of these "two sides". It is our intention to weld these two sides back into one piece again—to erase dissension with- to one piece again—to erase dissension with- about a party unity rather than a "machine" with any certain person as the main cog around which the whole will turn.

We know that there must be leaders, but we know, also, that these leaders must be unselfish and party-minded. They must be willing to advise with members of the party. We were once a big party family, with but one end in view—the good of the whole party, and the perpetuation of its members in the offices of the county. That, we all know, was broken up by personal political aspirations all out of step with the desire to keep the whole party in front.

While the trouble was brewing, before it came to an open break, we saw it all and knew what would be the consequence if it were not stopped. We tried to reason with both sides in the division; we pointed out the inevitable outcome. But it seemed nothing could be done. The will to rule was stronger than the desire to serve, and the whole affair rocked merrily on to the inevitable destruction which was so plainly apparent under such a system. Everyone has now had a chance to observe the fruits of a party fight such as ours has been. It is our desire now to bring our Republicans to a full realization of these fruits, and to point out to them a method of overcoming our faults.

We have asked hundreds of Republicans what would be done; some suggest one thing and some another. By far the greater majority of those whole-souled Republicans, however, voice the belief that the party must be built anew from the ground. One life-long Republican voiced his opinions in these words:

"I am anxious to help in any way that I can toward the rebuilding of our party. To me the factions mean nothing. I am just a plain Republican, wanting nothing but to see our party flourish, and I am not at all particular who is at the helm. I believe, though, that our return to success waits on that time when we shall have new leaders, perhaps some who have never tried their hand in politics before. A machine is not needed to run our party—what our people want is a bunch of unselfish people at the head who are looking and planning for the party rather than for personal gain—when those leaders can be found, our Republicans will follow. But there can be no such unselfish leadership just so long as there is one lone reminder of the bitter hatred which has wrecked us. When all individuals who have had a hand in this strife see fit to step aside for their party's good—to give over the reins of leadership into new hands for harmony's sake—when there are none left to remind us of those bitter days, then we will become a big healthy party again, and not before. There is nothing personal in my suggestion. I like all of the people who have been concerned with this fight, and I believe that their hearts are big enough to see this side of the question if approached in the right way. That's my suggestion—a new party, with new leaders, upon whom no political stigma rests. When such time comes we will have a Republican party again, and not before."

And that is very much our own opinion in the matter. We favor neither of the "sides" but look forward to the good of the party. We do not know if a change in leadership would turn the trick, but we do know that our people are thoroughly disgusted with the personal hatreds displayed and the political and personal bickerings of the past, and that they wil never support such again. If harmony can be obtained with the present set-up, we are for it; but if it should take a thorough shake-up in the leadership to bring about such harmony, then The Union-Banner is fearlessly and unhesitatingly ready to move in that direction. In short, harmony is the only thing that will put our party back on top, and we are ready to help carry out any plan that will bring back harmony.

THAT HUNGRY DOG

J. E. Easterling, popular proprietor of the Woco Service Station, is making a New Year's resolution—rather late, perhaps, but one that he feels should be made, and kept. J. E. is a dog fancier, and takes great pride in his pups. But he has resolved never to take two dogs on a hunting trip again, unless he intends to hunt with both of them. And, furthermore, he has resolved to look after the feed of his dogs a bit more closely in the future. It all came about in this way:

A few days ago he took two dogs hunting with him—one of them a hound, and the other a bird dog. Once in the woods, he decided to hunt rabbits, so he locked the bird dog in his car, so that he would not run away until he returned.

When he did return, he found the inside of his Ford sedan a perfect shambles. In his eagerness to escape, the dog had ripped all the linings and upholsterings from the inside of the car. The linings of the doors were mere shreds, the top linings were ripped away entirely. The seats were protected with covers, and the pup had chewed these faily well. J. E. averred that when he returned, all this had been done, the dog had turned on the lights, and was blowing the horn. Further, he had ripped away the heater and radio fittings. In short, the car was only a shell of its former self.

J. E. stated that he was glad he happened to take the switch key with him, or the dog might have driven off and left him high and dry in the woods, to walk home. He said that he only owned a half interest in the dog, and that for a while he considered killing his half and leaving him on the spot. Never again will he make a dog kennel out of his car, and warns others to follow his example.

GLIMPSES IN THE SNOW

Snowball battles everywhere. Tom Tiffin takes a hard one on the ear. Ted Littlejohn sails one through the laundry window—and pays for it. Clarence Easterling and "Popeye" Sanford wage a hot battle. A bread truck is stuck in the street—can't back away from the sidewalk. Claudie Pipes looks like "the man on the flying trapeze" as he picks his way across the ice and snow. A car passes—a snow bank in the rear, and a steamer in front—somebody forgot to drain his radiator. "Uncle Monroe" Parrish fights his way through the snow into town. Marion Gore stays inside—too many snowballs flying. Somebody dancing a jig—a wad of snow has been put down his back. Tom Rockett gives a fine imitation of a windmill trying to keep his feet on the ice. Mrs. Louise Higgins rubs snow in her daughter's hair. Some other lady slips up, galoshes and all. Somebody comes through driving a "Roosevelt mule" to a cart—looks like Santa Claus. Two by two they march, going to school—a boy and a girl—one of them slips, the other grabs, and they both go down in a heap. A county commissioner slips off the top step at the courthouse, and lands on the sidewalk, bumping them all as he falls. A car does the "end around" trying to stop—another does the same, trying to start. Somebody comes along with a suspicious bulge in his hip pocket—"be prepared" is his motto—'scuse me to pieces, it's only a spare hanky. On down the street, the same kinds of scenes everywhere. Snowball battles, slipping feet and tires, steaming radiators. It's a merry day—lots of spills and lots of fun. But gee, how cold!—Man in the Moon.

LINCOLN'S EDUCATION

Although the fact is commonly pointed out that Abraham Lincoln had little education at school, he was a self-educated man through long and patient effort, and in this light his production of a classic like the "Gettysburg Address" is undestandable, according to Blaine Brooks Gernon, Lincoln student, writing in the current issue of the National Republic, under the caption "The Education of Lincoln." In part, Mr. Gernon says:

"Abraham Lincoln, the statesman, was not the result of any sudden or unusual grand spiritual experience. Careful examination, fair comparison, reasonable interpretation and honest measurement will demonstrate that although he ultimately reached great mental and spiritual heights, his progress was fairly certain and steady, if at times irregular..

"Like every other human being, he was the result of his environment—the people he touched and who, in turn, touched him; his education — schools, teachers, newspapers, preachers, debators and politicians; and his experiences—travels, employment, legal battles, politics, successes and all to many failures. The Gettysburg Address, the Bixby Lette and the Second Inaugural Address are baffling if Lincoln's training and experience are ignored. Even in the light of 'all that he was and hoped to be' they are no less amazing. But here, at least, they are somewhat understandable. His long experience on the platform and his solid foundation in law, philosophy, logic, history, government and literature suggest avenues of approach to his mind and spirit.

"Mr. Lincoln has too long rested in the arms of eulogy. He has been shrouded in mystery and mysticism—the unnatural and the phenomenal. Thus it is often pointed out that he was not the product of a college or university. Sometimes this is said in an attempt to demonstrate that formal or advanced education is unnecessary to success. Often it is repeated to show that somehow Lincoln was of that peculiar and unexplainable species known as genius. Fortunately for the man and the nation, Mr. Lincoln was not this kind of a genius. If we knew all of the facts of his life, we could probably explain somewhat rationally everything that he said and did.

"Fifteen men had occupied the high office of President of the United States before 52-year-old Abraham Lincoln took his oath of office. A like number have occupied it since he died, so how did he compare with both his predecessors and successors in education for the position?

"Lincoln was fortunate in his choice of schools and teachers, although both were of short duration and influence. The first seven years of his life were spent in central Kentucky, in the then Hardin County. Trudging along with his elder sister, Sarah, he went to school under Zachariah Riney and Caleb Hazel. If he had ony ambitions at this early age, they could not have included suceeding James Madison, then President. The next 14 years of his education were transplanted to southern Indiana, to which location his family had moved. Here he assisted his father with the work of the farm, chopped wood, clerked in a store and ran a ferry. But he was also privileged to go to school under three teachers, Andrew Crawford, James Swaney and Azel W. Cranford. His ambitions at this period probably included becoming a boatman, a farmer, or a politician. Certainly he dared not hope to occupy the seat of either James Monroe or John Quincy Adams."

Former President Hoover says: "Blessed are the young, for they shall inherit the national debt." In a way they are like the meek, who if they inherit the earth, will find that a 90 per cent mortgage goes along with it.

By next Christmas Secretary of State Cordell Hull ought to be able to find a way to get the fir trees all imported from Canada. Then with Japanese ornaments and lights everything will be perfect for a good old fashioned American Christmas. Especially if we can get the current from the TVA.

A temporary "dog haven" for homeless hounds is about to be completed at Memphis out of WPA funds at a cost of $25,000, according to the Associated Press. The place will have shower baths and steam heat. We hope the artists didn't forget to provide a few electric moons at which the dogs might bark. They have a lot of cloudy nights around Memphis. Anyhow, this put the "boon" in "boondoggling" so far as the dogs are concerned.

According to a dispatch from San Salvador, the United States brought over 55,000,000 pounds of Salvador coffee last year and spent the money in Japan. The Japs bought 19,000 pounds of Salvador coffee. Won't somebody page Secretary Hull about this?

NO CAUSE TO WORRY

Since the Supreme Court invalidated the NRA act the progress of the nation toward recovery has been steady. There is every reason to think that the action of the Court in invalidating the Agricultural Adjustment Act will serve the same end.

Considered solely as experiments in economic organization, the two acts were strikingly similar. They differed greatly in their superficial aspects, but they sprang from the same economic philosophy and sought much the same objectives. Both measures were intended to raise prices through restrictions, applied to industry, we know, hampered recovery and there is little reason to doubt that the restrictions on agriculture have worked in the same direction.

Obviously there was no justification for the alarm which Mr. Roosevelt expressed when his NRA was declared invalid. He then predicted that wage rates would collapse all along the line and that industry would be reduced to chaos. He went on to forecast that the invalidation of AAA would result in 35-cent wheat and 5-cent cotton. In that forecast the country has a convenient measure of the President's capacity for economic thinking.—Chicago Tribune.

END OF AAA DOES NOT SPELL DISASTER

When the NRA was invalidated by the preme Court we had many direful predict from Brain Trusters that the day of reck ing was at hand. Any pick-up in business due to the efforts of the NRA, we were and with this act out of the way there wo be a recession in business and an increase hard times. Yet, despite these phophec we know that business did not go to the d On the other hand, it commenced accelerat its pace almost immediately after the N went into the discard. The records will sh that and most anybody will admit now t business became better than it was in closing days of the NRA.

The reason for improvement is not h to find. Business has been getting better two years, all over the world. This is t in Great Britain, in Canada, in Sweden a other European nations where the forces recovery have been given full play. The N with its artificial restrictions in America w slowing up rather than accelerating world-wide recovery. So its invalidati speeded up rather than retarded recovery America.

Now there has been a tendency on the p of the Brain Trusters who devised the AAA predict dire things for the farmers since th alphabet has been liquidated by the Supre Court. The farmers, we are told, are faci over-production, lower prices and ruin, because the AAA has been invalidated. L us remember the NRA and not become discouraged at this time.

It is true, of course, that the farm inco of the United States had, in 1935, gained nea $3,000,000,000 over the low of 1932, most of while the AAA was in action. But it is to remembered, too, that farm income has be increased in Argentine, in Australia, in Ca da and other agricultural countries whe there has been no AAA. It is a little too ea therefore, to predict disaster for the farme in our country because the AAA has been di qualified. Foreign farmers have been do pretty well without any AAA at all.

It is true that the benefit payments whi went to farmers out of the processing tax increased the income of the farmers. But is not sound logic to assert that this was gain. For when the farmer received this come he had to cut his production, and wi less to sell than he would otherwise have ha And when the processing taxes were assess this depressed the farmer's price, so that really, in part at least received money benefits which hed been taken out of anoth of his pockets.

Restriction of production in certain lin brought higher prices of those commoditie even if they did not increase the income the farmers commensurately. But they h one other effect. The price rise was gener and as a result the farmers had to pay mo for what they bought.

The scarcity program, however, had o effect. It greatly increased our imports farm commodities, so that money whi should have been kept at home to pay t American farm produce went abroad to p for alien farm produce. And this increase imports is continuing. It is being encourag ed rather than discouraged by such tra pacts as that entered into by Secretary Hu with Canada.

With scarcity at home, the farmer has lo his foreign market and is losing an impor ant part of his home market. Evidently wh he needs is not more planned restriction, b some additional effort to get back the one h has lost abroad.

A TIMELY REMINDER

The American Taxpayers' League has do well to call attention again to the enormo new burden of taxation which was impose upon the American people on New Year Da The new taxes are intended to finance t so-called social security program. The levi will begin at 1 per cent of payrolls and wi rise rapidly until 1949, when employers wi be taxed 6 per cent of their total payroll (the equivalent each year of three weeks' pa for all employes) and employes will be oblig ed to turn over 3 per cent of their wage (equivalent to one and one-half weeks' pay The total exaction will exceed the aggregat net income of all corporations reporting in come for taxation in 1933.

It is well that these facts have been brough out anew because they have been insuffici ently grasped by the American people. Th social security legislation was enacted under pressure from Mr. Roosevelt, who was hi self under pressure from the Sinclairs, Cou lins, Townsends and Huey Longs. The Pres ident was afraid they would steal his popu larity and therefore yielded to them. Th plans were drafted without adequate consid eration of objectives or of ways and means.

It is hoped that the league's activity wi awaken employers and employes to the si uations which confronts them and that, to gether, they will press for a reconsideration of the financial aspects of the schemes before too much damage has been done.—Chicag Tribune.

Some mechanical experts say that automo bile engines frequently get "intoxicated" dur ing an accident. But one main trouble is that so many automobile drivers get intoxi cated before the accident.

One thing which the AAA forgot to do be fore it was too late was to regulate the di ameter and circumference of silos.

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

"You can't make meen good by law." We have all heard that often. It is true. If all men were good there would be no need for law. "Thou shalt not steal," is one of the commandments. Men steal because they are thieves. The law restrains a thief from stealing. The law does not make a thief honest. "Thou shalt not kill." That commandment does not keep a man from being a murderer, but the law against murder restrains the murderer so he will not kill. As long as we have a world of unregenerated men we shall have to have law, a police force, and an army and an army and a navy. Unregenerated human nature is held in restraint by the arm of law.

The only hope of an unregenerated world is the regenerating grace of God. Men have to be born again. We are all born wrong the first time, but we may be born right the second time. Man naturally has the devil in his blood. Jesus is able to cast out devils. All students of history and literature are bound to know there is something wrong with man in his natural state. The Bible explains man's trouble. "He was born in sin. He was conceived in iniquity. In Adam all die." There is not one word of scripture or one bit of proof in literature or history that human nature has in it any spark of divinity. The divine Son of God may be enthroned in the heart of man. That is the only way to make men good.

Sometimes men pray to God as Father of us all. God is not the father of unregenerated man. The theory of the universal fatherhood of God grew out of the false theory that man is naturally divine. Jesus said to a certain crowd, "You are of your father the devil". We read in the gospel of John that "as many as received Jesus He gives them power to become the children of God." Nicodemus was a high tone, clean, cultured, moral man but Jesus told him he must be born again. "We are children of God by faith in Jesus Christ". That is the clear and explicit teaching of the Word of God. There are two families in this world—God's family and the devil's family. "In Adam all died." "In Christ all are made alive." Adam heads the old creation; Jesus Christ heads the new creation. Remember, to be made alive in Christ we have to first be in Christ. We must be born again.

Proposed Bills Will Raise County's Cost

NEARLY $7,000 PER YEAR WILL BE ADDED TO PRESENT EXPENDITURES WHEN BILLS BECOME LAW

Anyone interested enough in the affairs of Chilton County to peruse the proposed bills to be offered the special session of the legislature of Alabama in the near future will find that the five or more to be offered by Representative Charlie Cox and Senator Earle Thomas in relation to Chilton County will finally cost the tax payers of this county approximately $6,800 per year in addition to the present cost.

One of the bills provide that $4,300 be set aside yearly to pay salaries and travelling expenses in the department of the Farm Bureau. This department now costs the county $2,100 and this bill would therefore bring about an increase of $2,200 in the cost to the county for running this department. A Union-Banner representative was told by Mr. Fant, and by Mr. Cox, one of the sponsors of the bill, that this would set up two new offices and increase the salaries of two other farm demonstration employees.

It would give Miss Pardue a monthly salary of $100, and a monthly expense account of $100, making a total of $200 a month for her office.

It would allow an increase in Mr. Fant's salary. The exact figures could not be obtained. The present salary the county pays Mr. Fant is $125 per month, however, and we are told that this constitutes about 40 per cent of his salary. At that figure then, Mr. Fant now receives something over $300 per month, with the state and federal governments paying the balance.

It would allow for the creation of the office of assistant farm demonstration agent, in charge of county 4-H club work, with travelling expenses set out for him. The exact amount of this was not disclosed either. The approximate amount, however, would be $1,000 per year and travelling expenses, that the county would have to pay, with state and federal departments paying the other part of his salary. This is an absolute new expense that the county does not now have.

It would create the position of clerical assistant to Mr. Fant, with pay to come from the county. This is another expense that the county does not now have.

All in all this bill would entail added cost of $2,200 above that the county now pays in the farm department.

Another bill is for an additional $1,000 per year to be allotted to the health unit of the county. The county now pays $2,000 to this cause, which we are told was all that was asked of the Commissioner's Court to keep this going.

Still another bill creates the office of county road supervisor, with a salary of not less than $2,400 per year, with an additional $1,200 per year for travelling expenses; all of this to come from the county's road funds. This supervisor would be appointed by the governor of the state until 1939, when he would be named by the Commissioner's Court from then on. There is no provision in the bill for any method by which the voters can do away with this office in case they should find it not to their liking. The only thing that could be done, in case a supervisor should be deemed improper for the job, would be for the Commissioner's Court to give him 10 days notice and declare his position vacant, and even then he has recourse to law to hold his office. There would be no such thing as doing away with this office. On top of all this, this is an added expense of $3,600 per year on the county's taxpayers.

The Union-Banner has no comment to make in regard to that certain bill which proposes that in the case of all county purchases of $150 or over, that bids shall be advertised for and accepted in making such purchases. This, we believe, would tend to hold purchase costs on major purchases at the minimum.

On the bill which sets the salaries of commissioners, we have no comment. The Attorney General of Alabama has already ruled in a case exactly like this that such an act is unconstitutional, and there is no doubt in our minds that this one would be held likewise.

Getting back to the three bills that would raise the cost of operating our county departments, however, we do have objections, and, we believe, well founded ones.

In the case of Mr. Fant's salary, we believe it to be high enough at present. He accepted the job at the figure it now pays, knowing what it would pay, and we see no reason why it should be raised. Our fight in this respect is not, of course, against Mr. Fant, as we consider him a fine man and a gentleman in every respect, but we doubt if the office he fills is worth more to the farmers with whom he works than the amount he receives.

In the case of the raise in the salary of Miss Pardue, the same is true as in the case of Mr. Fant's office. If the office she holds was worth holding at the salary she has been receiving, then why raise it and place an added burden upon the taxpayers?

In the case of the road supervisor, we cannot believe that such a road official would save enough of the county's money over the present system to pay the expense of hiring him. However, this is not the main objection we have to the bill. The method of hiring such an official as is provided in the bill is our objection. Once this man is hired, according to wording of the bill, he cannot be removed except by the Commissioner's Court, and even then has recourse to law to hold his job, which is not elective at the beginning. Furthermore, once a man is removed from this job, another will be appointed by the governor, with the people having no voice in the matter.

That is our bone of contention in the whole matter. The taxpayers and voters of the county have not one word to say in the whole affair. The legislature passes the bill creating the job; Representative Charlie Cox has stated that he will demand the right to pick the first road supervisor; the supervisor will have charge of the whole road system, the hiring and firing of road hands, have charge of all road machinery; the governor will have the job of appointing the supervisor, upon the recommendations of Mr. Cox; and all the taxpayers and voters of the county will have left in the matter is the responsibility of paying all the bills. That is what we see wrong about the matter.

If the bills could be placed before Chilton County's voters for them to say whether we should have all these changes—if they should then say by their ballots that they want these bills passed, then we would have nothing to say. But we do maintain that these taxpayers have a right to say when additional drains shall be put upon their county treasury, and we challenge the right of any individual to say that they shall not have a voice in matters which so vitally affect them.

Further, if Mr. Cox and Mr. Thomas persist in usurping the rights of their constituency, and force these bills through, we suggest that the bill in regard to the road supervisor be worded that after a trial period, provision be made for a referendum, wherein the voters may say if they want to keep such office in operation or not, such as was done in the case of the county agent. If it is a good project, the people could then put their stamp of approval upon it, and if it should prove to be bad policy, they would have a chance to terminate such an arrangement.

After all, it is the people's county, it is their money, the roads are theirs and we believe they should have the right to a voice in regard to any changes in the procedure of their local government.

Judge J. Lee Smith has signified that if time could be allowed for a referendum on the proposed bills, wherein the people of the county would be allowed to let their wishes be known, then he would be perfectly willing to abide by their choice in the matters. We quote Judge Smith:

"All these things might be good for our county and they might not. But I am opposed to the removal of the sovereign right of a taxpayer to say what shall be done with his tax money. If the people state by their ballots that they are in favor of these bills, then I am with them. But until such time as their inalienable right shall be allowed them, I am opposed to them, just as I am to any measure which tends to take away the voice of the people. You may quote me as saying that when all these bills have been studied carefully by me, and the people have had time to consider them, I will offer my official opinion concerning them, and shall ask the people of the county to speak their minds on the subject. I will not allow the rights of the people of Chilton County to be taken from them without a fight."

IT WORKED FOR ME

Women should take only liquid laxatives

MORE people could feel fine, be fit and regular, if they would only follow the rule of doctors and hospitals in relieving constipation.

Never take any laxative that is harsh in action. Or one, the dose of which can't be exactly measured. Doctors know the danger if this rule is violated. They use a liquid laxative, and keep reducing the dose until the bowels need no help at all.

Reduced dosage is the secret of aiding Nature in restoring regularity. You must use a little less laxative each time, and that's why it should be a liquid like Syrup Pepsin.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if it doesn't give you absolute relief, if it isn't a joy and comfort in the way it overcomes any sluggishness or biliousness, your money back.

LOCAL CCC BASKETEERS ARE GOING STRONG

After getting off to a slow start the local CCC quintette has now a much improved basket ball team.. During the past week they refeated Thomas, Maplesville and Dadeville CCC team. The defeat handed the Dadeville CCC team was the ninth successive victory for them. The team plays this week at Maxwell Field, Plantersville and Billingsley. On Saturday they go to Bessemer to meet the strong CCC lads. The boys from the Bessemer camp defeated the locals on the home court a foul shot after the final whistle had been blown and the revenge will be sweet if the boys can win over them. The defeat of the Bessemer team would put the locals in the lead for the subdistrict championship.

The team to date has played fifteen games and lost four of the fifteen. The teams handing the defeats were: Bessemer, Weogufka, Mitchell Dam and Mt. Pleasant independents. Among those defeated were: Maplesville, Verbena, Plantersville, Billingsley, Thomas, Clanton and Dadeville.

It is believed that the local team will be one of the strong contenders for the District Championship, which will be held at Fort McClellan in March.

FEDERAL REFEREE SUCCUMBS IN MONTGOMERY PAST MONDAY

Judge Malcom Carmichael Dies After Long Illness

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 4.—Judge Malcom Smith Carmichael, 58, U. S. Referee in Bankruptcy for the Middle District of Alabama for more than 20 years, member of the Constitutional Convention of 1901, former newspaperman and legislator, and Spanish-American War veteran, died at his residence, 209 Cloverdale Road, Monday morning, following an illness of several weeks.

Born at Ozark, Ala., Sept. 11, 1877, Judge Carmichael, who was the son of the late Judge Jesse Malcom Carmichael and Mary Smith Carmichael, was educated in the public and private schools of Ozark, and also attended during the residence of his parents here, the private school conducted for a number of years near the corner of Lawrence and High Streets by Mrs. Mary Chilton Jones.

In 1894, when only 17 years old, he graduated with high honors and the degree of Bachelor of Arts from the Southern University at Greensboro, which was later to become Birmingham-Southern College. Following his graduation he taught school at Flomaton, Ala., and later was one of the founders and editors of The Elba Clipper, at Elba.

At the outbreak of the Spanish-American War in 1898, he enlisted with the Montgomery Greys, and served with that organization until his honorable discharge following the conclusion of hostilities.

He was elected to and served as a member of the Alabama Constitutional Convention of 1901, and had the distinction of being the youngest member of that body, which framed the Constitution under which the State Government has since operated. Elected in 1915 as a member of the Alabama House of Representatives, he resigned that post in April of the same year to accept appointment by the late Federal Judge Henry D. Clayton as U. S. Referee in Bankruptcy, which important post he retained under Federal Judge Charles B. Kennamer up to the time of his death.

In 1900 he married Sallie Boyd, the daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Boyd of Elba. His widow survives him; also three daughters, Miss Pauline Carmichael and Miss Caroline Carmichael, of Montgomery, and Mrs. Adolphe LeBron, of Carrollton; one sister, Mrs. A. R. Borders, of Clayton; one brother, Congressman A. H. Carmichael, of Tuscumbia.

The body was taken from here to Elba, burial in Evergreen cemetery, T. F. Leake and Son in charge.

Hon. J. Osmond Middleton, of Clanton and Montgomery, has been appointed by Judge Kennamer to succeed Judge Carmichael as U. S. Referee in Bankruptcy for the Middle District of Alabama.

Mass Meeting Held Protest Local Bills

Vote Against Four of Bills Was Unanimous; No Vote On Others

As per the call published in last week's papers, a mass meeting was held at the courthouse last Saturday afternoon for the purpose of discussing the proposed local bills for Chilton County now being published in the Chilton County News and proposed to be presented to the State Legislature in its session this month. G. C. Walker acted as chairman of the meeting and T. E. Wyatt, Secretary. A special invitation had been extended to both Mr. Cox, our Representative, and Mr. Thomas, our State Senator, to attend this meeting, but neither attended. Mr. Thomas left with Mr. Walker, the chairman, a telegram which explained that he had been called to Montbomery on urgent business, and otherwise intended to be at the meeting. Nothing was heard from Mr. Cox as to why he did not attend.

Mr. Walker invited all the County officers to take a seat up at the front, and three responded—Judge J. Lee Smith and Commissioners Oden and Bean. All candidates in both parties were invited likewise, and three responded—J. Monroe Parrish, Lee Ousley and Bernie Killingsworth. Near the close of the discussion two more County officers came to the front—Messrs. Arthur D. Martin and T. L. McKee.

All of the above officers and candidates spoke briefly concerning the bills, and expressed opposition to them as advertised. Ex-Probate Judge L. H. Reynolds was called upon by the chairman, and he spoke at length concerning the bills in question. He stated that he had been in lots of hard scraps in Chilton County, but that he considered this one of the most important to the interest of the people of the county. A masterful appeal was made to Mr. Cox and Mr. Thomas "Not to take from the people of Chilton county their right to pass upon the matters belonging to them. We will have no remedy when once these laws are placed on the statute books. They cannot be taken off easily when once made into law. Judge Reynolds said that he favored the bill to put the commissioners on a fixed salary.

J. N. Scott of Jemison made a lengthy speech in which he pointed out strong and numerous criticisms of the bills, which he charged would take away the rights of the people of the county and put us under a dictator. Mr. Scott said that the people were the bosses and that the elected officials were only the servants of the people. He asked the question: "Who asked Cox to present those bills?" and answered his own question by saying: "Nobody asked for it; but it was framed for his own personal gain or for some of his folks."

The four most important bills were put to a vote—The road supervisor, the county health unit, the farm agent and the one cent of the gas tax for paving roads. The vote in opposition to all four of the bills was practically unanimous; there was not a vote cast in favor of any of the bills.

REV. ENFINGER TO PREOCH AT GOSPEL TABERNACLE

Notice is given that Rev. J. W. Enfinger will preach at the Clanton Gospel Tabernacle Thursday night (tonight) at 7:00 o'clock. Special music will be rendered by Rev. Enfinger's daughter. Everyone is urged to attend.

FARMERS UNION MEETS AT CENTER HILL FEBRUARY 15

A special county convention of the Farmers Union will be held at Center Hill on Saturday, February 15th, at 2:00 o'clock. All members of the Union in the county are urged to attend.—J. L. Williams, Secretary.

FOUR ARRESTS BY SHERIFF DURING THE PAST WEEK

Sheriff J. R. Hardy reports four arrests made by officers from his office during the past week. They are as follows:

Two for assault with intent to murder; bond for $300 allowed in each case.

One for violating the Alabama Carrier law; bond of $100.

One for driving while intoxicated; released by justice court on payment of $100 fine and costs.

ONE FINED IN MAYOR'S COURT

In mayor's court last Monday morning only two cases were on the docket, both for fighting. After hearing all the evidence, Mayor Jones fined one of the negroes. The other was released when evidence showed that he entered the scrap in an effort to act as peace-maker.

NEW BRIDGE TO BE STARTED THIS WEEK

Mayor C. Fenn Jones reports that work on the new bridge on the Kincheon road, west of the city, will start during this week. The old bridge was carried away by the near flood which came several weeks ago. The new bridge is to be a steel frame affair, with oak floor, which will be much more substantial than the old one was.

W. J. BILLINGSLEY WILL ENTER RACE FOR COUNTY TREASURER

Jhst before leaving Monday morning for Montgomery, to attend Federal Court, Mr. W. J. Billingsley authorized The Union-Banner to state that next week he would formally announce for county treasurer on the Republican ticket. Mr. Billingsley is well and favorably known in Chilton county, having served for several years on the school board. Watch for his announcement and more about him next week.

AAA CHECKS TO BE MAILED OUT

Washington—The flow of AAA benefit checks to farmers may be started again this week.

Anticipating an early signature by President Roosevelt of the deficiency appropriations bill, including $296,185,000 to complete payments to farmers for compliance with adjustment contracts up to the Supreme Court's invalidation of AAA, the Farm Administration prepared orders for field officers to proceed with mailing checks.

The orders, which will put in motion once more the check machinery stilled by the high court January 6th are to be sent immediately after Mr. Roosevelt signs the appropriation bill.

In addition to the rental and benefit payments under 1935 adjustment contracts, officials said cotton farmers will receive the price adjustment payments of not more than 2 cents a pound on cotton produced under 1935 Bankhead allotments. Those subsidy payments are to be made from 30 per cent of gross customs receipts set aside for the AAA.

Ben Traywick Dead

Benjamin C. Traywick, age 61, of Highland community, on Clanton Rte. 3, was found dead in his bed at 4:30 a.m., last Friday, February 7th. Doctors stated that he had been dead for three or four hours, but it was not known until attempt was made to awaken him at 4:30. He had been in bad health for about 15 years, and he suffered seriously for the past three years.

Mr. Traywick is survived by three sons—E. C. Traywick of Clanton Rte 6, R. T. Traywick of Clanton Route 3, and R. E. Traywick of Clanton; three daughters—Mrs. A. J. Matson of Clanton Route 3, Mrs. W. B. Foster of Lanett, Ala., and Miss Roberta Traywick of Clanton; three brothers—J. J. Traywick of Billingsley, J. W. Traywick and G. C. Traywick, both of Haynes; one sister—Mrs. Ora Belle Coggins of Haynes; and eight grandchildren. Two of Mr. Traywick's sons are dead; those were Jesse D. and Stanley Traywick.

Funeral services were held at Highland church, four miles west of Clanton, at 3:00 p.m., on Saturday, with Rev. M. Lockhart officiating. The remains were laid to rest in the cemetery at that place, with Spigener in charge.

Pallbearers were W. B. Foster, C. A. Hay, Grady Giles, A. J. Matson, Melvin Lockhart and Howard Lee.

H. M. SIMPSON IS CHIEF OF POLICE

H. M. Simpson has been appointed temporary chief of police for the city of Clanton until final selection can be made. Mr. Simpson was appointed at the time of Mr. Browder's death, and he was asked to serve until arrangement could be made. The Mayor's office reports that a selection will be made in the near fueure.

APOLLO CHOIR AT BAPTIST CHURCH SUNDAY NIGHT

The Apollo Boys Choir of Birmingham will give an hour of sacred music at the Baptist church Sunday evening from 7:00 to 8:00 o'clock. This is a famous boys choir of 30 voices selected from more than 10,000 entries. They have sung in Washington for President and Mrs. Roosevelt, and in most of the larger cities of the South. They are singing at the First Baptist church in Montgomery Sunday, and we are fortunate in having them to appear in Clanton Sunday night. All lovers of music will be much pleased with this service. Tell your friends and neighbors. No admission charge. —S. J. Ezell, Pastor.

MOSCOW - WASHINGTON - MONTGOMERY - CLANTON

[EDITORIAL]

Three years ago this coming March Fourth there began in Washington a national administration which purported to be a history-maker. Franklin D. Roosevelt went into office with probably the strongest popular backing a president had ever enjoyed. For the first few months this popularity grew even greater. The American people of all political parties hoped and even fondly believed that they had discovered the "Moses" to lead them out of the economic turmoil into which the country and the world had slid. The president had the backing of everybody — industry — finance — labor — farmer. All had decreed to give him every opportunity to "do his stuff".

But then came the brain trust, and what a calamity to the country and to the Democratic party, whose banner Mr. Roosevelt had carried to such unthought of heights and almost to utopian reverance of the American people. Since Mr Roosevelt called in the assistance of the college professors and day dreamers, the tide has been ebbing; sentiment and confidence have been waning.

Mr. Roosevelt and his Democratic-Socialist cohorts at Washington have introduced an idea into America that is new to us, but is old in the countries of Europe and Asia. That is the idea of autocracy and dictatorship. It was christened the "New Deal", but it was not new. It had been tried and resulted in failure and miserable consequences numbers of times in ages past.

The idea of dictatorship has become rampant at Washington, and its evil effects and dangerous tentacles have reached out all over the great country. It is in every State of the Union; it is in Alabama. A direct tributary of the deadly river flows into Montgomery, our State capital. Our governor, Bibb Graves, is infested with the deadly malady, and so are the other State officials including the law-making bodies of our State. Those elected by the people to serve as officials and guides of the destinies of the comonwealth have become senseless to the wishes and voices of the populace of the land. Our officials are our bosses. They tell us what we can do, and expect us, like lambs on the execution block, to take our portion and not let out a whimper. And if we do whimper, it makes little difference; they go straight ahead with their nefarious racket.

A tributary from Washington flows into Chilton county too, Clanton is fed from the direct stream. It comes to us from Montgomery, and is brought here by our Representative and our State Senator, who also were elected to serve the people and carry out the wishes of their constituents. They too are senseless to the wishes of the people; they are our bosses and not our servants which they were elected to be. Chilton county is having a taste of "dictatorship." We have read of it in Russia, and have heard of what became of liberty where it held sway; but we don't have to read of it now in foreign countries. We have it right here at home in Chilton county. The rights of our people here are being swept away from us and by the self-same force that originated in the contriving minds of the brain-trusters which Mr. Roosevelt called in to help hatch out the New Deal.

Will the people of Chilton county permit this dictatorship to be perpetrated upon them? It is unmistakably closing in on us just like the deadly tentacles of the monster octopus. If we permit our rights as liberty-loving citizens to be taken away from us by these greedy, power-mad, half-insane enthusiasts, they will be hard for us to regain. The question is bigger than political parties. These men were elected as Democrats, and it is that party which must necessarily suffer most from their mal-deeds and nefarious schemes; but not all Democrats approve of such practices. Lots of them still believe in and cleave to the old-time principles of constitutional government, and will fight dictatorship to the last ditch.

No Republican ever attempted such brazen affrontery, but Republicans are all opposed to our liberties being taken from us. This party stands like a stone wall in defense of the cherished and traditional principles of American constitutional government; and we welcome to our aid all who share with us in these beliefs. As stated above, these questions are much greater than political parties, but deserve the denunciation of all genuine citizens over the land.

The Republican party of Chilton county is putting up a solid front against the encroachments of the rights of the common people, and it is going to fight the oncoming tide of dictatorship just as long as there is breath in us to fight it. The odds may be against us, but when our soup gets thin and the opposition looms in front as if unsurmountable, we will fight only the harder. The biggest crowd is not always right. It may be unpopular to be a Republican some times and in some places; but we are proud to own it in Chilton county. We have made a record that we are not ashamed of, and we are going to stand by our guns. We are going to continue to "Trust in the Lord and Keep our Powder dry."

Republican Executive Committee Meets; Makes Plans For Primary

Resolutions Adopted Concerning Primary Dates; Republican Party Gates Opened; Resolutions Passed Against All Pending Local Bills

Clanton, Ala., Feb. 1, 1936.

At a call meeting of the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County on the above date, the following proceedings were had and done:

The roll call having been completed, upon proper motion the meeting adjourned to meet again at 10:00 o'clock a.m., Friday, February 7, 1936.

Now again on this the 7th day of February, 1936, the roll call having been completed and a quorum declared by the chairman, the following business was transacted:

Motion carried that the chairman of this Committee appoint a person temporarily in the place of Committeeman J. L. Dupree, the place being vacated by reason of ill health of the said J. L. Dupree. The chairman thereupon designated Ernest Grant, and which designation was unanimously confirmed by the body.

Motion carried that the chairman of this Committee appoint four other persons to act in conjunction with him as chairman, they together forming a sub-committee, and which sub-committee shall act for and in lieu of the Executive Committee in performing all the duties of this Committee in carrying out the provisions of law relative to the primary heretofore on to-wit January 18, 1936, called by this Committee.

The Committee as appointed by the chairman is composed of the following named persons: J. N. Dennis, chairman, T. E. Wyatt, J. Wiley Littlejohn, Percy M. Pitts, and Mrs. Gertrude P. Calloway.

Motion prevailed that the sub-committee as appointed by the chairman, be and it is hereby instructed by this body to designate the mode and manner of electing delegates to a county-wide delegated convention just after the primary in May, and also designate the time and place of the meeting of said convention.

Motion prevailed that the Republican Executive Committee as elected in May shall be allowed to elect its own chairman and secretary.

Motion carried that this sub-committee draw a suitable resolution in-

KANSANS TO HONOR MEMORY OF CURTIS

Rites For Ex-Vice-President To Be Held Tomorrow

Topeka, Kansas, Feb. 10—Old friends of Charles Curtis, who followed his political career from country attorney to vice-president of the United States, waited here today to pay their final respects to his memory.

Curtis, who died Saturday in Washington, where he lived after his defeat for re-election in the Democratic landslide of 1932, will be buried tomorrow afternoon. The body in en route here, accompanied by his sister, Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, and her husband, a daughter, Mrs. Webster Knight, and Mrs. Lola Williams, Curtis' secretary for many years.

The funeral wil be held in the hall of the Kansas House of Representatives. The funeral party will arrive at 1 p.m. tomorrow, and from then until 3 o'clock, the body will lie in state in the rotunda of the capitol. State offices will be closed and officials, headed by Gov. Alf. M. Landon, will attend.

MISS WILLODEAN SIMS

Miss Willodean Sims, age 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Sims, of Jasper, died of pneumonia at her home last Monday morning. Her mother will be remembered as Miss Ellen Mims, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Mims of Clanton Route 1. Curtis Sims was the local L. & N. operator for a number of years.

Funeral services were held at Concord church, two miles east of Clanton, at 11:00 o'clock Wednesday morning, with Rev. W. H. Short, of the Jasper Baptist church, officiating, assisted by Rev. G. G. Williams.

She is survived by her parents, and one sister, of the immediate family; her grandparents; and a host of relatives and friends.

A full report could not be obtained, but all particulars will be obtained by next week, and the full report given.

WATTS HAT SHOPPE HAS MOVED TO NEW QUARTERS

The Watts Hat Shoppe has moved to its new quarters at the old Fair Store location, at the corner of Second Avenue and Seventh Street, on the highway.

The building has been remodeled throughout, and has one of the most beautiful display fronts in the city. Miss Callie Watts, the owner, has already built a reputation for dealing in quality merchandise, and now, with the new building, affords one of the most modern businesses to be found in Clanton.

In this issue of The Union-Banner an advertisement appears, giving notice of the removal, and stating the management's thanks for past trade, as well as inviting all to visit the new store. Turn to the advertisement and read it; then visit the Watts Hat Shoppe.

Music School Begun

The music school at the courthouse, being taught by Prof. Eugene H. Whitt and Prof. W. M. Devaughn, got started off well Monday night. There were 24 enrolled the first night and it increased to 31 the next night. Prof. Whitt reports that he has a nice class taking voice aside from the regular school.

Prof. Devaughn announces that beginning next Monday, there will be an afternoon class for children as well as grown-ups, at 3:30 o'clock. Tuition for this class will be 10c per day.

Everyone who might be interested should get in touch with either Prof. Whitt or Prof. Devaughn at your earliest convenience.

CLEVE ARMSTRONG NO LONGER WITH A & P CO.

Mr. G. C. Armstrong, who has been manager of the local A & P store in Clanton for the past several years, asks The Union-Banner to state that he is no longer with that company. Mr. Armstrong wishes us to say to his friends: "Words are inadequate for me to express my thanks to all my friends who have made possible the degree of success that I have had with the company."

A. O. BOSWELL IS IN MONTGOMERY HOSPITAL

A letter to The Union-Banner from Mr. A. O. Boswell, of near Coopers, says that he is in St. Margaret's Hospital, Montgomery. Mr. Boswell writes: "I would be glad for my friends to drop in to see me when they are in town."

O. L. DEVAUGHN WILL ENTER RACE FOR COMMISSIONER

Mr. O. L. Devaughn, of Maple Springs community, authorizes The Union-Banner to state to his friends that he will enter the race for Commissioner of the Fourth District, and will make his formal announcement next week. Mr. Devaughn is well known all over Chilton County, and his friends will be glad to learn that he has decided to throw his hat into the ring. Be on the watch-out for his annoucpemet and more information about him and his candidacy next week.

Mrs. Percy Pitts, Mrs. W. A. Reynolds, Mrs. Sam Box of Birmingham and Mrs. Dubb Huddleston attended the funeral of Mrs. Reynolds' niece in Selma last Monday.

State Legislature Is Called Into Session

Question of Schools Will Be Studied; Fight On Sales Tax

The Alabama legislature has been called into extraordinary session by Governor Graves, and it is believed that the principal reason for the call is to study the school situation and try to devise some plans whereby the schools can be kept open for a full term this year, and give time in which to work out a permanent plan for the future.

A number of plans are expected to be put forward. A general consumers sales tax, a selective list tax, and other measures are expected. It is expected that a fight will be put up to arrange for an amendment to the state constitution placing education on an equal basis with all other state departments.

This newspaper believes that the most plausible policy. This would plase the school department in a position to share equally with the highway, prison and other departments. As the situation stands now the schools are considered as a "non essential" department, and is compelled to take "what is left" after all other needs are cared for.

The Union-Banner opposes a sales tax of any kind, and has always been an active opponent of excessive taxation, yet we consider schools one of our most important departments, and are ready at all times to do all in our power to better them.

It is generally expected that "something will be done" to keep the schools open. This will be cheerful news to our peop e. If some kind of "stop-gap" legislation can be effected to take care of the present term, this will give time to study for the future.

A hard fight is expected for the sales tax bills, as is the case in the bill providing for parity in all departments. The gist of the whole affair, therefore, is that our schools will be kept going, for which the most of us will be thankful.

ENTRANCE IN SUB-SCRIPTION PLAN WILL CLOSE AT EARLY DATE

No Church Will Be Permitted To Enter Good Samaritan Plan After Saturday, Feb. 22

The Good Samaritan subscription plan of The Union-Banner increases in interest every day, and in spite of bad weather, some of the churches have already done some fine work in soliciting subscriptions. A few sunshiny days, and it will be running like clock-work.

If your church has not already entered and wants to get in on the liberal offer made by The Union-Banner, it should do so at once. Saturday of next week, February 22nd, Washington's birthday, and Chilton County's rabbit hunting day, has been set as the last day on which churches can enter. The rest of this week and all of next week will give plenty of time for all arrangements to be made for any and all churches to get into the plan.

And as announced two weeks ago, it will pay you to hustle up with the selling of subscriptions, additional bonuses are offered the first churches to complete their books of seventy-five subscriptions. If you have not read the details of the plan, just drop a card to The Union-Banner, and everything will be furnished you forthwith.

After this Good Samaritan plan closes, The Union-Banner will go back to the regular price of $1.50 a year, and will be sold only and strictly at that price.

MR. D. V. FARR IS NEW MANAGER OF A & P CO.

Due to the resignation of Mr. G. C. Armstrong as manager of the A & P store in Clanton, Mr. D. V. Farr has been placed in charge as manager. Mr. Farr has been with A & P a little over four years, and comes here from Sylacauga, where he has been manager of the company's store there.

Mr. Farr wishes this message broadcast to the people of Clanton and Chilton county: "We will do our best to give the people of this section of Alabama the same good service which Mr. Armstrong has given in the past."

The new manager of A & P is a young man with a very genial disposition, and seems to be the kind of a man who wins and holds friends wherever he goes. He with his wife and two children will move to Clanton as early as the proper arangements can be made.

The Union-Banner welcomes Mr. Farr and his family into our midst, and we feel that the people of Clanton too will be glad to have them make their home here with us.

TO ENTER RACE FOR TREASURER

To the Voters of Chilton County:

It is my intention to announce my candidacy for the office of County Treasurer in next week's issue of The Union-Banner, subject to the action of the Republican primaries to be held in May and June.

It was my intention to formally announce in this week's issue but details relative to publicity forbade. Next week, along with my formal announcement, I shall set forth my plan of campaign, and other matters pertaining to my candidacy.—Paul C. Mims (Man in the Moon).

PUPILS PREPARING FOR ORATORICAL CONTEST

Interest in the oratorical contest on James Madison, conducted with high school pupils, junior and senior, as well as with those in grammar and consolidated schools doing some high school work, is increasing in this county by leaps and bounds.

In Thorsby Institute, of which Miss Helen C. Jenkins is principal, with the contest conducted by Mr. Rasco Maddox, the following pupils are already preparing orations with others expected to enter soon. Frederick Dunlap, Julia Johnson, Sarah Green, and U. L. Mims.

County contests are to be held on or before March 13. Congressional district contests in all districts except the ninth, Jefferson County, are to be held within the dates March 30 to April 11, inclusive. State finals are to be held at Birmingham April 24. The winner of first place in that contest will be state champion, and all of the state finalists will receive cash prizes, as well as being entertained by the sponsors of the contest.

Schools which have not already enrolled have only a few days left in which to do so. The contest is sponsored by The Birmingham News-Age-Herald. Information may be obtained by writing to Artemus Calloway, News-Age-Herald oratorical contest editor.

MT. CARMEL NEWS

The attendance at Sunday school was good Sunday, but there is still room for improvement. Everyone is cordially invited to attend our Sunday school.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Childress were the dinner guests of Mrs. Rittie Whatley.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Scott visited Mars Hill community Saturday night.

Gladys Wyatt was the Saturday night guest of her sister, Mrs. Bill Foshee.

Mrs. Elizabeth Vail is home from college this week end.

Our regular singing afternoon is next Sunday. All singers and lovers of music are cordially invited to our singing.

Miss Oleta Whatley was the Sunday dinner guest of Ruby Mae Higgins.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Foshee, Mrs. Cleasey Foshee, Mr. Lesley Foshee and Mrs. Minnie Higgins and little daughter, Imogene, visited Mr. and Mrs. Pink Whatley Sunday afternoon.

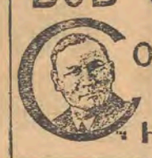
We were sorry that Miss Belma Liveoak was sick Sunday and could not attend church. We hope she will be able to come back next Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Liveoak are the proud parents of a baby girl. Her name is Edith.

MACEDONIA NEWS

We will not have any preaching here on the fourth Saturday night, but we will have preaching on Sunday. Rev. Smith will preach at Mt. Zion on that Saturday night.—V. G. Smith.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.



"He that wavers is like the waves of the sea driven by the wind and tossed". That is what we read in the first chapter of James. A wave goes the way the wind goes. It takes a strong wind to produce great waves. It doesn't take much wind to drive some people. We all know some people who change with every wind of sentiment. They think just like other people think. It doesn't take much wind to move a feather. It takes a strong wind to move an oak. Trees are made strong by resisting the wind. The oak pushes its roots into the ground and grips the earth with all of its strength and resists the storms. There is no better way to develop strong character than to bare our breasts to the winds of public sentiment and stand for the right though we have to stand alone. From years of experience the writer has learned that there are very few people who have enough character to stand for convictions which are out of line w the sentiment of the community in which they live.

"Why are the students from the Bob Jones College different from the students from many other institutions of learning?" the writer was asked recently. The explanation is simple. The first thing we do in the Bob Jones College is to drill into the hearts of young people the thought that it is their duty to do their duty regardless of public sentiment. We tell them that it is better to die for something than it is to live for nothing. We tell them that the spirit of the modern age which says, "Everybody is doing it, why shouldn't I?" is un-Christian. We tell them that Enoch walked with God in a wicked age. We tell them that it is not their business to keep up with the age but that it is their business to keep step with God in the midst of the age. We tell them that all great leaders have been men of conviction and most of these great leaders went against the current of their times.

THE NEW NORGE PRODUCTS HAVE MANY IMPROVEMENTS

New Norge products now on display at the Polk Bros. Motor Co., show many improvements over last year's models, embodying new beauty, convenience features and use savings. This local concern, in company with Norge dealers all over the country, is staging a Norge [illegible] week from February 10th to 15th in which many educational activities in relation to the proper use of refrigerators, ranges, washers and ironers are being featured.

"The 1936 line of Norge Rollator refrigerators", said Mr. Polk, of the dealer company, "consist of nine basic models, each carefully engineered to meet the expressed desires of the housewife. The five top models are available in either porcelain or the improved Norgloss lacquer which has been so perfected as to make it difficult to identify with porcelain. Certain models are available in color, harmonizing with the new line of Norge kitchen ranges which, as well, match the refrigerators in line and contour."

"The Norge line of electric washers consists of five basic models, two of which are also available gas powered. The outstanding Norge washer feature, the Autobuilt transmission, is present in all models this year. Tubs are constructed of refrigerator porcelain. Such exclusive features as the featherbase agitator, whose efficinecy moves more gallons of water per second without motor strain; the system of quietors' which absorb normal wear and assure quiet operation over more years of efficient performance are, likewise, featured in the 1936 Norge washer line.

"The Norge ironer line includes six basic models, all improved in appearance, convenience and trouble-saving features. The ironer line has such features as the double open-end roll, two speed control, non-sag roll, split heating element (permitting different temperatures at each end of the roll, adjustable tension and modernistic chrome tubular leg construction which, with the utility of the flat-table top and chip-proof enamel, gives a far greater value to this modern appliance which is growing so fast in public favor.

"During the week these Norge products will be on display and crowds of local homemakers are taking advantage of the many educational demonstrations that are being featured at our store," Mr. Polk Concluded.

LAMAR COUNTY HIGH TO PLAY JEMISON SATURDAY

The Lamar County High School "Bulldogs" from Vernon, Ala., will tangle with the Jemison High "Panthers" on the Jemison court Saturday night, February 15. The "Bulldogs" are coached by a former Jemison High student, Carl Glasscock.

The Vernon team has gone through the season so far without a loss, while Jemison has won eight of the eleven games played this year. Be on hand for this one, as it is expected to be one of the best of the season.

Ralph Jones of Birmingham visited his mother here Sunday.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the family, wish to take this opportunity to thank the many friends of this and all the adjoining communities for the kindness shown us during the illness and death of our husband and father, John P. Jackson. We also wish to thank our friends in Birmingham, who were so kind to us. Especially the attendants of Woodlawn Hospital and Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Williams, Miss Dolly Bell and Flora Harris, Mrs. Lillie Cox and others.

REFUGE NEWS

As there has not been any news from this place for some time, we are thankful to say that health of this community is fairly good except Rev. Lockhart and little daughter are suffering some with head trouble. Good health is something to be proud of and it should behoove us to be more prompt in the service of our Lord. We believe that if more had studied last Sunday's Sunday school lesson, and gone according to its teachings, that there would have been more at Sunday school Sunday. Our Golden Text was: "Why call ye me Lord and do not the things which I say?". Let us remember that the Lord is going to hold us responsible for the way we use the sabbath, and we should feel that the Lord is not pleased with us just merely going visiting on Sunday.

We hope that everyone will give more thought to life here and hereafter for sometime we are going to have to face this life again, let it be good or bad. Someday it may be too late to say Lord, Lord, for the Lord says, "Not everyone that says Lord, Lord shall enter My Kingdom."

As next Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days, we hope to have more present than we had last Sunday. Our pastor, Rev. W. E. Robinson, will preach at eleven o'clock Saturday and at 2:30 Sunday. We will have Sunday school every third Sunday in the afternoon at 1:30. Let's be on time with a well-studied lesson. Let us try putting God first in all things and see if His Holy Spirit does not lead us to a service somewhere on Sunday.

MAPLE SPRINGS

Everybody invited to attend services to be held in the Mountain Springs Congregational church next Sunday, February 6, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and again at 7 o'clock in the evening.

STATE GAME NEWS

Montgomery Ala., Feb. 10.—The State Conservation Department reports that 1,202,887 fish were planted in the streams of this state by its agents during the year 1934-35.

This is the largest number the department has ever planted in any one year and surpasses last year's mark of 984,450 by 254,437.

This restocking program included the planting of 866,977 bream, 326,028 bass and 9,882 of various other species of fish. A total of 763,175 bream and 308,740 bass were transplanted from the state hatchery at Eastaboga and its sub-stations.

Eighty-one thousand, six hundred bream and 9,410 bass were transported on state trucks from the federal hatchery at Marion to stream sites, but these figures do not represent the total number of fish planted from the federal hatchery.

In addition to these plantings, members of the department's field staff rescued 22,202 bream, 7,878 bass and the 9,882 of the other varieties from receding waters and transplanted them in other streams.

Having only recently completed a two-year improvement project at the Eastaboga hatchery, the department is anticipating an even greater output this year. The project included the building of a concrete wall to protect the hatchery spring, two brood ponds and the enlargement of two other ponds.

An expansion program likewise has been underway at the Marion federal hatchery which now has 45 ponds available for rearing purposes.

IN MEMORY OF JOHN P. JACKSON

Dear Uncle, you have left me and your smiles I see no more. My heart is filled wits sadness, for no time can heal the sore.

I often sit and think of you, Uncle John, when I am all alone, for memory is the only friend that grief can call its own.

You wore the crown of patience through the months you struggled on, and those hands that rest forever are the hands that made your home.

'Neath the mound of blooming roses, cold in death our darling lies. But his spirit's with the angels in that home beyond the skies. He is sleeping over yonder in a church yard by the way. Only sleeping till the dawning of the Resurrection Day.—A Niece, Ella V. Jackson.

CLANTON, ALABAMA

SHE might HAVE BEEN A GREAT SINGER....

AS A LITTLE TOT, Alice loved to sing to her "dollies." Singing satisfied something in her soul. "I'm going to be an opera singer when I grow up," she said. And the way she said it made folks believe her.

But Alice was never to realize her ambition. Years of study — strained-eyes — headaches. "The game's not worth the candle," Alice thought, in a moment of desperation.

Today Alice's "stage" is a kitchen sink . . . her "orchestra" the rattle of dishes.

- This story may have had a different ending—if Alice's parents had provided her with ample light for studying. Eye-strain easily can undermine both health and ambition!

SPECIAL SUNDAY RATES
For Long Distance Calls

YOU CAN now make Station-to-Station long distance telephone calls all day on Sundays at the reduced night rates. This applies to calls on which the day station-to-station rate is more than 35 cents.

Reduced night rates are also now in effect on Person-to Person calls every night after 7 P. M. and all day Sunday on calls when the day person-to-person rate is more than 50 cents.

These new "long distance" rate periods make long distance telephone service still more convenient and economical, and more useful to more people in more ways than ever before.

Take advantage of these new low Sunday rates and enjoy a voice visit by telephone next Sunday, with some of the folks back home or with sons or daughters away at school. A telephone call, you will find, is like a face-to-face visit and as satisfying. Ask "long distance" for rates to wherever you wish to talk.

Beware The Cough
From a common cold
That Hangs On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Creomulsion not only contains the soothing elements common to many remedies; such as, Syrup of White Pine Compound with Tar, fluid extract of Licorice Root, fluid extract of Ipecac for its powerful phlegm loosening effect, fluid extract of Cascara for its mild laxative effect and, most important of all, Beechwood Creosote is perfectly blended with all of these to reach the source of the trouble from the inside. Creomulsion can be taken frequently and continuously by adults and children with remarkable results.

Thousands of doctors use Creomulsion in their own families as well as in their practice knowing how Creomulsion aids nature to soothe the inflamed membranes and heal the irritated tissues as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled. Druggists also know the effectiveness of Beechwood Creosote and they rank Creomulsion top for coughs because you get a real dose of Creosote in Creomulsion, emulsified so that it is palatable, digestible and potent for going to the very seat of the trouble.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritations and especially those stubborn ones that start with a common cold and hang on for dreadful days and nights thereafter. Even if other remedies have failed, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund every cent of your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Don't worry through another sleepless night—phone or go get a bottle of Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)

Little Mae Willie Jones has been very sick with flu.

Messrs. Ottis Glenn and J. L. Lansford spent a while Sunday afternoon with Mr. DuBose near Verbena.

Mr. Joe Lansford spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. Jeff Price.

Mr. Ottis Glenn spent Thursday night with Mr. Curtis Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Price spent Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. Rudaugh McDowell.

Mr. Evan Mitchell spent Saturday night with his sister, Mrs. Alton Harris of South Clanton.

Mr. Arnold Glenn had as his guest Saturday night, Mr. Arthur Mitchell.

PLEASANT HILL

We are glad to say that our Sunday school is moving along nicely. We had a large crowd out last Sunday, and that, of course, proved to us that our Sunday school is getting better. We are thankful to see so many come out each Sunday who are really interested in our Bible studies.

On next Saturday night and Sunday night our pastor, Rev. W. E. Robinson, will have charge of each service. We want to urge everyone to bring someone with you. It will be well worth your time, as brother Robinson always has a true message and sometimes he hits us pretty hard. Nevertheless, we believe it would be a good thing for each church member to tune in on a live wire and see if we are living in our church or on it.

We had a very good singing last Sunday afternoon. We were glad to have the visitors and invite them to come back again.

On next Friday morning, February 14th, we are going to have a working at the cemetery at this place. All who are interested are asked to meet early Friday morning and bring tools, as there is lots of work to do since the heavy rains we have had recently.

Miss Hazel Blow spent Tuesday of last week with Miss Ollie Bell Davis.

Miss Lurlene Blow spent a while last Sunday with Miss Pearlene Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cleckler, Mr. Frank McMullin, Dewey Cleckler and Miss Alta Mae Blow were sunday dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Cleckler.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Blow and little daughter, Clara Nell, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Martin.

Miss Wina Kate Robinson was the week end guest of Miss Jesse Cleckler.

Mr. and Mrs. Ottis Davis of Sllura spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Davis. Don't forget to come to the working on February 14, and come to Sunday school Sunday morning.—Reporter.

From Your Doctor if the "Pain" Remedy You Take Is Safe.

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well - Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it — in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains . . . and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store — simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

PATES CHAPEL

We did not have preaching services Saturday night on account of our pastor attending a funeral late Saturday afternoon. He filled his regular appointment Sunday morning. He preached a wonderful sermon. On account of so much sickness, the attendance was smaller than usual.

Mrs. Charles Hayes will be carried to the hospital Tuesday to have her tonsils removed, in Birmingham.

Mrs. Elvin Sorrell has been on the sick list for the past week, also Mr. Alfred Sorrell has been in bad condition. We are all wishing for them a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Hayes and children and Mr. and Mrs. Riley Hayes and children spent the past week end with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hayes and children.

Rev. M. Lockhart and two daughters took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Odis Price Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. Maddox were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Champion and children.

There will be preaching at Pates Chapel next Sunday at 11:00 o'clock and Sunday night at 7:00 o'clock. Rev. Riggins will preach for us. Evrybody has a cordial invitation.

We wish to take up space to thank and show our appreciation to Mrs. Grady Sewell of Birmingham for their nice gift to the church, a piano and stand scarf. We are very thankful to her for them.

Mr. Walter Maddox of Birmingham was a visitor in this community tl past week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Grady Sewell visited relatives and friends here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Burbel Price will make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hayes this year.

Mr. and Mrs Bernie Blow and daughter visited Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sorrell Sunday evening, also Mr. and Mrs. Morris Rainwater and son.

Mr. and Mrs. Brady Patterson announce the birth of a fine baby boy, born Feb. 6th.

PLEASANT GROVE
JEMISON

We are all having severe colds in this community.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Smith and children and Harvey Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gentry have been visiting their relatives in this community.

Mrs. C. R. Champion, Dalton Champion and Mrs. Maurice Smith and children took dinner with Mrs. Paralee Edwards Sunday, in honor of her ninety-fifth birthday.

Miss Laurine Spivey, Erschel Spivey and Mr. Albert Jones spent a while Sunday night with Mrs. Erschel Martin.

Mrs. Lillie Spivey spent a while Sunday night with the Misses Champion.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Smitherman and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Crow and Miss Ara Wright, all of Prattville, spent the week end with their people here.

Mrs. Hermie Hodgens and children spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Miskelley.

Mr. Bill Davenport spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Davenport.

Miss Lucille Compton, from Dry Valley, has been visiting in this community.

Mrs. Joe Evans visited the Misses Champion Friday afternoon.

J. D. Davenport spent the week end with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Davenport.

Mrs. J. A. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Shampion, Dalton and Sanders Champion and Olis Davenport visited the Misses Champion Sunday.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for the kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and death of our father, T. W. Childress. —Mrs. E. C. Cox, Mrs. Ernest Porter, Mrs. Arthur Honeycutt.

Jerry Alred spent the week end at Mitchell Dam with Betty Hollis.

IN MEMORY OF T. W. CHILDRESS

On February 3, 1936, the death angel visited the home of Mrs. E. C. Cox and carried her father, Mr. Tommie Childress, to his home in heaven. For Jesus said, "I go to prepare a place for you".

Mr. Childress leaves to mourn his death three daughters — Mrs. Maud Cox, Mrs. Pearl Honeycutt, Mrs. Jewel Porter; eight grandchildren; and one brother, Charlie Childress.

Weep not, loved ones, for your loss is his gain. He was a loving father and a faithful church member; as long as he was able he attended his church. Mr. Childress was one of our best men. He lived a quiet Christian life.

He was always admired by his many friends and neighbors, and was ready to help others at all times. He lived an honest and truthful life, always standing for those things which are upright and upbuilding. He was 65 years of age.—A friend, Mrs. W. W. Kendrick.

This story will interest many Men and Women

NOT long ago I was like some friends I have...low in spirits...run-down ...out of sorts...tired easily and looked terrible. I knew I had no serious organic trouble so I reasoned sensibly...as my experience has since proven...that work, worry, colds and whatnot had just worn me down.

The confidence mother has always had in S.S.S. Tonic...which is still her stand-by when she feels run-down...convinced me I ought to try this Treatment...I started a course. The color began to come back to my skin ...I felt better...I did not tire easily and soon I felt that those red-blood-cells were back to so-called fighting strength...it is great to feel strong again and like my old self.

Insist on S.S.S. Tonic in the blood-red Cellophane-wrapped package... the big 20-oz. size is sufficient for two weeks' treatment...it's more economical, too.

Lesson for February 16

JESUS' REPLY TO JOHN THE BAPTIST'S QUESTION

LESSON TEXT—Luke 7:19-28.

GOLDEN TEXT—I believe: help thou mine unbelief.—Mark 9:24.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Answers John's Question.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Answers John's Question.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Meeting Doubts With Facts.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How Jesus Answers Honest Doubts.

The title, "Jesus Helps a Doubter," given by the lesson committee, is not a good one. John was not a doubter, though somewhat perplexed. Jesus specifically defends him against such a charge (see Matt. 11:7-11 as well as the present text). It is to be hoped that no teacher will perpetuate this error. John was a great man. In announcing his birth the angel said, "He shall be great in the sight of the Lord." He was great, also, when measured by the standards of men. In teaching this lesson a survey should be made of John's life and work.

I. John's Birth and Ministry Foretold (Isa. 40:3; cf. Matt. 3:3).

He was thought about and his work planned long before he was born. He came as God's messenger.

II. John's Character.

1. Humble (Luke 3:4). He did not seek human praise and commendation, but shrank from them. His supreme concern was to proclaim Christ.

2. Courageous (Luke 3:7). He faced a great multitude and struck hard at their sins. He did not trim his message to suit the crowd.

III. John's Preaching (Luke 3:3-8).

1. He sounded forth a ringing call to repentance (vv. 3-6). Suddenly emerging from his seclusion, he came into the region of the Jordan as a messenger of God, calling upon the people to repent as a means of preparation for the coming of the Messiah.

2. He demanded proofs of penitence (vv. 7, 8). He insisted that their false prophets had to be abandoned, their sinful hearts had to be renovated, showing them that the vile passions of their souls must be uprooted. The turning of a soul from sin to God was necessary.

IV. John Sent a Deputation to Jesus (Luke 7:19-23).

1. Their question (v. 19, 20). "Art thou he that should come? or look we for another?" Because John did not see the interval between the sufferings of Christ and the glory that should follow—between the cross of Christ and his second coming—he was perplexed; therefore, he sent a deputation to Jesus for light. This perplexity was not something culpable in John because the prophets did not see, or at least did not make clear, the interval between the crucifixion of Christ and his second coming. The Messiah, he knew, had to be the Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world (John 1:29). The trend of events puzzled him. It was not a lack of faith, but confusion of mind, that prompted his inquiry. There were two lines of predictions concerning the Messiah; the one set him forth as the suffering One, as in Isaiah 53; the other as an invincible conqueror, as in Isaiah 63. Indeed, in Isaiah 60:1, 2 the two are joined together (Luke 4:17-20).

2. Jesus' action (v. 21). In that same hour, doubtless in the presence of John's disciples, Jesus cured many of their infirmities and plagues, and of evil spirits, and to many that were blind he gave sight.

3. Jesus' message to John (vv. 22, 23). Jesus said to them, "Go your way, and tell John what things ye have seen and heard."

V. Jesus' Defense of John (Luke 7:24-28).

1. He declared that John was not vacillating like a reed swayed by the wind (v. 24).

2. John was not doubting because of the hardship of prison life (v. 25).

3. John was not a mistaken prophet (vv. 25-28). He makes John equal to the greatest of the Old Testament prophets by declaring that among those born of women there hath not arisen a greater prophet than John.

4. The response of the people (v. 29). The people who heard this defense, even the publicans, accepted it as a vindication of John. They justified God. They not only accepted the vindication, but were baptized with the baptism of John.

VI. John's Martyrdom (Mark 6:14-29).

While John was in prison Herod had frequent interviews with him. John boldly told him that it was unlawful for him to have his brother's wife. He did not mince matters even with a king. This so enraged the licentious Herodias that she caused his death.

Love and Faith

As love is deepest in the being of God, so faith is the mightiest principle in the soul of man. Let us distinguish their several essences. Love is the essence of duty, faith is the essence of humanity which constitute it what it is.

Humility and Pride

Humility is the true proof of Christian virtues. Without it, we retain all our faults, and they are only hidden by pride, which conceals them from others, and often from ourselves.

CHEVROLET BUILDS SIX MILLIONTH SIX

Car Turned Out Jan. 16 Bought As Wedding Present For Detroit Bride

Chevrolet's six millionth six was built at the Flint plant Jan. 16. The company introduced the six-cylinder engine into the low-priced field with its 1929 models and built 1,328,605 units in that year. The second million car year was 1935, with a total of 1,066,196. Since its inception, in 1912, Chevrolet has built over 11,000,000 cars, more than half of them being six-cylinder models.

A comparison of the 1929 model sixes with those of 1936 shows just as great an advance in engineering and performance as in appearance, reclares James M. Crawford, chief engineer of Chevrolet Motor Company.

"The 1929 models had 46 horse-power, and todays have 78," remarked Mr. Crawford. "If it had not been for engineering progress toward greater fuel efficiency, today's engine would naturally have to be much larger than that of 1929 to develop so much power, yet the fact is that the cylinder bore is the same and the stroke has been increased only one-fourth of an inch. That is, we have increased the piston displacement of the six from 194 cubic inches to 206.8, or less than 7 per cent, yet the horse power has been increased from 46 to 78, a gain of 70 per cent.

"This great gain in power with virtually no increase in size has come about through the development of better fuels, which permit higher compression ratios, and through improvements in combustion chamber design to permit a great deal more of the potential energy of the fuel to be turned into actual power. The first sixes had a 5 to 1 compression ratio, and today's ratio is 6 to 1. The sult is that the gain in power is obtained not at the expense of fuel economy, but by getting more out of the same quantity of gasoline than we did in 1929.

"In the seven years that Chevrolet has been building sixes, the car has been increased in wheelbase from 107 to 113, and curb weight for a sedan increased from 2,675 to 3,190 pounds.

"These gains in power, efficiency, economy, and car size have all been free to the motorist. That is, today's cars, despite their vastly increased performance powers, are more economical to operate than were the first sixes, and although they are larger, heavier, and, of course, wonderfully improved in appearance, comfort, and safety, their prices today are lower than those of the first Chevrolet sixes."

The six millionth six-cylinder Chevrolet was a wedding present to Miss Betty Fundis, of Detroit, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Boden, whose son, John F. Boden, Miss Fundis married last week.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Be Sure They Properly Cleanse the Blood

YOUR kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as nature intended—fail to remove impurities that poison the system when retained.

Then you may suffer nagging backache, dizziness, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, puffiness under the eyes; feel nervous, miserable—all upset.

Don't delay? Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are especially for poorly functioning kidneys. They are recommended by grateful users the country over. Get them from any druggist.

TEN MILLION DOLLARS FOR ALABAMA'S PROGRESS

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 10.—It was stated today by Alabama Power Company that it would spend more than $9,700,000 during the year 1936 in conducting its business in the State, exclusive of payments of bond interest and preferred stock dividends. Approximately $3,500,000 of this sum will go into wages and salaries for its employees in 66 of the 67 counties where they are residents and citizens. State, local and federal taxes will amount to more than $2,300,000.

Extensions and additions to the system will amount to more than $2,500,000, of which new rural lines under construction and planned for the year will require $1,200,000.

This program is designed not only to carry lines to communities now without service, but to improve existing facilities so that service will be continuously made more efficient to all its customers.

The company will continue its policy of using Alabama material and purchasing in Alabama wherever possible.

SOCIETY

Mrs. J. E. Gowan Hostess to Study Club

Mrs. J. E. Gowan entertained members of the Clanton Study club on last Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. For this occasion the home was effectively decorated. Mrs. M. F. Jones, president, presided over the meeting. Roll call was responded to by current events.

The program for the afternoon was on "The Family of Hennaissance." Mrs. Jones gave Mrs. Bert Inzer's paper on "The Home", and Mrs. John Vanderveer discussed "The Position of Women During the Rennaissance." Solo by Mrs. L. C. Ross was enjoyed.

Mrs. Gowan, assisted by Mrs. Grady Heflin, served coffee, sandwiches and cookies from the dining table covered in a pretty lace cloth and centered with japonicas.

The club members are sponsoring blind made articles from the school in Talladega. Several articles were bought and the sale will continue throughout the week.

The members present were Mrs. Grady Heflin, Mrs. J. W. Hayes, Mrs. Dan Hogan, Mrs. Hugh Jones, Mrs. M. F. Jones, Mrs. T. C. McSwain, Mrs. L. C. Ross, Mrs. J. M. Vanderveer, Mrs. L. C. Warr, Mrs. Horsley White, Mrs. M. L. White, Mrs. J. E. Gowan.

The March meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. L. C. Ross March 6.

Dr. and Mrs. P. T. Hinkle of Kilby were the guests of friends here during the week end.

Miss Irene Jones, who teaches in the Bessemer City School, spent the week end here with her mother, Mrs. A. S. Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Burnett carried their little son, Billy, to Birmingham Saturday for a few days treatment at the childrens hospital under Dr. Hughes Kennedy. Billy had been ill for several days with infected kidneys. He is improving rapidly and his many friends wish for him a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Popwell were visitors in Birmingham Monday.

Earl Ellis spent the week end here with his parents.

Miss Mary Ellis, who is field worker at the Orphanage at Troy, also spent the week end here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Ellis.

Mrs. Nell Sims and Mr. Moattes motored to Cullman Sunday for Miss Opal Lynch, who will be the house guest of Mrs. Sims for several weeks.

Mrs. Grady Broadhead of Montgomery spent Thursday, Friday and Saturday in Clanton with Mrs. L. F. Gerald, Mrs. Arthur Johnson and Mrs. James Wade.

Mrs. J. W. Hayes and little Bess were the guests of Nell's Eat Shoppe Sunday.

Grammar School P.-T. A. To Meet

Members of the Grammar School P.-T. A. are requested to meet Friday at 2:30 at the school. A most interesting program will be rendered. Plans for a benefit bridge party will be made. All members are urged to be present.

Mrs. Reynolds Entertains in Honor of Little Son's 6th Birthday

Mrs. Omar Reynolds entertained at a lovely valentine party Saturday honoring her little son, Richard, who was celebrating his 6th birthday anniversary. The valentine idea was carried out in the favors and decorations. The dining table was covered with a beautiful lace cloth and was centered with a huge birthday cake holding six candles.

Games were enjoyed during the afternoon. In the moon contest Crutcher Ross and Carolyn Teel were awarded prizes, which were a doll and a ball.

The little guests were served ice cream and cake by the hostess, Elizabeth Newell and Myrtle Pitts. The guest list included the following children:

Barbara Burnett, Billy Burnett, Helen Hayes, Janet Ross, William Crutcher Ross, Harry Reynolds, W. B. McCain, George McCain, Carolyn Teel, Diona Blacketter, Carolyn Klinner, Junior Watts, Tommie Sue Littlejohn, Jack Elmore, John Will Pitts, Suan Powers, Ina Saxon McCroney, Sally Gowan, Jimmy Bell, Kathryn Newell, Bobby Popwell, Bobby Webb, Mary Elizabeth Mullins, Tootsie Carter, Gussie Higgins, L. Miss Ruth Pardue spent Sunday in Saginaw with her parents.

Mrs. Grady Reynolds, Mrs. Arthur Johnson, Mrs. L. F. Gerald and Mrs. Grady Broadhead of Montgomery were the guests of Mrs. Philip Horn in Birmingham last Friday. Mrs. Horn entertained her guests at a bridge luncheon.

Little Helen Hayes is spending the week in Montgomery with her aunt, Mrs. G. D. Broadhead.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gann and little daughter of Rockford were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George McCain Sunday.

Miss Lydia Williams, who teaches in Mississippi, spent the week end here with her mother and brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Godwin spent the week end in Booth.

Mr. Gaston Robinson of Uniontown spent several days last week here with Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Robinson. Mr. Robinson of Montgomery was also here for a few days.

Mrs. Renfro Mullins, Mrs. Frank Scott of Huntsville and Mr. Ed Mullins left Sunday for a few weeks visit in Miami, Florida.

Mrs. W. C. Robinson and Mrs. Gaston Robinson spent last Thursday in Birmingham.

Mr. Dubb Huddleston spent Monday in Tuskegee hunting.

Members of the Thursday Club were entertained last week by Mrs. Omar Reynolds. Two tables were arranged in the living room where bridge was enjoyed during the afternoon. At the conclusion of the games Mrs. L. F. Gerald was awarded club prize. The guest prize fell to Mrs. Grady Broadhead of Montgomery.

A delicious salad plate with hot coffee was served to the following members: Mrs. L. F. Gerald, Mrs. J. P. Hayes, Mrs. James Wade, Mrs. G. D. Broadhead, Mrs. Hance Alred, Mrs. Grady Reynolds, Mrs. Arthur Johnson, Miss Sophia Mullins.

Apollo Choir Sings Here Sunday Night, February 16th

Clanton and Chilton County will have their first opportunity on next Sunday night to hear the Apollo Boys Choir, of Birmingham, Coleman Cooper founder and director, which has become a southern institution and though organized only 17 months ago has attracted national recognition. This group of about 30 boys, ages 9 to 13, will be presented to the Clanton audience next Sunday night at 7:00 o'clock, at the Clanton Baptist Church.

As to the aim of the choir, Mr. Cooper said: "We hope to make the choir a Southern institution rather than a local project. . . we want not only to give pleasure and inspiration to those who hear us sing but we wish to develop good musicianship and good citizenship among those who are in it."

Victor Gomboz, the director of the world-renowned Vienna Choir Boys, has praised the Apollo Boys highly, saying: "The intonation is as nearly perfect as I have heard in any choir in America . . . . and the solo voices are unsurpassed by any I have ever heard." Mr. Gomboz has invited Mr. Cooper and his boys to return to Vienna with him and this choir this spring to remain as long as they wish in the palace where they live and study.

There will be no admission charged, but a free-will offering will be taken for the boys some time during the program.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Scott and little son, John Ed, of Huntsville, were the week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Mullins. Mr. Scott returned to Huntsville Sunday. Mrs. Scott left for Miami and John Ed will be here several weeks with Mrs. Hugh Foshee.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hammack and children of Springville were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Reynolds several days last week and during the week end.

Mrs. Mattie Fox, who has been visiting in Birmingham, has returned to her home.

Mr. P. M. Pitts and son, Percy, drove to Waverly, Ala., Sunday afternoon.

A. Cook, Montgomery, Mr. C. N. Kicker, Birmingham, Mr. W. D. Smith, Birmingham, and Mr. Sherman Johnson of Lanette.

At a late hour everyone left, wishing her many more happy birthdays. —A grand daughter.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. W. M. Aldridge and family wish to thank our many friends and relatives for their kind expressions of sympathy and floral tributes during our recent sad bereavement.

W. B. OLIVER THANKS FRIENDS

I wish to express to the people of the Sixth Congressional District my deep apreciation for their very gracious and sympathetic consideration of me during my recent illness, from which I am making satisfactory recovery.

I will not be a candidate for re-election, but hope to visit during the year all the counties of the District and to express in a more personal way my heartfelt gratitude for the friendship and confidence so generously extended me during the years I have had the honor of serving as your representative in the National Congress.

With every good wish, I am,—Sincerely your friend, W. B. Oliver.

LEE HUGHES GONE INTO WATCH-FIXING BUSINESS

The Union-Banner is this week carrying an adv. for Mr. T. L. Hughes, who is putting up a watch and clock repair shop with Dief's in the rear of the new Mullins-Moore building. Mr. Hughes is not able to do hard work, but he is an expert when it comes to fixing watches. His friends will be glad to learn that he has opened up a shop here. Both Lee and Mr. Dief invite you to come to see them.

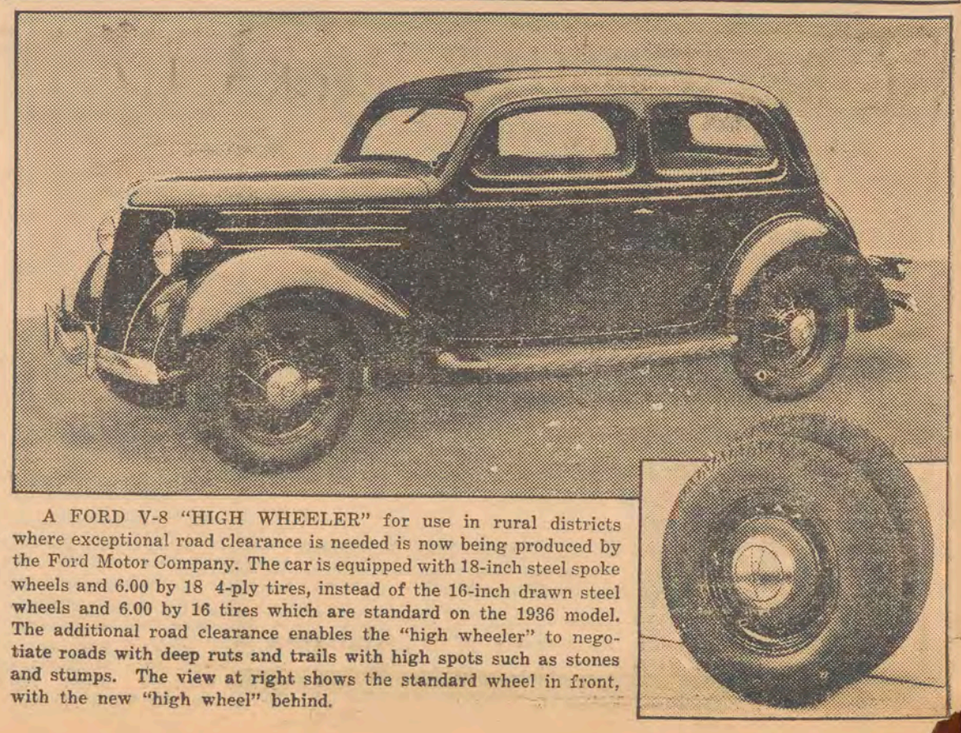
Ford Builds 'High Wheeler' for Difficult Roads



A FORD V-8 "HIGH WHEELER" for use in rural districts where exceptional road clearance is needed is now being produced by the Ford Motor Company. The car is equipped with 18-inch steel spoke wheels and 6.00 by 18 4-ply tires, instead of the 16-inch drawn steel wheels and 6.00 by 16 tires which are standard on the 1936 model. The additional road clearance enables the "high wheeler" to negotiate roads with deep ruts and trails with high spots such as stones and stumps. The view at right shows the standard wheel in front, with the new "high wheel" behind.

State Officials And Taxation

Editor Union-Banner:

It is doubtful if one-tenth of one percent of our state administration servants would be competent to conduct a business enterprise of any kind successfully. Certainly our "promising" governor could not make a living selling gorgeous beads in Africa. Yet, we trust this type of chronic politician with the conduct of our largest business—the State of Alabama.

The Governor and his "marble legislators" are about to become darn generous with the merchant's time. They are wrapping up another bundle for the oppressed taxpayer. They ask the merchant to become a free tax collector in this un-Godly racket.

The merchant is patriotic to the uncanny point, but he realizes the masses are even now pinching pennies and they cannot stand this additional burden added to their cost of living.

The merchant knows the swarm of tax-snoopers it will create at a salary of about $150.00 per month, per each snooper. These prospective snoopers have been hanging around the pie-counter for months for this feast. They probably are not capable of earning eight dollars a week in industry, but they will make up the cogs in the political machine

The sales tax is the last straw. Bibb Graves surely realizes this. He knows the trusting masses have lost faith in him and he knows he has committed political suicide. This thought may account for his fortnight forays to Washington, but if the administration is so thoughtless to appoint him to even the job of goose-catcher, then we are sure to have some mixed politics in Alabama. It might be our only salvation, at that.

In New Jersey the legislature enacted a sales tax. It was repealed, but not a member was re-elected.

No on has accused the state educational department of extravagance, yet Mr. Keller, in his evasive propaganda talks never mentions the willful extravangance of other departments. The schools are racing an emergency because we are burdened with a gang of mis-fit politicians who refuse to allow the school system its rightful share of the many million dollars of revenue flowing into the treasury. But, if a citizen lifts a voice in protest, he is immediately branded a demagogue—a lunatic, by Mr. Keller. What deception is being committed in the names of Alabama's schools!

Alabamians—the worst taxed people on earth, yet the gang whines for more taxes and tell us the schools must close unless they get it.

A ridiculous disgrace—a farce—a crime.

HOLD THAT MURRAY-BELL MULE

For the purpose of showing their harness, plow material, etc., Murray-Bell Hardware Company have manufactured them a mule and stationed it in front of their store. We do not know who conceived the idea of the rig-up, but most people who have viewed it accuse Tom Wells and Earle Wilson of being the creative geniuses responsible for it

But be that as it may, it is a clever arrangement. When you are in town, drop around by Murray-Bell's and see what you think of it. "Go on, mule."

SYLACAUGAN HURT WHILE FIXING TIRE

Suspect Held In Shelby Jail As McGraw Loses Leg

G. D. McGraw of Sylacauga started homeward by auto Sunday after visiting his sister-in-law, Mrs. J. O. Smith of Clanton, a patient at Highland Avenue Baptist Hospital.

A few hours later Mr. McGraw, about 30, was back at the hospital with both legs mangled, one so severely that it had to be amputated.

Near Harpersville in Shelby County, Sheriff V. H. Fore of Columbiana said, Mr. McGraw stopped his machine to fix a tire. As he was at the rear of his car another auto, coming from Birmingham, struck him.

Mr. McGraw was rushed back to the hospital in a Dillon ambulance while Sheriff Fore arrested Lewis Rich, 23, of Vincent. Rich was held in Shelby jail at Columbiana today in default of a $300 bond for driving while intoxicated.

FROM C. T. WALKER

I was surprised to hear of the death of Mrs. Thomas Jfferson of Jacksonville, Florida, a few days ago .She and I enjoyed our childhood days together 56 years ago. Then it was that I learned to love her parents and family, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hayes, who were loved and respected by all the neighbors around Rehoboth church in Bibb County, Ala.

Oh what a change in people and times now and then. If it be God's will I will tell some of the boys of Chilton County how their grandfathers and grandmothers were brought up through the past sweet days of old, next week.—C. T. Walker.

McCORMICK-DEERING
the Complete line of Steel Walking Plows

NO TWO fields are exactly alike. You know that your land is probably somewhat different from your neighbors'. For this reason you should choose your next plow carefully, being sure that the one you get is really best for use on your own farm.

In the McCormick-Deering line there is a plow for every farm need: stubble plows, blackland plows, brush breakers, etc., in dozens of types and sizes. All are built according to the high McCormick-Deering standard of value.

No matter when you will be needing a plow, come in and look them over now. We shall be glad to answer your questions and show you the plows.

No matter what size your farm is, nor what crops you are growing, there are McCormick-Deering machines which will help make your work more profitable. Why not come in and see them?

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

By ANN PAGE

THE weather situation throughout the country has not been such as to encourage either the production or shipping of food. This means higher prices for almost everything in the perishable line. Beef and pork are a little cheaper and lamb slightly so. Veal continues scarce and high.

Broccoli, peas and tomatoes are the best vegetable values available with the exception of such staples as parsnips, turnips, potatoes and kale.

Macaroni and pork and beans are good standbys on cold days when appetites are ravenous. They are easy to prepare and inexpensive to serve.

Here are three menus at different budget levels for Sunday dinners.

Low Cost Dinner
Boiled Smoked Butt
Scalloped Potatoes Spinach
Bread and Butter
Cherry Jelly Custard Sauce
Tea or Coffee Milk

Medium Cost Dinner
Roast Pork Apple Sauce
Yams Broccoli

Very Special Dinner

Roast Beef or Lamb Browned Potatoes
Green Peas Tomato Salad
Bread and Butter

The Jackson, Miss., Daily News, Democratic as a matter of course, recently printed the following editorial comment:

"We don't care one hurrah in Hades how they vote, for the Literary Digest poll is a fake anyhow.

"On the fourth of March, 1937, at the noon hour, on the front steps of the Capitol Building at Washington, Franklin D. Roosevelt will be inaugurated for his second term as President of the United States.

"That's as certain as sunrise tomorrow morning."

The polite but deadly observation of the Literary Digest is:

"The editor of the Jackson Daily News has forgotten that neither Mr. Roosevelt nor any other man will be inaugurated on March 4, 1937. The inauguration will be on January 20"—Portland Oregonian.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

There can be no question that the most important development politically for some time was the address delivered the other night by former Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York, at the banquet of the Liberty League, attacking the New Deal, with especial attention to the now apparently forgotten Democratic platform of 1932. The fact that the speech had its effect is indicated by the many answers which were made to it, by members of Congress, by Secretary Ickes, of the President's cabinet, by John M. Lewis, head of the coal miners, and last but by no means least by Senator Joseph E. Robinson, of Arkansas, administration leader and candidate for Vice President on the same ticket with Governor Smith in 1928.

Despite the personalities which have been flying thick and fast, it ought to be possible by those who are outside the path of the missles to get a fairly calm view of the development of the situation to date. One of the noteworthy facts seems to be that, whether we like what Governor Smith said or not, the answers which have been made to his address in the main have not been replies to the charges which the New York Governor made against the New Dealers for their policy in repudiating the platform and adopting principles which seem to be decidedly opposed to the 1932 declarations, but have in the main constituted attacks on the Governor himself. In short, instead of denying the Smith charge that the administration has turned its back on the platform failed to balance the budget or trim autocracy, the strategy of his opponents seems to be to say to Governor Smith, "You're another."

For example, instead of dealing with Mr. Smith's charges one by one, as to their soundness or fallibility, Senator Robinson not only has changed sides in the great battle, but his whole outlook seems to have undergone a transformation." Again we are told that the "brown derby has been discarded for the high hat," and that Governor Smith at one time approved the NRA, farm relief, federal spending, and public works. All of which may or may not be true, but it must not be forgotten that Governor Smith is not a candidate and it is not his administration which is on trial.

Again John M. Lewis, president of the mine workers, is quoted by newspapers as calling Governor Smith a "gibbering political jackanapes" and declaring "a billion dollar dinner was given here the other night and that dinner was addressed by a man who had made a reputation for himself as a great commoner" but who "appeared before that billion dollar dinner and performed for his masters." Others of those who replied to the Smith address did so by accusing the Governor of ingratitude to his party and of selling out the common people to the wicked plutocrats.

In other words the defenders, instead of analyzing the contents of Mr. Smith's snowballs, merely rolled up some other ones and threw back. We are still in the dark as to why the Democratic platform declarations, and the pledge of loyalty made to it in 1932 by the national leader, were so quickly supplanted by the New Deal, the legislation for which was already drawn up for approval of Congress when it convened. We are still in the dark about the charges of extravagance, waste, of mounting deficits, and other specters which were called up in the Smith address.

The reason for this is, of course, that the replies made to Mr. Smith were political, and it is much easier to answer a political opponent by "calling him another" than it is to go into defensive analyses and arguments. It may be argued, too, that Mr. Smith's speech was in a sense too a political speech. But aside from all of this it must be remembered that there are important issues to be solved in the coming campaign. These center not around political loyalty, but around economic policies, which have brought forth charges of boondoggling and other forms of extravagance, of mounting national deficits and the prospect of higher taxes. In the campaign the people will want to know about these things, will want to be shown whether the New Deal has been worth what it cost, whether there has been any effort by legislation to upset the constitutional balance of our government. No doubt the speakers will get around to these questions sooner or later They are decidedly important, much more important than whether Mr. Smith ought, because of fond memories, forget his doubts, and line up with the New Dealers.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Just now we are hearing a great deal about old age pensions and social insurance. The idea is naturally a popular one. Every man would like to know that after he arrives at the age of sixty or is jobless he will be independent of the wolf that howls around the door of the unfortunate, and the improvident; of the situation of the man who has suffered through sickness and accident, and of him who has spent his money in his earlier years in wasteful living.

Social security sounds pleasant to us all. It is a beautiful idea deserving of careful and painstaking thought. Yet it is to be remembered that nothing can be had without paying for it. If we are to have a competence when we grow old or are unemployed we must learn to save a little for the rainy day while we are young and able to save. Any program which would attempt to give us social security at the expense of the American sense of thrift and economy would not be worth what it cost. The price would be too dear even as a good system, and a good system could not be established on any such basis. It would fall of its own weight.

The present social security act contemplates that the state and the federal government shall join hands in building up out of industry—for there is no other way to do it—insurance funds which shall be used in the ultimate for social security. In this respect it is well to consider for a moment that we are now burdened with a relief budget which seems to be about all the nation can stand and that there are still higher taxes in the offing. Just how far will this appropriating of funds for social security take from the tax budget money which would otherwise be used to care for those who are now on relief? In other words, at a time when we are straining every resource in an effort—whether it be efficient or not—to suport those who are now indigent, just how much greater a burden can the taxpaying public, which includes industry as well as the individual, stand in piling up funds to take care of social security in the future? Here is a question which is at least well worth cogitating.

James L. Baldwin, president of the National Federation of Tax Service organizations, estimates that insurance laws of the kind contemplated could freeze funds vitally needed for current relief and might precipitate a crisis which would result in further unemployment.

"In New York alone", predicts Mr. Baldwin, "more than $90,000,000 will be taken out of the state and remain a frozen asset until 1938. Even then, only a very small portion of this sum can be withdrawn from the federal trust fund and since benefits are to be paid only to those workers who have accumulated reserves in proportion to their period of employment, many of the present unemployed will receive nothing whatever. Due to the imminent withdrawal of PWA support some time in 1936, no source of revenue will be available to those in need, for certainly no state can be expected to delve into its depleted treasury for a second time to meet these additional obligations."

Care must be taken in trying to assure our people social security that we do not create a condition of lower wages, higher cost of living and increased unemployment through a program that is unscientific and which, however, well meaning, may ultimately cause more grief than happiness. The same holds true of old-age pensions.

MORE TAXATION IS COMING

With governmental expenditures increasing by the billion, with the budget still badly out of balance and the national debt growing each day, there still seem to be some people at least who think that Uncle Sam can "get by" without any increase in taxes. Just how this can be done, without destroying the substance of the people through inflation, nobody yet seems to have figured out. For increased taxes are coming, just as surely as the year 1936 will be succeeded by the year 1937.

There is no way to avoid. Uncle Sam has no real way of getting genuine money out of the air. Whenever the government spends a dollar, that dollar must be raised throug taxation. Either the taxpayers now alive and doing business will have to make it good, or it will be necessary for us to place a staggering burden on generations yet unborn—generations who are entirely innoncent of the follies of their forefathers who made the present situation inevitable.

There are some people who intimate that we will make the rich bear the tax burden. This is an old goose statement which has never been born out and never will be. In the first place there are not enough rich in the United States to pay for the present tremendous outlay of money, even if we take all their tangible possessions. The total income of the millionaires, if confiscated, would only keep Uncle Sam in spending money for a few weeks under the New Deal dispensation.

In the second place, taxes always come off the consumer, who pays the bill in the end, and the poorer he is, down to a certain point, the more he has to consume and the more taxes he has to pay, in comparison with his ability to pay.

Of course the destitute, those who are on government relief, who own no homes, pay no rent, buy no food or clothing with their own money—these cannot be expected to pay taxes.

There is, however, in the United States, the great middle class on whom, we have always been taught, the safety, the solidity and the future hope of our nation depended. The great burden of taxes is falling, and will continue to fall in increasing weight, on the middle class, on the men and women who are trying to earn a fair and decent living, to maintain a home and rear their children in the proper spirit of Americanism. Unbearable taxes, a division of wealth through socialism or any other program, means a destruction of this middle class. We have seen this class destroyed in Russia where we now have only master and slave. We do not want the same thing to happen in America.

Of course we are told that there are no immediate general increases of taxes in the offing just now. There is a reason. This is campaign year. A new national administration is to be chosen in November. Any party which increased taxes now could not expect to stand the wrath of the people if there were a general tax increase at present. So the evil day is being postponed. But it is coming. Unfortunately the campaign only lasts until the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November. After that date we will soon realize just what New Deal experimentation is really going to cost us.

'Quoddy notwithstanding, the good old state of Maine will not stay bought. Of 14,302 of its folks who voted in the Literary Digest poll, 11,438 are against the New Deal. That is a portent of a whacking Republican victory down east next autumn.—Lowell Courier-Journal.

MAN IN THE MOON

COX, THOMAS AND THE PEOPLE

This article will deal altogether with the proposed new bills to be presented to the extra session of the state legislature now in session. Two of these bills I believe are not objectionable, only in that they are being put through without consultation with the people of the county. All of these bills are local bills, affecting only Chilton County, yet our representative and senator have seen fit to present them without even attempting to find out the wishes of the people on any of them.

I shall take up the bills one by one, tell what they provide for, and try to offer fair and square comment upon them. If any political feeling is inserted in this comment, it will be only where it appears to me that politics is being played in the bills themselves. I welcome any criticism of this article, either for or against. Write in to me, or come in personally, and tell me how you feel about it all.

Bill No. 1.—This bill provides a set salary of $75 per month each for county commissioners. After much consultation with people who are in position to know, I believe that this is about the average of what the commissioners receive now—sometimes more, and sometimes less. However, the people of Chilton County have never been questioned about such a move. Representative Cox and Senator Thomas do not know whether our people want such a change in our local government, for they have never asked them. It might be a good bill, and very probably is, but I believe Chilton County's people should have the final word in local government.

Bill No. 2.—This bill provides that in the case of county purchases amounting to more than $150, bids shall be asked, and these purchases made on this basis. I see nothing wrong in this system. In fact I believe money might be saved the county under such a system. I believe the people would favor such an arrangement if given a chance, but that chance has not been allowed them in the drawing of this bill. That is what I find wrong—the autocratic note inserted by the manner in which Messrs. Cox and Thomas have gone about to provide the change. The people's voice in the matter has not been considered. Why not let them speak on such matters?

Bill No. 3.—This bill provides that one cent per gallon of the county's share of the gasoline tax shall be set aside for "permanent" road construction. I like good roads, and believe that some work along this line of permanent roads should be done in the county each year. But I am only one who sees that way, just the same as either Mr. Cox or Mr. Thomas. I don't know, and neither do either of these gentlemen, whether the taxpayers of Chilton County, as a whole, want a part of their tax money set aside in this way. Perhaps our people had rather all money be paid out through the regular channels. At least, these people should be allowed the right to say what their wishes are in the matter. It is very probable that they would be in favor of it—they voted for such a project in the case of the Maplesville Highway paving project. They had their voice in that controversy, and I maintain that they should have a voice in this, too. If, after they had spoken, it should be found that they favor such a plan, Messrs. Cox and Thomas could proceed, knowing that they were doing the will of the people they have been elected to represent. Why not allow the taxpayer a voice? As the question stands now, these men don't know whether their people want this arrangement or not, and have made no effort to find out.

Bill No. 4.—This bill provides that a sum of $3,000 be set aside each year by the commissioners court for the maintenance of the county health unit. Why is this amount stipulated? I am told by Judge Smith and the commissioners that when their body was asked to consider the health unit, and to provide money for its maintenance, that they were asked for the sum of $2,000 per year, and that they had never been asked for more. If another $1,000 per year was found needed, why was not the commissioners court asked for it? They allowed the original amount. Is it reasonable to believe that they would have refused the addition, if proof could have been produced that the addition was needed to carry on the work? Why did Messrs. Cox and Thomas take it upon themselves to finish a job that our regular county officials had begun? Who asked the county officials for the first grant? Who asked Cox and Thomas to set themselves as undertakers for the shortcomings of our county officials, if there were shortcomings? Certainly not the whole people, for they have not been consulted. Certainly not the persons who asked for the original grant, for they surely would have tried along their original lines, in which they were successful. I am told by Dr. Kimmey that the $1,000 is needed for a sanitation unit, in conection with his regular work. Are we left to conclude that the sponsors of this bill do not consider our commissioners court intelligent enough to recognize need for this unit when it is brought to their notice. So it seems—and so Mr. Cox and Mr. Thomas take it upon themselves in their all-wise deliberations to take care of the county's people, whether they like it or not. A fit parallel to this is giving a child castor oil—because it is good for him. Only our county's citizens are not children any more. That might be considered now and then by our friends Cox and Thomas, that is if they ever consider the wishes of their people.

Bill No. 5.—This bill provides that the sum of $3,600 be set aside each year to provide for the payment of a road supervisor for the whole county road system. This bill provides, also, that the first supervisor, after the position is set up, shall be appointed by the governor. This supervisor would have complete charge, to hire and fire as he should see fit, to handle all road machinery—in short, he would be "boss" of the county's road maintenance department. First, let us consider that this $3,600 per year is the exact amount which would be paid to all four of the commissioners. This would bring the yearly cost of road supervision for the county to $7,200, whereas now it is just about half that figure. Remember, too, that not one shovelful of dirt would be moved by that $7,200—that would be for "supervision" alone. That would leave nothing for the commissioners to do but meet once a month and nod their assent to the payment of county bills—and they would get $75 a month each for that service. It would leave nothing for the supervisor to do but run all over the county "directing" the work—and $100 a month traveling expenses is set aside to take care of this phase.

So much for the position and the money involved. Further, after this "supervisor" position is set up, this bill provides no possible way by which the people of the county could rid themselves of such position, if they saw fit. The commissioners court could, if it so deemed needful, fire a man who held the job, but the bill provides for his right to a suit in the courts to hold his position. On top of all this, in case an undesirable should be ousted, the governor would be empowered to name another. The man holding the position could be ousted if found undesirable, but if it should be found undesirable to keep the position of supervisor in the road system, no way is provided for the removal of the position. Again the people's voice is left out of the whole matter. They are given no right to say whether or not we shall have such a position and system, they have no right to say who the supervisor shall be nor how long he shall serve nor what his pay rate shall be, and they have no right to say whether they like the system or not nor whether they shall keep it or not. All they have left to them is the inevitable responsibility of paying the bills—bills which they had nothing to do with making. More about this bill later.

Bill No. 6.—This bill provides that the county commissioners set aside the sum of $4,300 to pay a Farm Demonstration Agent and expenses, an Assistant Farm Demonstration Agent. The county now pays $2,100 toward all this work, the state and national government paying the balance, and paying outright the salary of the clerical assistant.

The $4,300 would raise the wages of Miss Pardue and Mr. Fant, and would create a new job of Assistant Farm Demonstration Agent in charge of 4-H club work, and would take over the payment of the salary of Mr. Fant's clerical assistant. The county now pays Mr. Fant $125 per month, which he states is about 40 per cent of his salary—according to this he receives over $300 per month now, and the new bill would raise his salary. I wonder just how many farmers there are in Chilton County who would, if given a chance, vote in favor of raising the salary of this office. But that is not all. Miss Pardue's office comes in for a raise, too, with additional travelling expenses, to ride around and see to it that the farm lads get the right start in farming. It seems to me that these boys might take pretty fair farm training from their fathers. They have done so in the past, and I can't see but that we have just about as intelligent a group of farmers as the next county. Further, Uncle Sam now pays Mr. Fant's clerical assistant, but it seems that our senator and representative must feel that the poor old fellow is having a hard time meeting his pay roll, so they have drawn up the idea of helping him that much, by taking that burden off his shoulders and putting on those of Chilton County's taxpayers. And, of course, these taxpayers are having nothing to say in the matter. That's taboo, so far as all the bills are concerned. More about this bill, too, later.

Now for a little extra comment on the last two bills, which I consider the worst of the whole lot. A few days ago I went to Mr. Fant's office, and there I found Mr. Cox, our representative. The three of us held a little impromptu discussion of the bills, as there was quite a bit about them that I did not understand, and I felt sure Mr. Cox and Mr. Fant could explain them fully. They were kind enough to explain them, and I am passing the explanation on to you for your consideration.

First, we took up the farm demonstration office bill. The figures were given me concerning what would be paid to each office, including the raise in salary for the two offices which we now have. When these figures were all added up, they came to a total of $4,000, and I asked Mr. Cox where the extra $300 would be spent, inasmuch as the bill called for an appropriation of $4,300. He seemed surprised that the amount set out was more than 4,000, stating that he had agreed on that figure. Finally he admitted that he HAD NOT EVEN READ THE BILL. I told him his name was signed to the legal advertisement of it. Then he stated that he SUPPOSED Mr. Thomas, wrote the bill and signed his name to it.

Imagine that, folks! A representative of the people of Chilton County, whom you elected to that office to carry on your legislative business ACCORDING TO THE WISHES OF THE PEOPLE, going into the legislative hall, sponsoring a bill which so vitally affects the taxpayers of his county, and that bill being one which he HAS NEVER READ!

In regard to the bill for the road supervisor, he stated that he would DEMAND the right to name that first supervisor. I may be wrong, but I have always been led to believe that people elected to office were servants of the people, but before this time I have never heard of a servant DEMANDING anything from his employer.

I asked why the people would not be allowed to vote on the person to fill this important position, and his answer, of all things, was: "I want to keep it out of politics.' He wants to deny the people of the county the right to say who shall draw $3,600 a year out of their tax money, and thus "keep it out of politics", when it is quite apparent that the man who holds that position is placed so that he can build up an unbeatable political mashine. I am sure you are acquainted with the manner in which the state highway department has built such a machine, and this county move, it seems to me, is nothing but a small edition of the state book of machine politics. Such a supervisor would have within his power the right to "hire and fire" as he saw fit. Is it not reasonable to believe that if Mr. Cox can DEMAND the right to name the supervisor, he can far more easily DEMAND that his supervisor work only those who are Mr. Cox's favorites, or to force men to favor Mr. Cox in order to hold their jobs?

Mr. Cox further stated that he knew of only one man in Chilton County fitted for the job, and that if an election should be allowed, the voters WOULD NOT KNOW HOW TO PICK AN ENGINEER. Eureka! Surely the millineum has come! At last there has been found a man more wise than all his fellows. A man able to perform a job better than all his constituency. I have always heard that "the people are always right", but I suppose that went out with the "horse and buggy days", too.

I asked if there could not be some kind of rider put on the supervisor bill, whereby there could be a referendum on the question after a year, and the people had seen and had a chance to observe the results of such an arrangement. Then if they liked it, they could give it their approval, and if they thought it bad, they could remove it. He was good enough to agree that such a plan was not a bad one, but that the bill had already been advertised, and that it would take more time if it should be changed.

I am not kicking at Mr. Cox nor Mr. Thomas. Personally I like them both. I believe they are able men. But I do not believe they are so far seeing that they can plan better than the whole people. If the people can be allowed a voice to state whether they want these measures if they put their stamp of approval on them, then I have nothing to say against their passage.

During our talk, Mr. Cox made this statement in regard to the road supervisor bill: "I have long wanted to do this thing for Chilton County, and have never had a chance before. It may be that I will never have the chance again, so I am going to do it now."

During his campaign, Mr. Cox told ev one that he would represent Chilton Cou people—that he would follow their wis The voters know he told them that, and knows it, too. The mass meeting at courthouse last Saturday should show how his people feel about the matter. He not present, I am told, although I am also formed that he was invited to be present.

There are two courses open to Messrs. and Thomas. They can pay heed to people's wishes, as voiced at the courtho and cancel those bills. Or they can di gard the people's wishes and enter the b In the first case they will be serving th people who elected them; in the latter they will be helping to build up that powe Graves political machine which is in the m ing. BAD TIME TO CHANGE

Attention has been caleld to the fact cently that there are 65 resolutions in C gress tending toward changing the Cons tion of the United States. Some of these be constructive, but it is undoubtedly that a great many of them are designed destroy or cripple the balanced system of g ernment that was set up by the framers our fundamental law.

There has been, of course, some increa demand for alterations of the Constitut The Socialists are always against our c stitutional government because it sta squarely against the dictatorship of the pr tariat which they desire to set up. Of l there have been demands for a change f some of those who have favored, for one r son or another, the legislation tending tow a more complete Federalism, which has b nullified by our Supreme Court.

Any proposed change to our Constitut should be carefully considered and thoug out, even in the best of times. But just n when we are still "wandering in the wild ness" after six years of depression, the ti is certainly not auspicious for altering fundamental law. We are in no mood, t peramentally or psychologically, to make a change of the kind, even admitting that s a change were called for.

Dean G. Acheson, former member of Pr ident Roosevelt's administration brought this point in an admirable way in an addr to the National Canners' Association, when said:

"This is the worst possible time for deb as to whether the Constitution, as the S preme Court has construed it, is adequate needs amendment. We have seen special economic changes since the war which man yet undestands. "At a time when only four or five ye have elapsed since we have even been c scious that something was wrong, when have hardly begun to acquire perspective calm after the maddest of panics, we are ready for the final judgment that Americ politics knows—whether the Constitut should be altered.

"Unless we devote ourselves to the busin of understanding and using and improv what we have, meeting issues with forthri candor instead of the platitudes of consti tionalism or the empty promises of Utop I fear we may soon discover that both fr dom and the reign of law have forever sl ped our grasp."

Let us finish our "emotional orgy" bef we propose seriously to make any change our Constitution.

Hectic Days Sleepless Nights

Miss Currier relieved of nervous days and sleepless nights.

IF YOU are nervous today, you probably will not sleep well tonight. If you don't sleep well tonight, you will probably be nervous tomorrow.

Don't allow yourself to become nervous. Take Dr. Miles Nervine. It will relax your tense nerves and let you get a good night's sleep.

Irritability, Restlessness, Sleeplessness, often lead to Nervous Headache, Nervous Indigestion, Hysteria—sometimes to a nervous breakdown and organic trouble.

Some of the people, whose letters are printed below, were as nervous as you are—possibly more so—yet they have found relief.

Christene Lanier finds Nervine best nerve medicine she ever used.

Three years ago I was so nervous I could not bear to go out in company and could not sleep nights. A friend recommended Dr. Miles Nervine. I now enjoy myself thoroughly and sleep every night. Miss Juliette Currier, New Market, N. H.

I have used Dr. Miles Nervine in liquid form and find it the best medicine for the nerves I have ever used. Christene Lanier, Middleton, Tennessee

Miss Redman takes Dr. Miles Nervine when-ever she feels restless.

Whenever I have over-indulged and feel restless I take one or two Nervine Tablets just before I retire. In the morning when I awake I feel like a new person and can go about my work as usual. Dr. Miles Nervine Tablets quiet your nerves, brace you up and are the simplest, most convenient tablets to take I have ever found. Miss Grace Redmann, St. James, Minn.

Before using your Nervine I was very nervous and irritable. Since I have started to take it I feel so much better that my family notice the difference. I still take it from time to time and the good result is wonderful. J. H. Redding, 1027 18th Ave., Rock Island, Ill.

Mr. Reddig His family appreciate his improved disposition.

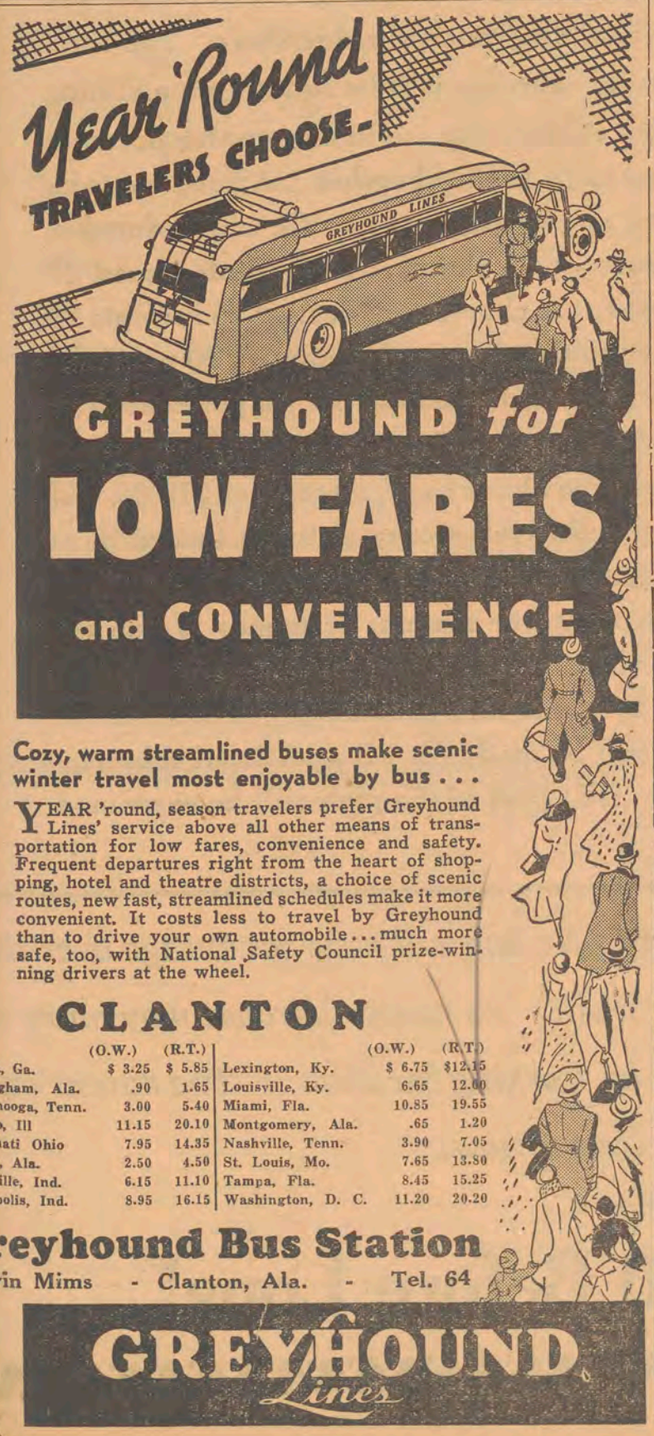
BIRTHDAY DINNER

The month of February seems to be a lucky month for birthdays. There were six of us who had birthdays in this month. These were Mrs. P. C. Weldon, Floyd Little, Carl Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Simmons, and little daughter, Dorothy. So we all celebrated it with one big dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Sanders. Chicken dinner and cake were served. Those present were Mrs. Sanders and children, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Weldon and Lillie Mae, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Simmons and children, Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Robinson and children, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Little and son, and Rev. E. A. Norris.

A good dinner was enjoyed. In the afternoon talking and music were enjoyed until a late hour, when all returned to their homes, wishing that we might be together again next year at a like occasion.



Cozy, warm streamlined buses make scenic winter travel most enjoyable by bus . . .

YEAR 'round, season travelers prefer Greyhound Lines' service above all other means of transportation for low fares, convenience and safety. Frequent departures right from the heart of shopping, hotel and theatre districts, a choice of scenic routes, new fast, streamlined schedules make it more convenient. It costs less to travel by Greyhound than to drive your own automobile . . . much more safe, too, with National Safety Council prize-winning drivers at the wheel.

CHAS. COOPER WRITES

Inasmuch as there are so many different things happening during these "New Deal" days, I am just wondering how it is setting on the stomachs of the Republicans of Chilton County.

The rank and file who have stood by the party during these turbulent days now stand with outstretched arms to welcome all back into the fold. I imagine the Republicans who voted for Charlie Cox and Earle Thomas are now beginning to realize the error they made.

I preume you are aware of the fact that these two men are now trying to have the legislature pass a bill which if passed will mean that the taxpayers of Chilton County will have to dig up seven or eight thousand dollars more taxes each year.

I understand that the Representative and Senator want to employ a road man at a cost of about $3,600 per year, and on top of all that it is rumored the commissioners will receive a flat salary of $75 per month. I presume if they get a man to look after the roads, the commissioners will have their pay sent to them.

It is also reported that a big increase is wanted in the county agent's office and the home demonstration agent's office. I am just wondering what benefit the people of Chilton County are deriving from either of the above agencies. It looks to me like very good jobs for those who are running the offices, but that they are the only ones who are being helped.

It is reported that the state school fund is a little over three million dollars short, and in order to take care of this shortage, it is now proposed to put a three-cent sales tax on, which is estimated to bring in ten million dollars. What is the big idea of collecting three dollars when we need only one.

In conclusion, let me ask all Republicans to fall in line for a great victory this fall. We welcome you.—Yours very truly, Chas. Cooper.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala.—Thad Holt, former relief administrator for Alabama, who has just been appointed executive assistant administrator of the national Works Progress Administration, delivered a series of lectures at the University of Alabama recently on relief problems in the state and nation, with illustrations from his experiences in administering the relief in the state.

Dr. James G. Noodham, head of the department of entomology at Cornell University will speak at the University on Thursday, February 13, on "War, A Biological Phenomenon." Dr. Noodham is being brought here by the Sigma Xi Scientific Society, and the University Research Council.

"Behind Double Doors", a three-act mystery melodrama by Elizabeth McFadden, has been selected for the second major production of the Blackfriars, student dramatic organization, according to Francis Ordway, Anniston, president of the club. The performance will occur late in March.

Charles P. Taft, noted lawyer and authority on city government, and son of former president William Howard Taft, will speak at the annual YMCA conference to be held here March 7, state YMCA secretary for high schools and colleges.

Dr. H. D. Bellinger, head of the Wesley Foundation, Methodist student religious organization, in the Northern states, addressed the Foundation's annual banquet here Thursday, on the subject of religious drama and its revival in America.

The men's Glee Club of the University will appear in concert at Linden on Saturday night, according to Tom Garner, director.

GEOLOGY OF STATE PARKS BEING STUDIED

Montgomery — Scientists of the State Geological Survey, under the direction of State Geologist, Walter B. Jones, are making intensive studies of the formations found in various Alabama State Parks, announces the State Commission of Forestry, under whose supervision many the these areas are being developed. These studies contribute greatly to an understanding of earth structures of great importance to the engineering projects under way. The investigations, however, lend themselves to other vital objectives, particularly the educational facilities which the parks are designed to supply.

On practically all of the park areas is found a considerable variety of rocks, minerals and interesting formations. In rendering these accessible to the general public, special effort is being made to provide for the needs of science students from the schools and other educational institutions in the state. In the more important areas specimens of the geological materials found in the parks will have important place in the museums which are proposed for construction.

Tax Collector McKee Explains New Ruling

To the Taxpayers of Chilton County:

This is to advise you that Alabama's Revenue Act has been changed, and that we are now operating under the Revenue Act approved July 10, 1935. This act provides, among other things, that the Tax Collector must make final settlement of taxes on or before July 1, 1936. Penalties are prescribed for failure to do so. This makes it necessary for those who have not already done so, to settle their tax accounts before April 1, 1936, if they are to avoid extra cost and inconvenience.

I am in receipt of a letter from State Comptrolier, Chas. W. Lee, concerning this matter which I herewith submit for your information:

"T. L. McKee, Tax Collector,
Clanton, Alabama.
Dear Sir:

"I wish to call your attention to Section 195, page 112, Section 202, page 113, Sections 215-216, pages 117-118, of the Revenue Act, approved July 10, 1935.

"Section 195 states that the Tax Colector must make final settlement on or before July 1, 1936 and each year thereafter when the County Treasurer and School Treasurer, or if there be no County Teasurer or school treasurer in the county, to the custodian of the funds of the county.

"Section 202 states that the Tax Colector must make final settlement with the State Comptroller on or before July 10, 1936, and each year thereafter. Said Section also states that for failure of any Tax Collector to make any of the settlements herein required to be made, he shall forfeit ten dollars ($10.00) per day, which shall be deducted from the amount of commissions due and payable to him on such settlements. It also provides that the Collector shall forfeit all commissions in case where the Tax Colector fails to settle with the County and School Treasurers within the time prescribed by law.

"This is to officially notify you that the penalty will be enforced upon failure to comply with the provisions of this Act.

"Sections 215 and 216 states that on or before March 1st, the Collector must prepare and deliver to the Probate Judge in a substantially bound book each parcel of real estate or right or interest, or assessment therein assessed to any person against whom taxes have been assessed which are not paid.

"Yours truly,

CHAS. W. LEE, State Comptroller."
State Comptroller.'

It is my sincere desire to avoid for you any extra expense or trouble concerning tax payments, but the law makes definite specifications with which I must comply.

Very truly yours,
T. L. McKEE,
Tax Collector, Chilton County, Ala.

VERBENA P.-T. A. SPONSORS PLAY ON THURSDTY FEB. 20

See Oh, Jrofessor. It looks different. It sounds different. It is different. Sponsored by Verbena P.-T. A., Thursday evening, February 20, at 8:00 o'clock.

This production is a three-act musical comery, owned and managed exclusively by Wayne P. Sewell Producing Company, Atlanta, Ga.

If you want to see a real show, see the butterflies, Mr. Will Gulledge, Mr. H. T. Williams, Mr. John Lett, Mr. John Messer, Rev. Ellisor, and Mr. S. L. Gibson do a snappy up-to-date step. They will give you many hearty laughs. Also Miss Jettie Ward, the young widow and matron, furnishes enough of entertainment to satisfy anyone.

Let's not forget Aubrey Robinson, the most bashful boy in town, coming out of his bashfulness and becoming a real he-man.

The Spanish dancer, from the Zigfield follies, will also be with us on that night. She will give us a few snappy numbers and show us some of the latest steps.

Everyone keep this in mind and do not let it slip by you. Dancing and singing. It will make you laugh even though you haven't laughed for years. Tell your friends. Do not let them miss this wonderful opportunity of seeing a good play, with a well trained chorus of boys and girls to add the remaining charm.

Admission 15c and 25c.

Cast of characters—Steve Crandell, Aubrey Robinson; Bob Davis, Coach N. B. Bryant; Professor Banks, Houston Robinson; Mrs. Bumgoard, Miss Jettie Ward; Dave Davis, Robert Jenkins; Chink, Winscton Calloway; Avonellie, Clarace Skinner; Wilhelmina, Josephine Barrett; Policeman, Marshall Williams; Helen, Margaret Glenn.

Chorus of College boys and girls—Evelyn Caffey, Mary Lou Gaines, Agnes Bullard, Lavurl Bullard, Pearl Hughes, Eddie Lois Partridge, Almatta Lunmam, Helen Moonty, Willodena Mooney, Kate Courtney, Elizabeth Cathey, Alice Gilmore, Marshall Williams, James Rutland, Junior Rutland, Billie Barrett, John Jenkins and Reeder Cathey.

STATE EDUCATION BOARD ISSUES SCHOOL RESOLUTION

We are rapidly approaching another of these annual crises in the affairs of public education in Alabama. Again the schools are going to close unless additional revenue is provided at a very early date. For the fourth time within the past four years this has happened. Once, schools did close in most of the counties of the state and remained closed. For the past two years they would have closed had it not been for federal relief. For these same two years we have humiliated our teachers by practically requiring them to take a pauper's oath before they could draw government relief salaries of $60 per month. This will continue no longer because the Federal government has notified us that it will send no more money to Alabama for this purpose. The teachers are commended for their faithful service during these trying times. Not more than 60 per cent of state appropriations have been paid in full since 1932.

We have had presented to us the proposed seven months minimum program for elementary and high schools. It is truly a minimum program calculated on a depression basis. May we submit that we have practiced economy with a vengeance. Simply, this program provides a state average salary of $76 per month for teachers, an average of $70 per month for a bus driver furnishing his own bus, gas, oil and maintenance, a small allowance for other current expense based on the average annual expenditure of the four depression years, and only 6.9 per cent of the county budget for capitol outlay in order to enable the counties to take advantage of WPA funds. Even this program stripped to its barest essentials is to be provided for only seven months if the state pays its appropriations in full. School revenue—state, county and local—has declined over $5,000,000 since 1929-30, while 60,000 more children are attending the schools.

The representatives of the people are now meeting in extraordinary session of the Legislature. We must face the issue squarely. Education is facing a deficit of over $3,821,000. Unless this revenue is provided, schools will automatically close short of a normal term. The present revenue estimated to be available for this year is sufficient to operate the schools for a minimum program term of only 5 3-4 months.

We repeat, there is no escaping or dodging the issue. Additional revenue must be provided to pay for this minimum program or the schools will close. No part of it can be cut off without causing schools in some county or counties of the state to close. In the final analysis, the people, by their representatives, must say whether they believe in public education enough to pay the necessary taxes to give the children of Alabama a decent chance in life.

MRS. NANCY E. HENDERSON DEAD

Mrs. Nancy Henderson, the mother of Lewis Henderson, Mrs. Alice and Lizzie Messer, died February 4th.

Mrs. Henderson was among the oldest residents of the county. She was born April 28, 1841, being almost 95 years old at her death. She was a devout and faithful member of the Verbena Methodist church, with Rev. Cecil Ellisor officiating. Burial in Verbena cemetery, with Spigener in charge.

Surviving are four sons, Lewis Henderson, Verbena, T. J. Hardy, Fort Worth, Texas, F. M. Keith, Mobile and U. N. Keith, Eclectic; two daughters, Mrs. Alice Messer, and Mrs. Lizzie Messer, both of Verbena.

I FEEL FINE

Mothers read this:

A CONSTIPATED child is so easily straightened out, it's a pity more mothers don't know the remedy.

A liquid laxative is the answer, mothers. The answer to all your worries over constipation. A liquid can be measured. The dose can be exactly suited to any age or need. Just reduce the dose each time, until the bowels are moving of their own accord and need no help.

This treatment will succeed with any child and with any adult.

Doctors use liquid laxatives. Hospitals use the liquid form. If it is best for their use, it is best for home use. And today, there are fully a million families that will have no other kind in the house.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a doctor's prescription, now so widely known that you can get it all ready for use at any drugstore.

J. E. Easterling is Candidate For Treasurer Chilton County

Asks Support Of The Voters In Coming Democratic Primary

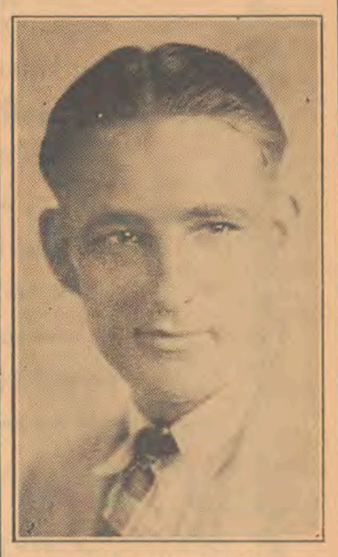
With the outlook promising for younger candidates, there comes before the voters of Chilton County in the Democratic primary of May 5th, the name of Joseph E. Easterling, as a candidate for the office of County Treasurer.

J. E., as he is known over the county, is no doubt one of the county's most enterprising young business men with a future that looms bright. He is now operating one of Clanton's popular service stations, the Woco Service Station, located just across from the courthouse.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Easterling of Clanton, and a member of one of the oldest and most prominent families of the county. He received his education in the schools of Clanton and completed studies at the county high school.

For a number of years he was employed with the former Dief's Service Station, leaving there to go into business for himself at his present location two years ago. J. E. is a member of the Clanton Baptist Church, Masonic Lodge and a member of the Clanton Kiwanis Club, taking an active part in both activities. He was one of the first members of the Alabama State League of Young Democrats.

Eight years ago he married Miss Jessie Lee Littlejohn, a member of another of the county's well-known families. To them has been born one child. Mrs. Easterling is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Littlejohn of near Clanton, a highly respected family.



J. E. EASTERLING

J. E., while comparatively young, has had a large amount of experience in the business world of Chilton County, fitting him for the office which he seeks.

Your vote and influence in his behalf will be greatly appreciated.

FEBRUARY 22

Designated As Last Day For Churches To Enter

The Union-Banner's

GOOD SAMARITAN SUBSCRIPTION PLAN

Here Is The Plan

The Good Samaritan Subscription plan is open only to churches or to some bona fide auxiliary of a church, any denomination, white and colored. As many churches as desire may enter the campaign on exactly the same footing with exactly the same opportunity to earn money for the church. The church or auxiliary can use the money thus raised for any purpose it desires. There is no central prize offered to the one obtaining the most subscriptions, but each church will be paid whatever amount it earns through the plan. No big church will have the advantage over the smaller ones unless it works harder and turns in more subscriptions. Honest pay for honest work is all there is to the plan. There will be some bonuses, however, which will be explained further down in this announcement.

This plan is conducted solely by the regular management of The Union-Banner. There is no outside promotion, but every cent of the money raised in the campaign will go to the treasuries of the churches and to The Union-Banner. All the money will strictly be kept at home.

The date for entering is now open. The church or auxiliary must have a treasurer to handle the campaign for the church; the regular church treasurer may do it, or another one for this specific purpose may be appointed. Every member of the church, or other interested party, working for the plan will turn their subscriptions over to this treasurer, and The Union-Banner will deal only with this treasurer. The treasurer may turn in subscriptions and make payment at any intervals most suited to himself and to the church.

All the church has to do is to elect its treasurer, and have this treasurer drop The Union-Banner a card expressing the desire to enter the plan. All the necessary blanks will be mailed him or her, and work may begin then and there. In writing the card be sure to give the name of the church, the name of the pastor, and the name and address of the treasurer. Or the entry may be made in person at The Union-Banner office.

No subscription may be taken for more than two years nor less than one year. The price at which subscriptions may be sold will be straight one dollar per year for both new and renewal subscribers. The compensation for the churches will be figured on a sliding scale; the more subscriptions sold the greater becomes the percentage to go to the churches. A book containing 75 receipts, numbered from 1 to 75, will be furnished each treasurer. On the first 20 receipts issued 20 per cent will go to the church; on the next 15 receipts 25 per cent will go to the church; the next 10, 30 per cent; the next 10, 35 per cent; the next 10, 40 per cent; and the next 10, 45 per cent. When this book of 75 receipts has been sold on the above basis, a bonus of $10.00 will be given the church. All money must be turned in to The Union-Banner, who thereupon will reimburse the treasurer with whatever amount of money is due the church. After the first receipt book of 75 subscriptions has been used by a church, a satisfactory and attractive arrangement will be made for all additional subscriptions written. That part of the plan will be explained in due time.

No Central Prize is offered, but every Church will get in Cash whatever it earns. No one will have advantage over the other. This plan is no lottery --- just simply honest compensation for honest work. As many churches may enter as desire. They will not be working against one another, but every church will be working for itself. The harder one works the more compensation. Enroll your church now.

The Price Will Go Back To $1.50 Before Long!

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

FACTS GIVEN ABOUT GROWING BUTTERBEANS

Auburn, Ala.—Because of its high food value and the ease with which it may be grown, each Alabama farmer should produce the lima bean, generally known as the butterbean, for home consumption.

"It can be used fresh, as a canned product, in soup mixtures, and as a dried product," says the Alabama Experiment Station.

"Under Alabama conditions the small-to-medium-seeded varieties produce approximately twice as much as the large-seeded varieties," the station reports. "Four plantings of bush limas per year for four years at Auburn on soil of low to medium fertility made an average yield (green in the pod) of 4,500 pounds for the small-to-medium-seeded varieties and 2,000 pounds for the large-seeded varieties."

The small-seeded varieties compare wel lin quality with the large-seeded varieties.

"The Henderson and Woods Prolific (white) and Jackson Wonder (colored) are good bush varieties," says the Station. "Carolina Sieva, Willow well in quality with the large-seeded pole varieties. The Florida Speckled is also a good pole variety."

The bean makes it greatest yield on a moderatly-heavy fertile soil, although it fruits a little earlier on light sandy, well-fertilized soil. It responds well to a liberal application of fertilizer. In soil of low fertility at Auburn, an application of 1,000 to 1,500 pounds per acre of fertilizer analyzing 4-8-4 has given good yields. Very good yields have been obtained also by applications of 6 tons of manure.

FARMERS ADVISED TO USE PUREBRED BOARS

Auburn, Ala.—"Always use purebred boars," advises F. W. Burns, extension husbandman.

"If you want to produce pork rapidly and economically you can not afford to use scrub boars," he says.

An experiment conducted at Auburn comparing pigs sired by purebred boars with scrub pigs showed the following:

1. The time required by the grade pigs to reach a weight of 200 pounds was 201 days compared with 243 days for the scrubs.

2. For each 100 pounds of grain produced the grade pigs required 403 pounds of feed while the scrubs required 465 pounds of feed.

3. With feed costing $50 per ton, the average cost of producing 100 pounds of pork with the grade hogs was $6.64 compared with $6.97 for the scrubs.

MORE FARMERS NOW USING ELECTRICITY

Auburn, Ala.—An increase of approximately 175 per cent in the number of American farms electrified during 1935, compared with the previous year, announces Morris L. Cooke, administrator of rural electrification, who predicts a new peak in rural electrification activity in 1936.

Approximately 827,000 farms now have central station electric service. There is a total of more than 6,800,000 farms in the country.

30,000 STATE FARMERS ENROLL IN FARM BUREAU

Auburn, Ala.—Membership in the Alabama Farm Bureau now exceeds 30,000 with 23 counties reporting over 500 members each.

"The decision of the Supreme Court which made it necessary for farmers to act in an organized way if they are to have a farm program, has stimulated increased interest in the Farm Bureau in Alabama as well as in other states," says J. Litt Edwards, president of the state organization.

Leading counties in Alabama in Farm Bureau membership are as follows:

Monroe, 1,621; Hale, 1,500; Butler, 1,261; Tuscaloosa, 1,200; Lowndes, 1,016; Marengo, 831; Dallas, 715; Autauga, 710; Escambia, 700; Perry, 670; Pike, 670; Crenshaw, 659; Montgomery, 650; Choctaw, 646; Morgan, 639; Mobile, 618; Wilcox, 554; Sumter, 549; Conecuh, 533; Clarke, 517; Baldwin, 500; Bibb, 500; and Henry, 500.

GOOD CANNING RECORD MADE BY RURAL WOMEN

Auburn, Ala.—Rural women in 45 Alabama counties canned and preserved 5,953,739 quarts of fruits and vegetables and cured 1,235,184 pounds of meat in 1935 for home use and relief purposes.

In reporting this to Helen Johnston, state home demonstration agent, county agents over the state valued the products at $2,114,303.42.

The rural women also produced $4,410,495 worth of garden, dairy and poultry products which were consumed at home. In addition, they sold $1,000,826.67 worth of products, making a total of $7,525,625.09.

STATE CONSERVATION COUNCIL MEETS SUNDAY, FEB. 16

Birmingham, Ala., Feb.—Organization details of the proposed Alabama Wildlife Federation will be worked out at a meeting of the temporary State Conservation Council called for Sunday, Feb. 16, at the Whitley Hotel in Montgomery.

The meeting of the Council was called by Harold I. Fisher of Birmingham, chairman, who called attention to the fact that I. T. Quinn, State Conservation Commissioner and ex-officio member of the State Council, has been elected a vice-president of the National Wildlife Federation, a national organization seeking to unite interested groups and individuals into a nation wide federation to promote conservation.

"The election of Commissioner Quinn, coming at a time when Alabama is making an effort to federate, should serve to stimulate conservationalists in this state to greater efforts," Fisher said. "With the help of this national official, Alabama should be among the very first states to send word to national headquarters that we are organized for battle."

MRS. ALVIN BILLINGSLEY

On February 5th, 1936, the death angel visited the home of Mr. Alvin Billingsley and family in Birmingham and took away his loving wife, Gladys, home to live with Jesus. Gladys was born and reared in Chilton County, and obtained her education in Chilton County High School. Before her marriage, she was known as Miss Gladys Culp. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Culp of Clanton.

It was hard to give Gladys up, but the Lord knows best.

Oh, dear Gladys, how we miss you
No human tongue can tell.
You are gone never to return no more
But we hope to meet you on that bright and happy shore.—Written by one who loved her, Mrs. Mattie Mims and family.

Executive Meeting

viting all voters to join hands with us in our fight for clean, honest government for our county.

Motion carried that this sub-committee draw up and publish suitable resolutions denouncing the presently advertised local bills for Chilton County.

Motion prevailed that Mr. T. E. Wyatt be recommended for chairman of an organization of Young Republicans of Chilton County.

The Committee thereupon adjourned to meet again at the call of the chairman.

Resolutions

(1)

State of Alabama, Chilton County.

We, the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County, Alabama, assembled at the courthouse at Clanton, Alabama, on February 7, 1936, passed the following resolutions:

Resolved, that the Republican Executive Committee hold a Republican primary and enter the primary on May 5, 1936, and on June 9, 1936, for the purpose of nominating Republican candidates to be elected in Chilton County in the General Election of 1936, as follows: For County Treasurer; Two Members of the County Board of Education; Member of the Commissioners Court for District No. Four (4); another Member of the County Commissioners Court for District No. Three (3); Two Justices of the Peace and one Constable in each voting precinct.

It is further ordered by the Committee and resolutions adopted that the above-mentioned date on May 5, 1936, that two candidates be elected in said primary from each voting precinct of Chilton County for the office of Republican Erecutive Committee of Chilton County, Alabama. — Chilton County Republican Executive Committee; J. N. Dennis, Chairman; J. Z. Mims, Secretary.

(2)

We, the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County, Alabama, hereby register our protest and opposition to the local bills for Chilton County as advertised in the Chilton County News, and as we understand will be advocated for passage in the State Legislature by Representative C. B. Cox and Senator Earle Thomas. We construe most of these bills, if they should become laws, to be greatly detrimental to the welfare of the county; and especially do we oppose the manner in which they are to be forced upon the people by dictatorial power and without any recourse in the way of a referendum from the free and rightful citizens of our county.—Chilton County Republican Executive Committee; J. N. Dennis, Chairman; J. Z. Mims, Secretary.

(3)

We, the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County, Alabama, hereby extend an invitation to all citizens who believe in the principles of the party, and who will agree to support the nominees of said party, to come into our primary elections and help us select our nominess for the various offices to be filled.—Chilton County Republican Executive Committee; J. N. Dennis, Chairman; J. Z. Mims, Secretary.

Mass Meeting

Resolutions Adopted

Resolutions were introduced and read by the secretary, which were adopted without a dissenting vote. The resolutions follow:

We, the people of Chilton county, in mass meeting assembled for the purpose of discussing certain local bills which are being advertised vitally affecting the affairs of our county, do hereby declare our unqualifiedly disapproval of certain of these bills, as follows:

The bill to create road supervisor for the county will place added burdens on the county and will take away from our elected officials their duties, authorities and responsibilities. Such laws are undemocratic and unsound and tend to foster hatred and strife among our citizens.

Especially do we condemn and disapprove all parts of this bill which seeks to set up under the guise of a road supervisor, a DICTATOR appointed by the Governor of Alabama to take charge of our road affairs. This bill on its face strips all authority with reference to road matters from the Court of County Commissioners, elected by and accountable to the people of the county for their actions, and places all such power and responsibilities in the hands of a foreigner, and who is accountable only to the authority responsible for his appointment. Vast and unlimited power and authority in the purchase of materials, supplies and equipment, and in the selections of county laborers and employees is placed in this supervisor and without any adequate safeguards for the protection of the county or to prevent the corrupt and illegal traffic in jobs and road machinery and materials at the county's expense.

The bill to require Chilton county to appropriate annually not less than $3,000 to the Chilton County Health Unit, takes away whatever authority and control the county officials have with reference to this Health Unit. At present the only control any agency or court has over this Health Unit is by virtue of the apprpropriation, which now does not exceed $2,-000.00, together with offices, lights, heat, stationery, etc. Under this bill which makes it mandatory that the county appropriate not less than $3,-000.00, the appropriation will be increased subsantiaiially $1,000.00 and all vestige of authority and control over this unit will be relinquished. This will place the unit solely and completely under the domination of the State Health Department, and the officials and citizens of Chilton county will be absolutely without any rights, although county funds will be used to support this unit.

The bill to require the Court of County Commissioners to appropriate not less than $4,300.00 annually for the County Agricultural and Home Demonstration Agents, will nearly double the appropriation now being made to these agencies, and will remove any authority or control the Court of County Commissioners or the people of the county now have over these agencies and places them solely under the domination and control of the Extension Service of the United States of America. It is evident that the purpose of this bill is to further create more useless offices and agencies and to burden the county with the expense of the same.

The bill to require the Court of County Commissioners to set aside one cent of the funds received from the sale of gasoline, which is now used for the maintenance and repair of the county roads, will not become effective for eighteen months or more and there is no necessity at this time for such a law. Conditions at that time may be different and this law, if passed, may impede and hinder the Court of County Commissioners in properly building and mantaining roads of the county, and is a further effort on the part of the bill's proponents to take away the power and authority vested in the Court of County Commissioners.

These bills take from our elected officials the duties, authority and responsibilities of their respective offices and such laws are undemocratic and unsound and are a reflection on the citizenship of our county, in that, they take from the voters of the county their rights and privileges to govern themselves and vests these duties and responsibilities in persons who are non-residents of the county, and not accountable to the voters of the county, thereby wounding our pride and destroying our rights of self-government.

Be it, therefore, resolved by the people of Chilton County in mass meeting assembled, that we do hereby implore and beseech our Senator, Hon. Earl Thomas, and our Representative, Hon. C. B. Cox, that they not introduce and permit the passage of these bills in the Legislature of Alabama, and thereby take away from the people of Chilton County their right of self government and substitute their judgment for the judgment of the people of the county; and further that a copy of these resolutions be delivered fortwith by the Chairman of this meeting to Senator Thomas and Representative Cox, and our newspapers published in Chilton county, Alabama.

Near the close of the meeting Mr. David B. Adams of the Enterprise community spoke briefly regarding the schools of our state and county, and asked the meeting to go on record as favoring some workable means whereby the school children of our state can be cared for. The idea was stressed that the school system of Alabama should be placed on a parity with other departments and not be classed as "non essential" as it now is.

A committee was appointed to confer with Mr. Cox and Mr. Thomas and try and get them not to present those bills to the egislature for passage. This committee was urged to try and reason out the matter with the Representative and Senator. Those placed on the committee were: G. C. Walker, L. H. Reynolds, J. N. Dennis, Hoyt Freeman and Hill Foshee.

'BUCK' OLIVER RETIRES

W. B. Oliver, who went to Congress from Tuscaloosa 22 years ago, at the same time as George Huddleston, and who served his district with unusual wisdom and effectiveness, is retiring on account of ill health.

His retirement is a real loss to the state and particularly to his district, for which he was able to gain many material favors, including the removal of the Veterans' Administration offices from Birmingham to Tuscaloosa.

The records of Mr. Oliver and some of his colleagues afford instructive contrast for any business organizations or other groups seeking to learn the significance of a congressman able to get for a district its fair share of Federal favor.

Young Republicans To Have County Unit

T. E. Wyatt Appointed Chairman; All Beats Will Be Organized Soon

At a meeting of the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton county on February 7, I was recommended to act as chairman of the Chilton County unit of the Young Republican Federation of America. Mr. J. N. Dennis, chairman of the Executive Committee, forwarded the recommendation to Hon. C. O. Vardaman, State chairman of the Federation, and Mr. Vardaman forthwith sends me the credentials, which are published below:

"In accordance with the authority vested in me as State Chairman of the Young Republican Federation of America by the National Committee, I do hereby endorse and appoint the Hon. T. E. Wyatt of Clanton, Alabama, as chairman of the Chilton County unit of the Young Republican Federation of America.

"He is hereby authorized to proceed at once toward the organization of Young Republicans in Chilton County. He is authorized to select a Secretary and a Treasurer, to call meetings of the Young Republicans in Chilton County and to preside over such meetings.

"He is further authorized and instructed to distribute information and material looking toward the education of all Young people in Chilton County in the principles of the Republican party.

C. O. VARDAMAN, Chairman, Young Republican Federation of Ala."

In regard to the work among the young Republicans of Chilton county I wish to say that the county organization will be completed at an early date, and immediate work begun toward organizing the various Beats of the county. There is much work to be done, but there are plenty of good, conscientious, hard-working young Republicans in each Beat to put it over, and we are going to do it.

I now ask the older Republicans, as well as the young ones, to begin thinking about and arranging for Beat meetings in the near future. We want every Beat organized, and any time any of you Republicans out over the county have any suggestions to make regarding the work, I shall be more than pleased to hear from you.

Yours for a stronger Republican party, and especially united work among our young Republicans.—T. E. Wyatt.

TIFFIN ADDED FERTILIZER TO LINE OF BUSINESS HERE

Mr. J. B. Tiffin, of the Tiffin Furniture Company, this week announces the addition of commercial fertilizer to the line which he carries at his store here. Mr. Tiffin respectfully invites the farmers of Chilton county to inspect his line of fertilizers and compare his prices with other standard grades.

He is carrying the brands of the Federal Chemical Company; of Nashville, Tenn. His guano will be packed in 200-pound cotton sacks, which will make a special appeal to the cotton growers inasmuch as use is being made of cotton in the sacking, and too, the material may be used for different kinds of clothing after the guano has been used out.

The Federal Chemical Company has been making fertilizer for fifty years, and every farmer knows what their formulas mean. "Daybreak", their favorite bran, is said to be among the best fertilizers in the amount and quality of plant food, and bigger yields are assured where this brand is used.

Read Mr. Tiffin's advertisement elsewhere in thispaper ,setting out his message in presenting this line of fertilizer to the people of this section of Alabama.

Circuit Court Called Monday, March 16

Criminal Week Comes First; Civil Week Will Begin March 30th

The next regular term of the Circuit Court of Chilton County has been set on March 16th. The term will consist of two weeks, the first, beginning March 16th, will be the criminal week, and thes second, beginning on March 30th, will be civil week.

The call was given by Arthur Glover, Judge of the 19th Judicial Circuit, February 14th. Issue was given by Judge Glover on the same date for calling together of a Grand Jury.

Judge Glover also set Saturday, March 21, for the disposition of all cases wherein pleas of guilty have been tendered.

NEW ACTING POLICE CHIEF MAKING GOOD RECORD

The new acting police chief, Hugh M. Simpson, has started his work off with a good record. Mr. Simpson has shown that he is every inch the officer he was appointed to be, but he tempers justice with reason, and has made two arrests. Mr. Simpson is an old resident of Clanton, and highly respected. He is firm in his duties, but courteous, and bids fair to make a good record in his work.

O. L. DEVAUGHN BREAKS ICE IN RACE FOR COMMISSIONER

The first announcement for Commissioner on the Republican ticket was filed by O. L. Devaughn, for the Fourth District place, Saturday.

The name of O. L. Devaughn will not be new on the primary ballot, although he has never been on the general election ballot and has never been elected to public office. Two times, however, he has announced for the same office which he now asks the voters for. The first time he ran he was defeated by Mr. A. P. Vinson in the primary. The next time he got through the first primary, but was defeated by C. D. Duke in the run-off.

Mr. Devaughn is an outstanding leader in his home community, Maple Springs, always on the alert to the better interests of his church and all local activities. Besides being a successful farmer, he is a carpenter by trade, and has some very creditable work of this kind to his credit. Mr. Devaughn is also well known over the county as a singer. He has taught several singing schools, and is always in the lead when it comes to conventions, singing societies, etc. In his local church he can always be depended upon to carry his part and even more.

The Union-Banner presents O. L. Devaughn to the voters of Chilton county as being an upright Christian gentleman, and we believe if he is nominated and elected he will make us a good commissioner.

Building New Place For Smith Motor Co.

Old White Garage Building Is Being Renovated For New Firm

For the past few weeks there has been in progress a complete renovation of the garage building across the highway from Taylor Wholesale Grocery Company, which is being fixed up for H. N. Smith Motor Company, local Dodge and Plymouth dealers. The building is being put in shape by Mr. O. Reed Mullins.

The filling station in the front will remain the same as heretofore. A cement floor is being poured on the main floor of the building, which will be used as a display room for new cars. It is large and amply spacious for this purpose. A large shed has been built in the rear, which will be a storage room for used cars and repair work.

Taylor Wholesale Grocery Company who have been using the building for a warehouse, have constructed them a warehouse at the rear of their building, alongside the railroad.

H. N. Smith Motor Company is a coming automobile concern in Clanton. They have been here about a year, and have made great strides along the lines of auto sales in this territory. They hope to get into their new quarters between now and the first of March.

CROWSON WANTS CORN IN EAR

Mr. Willie Crowson informs The Union-Banner that he wants to buy more corn in the ear than he is now able to get. He pays the pravailing market price, and prefers to get it with the shucks left on; however, some corn can be used shelled.

Mr. Crowson will either buy your corn delivered to his plant, the Central Alabama Milling Company, in East Clanton, or will come to your home and get the corn. If you have more corn than you need and could use some ready cash, it will pay you to get in touch with Mr. Crowson. He still wants to buy some velvet beans too.

BRIDGE ON KINCHEON ROAD STARTED MONDAY MORNING

We are advised that the new bridge over the creek on the Kincheon road, west of Clanton, was started last Monday morning. Mayor C. Fenn Jones was on the spot directing the work in person, and it is expected that it will be finished before the end of the week.

The old bridge was washed away during one of the recent heavy rains, and has caused quite a bit of unpleasantness to travelers on that road. The new bridge is to be a steel one, with oak floor.

REESE WYATT AT HILL'S

In the absence of Mr. Stewart from the Hill store here, on account of illness, Mr. Reese Wyatt is here working temporarily in Mr. Stewart's place. Reese is well known in Chilton county, this being his old home; he is the son of the late Thos. E. Wyatt, former city policeman here.

For the past eight years Reese has been with Hill Grocery Company, having worked for them in Birmingham, Anniston and Marion. He invites his friends to come to see him while he is working for Hill's here.

ARCADIAN NITRATE OF SODA GIVES BANQUET AT HOTEL HERE

Thirty-five farmers and business men of this section were entertained at a banquet at the New Exchange Hotel in Clanton last Friday night by the Barrett Company, distributors of Arcadian, the American nitrate of soda. The merchants handling the Barrett products, as well as the farmers, were from all sections of Chilton County.

The plates furnished by the Exchangs Hotel were delicious and plentious. The table was graced by Elder Tucker, and after the assembly had eaten to their content, a talking picture was presented by Mr. W. A. (Buck) Appleton, field representative for Arcadian for Alabama. This was much enjoyed by those present. After the picture Mr. Appleton addressed the meeting for several minutes, and introduced Dr. C. G. Atwater, of New York, manager of the Company. Dr. Atwater spoke interestingly for several minutes, and then permitted questions to be asked by anyone. After discussions for probably twenty minutes, Mr. Appleton declared the meeting adjourned.

This gathering of Chilton County farmers and business men was very fortunate in having such a distinguished personage as Dr. Atwater address them. He is one of the best versed men in the country on matters of plant food, chemistry and correlative subjects. We were proud to have him as our guest; and Mr. Appleton proved to be a very gracious host also.

GERALD HUBBARD IS CANDIDATE TREASURER CHILTON COUNTY

Among those already in the race for County Treasurer on the Republican ticket is Gerald Hubbard of Collins Chapel community. Mr. Hubbard is a young man, and has numbers of friends over the county especially in the northern and western parts.

He is a son of the late Monroe Hubbard of Jemison and grandson of the venerable Uncle Tom Hubbard of West Chilton, the one-time popular and likeable tax collector of Chilton county.

Gerald is what we might term a "Chip off the old Block." The Hubbards have always been staunch Republicans and are business men of the highest type. So far as we know, Gerald will measure up favorably to the same criterion, and if nominated and elected, will make Chilton county a treasurer of whom we will be proud. Although he has never been in politics before, Gerald Hubbard is already displaying every indication of becoming a real campaigner.

RABBIT HUNT

A special rabbit hunt will begin on the 22nd of this month. All who are interested in attending will meet at Bethsalem church, next Saturday morning at 7:00 o'clock. The hunt will continue throughout the day. Men, dogs and sticks, but no guns will be allowed.—R. E. Wilkins.

APOLLO BOYS PUT ON FINE PROGRAM HERE SUNDAY NIGHT

The Apollo Boys Choir, of Birmingham, sung at the Baptist church in Clanton last Sunday night, as per the announcement in last week's papers. Their program, lasting for about an hour, was thoroughly enjoyed by a crowded auditorium. The other churches of the city gave way for the special occasion, and several people from the other congregations attended.

The manager of the choir, Mr. Cooper, is certainly to be congratulated on the splendid manner in which he has trained these boys. They have some of the finest voices to be found anywhere, and they can use them exceedingly well. The solos and choruses were as fine as could be. The team work among the boys was perfect.

The manager stated that they would probably be able to return to Clanton some time this spring, when they have another engagement in Montgomery.

SINGING AT FRIENDSHIP NEXT SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Mr. Jim Parrish of Friendship community asks The Union-Banner to carry the announcement that there will be singing at Friendship church next Sunday afternoon, February 23, beginning at 2:00 o'clock. All singers are invited to attend, and bring your new song books.

MOSES-DELOACH MARRIAGE

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Deloach, of Vida, announce the marriage of their daughter, Esther, to Clarence W. Moses, of Birmingham.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of relatives, by the Rev. Cecil Ellisor, pastor of Verbena Methodist Church, on Feb. 9th at Verbena.

The bride wore a suit of aqua blue with grey accessories.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Moses will be at home in Birmingham, where he is connected with one of the leading firms of that city.

MRS. D. I. DERAMUS

Verbena, Ala., Feb. 13.—Mrs. D. I. Deramus died at her home here last Thursday afternoon following a long illness. Surviving are five sons, Irby of Verbena, John, of Clanton, Barnett, of Verbena, Harvey, of Birmingham, and Dr. William Deramus, of Selma, and a daughter, Mrs. W. D. Barton, of Montgomery. The funeral was held from the Verbena Methodist Church Friday at 3 p.m., with the Rev. Cecil Ellisor officiating. Burial in the Verbzena cemetery, Mell Martin of Clanton in charge.

Mrs. Deramus was born in Haynes, Ala., and had lived in Verbena 43 years. She was a member of the Baptist church.

FIRST ONE COMES OUT FOR COMMISSIONER 3RD DISTRICT

The first candidate to announce for Commissioner from the Third District of Chilton county is Rev. E. H. Littlejohn, of Lawley Route 1.

It will be remembered that Rev. Littlejohn was in the race four years ago for the same place. He got in the race a little late last time, and did not make an extensive campaign, but says this year he is going to scan the whole country and see all of the boys.

Rev. Littlejohn says that there is some real work needed to be done in the Third District, and he believes he is in position to do it, if the people of the county feel like giving him the opportunity.

RENOVATION WORK BEING DONE AT THE LEADER

Mr. Maurice Lande, of The Leader, is having extensive changes made in his store building. Carpenters are busy building shelves, etc., for shoes, and fixing up quarters for ladies dress goods, etc.

Mr. Lande says that before the work is finished, he will have his store completely departmentized; different items will be put in departments to themselves so as to facilitate waiting on customers and make service throughout the store strictly modern in every respect.

The Leader believe in living up to its name, and practices modernistic ideas at all times. The best service to its customers is always their watchword, and no opportunity is foregone to improve conditions generally.

DEVAUGHN QUARTET IN CONCERT AT COURTHOUSE SAT. NIGHT

Circle No. 4 of the First Baptist church of Clanton, is sponsoring the Devaughn quartet in a concert at the courthouse Saturday night, February 22nd, beginning at 8:00 o'clock.

The personnel of the quartet is: Prof. W. M. Devaughn and two sons, Archie and Floy, and daughter, Annie Laura; pianist, Miss Lena Mae Devaughn. The program will consist of a variety of solos, duets, trios, and popular numbers, and comedy numbers.

Mr. Eugene H. Whitt, of Boaz, Ala., will assist in the program. The ladies of the Circle, as well as those putting on the concert, invite all of their friends and lovers of good music and clean entertainment to attend. Admission will be 10c and 20c.

A MESSAGE TO THE VOTERS FROM PETE B. JARMAN, JR.

Having been affiliated with the public life, first of my county and later of my state, throughout my life, I like to think of myself as a public servant. To serve my fellow Alabamians, my party and my nation to the best of my ability has ever been my keen desire.

I am appreciative, indeed, of the general sentiment, which seems to have crystallized throughout the Sixth District shortly following my good, but unsuccessful, race for Congress two years ago, that I should run again which race would prove successful.

Because of this sentiment my announcement for Congress will cause no surprise. My campaign will, of course, be waged upon a high plane. While in the final analysis all candidates must primarily stand on their records, the other planks of my platform will follow in due course.

While I was reasonably acquainted with the District when I announced before, many new acquaintances ripened into friendships during that campaign which will afford me much pleasure throughout the remaining years of my life. During my visits in

"MAN IN THE MOON" ENTERS RACE FOR COUNTY TREASURER

It seems that the job of handling the money is the most popular one right now, so far as political announcements are concerned. In last week's Union-Banner there was a short letter from Mr. Paul C. Mims stating that he would formally announce for treasurer this week, and a glance at the announcement column will show that his card has been entered. Mr. Mims, sometimes known as "Man in the Moon", has filed the proper papers with the Probate Judge and the chairman of the Republican committee, which makes him a full-fledged candidate.

PAUL C. (Chester) MIMS

Paul C. Mims, whose real name is Chester but who is most of the time called "Jack", is the son of J. J. Mims, the veteran mail carrier on Clanton Route 5. The family on both sides is Republican from times immemorial, and there have been but few schisms for generations back; old "Grandpap" Baker—John Baker, Sr., said to be among the very first Republicans in Chilton county, is in the family lineage.

After teaching school for a few years and working two years in timekeeping offices at Sylacauga, Paul C. Mims became connected with The Union-Banner; this was in 1924. He has worked with the paper off and on in various capacities ever since; a portion of the time he has had a column in the paper in which he has expressed his views on political as well as other matters of public interest.

No doubt, the race for treasurer will be made more interesting by Paul C. (Chester) Mims being one of the entrants.

Young Man Is Dead Of Gunshot Wound

Claude Killingsworth Died At Central Alabama Hospital Friday, February 14

Claude Killingsworth, young white man of Beat 13, in what is known as Dry Valley, was shot and fatally injured by Mrs. Lillie Mae Melton at the latter's home on Tuesday afternoon, February 11, about 5 o'clock. The young man was brought to Central Alabama Hospital at Clanton for treatment, but died last Friday night.

Reports of the killing are as follows: Killinsgworth had been to the Melton home earlier in the afternoon, and Mrs. Melton had asked him to leave. A neighbor haw him and tried to get him away but he resisted, trying again to force entrance. Finally Mrs. Melton secured a shotgun, and as Killingsworth pounded on the door, she shot through the closed door, the full load taking effect in Killingsworth's groin.

Mrs. Melton is the wife of a farmer of Beat 13, and is the mother of two children. She was arrested and brought to jail Sunday, but was released on bond, pending preliminary hearing in the justice court of J. L. Wilson next Saturday morning.

It was stated that Killingsworth was drunk at the time of the shooting. When the shot was fired, he staggered out of the house, to the edge of a field, where he fell. His body was taken by an undertaker to Montevallo for burial.

W. J. BILLINGSLEY FOR COUNTY TREASURER

In the list of political announcements this week will be found the card of W. J. Billingsley, and Mr. Billingsley has qualified with the Probate Judge and with the chairman of the Republican Executive Committee.

The Union-Banner is withholding a complete write-up of Mr. Billingsley until next week, when he hopes to have his picture to put in the paper. Look for it next week.

MRS. CURTIS SIMS SERIOUSLY ILL

Mrs. Curtis Sims, of Jasper, is seriously ill at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Mims, of Clanton Route 1. Mrs. Sims has been in ill health for a number of years, and suffered a nervous collapse, following the death of her daughter last week.

Little hope was held for her at one time last week, but later reports state that she is slowly recovering. Mrs. Sims will be remembered by hundreds of Chilton County people as Miss Ellen Mims.

February Winds Up Announcement Time

Candidates Must File All Legal Papers During This Month

The Political Code of Alabama sets the final day for announcements for offices in primary elections not later than March 1st. That is, candidates may file with the chairman of the Executive Committee on March 1st, or any day prior to that. The declarations to be filed with the Probate Judge may be made within five days after the announcement is made. But, inasmuch as March 1st is on Sunday this time, our construction of the law is that candidates may file with the chairman of the committee on the following day, which is Monday, March 2nd.

However, it may not be safe to wait until Monday, March 2nd; so we would advise that all who wish to announce for any office in the Republican primary do so during the month of February, the last day of which is Saturday, February 29th. All assessments to the committee also must be paid during the month of February.

The proper blanks for filing with both Mr. Dennis, the chairman, and with the Probate Judge may be obtained free of charge at The Union-Banner office.

Two Committeemen To Be Elected For Each Voting Precinct

The Republicans will elect, in the primary election, two Beat Committeemen from each voting precinct, to compose the County Republican Executive Committee. Candidates for these places must file their announcements both with the Probate Judge and with the chairman of the executive committee. The names of the candidates will be printed on the ballots to be used in each of the various voting precincts. As many candidates may announce as desire, but only two will be elected for each voting place.

Delegates to County Convention to Be Chosen at Noon Election Day

Two delegates to the County Republican Delegated Convention from each voting precinct will be chosen at each voting place at 12 o'clock on the day of the primary, May 5th. A Beat mass meeting must be called for this purpose, and a chairman and secretary elected, who shall proceed to elect these two delegates among the citizens of that voting precinct present. Someone interested should see that this matter is taken care of at each voting place.

The two delegates so chosen will constitute the County Delegates Convention to be called not long after the primary, the purpose of which county convention will be to select delegates to the District and State conventions.

One Member of County Board To Be Elected

There will be only one member of the County Board of Education elected this year. The place of Mr. W. L. Sanders becomes vacant on account of expiration of his term. This is the only place on the Board to be filled in the elections this year.

As stated in the call for the primary last week, besides one member of the county board, nominees will be named for the following offices: County Treasurer, Commissioner from the Third District, and Commissioner from the Fourth District, of Chilton county.

MRS. CLARENCE EASTERLING RETURNED FROM HOSPITAL

Mrs. Clarence Easterling was brought home last Sunday, after a week spent in Norwood Hospital, at Birmingham, where she has been undergoing treatment. Reports are that Mrs. Easterling is improving fast, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sims, at Jemison.

High Court Upholds Validity Of T. V. A.

Uncle Sam May Generate Electricity, Build Lines And Sell Power

Washington, Feb. 17.—The Supreme Court today upheld constitutionality of the New Deal's vast Tennessee Valley Authority experiment on all points placed in issue in the present test.

The vote of the Supreme Court to uphold the general constitutionality of the TVA was eight to one. The lone dissenter was Justice James McReynolds. Four justices, however, presented a concurring opinion in connection with the majority decision read by Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes.

The opinion of the court, read by Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, was so sweeping that the New Deal power and legal experts immediately asserted it had given the right-of-way to the New Deal's other vast power experiments, such as Grand Coulee, Bonneville and Fort Peck.

Justice Louis D. Brandeis, in a concurring opinion, said that he, together with Justices Harlan F. Stone and Owen J. Roberts and Benjamin N. Cardozo, concurred in the opinion but believed that the Alabama Power Co. stockholders had no right to sue.

Mr. Enoch Weldon, well-known citizen of this community, passed away at his home here early Thursday morning. Although he had been in failing health for some time, his death was unexpected.

Mr. Weldon is survived by his wife; four sons, Tommie, Odis, Cecil and Osmond, all of Billingsley; five daughters, Mrs. Doshia Mims, of Clanton, Mrs. Roberta Culp, Mrs. Sophia Moatts, Mrs. Sarah Pierce, and Mrs. Zadie Huett, all of Billingsley. Also three sisters and a host of relatives and friends.

Burial was in New Cedron cemetery, with Spigener in charge. We extend to the bereaved ones our sympathy.

IN MEMORY OF JOHN P. JACKSON

On the night of February 3rd the spirit of our dear father winged it's flight from this world of pain and sorrow. For some reason unknown to us, God, in His infinite wisdom, saw fit to call him from our midst. We know that it was God's will for him to leave us, but some sweet day we will better understand why God called him away so soon. Let us not grieve but rather say "The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away. Blessed be the name of the Lord."

We know that he trusted in God, for he prayed from the very beginning of his illness. He had the ability of gaining friends and everywhere he went the clouds seemed to risappear. May God bind our broken hearts and cheer us as we look forward to the reunion beyond where we will never part.—M. C. Henley.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of J. R. Blackmon asks The Union-Banner to express to their friends and neighbors their thanks for the sympathetic help extended them during their recent bereavement in the death of their son and brother, O. L. Blackmon. They especially thank the order of W. O. W. and Rev. J. W. Jones for what they did in that hour of need.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

Tom Dorsey and his 17-piece orchestra will play for the annual junior prom at the University of Alabama, it has just been announced by Bert Banks, Tuscaloosa, president of the junior class of the College of Arts and Sciences. Banks, assisted by a committee of juniors, is in charge of arrangements for the dance.

An amateur show, the first to be held on the University campus, will be presented February 25 by Jasons, senior honor society. William T. Lewis, Fairfield, is in charge of production. Funds raised by the performance will be used to erect a memorial temple on the Mound, historic spot on the University campus.

The annual Commerce Day held by the School of Commerce and Business Administration at the University, will be March 4 this year, according to Virgil Hamton, Fairfax, president of the Senior class. Scholastic honors made during the past semester will be awarded to commerce students at that time.

A convocation of students of the University was held on Monday for the discussion of student government problems and the rendering of a report of this year's activities of the student association. Carl A. Elliott, Vina, president of the student association called the meeting, which was addressed by officials of both the faculty and student administration.

The annual Interfraternity Council banquet, to be held February 20, will be addressed by Dr. Malcolm Guess, Dean of Men at the University of Mississippi, it is announced by Cleve Allen, Talladega, president of the group. More than three hundred fraternity pledges will be present, it is expected.

A large team of students from the Senior Cabinet of the Y. M. C. A. here visited Birmingham on Sunday, February 16, where members of the group appeared in the pulpits of most of the churches of the city and conducted services in commemoration of National Prayer Sunday. Ted Ledeen, Robertsdale, president of the student Y. M. C. A. here, was in charge of the trip.

The group was accompanied by a delegation of students from Clemson College, South Carolina, who are on a good-will tour.

More than 300 high school debators from county and city schools all over the state will be the guests of the University at the finals of the annual high-school debates, scheduled for March 3-6, according to Dr. W. C. Blasingame, of the University's Extension Division, who is in charge of the debates. Winners will be sent to the national championship debates in Kansas City, and will receive scholarships to the University for one year.

"Princess Ida", one of the famed Gilbert and Sullivan comic operas, will be presented by the combined Men's and Women's Glee Clubs of the University early in April, according to Tom Garner, director of the groups. The opera, which is the ninth of a series of the works of the two famous composers to be presented here, will have a cast of fifteen supported by a chorus of twenty-four.

A Silver Anniversary banquet honoring Dr. George H. Denny, for twenty-five years president of the University, will be given in Montgomery on February 22. The banquet is being sponsored by the State Alumni Association, and will be held at the Montgomery County Club at noon on day set.

YOUNG MAN WRITES ABOUT STATE AND COUNTY MATTERS

When Bibb Graves was running for office he made several promises to the people to get their votes. He promised that car tags would be as low as five dollars, and that there would be a nine-months school; but we see that car tags are about as much as they were before, and schools will likely have to close within a few weeks.

Some State officials are advocating a three-cent sales tax in order to keep the schools going. But I think we are taxed quite enough; if what we have were used right, the schools would not have to close.

Mr. Charlie Cox also said a lot in order to get the people's votes, but now he seems to have forgotten most of what he promised and is devoting all of his time to passing new and undesirable bills. Mr. Cox made the statement that there was only one man in Chilton county who was fit for a road supervisor. I wonder who that one man is.

Mr. Thomas seems also to view things differently from what he did while he was campaigning. Mr. Cox said he did not write the bills they were trying to pass but that Mr. Thomas wrote them and signed his name o them. If this is true, Mr. Thomas is not worthy of holding a public office.

I hope that all the Republicans will go to the polls this year and vote for men who will pay some attention to their promises and consider the rights of the people.—Preston Culp.

SALES TAX AND TAXES

Editor Union-Banner:

Well, I give all the boys warning to look out for me. The legislature is in session, and I guess it is time for a big shot; so I am hitching up the Roosevelt mule to the old Hoover wagon and am taking off. This mule has not been working any since I gathered my cotton—at least I called the cotton mine—but when I got it gathered the government came out and took it away from me.

This Roosevelt mule may see some other mules and run away with me; but if this happens I guess Mr. Graves will see to it that I get to the capital, as he always fixes everything, you know. But when I do get to Montgomery I will be sitting right in the front row so I can hear Bibb and the speaker of the House. When this sales tax question comes up I am going to "filibust" it; but this may be dangerous, for when Mr. Cox and the other boys see me there in this 3-8-5 guano sack shirt, they may throw me out of the window. But me being nationally known in politics as I am, maybe I can persuade them to throw out some of those bills with me.

But here's hoping I won't be down there more than thirty or sixty days, because that much sliding up and down the benches will be bad on my old breeches which are already thin in the seat. They are liable to give way; but I should worry about that so long as I am there at the expense of the taxpayers and State. They don't seem to care how great the expense becomes.

But what is worrying me is when me and this Roosevelt mule arrive at the capital and it comes eating time for the mule. You see he can't eat hay and corn because ever since '33 I have been feeding him on baled cotton stalks; he is not used to light diets like hay and corn.

But when it comes time to introduce new bills I believe I can induce the support of Graves and thus pass them through, not only the sales tax but a Take-All bill also. They have already taken our homes and cotton and it looks now as though they are going to take the school from our children. But be that as it may, there is coming another time when you can go to the polls again; and unless you forget it, you can remember some of these Big Shots that wants to take all and give nothing in return except sales taxes and ballyhoo. So just let me just live in a house by the side of the road. Thanks.—J. J. Scott, Jemison, Alabama.

This story will interest many Men and Women

NOT long ago I was like some friends I have...low in spirits...run-down ...out of sorts...tired easily and looked terrible. I knew I had no serious organic trouble so I reasoned sensibly...as my experience has since proven...that work, worry, colds and whatnot had just worn me down.

The confidence mother has always had in S.S.S. Tonic...which is still her stand-by when she feels run-down...convinced me I ought to try this Treatment...I started a course. The color began to come back to my skin ...I felt better...I did not tire easily and soon I felt that those red-blood-cells were back to so-called fighting strength...it is great to feel strong again and like my old self.

Insist on S.S.S. Tonic in the blood-red Cellophane-wrapped package... the big 20-oz. size is sufficient for two weeks' treatment...it's more economical, too.

WHAT ISABELLA STUDENTS ARE DOING IN SCHOOL WORK

The F. F. A. boy's and F. H. A. girl's signs that were mentioned in a preceding paper, have been completed and put up at two different places which lead to Isabella. The boys and girls are very proud about their joint project and think it will help to advertise their school. There has been a discussion about another similar project. We believe the work of these two clubs have proved successful in reaching the home of many of the club members.

We regret that Mrs. Foshee was not with us last week end we are proud to have her with us again.

Our entire school became interested last week in a mock trial that was presented by the Business Law class. The judges were A. D. Headley and J. C. Jones; the sheriff, Harry Foxx; the case was a breach of promise. The plaintiff was Johnnie Lou Cobern and the defendant Andrew Jones. No decision was reached by the jury. The trial was beneficial as well as much fun.

The seniors wish to express their appreciation for the response the people of this school and community gave to buying the candy we were selling. A nice profit was made.

The reporters wish to call the attention to the correction of a title given two weeks ago. The correct title of the organization that has put on a contest for all eligible high school girls is The Daughters of the American Revolution.

The Cosmopolitan Literary Society met Wednesday, February 5th. The program, due to several absences, was short. A better program is expected next time.

The F. F. A. chapter presented a very good program. Jokes, Cecil Mills. Business in which a date for an initiation to be set was discussed. There were other discussions on various topics.

A WELL-KNOWN "FACT" THAT IS NOT TRUE

"A Clean Tooth Never Decays" was the slogan devised by the pioneers in dental hygiene, nearly a generation ago. It sounded well and was a great encouragement to tooth-brush drills and such efforts toward cleaner teeth. Unfortunately, perhaps, the idea was seized upon by the producers of pastes, powders, brushes, and other things for sale with the result that the statement is still frequently offered to us as the whole truth.

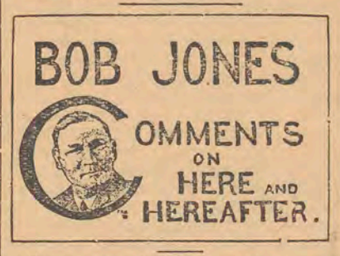
Were it possible to keep the teeth perfectly clean, decay would probably be very slight, but since they must stay in our mouths, which are always crowded with germs, "bacteriological cleanliness" is out of the question.

To more nearly tell the real story regarding the prevention of tooth decay, we must revise our slogan to something like this: "Plenty of tooth-building food for mothers and babies will do the most to prevent dental decay". This food must contain an abundance of calcium, phosphorus, and vitamin D, and it is of the greatest importance that the diet of the mother, before the baby is born, should contain these food essentials.

For calcium and phosphorus we depend first of all on milk. It is difficult to get a liberal supply without milk, as the diet would be too bulky if dependence were put on vegetables alone as the source. Milk, eggs, meat and fresh vegetables will furnish phoshorus. Milk alsco contains some vitamin D, which is essential if the calcium and phosphorus is to be properly utilized. Egg yolk also contains a quantity of vitamin D. Other important sources of this vitamin are cod liver oil and sunshine.

And, so, in addition to brushing our teeth regularly and making regular visits to the dentist, let us remember the importance of proper food elements if we are to prevent tooth decay.—Dr. J. M. Kimmey, County Health Officer.

Let Jack Armstrong and Hershel Gore doll your car up for Sunday. They are old heads at the game.—Shell Service Station.



Jesus was in the temple on one occasion and a group of sightseers said, "Isn't this a wonderful building? How magnificant are the stones." Jesus said, "This building will fall. There will not be one stone left upon another." Jesus had seen something more wonderful than a temple. He had seen a soul in the body of a woman who was fully surrendered to God. A poor widow poorly clad with two mites walked up, probably with trembling hand, and gave all she had to God. Jesus said, "She has given more than all the others here." The people had watched the rich men give their gifts. Jesus always had an eye for quality, not for bigness. It isn't how much we give, but it is how much we have after we make our gift that counts. God does not expect every Christian to put into the treasury of the Lord everything he has as the poor widow did, but God expects every Christian to be willing, if needs be, to give all he has to God. How few Christians there are who would be willing to sign blank checks and lay these checks on the altar of God and let God fill in the checks for whatever amount He wishes for His work. We talk about trusting God with our souls, but there are very few people who trust God with their money.

Money is the acid test. As president of the Bob Jones College the writer is in the midst of a campaign to raise $50,000.00 for an auditorium which is necesary, for a gymnasium, and for new dining room and dormitory accommodations which are greatly needed. Only a small percentage of the $50,000.00 has been raised but the writer has been greatly impressed by the large number of contributions which have come in from God's plain, poor people. Most of the money raised has been contributed in amounts of ten dollars, five dollars, one dollars, and even in smaller amounts. "Here is a dollar from a woman who has very little but who prays for your work and who is trusting God that when her little children grow up she may have enough money to send them to your Christian college." That is what one woman wrote and there was no name signed to it. It was not the size of the gift which made the anonymous letter interesting. It was the spirit in the heart of a woman. God has scattered around in America many noble souls. Many of them are poor and lowly but they know how to pray and their hearts answer to the good things when they hear them. They have ears to hear and hearts to understand. Jesus said, "Not many of the prominent people are called". He did not say, "Not any". There is an occasional outstanding, prominent, influential man who is generous. The writer knows just a few. But he knows literally thousands of people who have very little of this world's goods but who have hearts big enough to make a dwelling place in God's spirit. This crowd of plain, average people were the ones who came to Jesus for His blessings two thousand years ago. God bless all of the plain, average, everyday, true-blue, noble, consecrated Christian people in America and in the wide world. God bless the few prominent, prosperous big business men who are big enough to make a great fortune and still have room in their hearts for God.

MISS WILLODEAN SIMS

On Monday morning, February 10, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis B. Sims, of Jasper, and took away the sweet spirit of their darling baby daughter, Willodean, a little over 14 years of age, to live with Jesus.

She was a loving, dutiful child, and always made good in her school work. We cannot understand it all now—some day we may, if we trust our Lord. He knows best.

She is survived by her parents; one sister, Miss Mildred Sims, of Jasper; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Mims of Clanton and Mr. and Mrs. Sims of Birmingham; and a great-grandfather, E. H. Parrish, of Clanton, as well as a host of other relatives and friends.

Funeral services were held at Concord church, two miles east of Clanton, at 11 o'clock on Wednesday, with Rev. W. H. Short, of Jasper, officiating, assisted by Rev. G. G. Williams and Rev. J. W. Enfinger, of Clanton. Burial was in the cemetery at Concord with Short, of Jasper, in charge. Pallbearers were Messrs. G. C. Armstrong, Mack Wyatt, Mack Bates of Montgomery, and Ervin Rider of Jasper. Prof. W. M. Devaughn and sons, Archie and Floy, and Prof. Eugene H. Whitt obliged with special music.

Dear Willodean, how me miss you,
No human tongue can tell;
We hope to meet you some day,
On that bright and happy shore.
—Mrs. T. G. Taylor.

LIKES ARTICLES IN BANNER

Pantersville, Ala., Feb 13.

Editor Union-Banner:

I am writing to let you know that it was a surprise to me to see my letter in the paper last week, but I am really glad you printed it, because some of my friends here enjoyed it very much, and we got some fun and some strong and firm expressions from those who favored it.

You see, I taught school for at last 30 years in various sections of the state, and I know many people.

I sent the piece that Mr. Scott wrote about his marriage 51 years ago, and his wonderful honeymoon, to a friend of mine to read. I thought it was such a good piece. If any couple had such a time as they had getting married to-day, there would be a stop to marrying, for today people have to fly in airplanes or automobiles. They can't walk.

I must close now. We expect the Banner today, and always enjoy it. —With best wishes, most sincerely, Mrs. Annie L. Pierson.

FLIERS ANNEX CAGE TOURNEY AT SELMA

Selma, Ala., Feb. 15.—Maxwell Field Fliers staged a whirlwind finish to defeat the Mitchell Dam quintet here tonight 42 to 25 to capture the fourth annual Selma "Y" gold medal tourney. The Fliers played a smooth brand of basketball to trim the Cardinals. Both teams were from Montgomery.

Two other Montgomery teams, the Montgomery Greys and the Men's Clothes Shop took part in the tourney. Men's Clothes Shop capturing fourth place, having lost to Calera in the play-off for third place, while the Greys won over the Selma CCC camp on a forfeit in their initial contest and dropped a hard-fought tilt to the Mitchell Dam team in the second game.

Men's Clothes Shop defeated the Tepper quintet, Selma favored entry in the first game in an upset affair. The game required an extra time limit. The Montgomery entry then defeated Magnolia in the second round but fell before the high-powered guns of Maxwell Field.

Thorsby Institute News

Last Friday night from seven to nine-thirty the Helen Keller Literary Society of Thorsby Institute had a very pleasant Valentine party at the dining hall. The dining room was appropriately decorated. The games and program were very well planned. The refreshments carried out the Valentine idea of the party.

Sunday night the Girl's Glee Club, under the direction of Miss Foss, gave a varied program at the Presbyterian church, Prattville. Rev. J. M. Graham, D. D., the pastor, used to live at Thorsby. The audience was very appreciative of the program. A good sized collection was taken for the school.

There will be no Lutheran Ladies Aid Social this week.

Mrs. Stanley Ellison, who has been visiting with Mrs. J. O Johnson and Mrs. Ernie Hanson left Thursday to spend a few days in Birmingham before leaving for her home in Kewanee, Illinois.

Mr. John N. Nelson left Saturday morning for his home in Kewanee, Illinois, after spending a few weeks with the J. O. Johnsons.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Ahlstrand are spending a few days with J. O. Johnson. Mrs. Ahlstrand will be remembered as Pearl Carlson, who lived in Thorsby for a number of years and attended Thorsby Institute. Pearl has very much enjoyed meeting her old friends in Thorsby. Her father, Mr. John Carlson, who was quite sick for a while, is now much improved in health.

Next Sunday at five o'clock vespers the glee club is to sing at the Congregational church in Birmingham. Rev. A. T. Dycer, D. D., is pastor. This church helps Thorsby Institute with gifts from time to time.

Next Saturday night the annual Declamatory Contest will take place at seven-thirty. Everyone invited. Admission wil be ten cents. The participants are Dora Holt, Bernie Robinson, Lessie Rasco, Mary Nell Pate, Bernard Adams, J. R. Lowery, Robert Weems, Lewis Wilson.

A week from Saturday, on the 29th, there will be school.

FIRST BALE OF COTTON IN 1936

The first bale of cotton for 1936 was brought to Clanton Wednesday by Mr. Jim Baker, of Baker school community. The sight looked familiar as Mr. Baker drove his mules and wagon down the street toward the gin; but it was rather unseasonable. We presume that this was some AAA cotton which Mr. Baker has been holding on to. There were three or four other bales too.

MORE NEWS FROM WEST PLAM BEACH, FLORIDA

Well, boys, here we come again. I hear so many of you grumbling about hard times; but so far as hard times are concerned you haven't got to "comprehensibility" in the old blue back speller yet.

My father died when I was two years old, leaving a poor widow; we were living in Selma, but mother had to move out in the country to a log house one mile west of Maplesville. The house was so cold that we all had to sleep together and lie close to keep warm.

My brother was 16 years old and worked at a saw mill for $3 a month. With the help of a muly cow that $3 fed mother, brother, sister and myself. Sometimes we had flour bread on Sunday morning; we had no matches but had to cover up a chunk of coals until next morning. Sometimes the coals would go out, and a little tot would have to walk a mile in the cold to borrow some fire. When it was my lot to go for some fire, I would look on both sides of the road for "boogers". Boys don't do that wey now; they carry a gun.

Well, will probably have some more next week.—C. T. Walker.

CHESTNUT GROVE

We are glad to say that health is very good here at present. We should all be thankful for good health.

Mr. Fair Rottenberry and family of Montevallo, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. T. H. Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Anderson were Sunday evening guests of his brother, Mr. Tolly Anderson.

Miss Margaret Nabors spent Sunday night with Mrs. Grace Lucas.

Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Hall were the guests of Mr. G. G. Nabors Sunday p.m.

We are glad to announce that Rev. Horace Nabors, of Bessemer, will preach here for us on the fourth Sunday at 11:00 o.clock. Let's not forget the date, February 24th, at 11:00 o'clock., Everyone is invited to come and hear a good sermon. Let us all come and do good and we are sure to get good.

Mrs. Marie Peterson spent Saturday in Birmingham visiting her son, Mr. Nels Peterson and seeing her new little granddaughter, Shirley Ruth.

Miss Ruth Maddox of Montevallo College spent Friday night with Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Smith.

We are glad to know that Mr. Clyde Meade is able to be up again.

See Oh, Jrofessor. It looks different. It sounds different. It is different. Sponsored by Verbena P.-T. A., Thursday evening, February 20, at 8:00 o'clock.

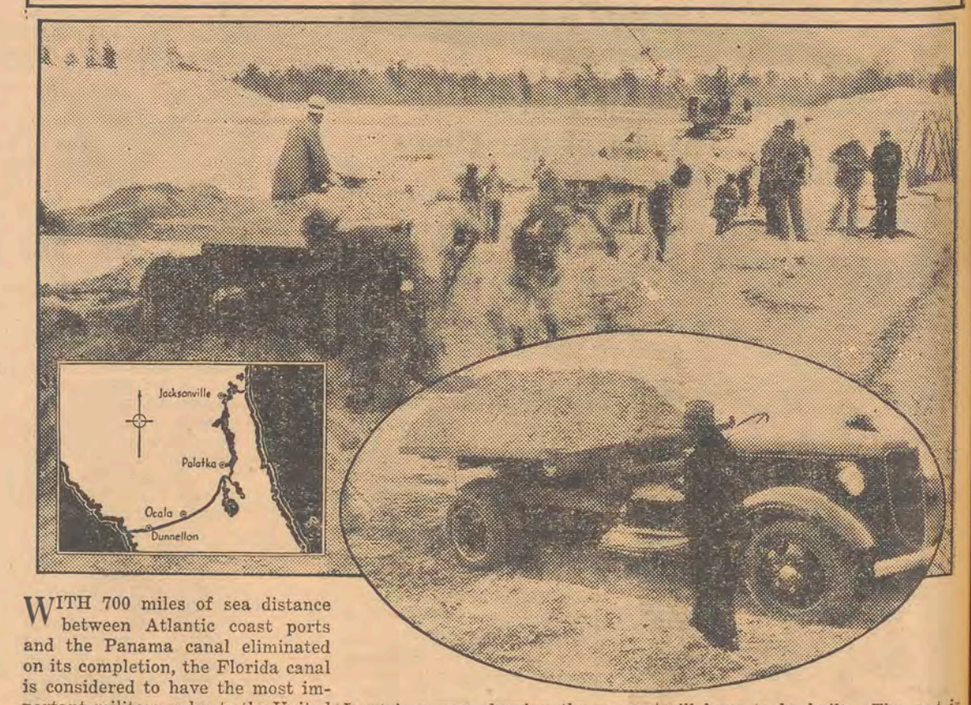
U. S. Builds Strategic Link With Panama Canal



WITH 700 miles of sea distance between Atlantic coast ports and the Panama canal eliminated on its completion, the Florida canal is considered to have the most important military value to the United States of any project that has been launched in recent years. Plans for the canal were worked out by army engineers.

The photograph at top shows a fleet of Ford V-8 trucks engaged in hauling dirt out of the excavation. The view at right shows the type of truck being used in this work. Inset is a map showing the course of the Florida canal.

This new waterway will be 195 miles long in its entirety. From Jacksonville on the Atlantic side it will follow the St. John's river inland, pass through a series of lakes and then follow the Withlacoochee river to the Gulf of Mexico. Only about 40 to 50 miles of actual canal will have to be built. The cost is estimated at $146,000,000. Surface width will be 600 feet, tapering to 300 at the bottom with a water depth of 35 feet.

The importance of this waterway to shipping is indicated by estimates that it will carry, when completed, one-third more tonnage than the Panama canal.

REFUGE NEWS

There was not any preaching here Saturday on account of the funeral. God, in His goodness and mercy, saw fit to call from our midst little Clayton Connell.

We had services Sunday. Brother Robinson delivered a fine message. We also had some fine discussions on the Sunday school lesson. We were glad to have Mr. J. Dudley Collins with us Sunday. He seems to be very interested in Sunday school work. We had several other visitors, which we were glad to have, and we invite everyone back again. Rev. Lockhart is also with us every third Sunday afternoon.

We were sorry to hear that little William Mims, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Mims, fell and broke his arm.

Our Sunday school will be held at 10:00 o'clock next Sunday. Let's all be on time.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Gillespie spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cobb.

Mr. Ted Cobb and J. W. Collum took dinner Sunday with Mr. James Gentry.

Mr. Lem Sims and family visited his parents, and they returned to Sylacauga with him.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Cobb spent Sunday at the home of Mr. B. L. Cobb.

Miss Rubye Cobb visited Mrs. Miller Sunday night.

Next Sunday afternoon is the regular singing day here. We hope to have some good singing, and we extend to everyone a most cordial invitation.—Reporter.

MIDWAY-MT. CREEK HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUB MET

The Midway-Mt. Creek Home Demonstration club met Wednesday, February 12, at the club house. Miss Pardue gave a very helpful and interesting demonstration on how to make inexpensive floor stain, wax and furniture polish at home and how to use them. The club voted to sell one dollars worth of seals for the cripple childrens clinic.—Reporter.

SINGING AT ROBINSON SPRINGS

We wish to announce that there will be singing at this place on the fourth Sunday afternoon, if the weather will permit. We invite everyone to come and bring your books with you. We have had singers from Pleasant Hill and other places and we give everybody a hearty welcome.

Misses Lola and Roberta Traywick and Messrs. Stewart Armstrong, Justice Culver and Earle Cox motored to Wetumpha last Sunday.

PLEASANT HILL

Health of our community is some better this week. We are glad to report our case of pneumonia rapidly recovering. We are hoping that every one will be able to be out again soon.

Last week end was well spent with the people in Pleasant Hill community. We had a large crowd out on both Saturday night and Sunday. We believe it would have been a great help to every one who wants to hear something good, as well as those who just go to church to look on. We feel sure that every one present last Sunday really was helped by being there, as Bro. Robinson really delivered a true and interesting message. And let's not only think to go to church once a month, but lets go to our Sunday school every Sunday and make our church one of the best. Our community had a glad surprise last Friday morning, when Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Twilley and children, of Dallas, Ga. arrived here Friday morning to spend Friday night and Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Martin. It seemed like olden times to see the girls and boys of Mrs. Twilley's Sunday school class that she taught before moving to Ga., running by to see her.

Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cleckler had the pleasure of entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Twilley on Saturday night, and on Sunday Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Cleckler served a most bountiful dinner to the following: Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cleckler and children, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Twilley and children, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Robinson and little son, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Martin and children and Miss Hazel Blow. Each one seemed to enjoy the hospitality of the home-coming extremely well. The afternoon was spent in laughing and talking and singing.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Blow were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Davis.

Misses Alta Mae Blow, Wina Kate Robinson and Odell Ellison had dinner Sunday with Miss Central Cost.

Don't forget our Sunday School every Sunday morning. Visitors are always welcome.—Reporter.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank everyone for their kindness during the illness and death of our baby son. Especially do we wish to thank the ones who were so helpful in carrying him to the doctor, and the doctors and nurses at St. Margaret's Hospital in Montgomery for their splendid care of the baby while he was there.

May God bless each and everyone of you is our prayer.—Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Connell.

Dad: "I don't like to see our daughter lighting cigarettes."

Mother (modern): "Oh, don't be so old-fashioned."

Dad: "It isn't that. She's just too young to be playing with matches."

First Mother: "What did your little Junior say when you informed him that there was no Santa Claus?"

Second Mother: "He said: 'Mother, I'm ashamed to learn that you have been so long in finding this out.'"

Mr. G. C. Armstrong spent a few days with his daughter, Mrs. Tom Ellis, in Mobile. He returned Monday and reported everything in the gulf city okydoky.

GEOFFREY CLAYTON CONNELL

Another silver cord is loosed, another gentle spirit has winged its flight to the Eternal Home, and "Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of His saints."

On February 14th, 1936, God called home the little son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Connell.

Geoffrey Clayton, only 8 months old, underwent a major operation at St. Margaret's Hospital, Montgomery. After attendants pronounced a serious case of locked bowels, he lived only four hours after the operation. The doctors said that this was his only chance to live, and only one chance in ten thousand with the operation.

Funeral services were held at Refuge Baptist Church last Saturday, with the writer officiating.

DID "WE" PLAN ALL THIS?

World industrial production increased during November for the fourth consecutive month, reports the National Industrial Conference Board. Substantial improvement was reported in the United States, Canada, Great Britain, Belgium, Denmark, and Australia.

The gold value of world trade rose during October to the highest point since December, 1932.

Now, did this general improvement in world trade, this advance in industrial production in Canada, Great Britain, Belgium, Denmark and Australia come about also because "we planned it that way, and don't let anybody tell you different"?

Or, is the United States merely sharing in the general world improvement, in spite of the way "we planned it," and lagging a little behind other parts of the globe?—San Francisco Chronicle.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

The adoption of the bonus legislation and the desire for financing the government's farm program without the adoption at this time of high taxes, has led to a demand in Congress for the printing of paper money to take care of what might be called "unanticipated expense." The specter of inflation has, of course, caused a great deal of worry and doubt in the minds of many statesmen, and it is of interest to note that a resolution has been introduced in Congress to the effect "We favor a sound but adequate currency to be preserved at all hazards. We desire controlled expansion of the currency, sufficient to meet the needs of the people and the country, and are unalterably opposed to uncontrolled expansion."

One thing to be remembered is that everyone, even the paper money advocates, are opposed to uncontrolled expansion, when a nation sets out on the hazardous experiment of printing paper currency to pay debts. The usual state of mind of those advocating such a policy is "we will do it just this once, but never again." The trouble is, that when a nation once sets out on the inflationary course, one "shot" never proves to be enough. The first calls for the second, and so on into the night of financial despair.

To pass by the example of modern Germany with which most people are acquainted, it is interesting to note what happened in France when the people of that usually hard-headed nation set out on a career of paper currency inflation. Back in 1789 the country was badly in debt and the shortest way out seemed to be in the issuance of paper currency to pay the debts. The French Minister of Finance Necker opposed the plan and he was supported by many celebrated French statesmen of the day. But those who favored printing paper money assured the people there was no danger. They even sought to make the money good by pledging as security the rich real properties of the French church which were taken over by the government. So an issue of "assignats" in the sum of about $380,000,000 of modern money was issued.

For a time everything seemed fine. Business was good and things looked cheerful. Then came the slump and it was necessary to "prime the pump" again. A second issue of paper money was advocated. Necker opposed it and when unable to stop, left the country. The first issue had depreciated in value but was even argued that the assignats had decreased in price "because there was not enough of them." After the second issue was printed, Dr. Andrew D. White, in his little book "Fiat Money Circulation in France," says: "France was now fully committed to a policy of inflation; and if there had been any question of this before, all doubts were removed now by various acts very significant, as showing the exceeding difficulty of stopping a nation once in a full tide of a depreciated currency. The national assembly had from the first shown an amazing liberality in all sorts of enterprises, wise or foolish which were urged 'for the good of the people.' As a result of these and other largesses the old cry of 'the lack of circulating medium' broke forth again and especially loud were the clamors for more small bills."

After the second issue false prosperity and higher prices were in evidence again. This was followed by collapse and stagnation. Then more money was necessary. By July, 1995, the 100-franc note was worth only 2½ francs in gold. The decline continued. Prices mounted rapidly. Sugar was 200 francs a pound and other things in proportion. The big disadvantage fell on the working people, whose wages did not rise rapidly enough and there was terrible suffering.

The orgy of inflation upset the country politically as well as economically. The natural climax came. Napoleon, the autocrat and dictator, arrived. When asked what he would do about the money situation, Napoleon said: "I will pay cash or I will pay nothing." The answer was typical and obvious and France was completely prostrated and at the mercy of a dictator.

Let us remember, therefore that in inflation "one drink calls for another," especially after the effect of the first has worn off. There is a lesson in this somewhere for Uncle Sam. Can we find it?

THE NEW DEAL CHANGETH

That the first act of the experiment of the New Deal in the regimentation of the farmer and the production of the abundant life through planned scarcity is now over, is indicated not only by the decision of the Supreme Court in holding the activities of the AAA unconstitutional, but in subsequent moves of the administration.

Upon recommendation of the President, three more New Deal activities are being liquidated by the repeal in Congress of the Bankhead Cotton Control Act, the Kerr-Smith Tobacco Act and the noted, if not notorious, Potato Control Act. Bills for the repeal of these three laws went through the Congress without causing a ripple of excitment. The passing out of the Bankhead bill marks the termination of the first effort on the part of the Brain Trusters to regiment the farmers by compulsion; in other words, to require them to reduce their cotton crops whether they desired to do so or not. The potato control law will be missed by the cartoonists and newspaper paragraphers, who have been having a lot of fun caricaturing and lampooning the humble tuber and the effort made to give it the cellophane-wrapped status.

At this time all of this is being done, a bill is under consideration in Congress which would authorize the government to sell the cotton it holds at the rate of 25,000 bales a week. The supporters of this bill, introduced by Senator Smith of South Carolina, believe that in this way the govrenment could get out of its cotton holdings with less disturbance to the market and less depression of prices than if it followed the plan of prices of Secretary Wallace to hold this federal supply of cotton for higher prices. They think that the mere knowledge that the government has this vast supply of cotton is a price depressant and prevents the return of higher prices. Those who remember Uncle Sam's experience in the wheat business will be inclined to believe there is some weight to this latter contention.

At any rate, things are being done to the New Deal's first plan for the resuscitation of agriculture. What the second act will bring forth remains to be seen.

BOONDOGGLING THROUGH

The President admittedly has his moments of reckless courage—rather too many of them for comfort—but when, seeking to make virtue of necessity, he took the boondoggle by the horns at Newark it was an act of sheer bravado. That word is enshrined in the hearts of the American people all right, but if even the charm of the Presidential radio can give it a vote-getting connotation now, then we'll eat a dozen boondoggles every morning before breakfast. But, anyway, the President has said it. "It is a pretty good word. If we can boondoggle ourselves out of this depression"—. The head man has summarized the whole policy himself, and now we know what has been happening since March, 1933. We have been boondoggling ourselves out of the depression.

What more can opposition ask? We have not been planning a way out; we have not even been just spending a way out—both words suggestive of at least some purpose and effectiveness. We've been boondoggling. It is a pretty good word; it is certainly an appallingly descriptive one, and as the President, accepting a banner with that strange device, leads the boondoggling (late Democratic) party into action, all should be plain. One can almost hear its campaign song:

Jingle Bells, jingle bells,
Boondoggling all the way—
Oh what fun it is to ride
A thirty-billion sleigh!

"If we can boondoggle ourselves out of the depression"—was the way the President put it. The only trouble is that the accent is still heavily on the "if".—New York Herald-Tribune.

GOVERNMENT FINANCING

With the government debt in the United States over the thirty-billion mark and rapidly mounting, and with Uncle Sam spending a dollar for every 49 cents of income, a great many people are naturally beginning to wonder just what the end of all this is going to be. Certainly it is true that with the government raising money by the billion it is somewhat difficult for private industry to finance itself. For if the government employs the private capital of the country, where is business to get the funds that it needs to expand and to do its share toward restoring normalcy in America?

If all the loose funds in the country are to be invested in the government and the government is to increase its activities, it becomes apparent sooner or later private business is going to wither and the government will have to go further and further into the field of individual enterprise. It will be difficult for any organization outside the government itself to carry on, if the federal system is absorbing the money.

This is not the American idea. Our country has been builded on individual initiative and private enterprise. If all this is to be absorbed by the government, then we may get a more abundant life in America, but it will not be the kind of abundance we are used to. It will be an abundance of trouble rather than of prosperity.

MAN IN THE MOON

PITY THE NEXT PRESIDENT

Even considering the honor and money connected with the high position of President of the United States, still I pity the next president, no matter who he may be. That gentleman is certainly going to have a mess on his hands, and unless our economic affairs make an abrupt about-face during his term, he will do down in history as one of the most despised and disappointed presidents of all time.

Let us consider why this is true. Let us assume that President Roosevelt is re-elected. It has been known for some time that many of the Democratic congressmen have hung onto the Rooseveltian skirts for political reasons. At heart, they have not agreed with the president in the major portion of the policies he has carried out or attempted to carry out. But they have hung on, believing that he is still very popular with the masses, and hoping to profit politically by basking in the light of his reflected popularity as an ardent supporter. After he is re-elected, however, and they along with him, there would be nothing for them to gain by hanging on. They will surely desert him then, and advance their own ideas, taking back to themselves the congressional rights and privileges allowed them under the Constitution of the United States, and which they have momentarily abdicated in order to stay "in" with the Rooseveltian regime.

Again, they might decide that the president's popularity is waning, and might decide to allow their affections to cool accordingly. Either way it goes, President Roosevelt would enter his second term to find that he had an altogether different kind of congress to that with which he was blessed (or cursed) when he took his high seat the first time. He would find an adamant congress, the members of whom would be averse to allowing him the huge sums, such as it has allowed in the past, for carrying on his enormous costly experiments, but would trend toward economy, which would be something new under Mr. Roosevelt. The president's own political colleagues know that whatever success has been his in the past three years has been the result of the widespread federal expenditures.

Let these congressmen once believe that the president is not as popular as he once was, and they would desert him in droves. Party loyalty is one thing, but personal political suicide for personal reasons is something quite different. After all, these gentlemen are politicians, and politics is a fickle profession. Without the solid congress which has been his in the past, President Roosevelt would be as helpless as a new-born babe insofar as carrying out his policies. And, once these policies and synthetic structures are without the financial backing which has brought them into being and has nutured them from birth, they will crumble into the most colossal mass of politcal and economic ruin which so far has graced (or disgraced) the pages of American history.

Summarized, we find the following. If re-elected, President Roosevelt will have a hostile congress in part, for several reasons; this congress will not allow him federal money to carry on his program as set out; this program MUST have money to carry on, whether it is helping or not. Hence, failure of his proposals is sure, unless, as said before, there can be some unexpected upheaval of good amid our national economic structure.

Now, suppose a Republican should be elected. Chances are that in such case he would carry in with him a friendly House of Representatives, or, at least, enough members to give him a majority in that branch of congress. Allowing this, however, he would yet have a hostile Senate to contend with, which, no doubt would do all possible to block much of his desired legislation, just as it did Mr. Hoover. This possibility, within itself, is disconcerting, but there are others.

The new president would be faced with the prospect of balancing the budget—literally, not figuratively. This would necessarily bring about the stopping of the costly experiments, PWA, WPA, TVA, and numbers of other government projects. I believe he would not hesitate to ask that these be stopped, but nevertheless, there would be much censure for this move.

The next step would be to reconstruct our tariff walls, which have become so riddled under the Roosevelt policies that they are only mere shadows of their former selves. This would naturally bring about some show of hostility from Canada and other countries who have made pacts and agreements with the Roosevelt government. New agreements would have to be made and new reciprocal rates set up.

Next in order would be the enlargement of our foreign market, which has shrunk to less than 40 per cent of its former size. This, in itself would be a situation ticklish enough to tax the ingenuity of King Solomon, himself. At best, these foreign markets would be slow in returning, and they might come back slower than the rank and file of our people would expect. That would bring about still greater displeasure.

The stoppage of the steady flow of relief and Federal checks would certainly bring out some censure, unless someone in the new cabinet could think fast and come forth with some plan to replace it.

Last, but far from least, would come the subject of taxes. Allowing that all these economic practices would put the nation back on a pay-as-we-go basis, still there remains the reality of the giant national debt, which, no doubt, the new president would go about with some kind of preparation to pay. It is not certain that new taxes would be imposed for this purpase, and there is no way of knowing until a year has passed and the new set-up has been able to see just what the actual cost of government is under economic management. If it should be found that the government could be run on current yearly taxes, with possibly some left over, then there would be no new taxes, as this surplus could go toward paying this debt. On the other hand, if it should be found that current taxes would leave no surplus after all governmental bills were paid, there would necessarily be new taxes. In that case, the new president would be blamed for a condition resulting from the high expenditures of the Roosevelt administration, during the time of which there has been no attempt to lower this national debt, but during which it has increased materially.

Summarizing again, we have the following. A possible and very probable stalling of the legislative cogs necessary to carry out the policies of the new president. The budget balancing act would bring about much censure. New tariff measures would be met with a stiff fight, from without and within the country. Foreign markets might not come back as fast as they left. The farm belts might find a good chance to kick about new farm measures, and very likely would, especially in the south. And the possibility of new taxes would create a deluge of criticism.

Thinking along the lines set out above, we see a hard scrub of it for the next president, if economic conditions continue anywhere near like they are at present. If he continues the present spending spree, he will be censured by the thrifty element of people who like to see the country thrive, but like to see it come along naturally, without artificial methods. If he sets out to balance the budget and look toward a solid financial basis for the government, then a great howl will go up from those thousands who have come to rely upon the government to feed them.

So, the way things stack up now, it looks like the next president must surely be a magician to get along with his job smoothly. He must be able to pay out with one hand and collect with another to keep all satisfied. He must be able to talk foreign nations into paying higher tariffs to sell their goods here, and at the same time arrange to sell them more of our own goods. He must be able to lop millions off the cost of government or raise taxes. Any way he turns, his job is a tight one. Personally, we don't envy him the position, even if we should be of the caliber. However, there are quite a few of the big fellows who have signified their intention of taking a crack at it, and have already tipped their hats over in that direction. Nevertheless, we still believe the man who loses the next presidential race will be the luckiest, even though we would like to see a Republican elected.—Man in the Moon.

GOVERNMENT COMPETITION

There are still millions of Americans old-fashioned enough to believe with Lincoln that the government out not to do these things for the people which they can do better for themselves. There has been a great deal of discussion recently about the engaging of the government in competition with private business. It has been pointed out that where this is done, the government maintains uniform advantage in that it does not have to pay the taxes which private business is called on to produce.

Government in competition with private business means, therefore, that private business must not only compete with publicly-owned industry but must contribute the money, through taxation, to finance its giant bureaucratic competitor. This is not only unfair but will soon become disastrous, because the more the government takes over as its own, the less property is left on which taxes can be collected to keep the government going. If this sort of a strange bureaucratic animal does not feed on itself, then it is difficult to see where it gets its sustenance, because after all the government and the people are one and the same, and the taxpayers must furnish the wherewithal to run the government. And the farther it goes, the worse it gets. Soviet Russia seems to have gone all the way.

In view of all this, it is interesting to note in an Associated Press dispatch from Russia that "39 former nobles, merchants and kulaks have been arrested, accused of operating a chain of clandestine manufacutring plants operating in competition with Soviet-owned enterprises. Their public trial was set for the middle of February."

Here we have federal autocracy developed to the nth degree. In the United States, where the drive for government in business has made comparatively little headway, the bureaucrats pitch their case on the plea that they are "doing something for the people." But when the camel gets his entire body under the tent, things are different. For we note that in Russia, where the government has absorbed everything, it is a criminal offense for private individuals to attempt to compete with the government.

All of this leads to interesting speculation. The Socialists and parlor pinks in America like to tell us how much better it would be if the government ran everything, and to what degree the people would benefit from public operation. If this is true, one may be pardoned for wondering why, then, it is necessary in a Communistic society to make it a crime for individual enterprise to compete with the government? For certainly, if complete government ownership is so desirable the rugged individualist couldn't get anywhere, even if he tried, and it would not be necessary for the government to protect itself by criminal statutes against private competition.

It is said that seven out of every ten pounds of butter substitutes produced are eaten by the farmers of the country. This reminds us of the restaurant keeper who always went to lunch across the street to get his own meals.

A young boy up in Canada consumed eight razor blades and so far has shown no ill effects. Must have been the kind of blades we have been using.

Trouble never seems to have any difficulty in finding plenty of parking space.

It used to be said that one-half of the world didn't know how the other half lived, but no doubt this isn't true in the day of so many thousands of New Deal investigators.

The old fashioned wheeze about "why does a chicken cross the road" is now entirely out of date. The chicken nowadays doesn't get more than half way across.

In our humble opinion if Al Smith ever turns over the Sidewalks of New York to the national administration it will be one brick at a time.

The government has reduced the tarrif on cheese from Switzerland and American makers of the Swiss style say that this shoots them as full of holes as the product.

Well it may be true that we don't know where we are going but one thing is certain—we are going some place pretty fast.

"During the fiscal year 1935 the investigative field of the Federal Bureau of Investigation was greatly enlarged, due to the approval by the President during May and June, 1934 of a series of Federal statutes affording jurisdiction to the Federal Bureau of Investigation in types of cases which had not prior thereto been covered by federal legislation. The more prominent of these federal laws include those relating to the interstate transportation of stolen property, the robbery of banks organized or operating under the laws of the United States, or holding membership in the Federal Reserve System, interstate flight to avoid prosecution or giving testimony in certain cases, the extension of the federal kidnaping and extortion statutes to include a greater variety of specific offenses and the killing or assaulting of federal officers. The statute placing under investigative jurisdiction of the Federal Bureau of Investigation the robbery of banks operating under the Federal Reserve System has been recently amended to include all banks holding insurance issued by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, which materially extends the scope of the bureau's work.

What has become of the old fashioned New Dealer who used to say "We invite criticism and suggestions"?

The government must be expecting an epidemic of snake bites this year. We see where the tariff on Canadian whiskey was reduced.

It is still true that half a loaf is better than none but a complete loaf is much better if you can get on relief.

Most of the defenders of the New Deal seem to be answering Al Smith like the small boys who always say "You're another."

Why doesn't Congress just vote the President blanket authority to end the depression and go home?

SEVEN CHURCHES NOW IN GOOD SAMARITAN CAMPAIGN

Saturday Is Last Day For Churches To Enter Subscription Plan

There are now seven churches working on The Union-Banner's Good Samaritan Subscription Plan. They are: Mt. Carmel, Maple Springs, Pleasant Valley, Union Grove, Bethsalem, Big Springs (Col.), and the Home Makers class of the Clanton Baptist Sunday school.

Saturday of this week winds up the time in which new churches may enter the plan. Of course, the time for bringing it all to a close has not been set as yet; that date will be announced later.

Some of the churches are turning in subscriptions right along, while others are rather slow in getting into real harness. As we have stated before, it will mean extra money to the churches to hustle up and turn in as early as possible. The first church to finish up a book of receipts will get an extra bonus of five dollars.

When this plan comes to a close, The Union-Banner will go back to the regular price of $1.50 a year. There will be lots of politics in the air this year, and everybody will want to keep up with things. You can't keep up with both sides without reading The Union-Banner. Now is the time to get in on the cheap rate and at the same time help your church. But if you want your subscription to count on some church, give your name and dollar to the treasurer of that church, rather than leave it with The Union-Banner. This will insure that the church will get credit for it.

NATIONAL FOOD CONTEST FOR 4-H GIRLS IS RENEWED WITH INCREASED PRIZES

A national contest in food preparation will be again conducted for the 550,000 girls enrolled in the United States in 4-H club work, announces the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work.

State Club Leader, Miss Elizabeth DeLoney of Auburn has accepted the contest for the Alabama girls enrolled in 4-H clubs in this state who may obtain the rules from the county agent or local leader.

The gratifying results of last year's initial contest have prompted a substantial increase in awards by the sponsor, Servel, Inc., of Evansville, Ind. Besides the $400, $300 and $200 college scholarships offered for national winners, eight kerosene-operated Electrolux refrigerators are provided for sectional winners, and as heretofore a trip to the National Club Congress in Chicago to each state champion, and handsome gold medals of special design for county champions.

As a further aid to 4-H club work the sponsor has authorized its local dealers everywhere to cooperate as last year in loaning Electrolux refrigerators to club leaders for use at fairs, achievement days and summer camps to preserve perishable products.

Miss Mabel Towery of Childersburg was this state's Chicago trip winner last year.

PAUL C. MIMS WRITES TO VOTERS OF COUNTY

To the Voters of Chilton County:

I am this week announcing my candidacy for the office of County Treasurer, subject to the action of the Republican primaries. In this letter, I wish to give you a bit of my life's history, set out my plan of campaign and tell about my candidacy in general.

I was born three miles east of Clanton on August 8, 1903, and will be 33 years of age next August. I received my education in the schools of Chilton County, attending Jackson's Chapel, Baker, Concord, Clanton Grammar, and the Chilton County High School. On September 24, 1920, I married Miss Pearl Ellison, and we now have two children, a son 12 years of age and a daughter almost eight.

My first work for myself was teaching in the schools of Chilton County. In December, 1922, I secured a place in the time office of Avondale Mills at Sylacauga, where I got my first taste of office work. From there I took a better paying position with the Wisconsn-Alabama Lumber Company at Sylacauga. I left this company in 1924 and came back to Clanton. On September 1, 1924, I went to work with The Union-Banner, staying with them at regular work until June, 1927. I was unemployed for some time after this, living at my home on my father's farm east of Clanton.

My health failed in the fall of 1828. I was the victim of an attack of anemia, brought on by goiter, and after the removal of this I have since been slowly regaining my health, until at present I am enjoying the best health I could ask for.

In December, 1933, I was called into the Federal Reemployment office by Mr. Stokes, the manager, and a place as project timekeeper was given me; after one month on this job I was transferred to the main office of the CWA, to assist Mr. L. M. Mathews, the chief timekeeper, where I stayed until the office force was disbanded. Since that time I have been employed at various jobs, among them my work with The Union-Banner.

I am opening my campaign with the intention of keeping it a clean one. I think the majority of our people are as disgusted as I am with political bickerings and quarrels. I am not a mud-slinger, and I shall refuse to be pulled into anything of this kind. If such is started, someone else will do it, and I shall merely remember that "every knock is a boost". What fighting I do will be against our Democratic opponents, and even that shall be clean so far as I am concerned.

Regarding my political record, I made up my mind to be a Republican at the age of 17. I am not a Republican "because pap was" but because I am convinced that these principles are best, after careful searching of the histories of the two main parties. I am not a political fanatic, and I hold no political grudges. I am conscientiously Republican, and I have never scratched with a rooster yet—not once. However, I believe in allowing every voter his or her inalienable right to personal political views. and if I wanted to vote a Democratic ticket, I would do so, believing it to be my own business. I am willing to allow all others the same right that is mine.

I have never asked for office before. However, I have been interested in our political affairs for a number of years, and have striven for our party and its principles at every turn. In my column—"The Man in the Moon"—which I have conducted in The Union-Banner for a number of years. I have religiously refrained from controversies within our party, worked for harmony within it, and saved all my powder for the enemy. I am not the least bit ashamed of my political record, and it is open to everyone.

It is my intention to make a thorough canvass of the county, going into every beat, and trying to see every voter. I know that is a big job, but I shall attempt it, nevertheless. I shall paddle my own canoe, instead of trying to muddy the water for my opponents. I believe that is the best policy, and I know it is the right one. I will appreciate your consideration, and if I fail to see you during the campaign, know that it was not my intention to miss you.

Yours for a clean campaign, and with all working together, for a great Republican victory this fall, no matter who our candidates may be.—Paul C. (Chester) Mims, (Man in the Moon).

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala., Feb.—Closer cooperation between the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries and the State Conservation department in the propagation of fish and the restocking of Alabama streams will be the result of the February visit to this state of Swepson Earle, former Conservation Commissioner of Maryland and now liaison officer of the Fisheries Bureau.

This coordination of Federal and State fishery programs is designed to eliminate duplication of effort and is expected to result in the planting of approximately a million fish a year in the streams of Alabama from the Federal hatchery at Marion. This was the output estimated by Mr. Earle afer a visit to the hatchery.

He found that 1 of the 51 rearing ponds at the hatchery have produced more than 700,000 fish for planting purposes during the current year and he believes the 100 acres of pond space at the hatchery is capable of producing a million to a million and a half fish annually.

Of this year's total output, 81,600 bream and 9,410 bass were distributed through the Conservation Department and Mr. Earle stated an additional 30,000, either are in the process of being planted or will be distributed in the near future.

FARMERS GET $202,548 FROM CO-OP HOG SALES

COTTON RESTRICTIONS ARE LIFTED, AAA CHIEF SAYS

Auburn, Alabama, Feb. 15.—There are now no restrictions on the sale and transportation of cotton either with or without lien tags or bale tags, says a telegram received here by Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the State Extension Service, from C. A. Cobb, director, division of cotton AAA.

This means that cotton which carries lien tags may now move into channels of trade without restrictions. The telegram says:

"Following telegram sent to collectors internal revenue by Bureau Internal Revenue under date Leb. 12. Under section 4- of Bankhead cotton act, no tax is collectable with respect to cotton stored subject to lien unil producer secures bale tags. In absence of application for bale tags there will be no occasion for proceedings to collect tax. This has been interpreted to mean that there are now no restrictions on the sale and transportation of cotton either with or without lien tags or bale tags."

The Man Who Knows

Whether the Remedy You are taking for Headaches, Neuralgia or Rheumatism Pains is SAFE is Your Doctor. Ask Him

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it — in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains . . . and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store — simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

I'M SOLD

It always works

Just do what hospitals do, and the doctors insist on. Use a liquid laxative, and you can bring yourself to clocklike regularity without strain or ill effect.

A liquid can always be taken in gradually reduced doses. Reduced dosage is the secret of any real relief from constipation.

Ask a doctor about this. Ask your druggist how very popular Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has become. It gives the right kind of help, and right amount of help. Taking a little less each time, gives the bowels a chance to act of their own accord, until they are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin contains senna and cascara—both natural laxatives that form no habit. The action is gentle, but sure. It will relieve any sluggishness or bilious condition due to constipation without upset.

TEACHERS ASK "PARITY" IN STATE DEPARTMENTAL SYSTEM

The teachers of Alabama are asking the Governor and the State Legislature to put the school department on a par with all other State Departments. They state that this is the only practical way in which the educational department can ever share equally with the other departments.

Supt. Luther Little held little hope last Tuesday that a stoppage of the schools could be averted on next Friday, but stated that he believed that it would be for only short duration, and that the schools would be allowed to begin again within a few days. He expects that "something will be done" soon, but it could hardly be expected that this will come in time to keep the schools from stopping, at least for a few days.

The Chilton County Parent-Teachers Association, in a recent county-wide meeting, drew up the following resolutions:

"We, the teachers and parents of Chilton County, numbering 250, assembled this date, February 5, 1936, request the Governor and Legislature of the state of Alabama:

"First to offer to the ciizenship of Alabama through a Constitutional Amendment, an opportunity to decide whether public education be placed on a parity with other departments of the state.

"Second—that the minimum school program be retained and continued as a basis for the distribution of State funds.

"Third—that a copy of these resolutions be furnished the Senator and Representative of Chilton County, and to His Excellensy Governor Bibb Graves."

By "parity" is meant that the available funds of the state be apportioned equally to all departments of the State. In that case, the schools would have an even break with all the other departments. The teachers believe that there is ample money to provide for all these departments.

As the situation now stands, the schools get "what is left" after the highway department, the convict department, and all other departments are taken care of. That leaves very little for education of the future citizens of the State.

Last year a special act of the legislature, called the Tucker Bill, provided for such "parity", but the Attorney General of Alabama declared the act unconstitutional, and classed the schools as a "non-essential" department.

Under the Tucker Bill, all department heads, including the educational department, set up their budgets, expecting all to be graded down equally. When the Tucker Bill was declared unconstitutional, educational department heads found themselves in a worse shape than ever before. All other department heads had boosted their budgets, expecting the equal paring, and so by the time these expanded budgets had been taken care of, there was even less left for the schools than had been the case in the past.

Supt. Little asks that the people study the question, that they may recognize the necessity for such "parity", so that if and when a vote is called for a Constitutional Amendment on the question, they will be in position to really understand the important issues at stake. The education of the children of Alabama depends upon this, and every good citizen wants his children to have the benefit of a good education.

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. McKee spent the day last Thursday with Mrs. John R. Jones and mother.

SINGING SCHOOL GOING FINE; CONCERT FRIDAY NIGHT, MAR. 6

Profs. W. M. Devaughn and Eugene H. Whitt report that the singing school at the courthouse, which has been running a week and a half now, is going fine. New life is put on each night, as new pupils are continually added.

The teachers of the school announce that they will close with a real concert Friday night, March 6th. They are arranging for one of the best programs ever presented in this section of Alabama. Watch for further announcements of the concert.

You are invited to attend the afternoon singing class at the Clanton Baptist church, 3:30 to 4:30, beginning Monday, Feb. 24th.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

A service for the dedication of memorial and gift hymn books will be held Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The church has recently been supplied with the new Methodist Hymnal. The members are presenting memorial and gift copies to the church. If you have not purchased your copy or copies get in touch with a member of the committee or the pastor at once in order that your name and the one you honor will be included in the list to be announced Sunday. The price is $1.00 per copy. You may give the book as a memorial to a loved one or friend or simply make the church a gift of one or more copies. An appropriate plate will be placed in each book with the name of the donor and the person honored. Members of the Hymnal Committee are: Dr. and Mrs. C. O. Lawrence, Mr. Evan Parrish, Mrs. Barney Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Pitts, Prof. and Mrs. Ed Glasscock, Mrs. John O. Newell, Mrs. John Armstrong, Mrs. Reid Mullins. The pastor will speak briefly at the dedication service on the theme, "The Place and Power of Music in Life." Don't miss this service.

Sunday at 7:00 the large choir of young people will sing. Those who have heard them sing have praised them most highly. It will be a treat to hear them. The theme to be discussed by the pastor is "Young People and Their Pleasures."

Let all church school officers and teachers be present for the staff meeting Sunday at 9:30. The church school session begins at 9:45. Young People's Epworth League service is 6:15. p.m.

SPECIAL FIRE CONTROL MEETING AT SPOKANE

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 14.—Joseph C. Kircher, Southern Regional Forester for the United States Forest Service left Atlanta last night to attend a special fire control meeting in Spokane, Washington. J. F. Brooks, Assistant Regional Forester in charge of the Division of Operation, is also attending the conference.

This meeting, called by Forest Service officials to consider improved methods of preventing and suppressing fire in the Nation's forests, is of special interest to the south, Mr. Kircher said before leaving Atlanta, because it has the worst record for woods burning of any section of the country.

THE DRUNKEN SOT

'Tis sad to see the drinking boy,
Who wastes his life and saps his joy;
Who ruins his health and hurts his name,
And fails to reach the goal of fame.

He never can ascend the height
And stand with men of strength and might;
For liquor takes him down life's grade
Where dissipated wrecks are made.

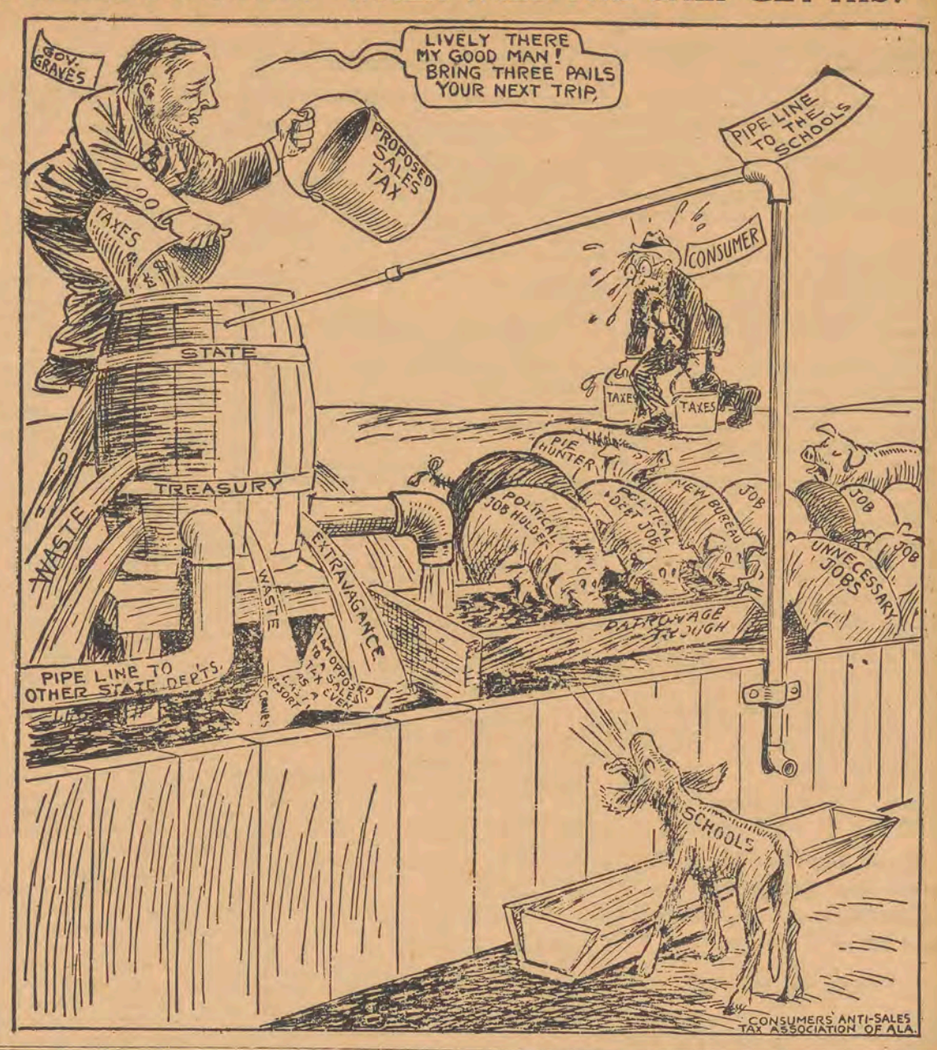
The boy who drinks is on his way,
To crime and prison some sad day;
Where he perhaps may sigh and weep,
And for his sins and evils reap.

The drinking boy defeats his life,
And brings confusion, trouble, strife;
To home and loved ones, neighbors, friends,
Till in the grave and hell he ends.

The drunkard leads his fellows wrong,
And may defeat a mighty throng;
Then, dear young man, O, stop and think,
And do not curse your life with drink.

—ELIJAH THOMAS.

PUZZLE PICTURE: "WHEN WILL THE CALF GET HIS?"



IMPORTANCE OF U. S. A. AIR PLANE FORCE IS STRESSED

We are indebted to Dr. V. J. Gragg for articles and clippings which go to prove just how weak is our national defense, especially insofar as the air service is concerned.

Heretofore, great stress has been laid on great battleships, but it has been pointed out that a few air bombers could, today, wipe out the finest navy in the world within an hour. That should bring home to us the real fact of the weakness of our national defense without a good air force.

Following are a few clippings from "Air Defense News":

"Pacificists say a great ocean is on either side of the United States and only frendly neighbors north and south. They would like to do away with all of our military establishments, but how about those airplanes that are tody flying thousands of miles before they have to come down for more fuel.

"This country is vulnerable to air attack. There is a possibility of aggressive air action being taken and all major nations today have modern air forces superior in number to ours. Let no pacificist or any other influence deceive you into believing we are immune to war or that there are no nations in the world today who are developing their air forces for aggressive action outside of their own country. We may be the target while we sit complacently by with a false sense of security.

"A Congressional Act approved July 2nd, 1926, authorized 1,800 serviceable airplanes for the Army Air Corps. Nearly ten years later, there is actually a smaller number of airplanes in the Army Air Corps than at the time of the passage of this Act.

"The United States has taken one great step in advance by formation of the GHQ Air Force, placing our Army air forces under a central command and enabling this air force to strike a formidable blow in the early stages of any action which may be brought against us. The next step is to train and equip that force so that it can carry out the Air Force mission, find its targets regardless of weather conditions, and destroy them.

"The Wilcox bill, passed in the last session of Congress, authorizes the War Department to conduct a survey to determine the strategic areas and the peacetime training requirements of the Air Force, and the facilities needed to meet requirements in time of war. This survey has gone forward rapidly and it may be hoped that means will be provided by the Congress to place into effect the recommendations of this board, whereupon this most important requirement of our GHQ Air Force will be filled."

Following is a clipping from the February issue of "Aero Digest":

"The era of the sea is passed; the era of the air is here . . . . If this is not true, then why have sanctions against Italy not been enforced to the last drop of oil? England has long been said to have the greatest naval fleet in the world—that England was "mistress of the seas"—and that claim is still held. Yet England has only a few planes. Against all this Italy has more than 4,000 modern fighting planes and bombers. English statesmen know that those airplanes could send that proud fleet of English battleships to the bottom of the sea within an hour, and on any day they might decide. Other nations know this, too. And so there is a feverish plane building race in Europe at present, and it will continue. It behooves Americans to awake from their false security of two oceans, and arm themselves accordingly—in a modern way—in the air."

These articles will be brought to you each week by The Union-Banner, and again we wish to allow credit to Dr. Gragg, Clanton's "Air Pioneer", for his efforts in providing these articles for The Union-Banner and its readers. Look for this each week.

MRS. OLA SMITH

Mrs. Ola Smith, 43, wife of J. Oliver Smith of Clanton Route 1, died Friday night at the Highland Avenue Hospital, Birmingham. Mrs. Smith died from pneumonia, following an operation. The body was brought to Clanton by Martin & Sons and prepared for burial.

Funeral services were held at New Salem church at 11:00 o'clock Sunday, with Rev. G. Homer Carroll officiating, assisted by Rev. W. S. Cox. Burial was in the New Salem cemetery, Martin in charge.

Mrs. Smith is survived by: her husband; two daughters—Mary Nell and Helen, Clanton Route 1; parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Bean of Birmingham; two brothers—Leonard Bean and Isaiac Bean, both of Sylacauga; two sisters—Mrs. Maudie McGraw of Sylacauga, and Mrs. Geneva Hall of Birmingham.

Pallbearers were Messrs. Clinton Smith, Herschel Smith, Gilbert Littleton, Hubert Aycock, Amos Bean, and Carl Mahan.

MRS. D. I. DERAMUS DIES AT VERBENA RECENTLY

Funeral services for Mrs. D. I. Deramus, who died last Thursday afternoon, following an illness of several weeks, at her home in Verbena, were held Friday afternoon from the Verbena Methodist Church with the Rev. Cecil Ellisor officiating. Burial was in the Verbena cemetery with Martin & Sons in charge of the services.

Mrs. Deramus was one of the oldest citizens of Verbena. She had lived there for 43 years and was known and loved by almost everyone in that section of the county. She was the widow of the late D. I. Deramus, who operated a mercantile establishment in Verbena for more than a quarter of a century.

Surviving are five sons—D. I. Deramus, Jr., of Verbena, John B. of Clanton, T. B., Verbena, Harvey, of Birmingham and Dr. William Deramus of Selma; and one daughter, Mrs. W. D. Barton, of Montgomery.

The following friends served as pallbears: P. F. Mitchell, J. H. Gulledge, W. A. Gulledge, S. L. Gibson, H. T. Williams, W. B. Strock, John Lett and Dr. J. D. Eiland.

Friends of Miss Louise Martin, daughter of Tax-Assessor, A. D. Martin, will be glad to learn that she is doing nicely in a Birmingham hospital where she was taken a few days ago.

UNION GROVE

Health of this place is good with the exception of Bro. Marlar. He is on the sick list, but we hope he will soon be up and going again.

I want to let the people know that next Sunday and Sunday night are our regular preaching days at Union Grove. We can't get the people out to Sunday school to tell them about preaching so I will ask them through the paper to come. If you can't come to Sunday school please come to preaching.

Well boys, get right and think before you make any of those candidates a promise for you, see what the people got into last election. I think that well all can get together this time and get things right once more. Yours respectfully.—P. M. Martin.

A SIX-POINT PULLET PRODUCTION PROGRAM

Auburn, Ala.—A six-point profitable pullet production program for Alabama is described by John E. Ivey, extension poultryman, as follows:

Clean Chicks—Secure chicks from flocks and hatcheries having a known, definite breeding and disease-control program.

Clean Ground—move brooder house to new location, or use rotation with double or triple yards, or use wire or slatted sun porches.

Clean Brooder House—Several days before the chicks arrive thoroughly clean brooder house; wash with hot lye water (1 lb lye to 15 gal. water), or spray with a good, strong disinfectant.

Clean Litter—Use a reasonable amount of good absorbant litter; keep dry; clean house and change litter every 3 to 5 days.

Clean Feed and Water—Use approved hoppers for all feed. Prevent the chicks from getting in hoppers. Feed a balanced ration at all times. Scrub water fountain daily.

Clean Care and Management—(1). Sanitation is the best-known prevention. It is always cheaper, more effective, and more satisfactory than using commercial remedies. (2). Amount of heat required depends upon kind of house, kind of brooder, and age of chicks. Keep chicks comfortable; avoid overheating. (3). Allow 1 square foot floor space for every two chicks. (4). Start chicks early. (5). Never place over 250 to 350 chicks around one brooder. (6). One 4-ft. hopper for each 100 chicks. (7). Two half-gallon jars of water per 100 chicks. (8). Provide plenty of green feed. (9). Teach chicks to roost early. (10). Get chicks outside early. Allow plenty of sunshine. (11). Place pullets on clean range at an early age. (12). Vaccinate pullets against fowl pox.

GROWERS REPAY PRODUCTION LOANS

Wedowee, Ala.—Randolph county farmers have repaid all of the $36,000 they borrowed from the Anniston Production Credit Association last year.

Lesson for February 23

PEOPLE BEFORE PROPERTY

LESSON TEXT—Luke 8:26-37.

GOLDEN TEXT — No servant can serve two masters; for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon.—Luke 16:13.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus With His Friends in a Storm.

JUNIOR TOPIC — Jesus With His Friends in a Storm.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Sympathy or Selfishness?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Human Welfare Before Financial Profit.

After his teaching by the parable of the soil and the lighted candle, Jesus exhibited his credentials, enforcing his teaching by demonstrations of his mighty power.

I. Jesus Calming the Storm (vv. 22-25).

In this miracle he demonstrated his power over nature.

1. Jesus asleep (v. 23). While the disciples were sailing the ship the Master fell asleep.

2. The frightened disciples (vv. 23, 24). The storm seems to have been an unusual one. These sturdy men were used to storms, but as their ship was being filled with water they awoke Jesus with their cry of fear.

3. Jesus rebuked the wind and water (v. 24). At his word there was a great calm. We can with confidence put our trust in Jesus Christ.

4. Jesus rebuked the disciples (v. 25). After rebuking the raging elements, he turned to the disciples. He did not rebuke them for waking him, but for their lack of faith.

II. Jesus Casting Out Demons (vv. 26-39).

In this mighty act Jesus' power over demons was demonstrated. Demon possession was in that day, and it is today, an awful reality. The characteristics are often similar to cases of insanity, and many are called insane, who are really demon-possessed.

1. Jesus met by the demoniac (vv. 26-29). This poor man's suffering was dreadful. He abode in the tombs without clothing. At the sight of Jesus he made an outcry and fell down before him and besought him not to torment him. There is no doubt in the mind of demons as to the reality of a place of torment.

2. Jesus' question (v. 30). He asked him, "What is thy name?" His purpose was to bring the real man to consciousness, to enable him to distinguish between himself and the demon who held him. The answer shows that the man thought his case was hopeless. He said, "Legion," which meant that many demons had entered into him.

3. The demons' request (vv. 31, 32). They asked permission to enter into a herd of swine.

4. Their request granted (vv. 32, 33). Just why this was done we do not know. Since Jesus did it, we must believe that it was right and wise.

5. The effect upon the people (vv. 34-37).

a. The keepers of the swine went and made it known in the city and country.

b. The people made investigation. They saw the man sitting at the feet of Jesus, clothed and in his right mind, and heard the testimony of those who had seen what was done.

c. The multitude besought Jesus to depart from them. How sad it is that in the face of the mighty works of Jesus men will not open their hearts to him.

6. The request of the healed man (vv. 38, 39). He desired to be with Jesus. This was natural and right, but his responsibility was to go home and show to the people there what great things God had done for him.

III. Jesus' Power Over Disease (vv. 43-48).

Jesus heals a woman with an issue of blood. Observe:

1. Her helpless condition (v. 43). She had been a great sufferer for twelve long years (Mark 5:26).

2. Her faith (v. 44). Her faith was demonstrated by pressing her way through the thronging multitude.

3. Her confession (v. 47). She thought furtively to get the blessing, but Jesus had her make a public confession.

4. Christ's words of encouragement (v. 48). He told her that it was her faith, not her touch, that saved her, and bade her go in peace.

IV. Jesus Raises the Dead (vv. 40-42; 50-56).

1. Jairus' request (vv. 40-42). His only daughter lay dying. He besought Jesus to come to his house.

2. Jairus informed of his daughter's death (v. 49).

3. Jesus' assurance (v. 50).

4. The skeptical mourners (51-53).

5. The daughter raised (vv. 54-56).

A Harsh Word

To be silent, to suffer, to pray whenever I cannot act, is acceptable to God. A disappointment, a contradiction, a harsh word received, and endured as in his presence, is worth more than a long prayer.

Our Relation to God

Vice and virtue chiefly imply the relation of our actions to men in this world; sin and holiness rather imply their relation to God and the other world.

RAY CROW EXPLAINS 3-WAY ALLOTMENTS

Montgomery, Feb. 14.—A delegation of officials from Chilton county Thursday conferred with Ray Crow, state administrator of the Works Progress Administration, on the operation of the three-way road paving and other projects of the program in Chilton county.

They were assured by Mr. Crow that "three-way" road projects held a definite priority among all projects of the Works Progress Administration and that it was the purpose of the organization to operate these projects so long as sufficient funds and relief labor eligible for the WPA program was available in the respective counties.

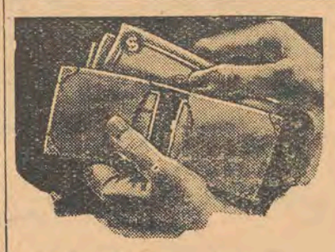
The delegation came to Montgomery after the Works Progress Administration had allotted $13,000 for operation of the three-way Clanton to the Dallas county line project for a period of 60 days.

Mr. Crow explained that money was allotted the various projects only as it was required. In other words, he made clear, it was not considered necessary and limited funds would not permit the full allotment of the $66,000 estimated as the total cost of the 19-mile project.

Upon expiration of the 60-day period, he assured the delegation, another allotment of funds would be made to keep the program in operation.

"The Works Progress program," Mr. Crow said, "is a program for employment of relief labor, under certain conditions, at security payments. The operation of the program in any county depends therefore, upon the availability of eligible WPA labor.

"Works Progress employes, of course, have the right and are urged to leave the Works Progress Administration at any time to accept employment in private enterprise or in the higher pay prevailing wage contract jobs operated by other governmental agencies. The amount of WPA labor that will be available in the respective counties, therefore, is indefinite and our allotments for operation of the projects are made, as required by law, with this contingency in view."



Put this extra money in your own pocket!

Every Southern farmer knows that ARCADIAN, THE AMERICAN NITRATE OF SODA increases yields of cotton, corn and all other crops. But not all know about the Extra NITROGEN in "Arcadian". And that Extra Nitrogen is something really worth knowing about.

In cash value the Extra Nitrogen over the 16% guaranteed, runs as high as 88c per ton. This is reported by the Department of Agriculture and Immigration of the State of Virginia.

Everytime you buy "ARCADIAN", you are sure of two things: 1—superior crop-growing value as proved by many tests; 2—Extra Nitrogen which does not cost you one extra cent.

When you buy
ARCADIAN, THE AMERICAN NITRATE OF SODA
you get extra cash value which is just like putting money right in your own pocket.

WOMEN MAKING BROOMS, BAGS AND PLATE MATS

Marion, Ala.—Making of hearth brooms, knitting bags, and plate mats is becoming popular with Perry county women, reports Sue Mills, home demonstration agent.

The women are making the hearth brooms from ordinary broom sedge and are using wool thread or bias binding to bind them together. They are using burlap sacks with wool thread to decorate them in making the knitting bags, while the hot plate mats are being made of plain wrapping cord.

CHILTON GROWERS PROFIT BY CO-OP POULTRY SALES

Clanton, Ala.—Chilton county farmers profited by over $2,000.00 through selling 33,706 pounds of poultry cooperatively for 5,178.28, reports county agent, J. W. Fant. The farmers were paid considerably more than the prevailing prices on the local market.

STATE FARMERS PAID $11,632,971 BY THE AAA DURING YEAR OF 1935

Auburn, Ala. — Alabama farmers were paid $11,632,971.06 in rental and benefit payments during 1935, reports Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the State Extension Service. Growers in Chilton received $169,778.32.

ALABAMA PENALIZED ON SHORT STAPLE COTTON

Auburn, Ala.—Emphasizing the importance of farmers producing better varieties of cotton, J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, states that "Alabama ranked first in 1935 in the production of cotton shorer than ⅞ inch in staple length—a most expensive distinction."

After giving figures showing that 34.6 per cent of the cotton crop produced by farmers of the state in 1935 was shorter than ⅞ inch, Mr. Lowery states that "In an effort to solve the problem, the Alabama Extension Service has launched a cotton-improvement program based on the development of one-variety cotton communities."

"In one-variety communities already in operation in Alabama it has been found that the staple length is averaging around one inch, whereas in other communities in the same counties the cotton is largely ⅞ inch or shorter," he says.

"Cotton-improvement programs are underway in Tallapoosa, Coosa, Chambers, Perry, Monroe, Butler, Wilcox, Mobile, Tuscaloosa, Pickens, Walker, Etowah, Madison, Cullman, DeKalb, and Winston.

"More than 10,000 bushels of pure seed direct from breeders have already been placed in one-variety areas. This should give more than 100,000 bushels of good planting seed in the fall of 1937.

"D. P. L. and Stoneville 5 are the principal better staple varieties adapted to Alabama," he concludes.

FOREST FIRES IN 1935

Montgomery,—In spite of reduced funds and an extremely severe fall drought, the forest fire losses within the organized territory of Alabama were held to a proportion of 5½ per cent of the woodland area. The organized territory comprises those forest sections of the State over which the Commission of Forestry is able to maintain local agents, observers and patrolmen. The area thus organized comprises 8,211,740 acres.

In the unorganized territory, however, for which lack of funds does not permit employment of field workers, the proportion burned amounted to about 11 2-3 per cent. The proportion for the entire woodland area of the state totalled approximately nine and one-half per cent.

While the unorganized territory is necesarily without the services of agents and other local forestral employees, it nevertheless receives considerable attention in the way of general educational work of statewide character. In the absence of funds with which to extend the field work over the entire state, informational and educational service is the next best procedure. That it has a definite value in forest fire protection in the unorganized territory is evidenced by the reduction of the average annual proportion burned from approximately 35 per cent, prior to the initiation of the educational work, to a current average of about 9 per cent.

the District since many other strong friendships have occurred, literally thousands, who for various good reasons could not support me before, having assured me of their support in the event of another race.

In announcing my candidacy, I desire to gratefully acknowledge all of these assurances of support, new as well as old, and to pledge you my best efforts to make you a good Congressman. It will be my purpose to be YOUR representative in Washington, rendering allegiance to the whole people of the great Sixth District, poor and rich, low and high, without favoritism to any clique or group. Toward that end I want you to always feel free, during this campaign, as well as in the future, to discuss with me any issue in which you may be interested.

While it is my keen desire to see every voter in the District prior to the election, and frequently henceforth, I can scarcely hope to be so fortunate before May 5th. If I find it impossible to contact you, I hope you will get in touch with me or inquire from some friend as to my qualifications and experience for this very important post of service.

While my election appears most probable, the fact that politics is quite uncertain causes me to urge my friends to take nothing for granted and to continue their magnificent efforts in my behalf, particularly interesting themselves in getting out the vote, which will otherwise not be large in this off-year. If the opinion of many that we have an open road to this broader field of service is erroneous, let's open it. If it is correct, let's make the victory certain, positive and overwhelming.

Your efforts in my behalf will be deeply appreciated. I want, not only your vote, but active, energetic influence. Afterwards, your affairs at the Nation's Capitol will be regarded as an avowed public trust, and I will strive earnestly to serve my people, my District, my party and my nation well.

TOGETHER WE CANNOT, MUST NOT AND WILL NOT FAIL.

Sincerely

PETE B. JARMAN, JR.

"HAPPY HITTER" QUARTET TO GIVE PROGRAM AT JEMISON

The W. M. U. of the Jemison Baptist Church will sponsor the Stamps Baxter "Happy Hitter" quartet, from WBRC, in a delightful program on Feb. 27, at 7:45 o'clock, at the Jemison High School auditorium.

The "Happy Hitters" is one of the most popular quartets on the air this season, and this will be their first public appearance in Chilton County.

Whether the public prefers dreamy waltzes, snappy modern blues, old-time favorites or a good comedy, the "Happy Hitters" have promised them a brilliant and successful program. You will thrill when you hear them, and laugh when you see them.

Admission, 10c and 20c. The proceeds will go to the benefit of the W. M. U. The public is cordially invited.

JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL BASKET BALL TOURNAMENT THIS WEEK

The "C" Club of Chilton County High School is this week sponsoring a county junior high school basket ball tournament. All ten of the junior high schools have been invited to participate, and it is reported that all have responded.

Teams are expected to take part in tournament play from the following schools: Collins Chapel, Concord, Coopers, Enterprise, Mt. Pleasant, Stanton, Thomas, Thorsby, Union Grove, and Vermont.

Drawings have already been made, but particulars of the first elimination contests have not been given out, other than that the first game of the tournament will be between the Mt. Pleasant and Stanton teams. This game is scheduled to begin at 2:00 o'clock on Friday afternoon (tomorrow). The contests will occupy two days—Friday and Saturday. Popular prices will prevail.

On Friday night at 7:00 o'clock the Chilton County High School team will play Jemison on the local high school court, where all the contests will be held. However, this Chilton-Jemison game is not a tournament game.

All lovers of the sport please remember the date and hour when play will get under way—Mt. Pleasant vs. Stanton, at 2:00 o'clock Friday afternoon, February 21st.

WRECK ON HIGHWAY IN CLANTON

A heavy truck, driven by a man named Windham, from Phoenix City, sideswiped the sedan belonging to Frank Palmer, a little after noon last Tuesday, on the highway near Hayes Chevrolet Company's place.

The truck was going north, and the driver stated that just as he reached the intersection of First Avenue and Seventh Street, a light delivery truck blocked his way, and that in order to avoid a head-on collision, he pulled to the left. Frank Palmer's Ford Sedan was parked in front of Nell's Eat Shoppe, and the truck hit the car, damaging it considerably.

Reports concerning the smash were conflicting, and as yet no disposition has been made in the case.

CLANTON GOSPEL TABERNACLE

Notice is given that Rev. Dan Berg will preach at the Clanton Gospel Tabernacle next Sunday, both morning and night.

There will be Sunday school, as usual, at 9:45; preaching will begin at 11:00. The night preaching service will begin at 7:30.

The Tabernacle is located at the corner of First Avenue and Third Shreet. Everyone is welcome.

Negotiations are under way whereby it is thought preaching will be held at the church every Sunday. Further information will be given in this regard in the near future.

Visit the New Shell Service Station — Completely overhauled and under new management.

VERMONT NEWS

The fiddler's convention last Thursday night seemed to be enjoyed by everyone. Cash prizes were awarded as follows: First prize, Orville Wright, $2.00; second prize, Fonzie Smith, $1.50; third prize, Henry Klinner, $.75; fourth prize, Coy Klinner, $.50; fifth prize, Jasen Turner, a pair of suspenders. After all expenses were paid the balance was $12.10. The proceeds will go for the benefit of the school.

The boys basketball team won a victory over Baker at Jemison last Saturday night, with a score of 22 to 7.

The boys are execting to play in the basketball tournament at Clanton on Saturday, Feb. 22nd. We hope they will be successful in winning.

All who are interested in the P.-T. A. are urged to meet at the schoolhouse on Thursday night, February 20th, for discussion of important school matters. The room having the larger number of patrons present will be awarded a half-holiday.

The boys and girls have been busy selling candy for the benefit of the school.

J. A. SORRELL DIED LAST MONDAY NIGHT

Mr. J. A. Sorrell, age 35 years, died at his home on Route 1, from Jemison, Monday night, February 17, following a brief illness. Funeral services were held at Providence, Beat 13, on Wednesday at 11 o'clock, Spigener in charge.

Survivals are: wife, one daughter, Ruth Sorrell; four sons, Verlie, of Tuscaloosa; Jessie, of Jemison Route 1; Elvin, Jemison; Cardis, Jemison. There are two brothers: I. W. Sorrell, Birmingham, and Harry Sorrell, Detroit, Michigan. There are two sisters: Mrs. T. F. Prestridge of Wylam, and Mrs. Maude Pannell of Ensley.

BUSINESS EXCHANGE OPEN FOR BUSINESS

A new and different kind of business has been launched in Clanton; it is the Business Exchange, and the location is on the highway next to Dief's. If you have any articles that you are not using and would sell and that would likely be of value to someone else, list this article with the Exchange. And on the other hand, if you need some article of this nature, also list your wants with the Exchange, and they will likely be able to find it for you.

This business is just in its beginning, but the idea is a good one. There are always lots of things lying around homes that are not used, but which someone has a use for.

Read the advertisement of the Exchange elsewhere in this issue of The Union-Banner.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY DIVIDENDS PAYABLE SOON

GEORGE JOHNSTON IN BUS CRASH SATURDAY

Early Saturday morning, a Greyhound bus was in a smash with an Essex automobile on the highway about a mile north of Maxwell Field, near Montgomery. The driver of the bus was George Johnston, a former Clanton boy.

The front of the bus was smashed somewhat, and the Essex was a total wreck, being crushed like an eggshell. The driver of the car, an army officer, connected with Maxwell Field, was seriously injured, and was taken to the field hospital.

Several witnesses stated that the car came onto the highway at the junction of the highway with a side road, and that although the bus driver sounded a warning, the driver seemed not to notice, and proceeded directly into the path of the bus.

The bus, said to have been traveling about 30 miles per hour, left the highway as the driver attempted to avert the clash, and ran partly up a high bank, but none of the passengers were hurt. These witnesses cleared Johnston of any blame in the affair.

MR. MIDDLETON'S APPOINTMENT

Judge Charles B. Kennamer's appointment of Mr. J. O. Middleton as U. S. referee in bankruptcy for this district to succeed the later Judge M. S. Carmichael, is cordially received by citizens regardless of their political affiliations.

Mr. Middleton is a worthy successor to Judge Carmichael. He is a gentleman of high character, and a lawyer of ability who since 1921, by virtue of his special assignments from Washington, has specialized in the study and practice of Federal law and procedure. Mr. Middleton is well equipped professionally and personally for his duties.—Montgmoery Advertiser.

Basket Ball Tourney Held At CCHS Gym

Mt. Pleasant, Union Grove and Vermont Win Leading Places

The Chilton County Junior High School Basket Ball Tournament was held at the county high school gym last Friday and Saturday, February 21 and 22. Everyone that attended the meet enjoyed it to the fullest, for each and every game was a close contest.

Mt. Pleasant's fast-stepping team had to put up one of its hardest battles of the year to overcome the fighting Union Grove team for the championship game. Mt. Pleasant won from Union Grove by the close score of 23 to 21. Chambers was high point man for Mt. Pleasant with 8 points and played a good defensive game. Williams of Union Grove was high point man with 8 points, while Sammons was playing a good defensive game by letting Melton, all-county forward, have only 2 field goals and two fowls.

Saturday night Union Grove turned back the fighters of Vermont by the score of 17 to 16, to win second place. Vermont put up a losing fight after playing four games Saturday before the final game.

Below is a list of teams and scores by rounds:

First Round (Friday)

Vermont 35, Concord 7; Collins Chapel 22, Cooper 7; Mt. Pleasant 30, Stanton 24; Union Grove 24, Baker 21; Thomas Jr. 19, Enterprise 17.

Second Round

Vermont 30, Collins Chapel 24; Mt. Pleasant 37, Thorsby 13; Enterprise 27, Stanton 23; Concord 17, Baker 16.

Third Round

Union Grove 20, Vermont 16; Cooper 13, Concord 9; Enterprise 23, Cooper 8.

Quarter Finals

Collins Chapel 17, Cooper 8; Enterprise 19, Thomas Jr. 17; (two extra periods); Vermont 19, Collins Chapel 9.

Semi-Finals

Vermont 19, Enterprise 15; Mt. Pleasant 20, Thomas Jr. 10.

Finals

Mt. Pleasant 23, Union Grove 21.

Runner-Up

Union Grove 17, Vermont 16.

The coaches and officals selected an all-county team. Melton of Mt. Pleasant was chosen unanimously.

First Team

Forward, Melton—Enterprise; Forward, H. Hand—Thomas Jr.; center, Jackson—Collins Chapel; guard, W. Klinner—Vermont; guard, Chambers, Mt. Pleasant.

Second Team

Forward, A. Klinner—Vermont; forward, Gilmore—Union Grove; center, Culpepper — Mt. Pleasant; guard, Jones—Enterprise; guard, Dukes, Mt. Pleasant.

Jones of Enterprise carried off individual scoring honors with 43 points. Below is a list of the 10 highest scoring records:

Jones, Enterprise—43; A. Klinner, Vermont—42; Williams, Union Grove—40; Neeley, Enterprise—36; G. Chambers, Mt. Pleasant—32; Melton, Mt. Pleasant—32; Lewis, Vermont—29; Gilmore, Union Grove—27; Culpepper, Mt. Pleasant—24; Carter, Stanton—21; Maddox, Collins Chapel—20.

FLORIDA RESIDENTS VISIT HERE

Mr. Roger Henley of Florence Villa, Florida, was the week end guest of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Owens, of near Clanton. Young Henley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Henley, formerly of this county, but has resided in Florida for many years. The young Mr. Henley being a very prominent merchant of Florence Villa, stated his business as very good while here.

No Window Service At Post Office On Sat. P.M.

Acting Postmaster Hosea F. Downs has asked us to announce that in the future there will be no window service at the Clanton post office after 12:00 o'clock on Saturdays. This rule will take effect next Saturday, February 29, and will hold good for all Saturdays in the future.

Another amendment to the local post office rules is that window service will not begin at 7:00 a.m., as has been the case in the past, but at 7:30.

Mr. Downs thanks the patrons of the local office for their patience with the local force in the past, and assures them of his sincere desire to render good service in the future. It is hoped that the new rulings will not discomfit anyone. Other than the above mentioned changes, the service will go on as heretofore.

MRS. MELTON FREED ON MURDER CHARGE

Mrs. Lillie Mae Melton, mother of two children, who was arrested Sunday, February 16, on a charge of murder as a result of the shooting of Claude Killingsworth at her home a few days before was given preliminary hearing in the justice court of J. L. Wilson last Saturday, and was released after all evidence was heard. Justice Wilson ruled it a case of justifiable homicide.

GOODMAN BEAUTY SHOP MOVED ONE BLOCK EAST OF NEW P. O.

Mrs. Claude Goodman would like to tell her friends and customers that she has moved her Beauty Shoppe to one block east of the new postoffice. Mrs. Goodman says she will be nearer to town and will be better fixed to take care of her customers. Look for her adv. in next week's paper.

QUARTET TO SING AT JEMISON

Be sure to see and hear the Stamp-Baxter "Happy Hitters" at the Jemison High School on Thursday night, February 27 at 8 o'clock. Admission 15c and 25c. Sponsored by the Woman's Missionary Union.

G. C. ARMSTRONG WITH BIG FOUR HARDWARE CO.

The many friends of Mr. G. C. Armstrong as well as those of the Big Four Hardware Company will be pleased to learn that Mr. G. C. Armstrong is now connected with that firm as salesman.

No one doubts that Mr. Armstrong carries trade with him wherever he goes. Everybody knows him to be honest, upright, straightforward, and pleasing to do business with. These attributes have won for him a place in the business annals of Chilton county that is enviable and unsurpassed, and any firm that latches on to him as their salesman is fortunate.

Mr. Armstrong instructs The Union-Banner to extend to his friends a cordial invitation to come to see him at his new location. Both he and the Big Four will extend you a glad hand.

Press Association Will Visit Havana

Will Make Voyage from Montgomery, Via Tampa June 24th

The Alabama Press Association will make a trip to Havana, Cuba, in June and all the arrangements are complete for a wonderful trip. The party will leave Montgomery on the morning of June 24th, will reach Tampa that afternoon and board the steamer "Cuba", for a 24-hour water trip to Havana, reaching the latter city Monday afternoon. Four nights and nearly four days in this most marvelous city will be filled with sightseeing and various entertainments, which are now being planned by the various organizations of Cuba. The party will sail Friday and reach Montgomery again on Saturday night.

The trip is to be made available for many friends of the press, and they will be able to take advantage of the very low rates which have been made. The details have been figured out and for the sum of $73.15 one may make the trip. This will cover all transportation from Montgomery back to Montgomery, every meal while on the train, the boat and in Havana, the hotel and two very interesting sightseeing trips. Even the transfer of the baggage is taken care of in this all-expense trip to the "Paris of the Western World."

Gov. and Mrs. Bibb Graves and other notables will be members of the party and their presence assures a semi-official atmosphere that will open many doors that the average tourist could not hope to enter, and will provide entertainment that will be most interesting and enjoyabe.

Cuba has a delightful climate in the summer and those who are interested in going with the Press Association would do well to see the editor of their local paper and get full information and make their reservations.

JOHNSON-WILLBANKS

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Johnson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. N. S. Johnson, to Simeon Sealy Willbanks, of Alexander City, took place Saturday, February 15, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Johnson. Dr. C. C. Anderson, pastor of the Presbyterian church, performed the ieremony. The young people, both graduates of the University Law School, will reside in Dadeville, where they will practice their profession.

Elizabeth is the daughter of pioneer citizens of Chilton County, both her maternal and paternal ancestors playing a part in the early history. She reheived her education in the public schools of Clanton and the University of Alabama.

Mr. Willbanks is the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Willbanks, of Alexander City. He is an alumnus of Emory University and the University of Alabama, where he was president of the Senior Law class.

Among the guests at the wedding were: Mrs. P. S. Sealy, Mrs. T. C. Russel, Mrs. Hugh Carlisle, Miss Alice Willbanks, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Willbanks and Bob Willbanks, all of Alexander City, Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Anderson of Montgomery, Miss Sarah Penton of Goodwater, Leon Thomas of Alexanter City. One of the guests, Emma Cunningham Williams, was present at the marriage of the grandparents of the bride, Dr. W. E. Stewart and Miss Sally Adams, also at the marriage of Dr. N. S. Johnson and Miss Eschares Stewart.

CLANTON GOSPEL TABERNACLE

Rev. Dan Berg, of Wilton, will preach at this Tabernacle on net Sunday, March 1st, at 11:00 o'clock. Sunday school at 9:45. Everyone is invited to attend all services at the Tabernacle.

W. J. BILLINGSLEY IS REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY TREASURER

Below we are reproducing a likeness of W. J. Billingsley, Republican candidate for County Treasurer.

Mr. Bilingsley needs no introduction to the voters of the county; but we might note in passing that he is one of these kind of Republicans that is what he is from principle, and does not change at every whip-stitch. He became of voting age in old Populist days, and has never voted anything but Republican ever since. He loves the party and its principles, and never misses an opportunity to say a good word for it when and where it has the best effect.

Elected member of the County Board of Education near the last term of J. W. Moore as Superintendent, under the old Beat preference system, Mr. Billingsley served on that board for about 20 years. Ten or twelve years of this time he was chairman of the board. This is about the political record of William Billingsley, except that he announced for Tax Collector six years ago and withdrew from the race a short time later.

W. J. BILLINGSLEY

During all his mature years Mr. Billingsley has been an ardent church and Sunday school worker. He was clerk of the Chilton County Baptist Association for thirteen years, and has been at the head of county Sunday school work at various times during the past quarter of a century.

As is the case with most candidates, Mr. Billingsley invites the vote and influence of the citizens of the county. The Union-Banner thinks that it can speak truthfully in sayng that if Mr. Billingsley should be nominated and elected, he will make a good county treasurer, and will remain a full-fledged Republican whether he gets the nomination or not.

FIDDLERS CONVENTION AT VERBENA RECREATION PARK

There will be a fiddlers convention on the Verbena Recreation Park Saturday afternoon. All fiddlers are invited to participate. Several attractive prizes will be awarded. The playing will begin at 1:30 and continue throughout the afternoon. The contest for prizes will begin at 3:30, after which the prizes will be awarded.

There will be two renditions of a special short program by the Southern Aces at intervals during the afternoon.

Some very attractive specials are being offered by the business houses.

Plans are for this to be a weekly affair, with new and attractive features each week.

The public is invited. No admission charges.

FROM UNCLE REMUS AT PALM BEACH

Well, boys, I will take you back to the Civil War days in the discourse this week. My father was a shoe maker for the soldiers, and he would dig a hole in the ground, put his feet in the hole and sit on the ground to make shoes.

My mother moved from the log cabin I told you about last week and went into the largest wood structure in Beat Seven; there she married a shoemaker widower. Now I had a step-father, and you can guess what came next. I cannot tell all, but I began going to school and got to the fifth grade. A boy now is in the tenth grade at the age I was when I was in the fifth. I went to school three days a week and worked three days. I went to Sunday school on Sundays, and did not go fishing on Sundays like some of the boys do now. But the half has not been told yet. Wait until next week.—C. T. Walker.

CHARLIE D. DUKE UP FOR RE-ELECTION COMMISSIONER

Mr. Duke has served one term to this office; he was defeated one time before he was elected. Like, Mr. Atchison, of the Third District, Mr. Duke is offering for re-election on the record that he has made while serving this term. The people of his District and all over the county for that, know what he has done, and nothing that we could say would alter the case.

So, we submit the matter to the voters to be determined on May 5th. The Republican voters will be the judges, and their verdict will be ours without question.

The race for Commissioner from the Fourth District is no longer a one-sided affair; C. D. Duke is this week announcing for re-election to that office.

OLD TIME SINGING AT THE COURTHOUSE 5th SUN., MARCH

The Union-Banner has been asked to carry the announcement that there will be an old time singing at the courthouse the fifth Sunday in March. This happens to be the birthday of Uncle John W. Hayes, an old time singer, and he hopes that all of his friends will be out and help him enjoy his birthday. Uncle John will be 76 years old that day, March 29th.

SMOKE HOUSE BURNED WITH 450 LBS. MEAT

Mr. Will H. Myatt suffered the misfortune last Friday about noon of getting his smoke house burned, together with about 450 pounds of meat, one can of lard and a barrel of salt. There were a number of fruit jars in the smoke house, some filled with fruit, which were also destroyed. The fire caught from the coals with which the meat was being smoked.

Another meat misfortune is reported by Walter Culp; he says that marauders took 200 pounds of meat from the smoke house of his mother, Mrs. J. L. Culp at South Clanton, last Saturday night. All the meat that Walter and his mother had was in large box, and every piece was taken, he reported.

SUBSCRIPTION TO CHILLICOTHE

The Union-Banner i s this week sending a paper to Miss Mary Louise Giles, Chillicothe, Mo. Miss Giles is the daughter of Mr. Lomer Giles, and is taking a commercial course in that city. Her many friends in Chilton county will be pleased to learn that she is making fine progress in her work.

LONZA BURNETT IN RACE FOR COMMISSIONER THIRD DISTRICT

Another entrant in the race for Commissioner from the Third District is Mr. J. L. Burnett, whose name will be found in the column this week. J. L. Burnett is not new in political annals of Chilton county; he served two successive terms as commissioner from the same district, he having succeeded Mr. C. T. Walker and having been succeeded by the present commissioner, Mr. Atchison.

The Union-Banner is not able to say much in introduction to Mr. Burnett. All the people of his district know him, and most all the people over the other parts of the county are acquainted with him. The people know what he did while he was in the office the other two terms, and this will give them a pretty fair idea what they may expect from him if he is elected again.

Mr. Burnett is preparing to make an extensive canvass of the county and present his case directly to the voters. He will likely be around to see you between this and May 5th.

FORMER CHILTON YOUNG MAN KILLED IN TEXAS AIR CRASH

George L. Culver, 29, head of the Culver Oil Company and the Culver Aircraft Corporation, at Cladwater, Texas, was the victim of a horrible air tradegy late Sunday afternoon, February 16th. Another young man, Paul Snick, was also killed.

George L. Culver was the son of George Culver, who lived in Chilton County about 20 years ago. He lived on the Greer Culver place near Clanton. From here he moved to Spigener and thence to Birmingham, where the younger George spent most of his boyhood days.

Although a young man, George L. Culver is said to have made lots of money in the oil business in Texas. Mr. George Tippett has been working for the Culver Company for the past several years.

Most all of the Culvers in Chilton County are more or less related to the young man who was killed in the tragedy.

MRS. CARRIE DORMINEY SHAW IS CANDIDATE FOR CO. TREASURER

The Republican party of Chilton county has at least one asset that the Democrats can't boast of, and that is a candidate from good old Stumps Hills. Mrs. Carrie Dorminey Shaw, like her fine old father before her, is not ashamed to tell the folks that she lives at Stumps Hils, and she is appealing to the people to vote for her for county treasurer. Her official announcement will be found in the announcement column this week.

Mrs. Shaw, the wife of H. Vernon Shaw, lives near Union Grove church on a farm, and they are the parents of three children—one boy and two girls. As stated above, she is the daughter of that staunch Republican and sterling citizen, Thomas J. Dorminey, former county commissioner for two terms, and who died nearly eight years ago.

In leaving her announcement with The Union-Banner, Mrs. Shaw wished the message extended the voters of the county that she would like to be county treasurer, but above all she hoped that the Republicans of Chilton county would elect their full ticket this fall, regardless of who the nominees proved to be.

WILL SING AT ENTERPRISE NEXT SUNDAY AFTERNOON

The Union-Banner has been requested to announce that Prof. W. M. Devaughn, Prof. Eugene H. Whitt, and the Devaughn quartet will sing at Enterprise schoolhouse next Sunday afternoon, March 1, beginning at 2:00 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend.

CHURCHES CONTINUE TO SELL SUBSCRIPTIONS TO BANNER

The churches in The Union-Banner's Good Samaritan subscription plan continue to turn in subscrpitions right along. Last week marked the closing time for entry of new churches; so those now on our list will be all that may get in on the plan.

The date for the closing of the plan will be made at an early date, after which time no more subscriptions will be taken and the commissions allowed. Also at that time The Union-Banner will go back to the regular price of $1.50 a year. If you want the news of Chilton county and the Republican side of politics, better get your name entered right away while the price is cheap.

LOUISE HIGGINS BEAUTY SHOPPE HAS MOVED TO WEST END

Mrs. Louise Higgins would like to tell her customers that she has moved to West End, across the street from Sheriff Hardy's home.

Mrs. Higgins wants to hold her old customers and make new ones in her new location. When in West End look for Louise Higgins Beauty Shop sign.

PASTORS CONFERENCE HERE MONDAY MORNING, MARCH 2nd

The pastors conference of the Chilton and Unity Associations will convene at the Clanton Baptist church on Monday morning, March 2nd, at 10 o'clock. Rev. J. W. Jones urges that all pastors who possibly can attend this meeting.

"Uncle Jim" Wyatt Buried Last Monday

Succumbed To Heart Attack Last Sunday Morning About 11 O'clock

Funeral services for James Madison Wyatt, age 64 years, were held at Providence church, Beat 16, Monday afternoon, February 24th, at 2:00 o'clock, Martin in charge. The funeral was conducted by Rev. Wm. E. Robinson, pastor of Friendship church where the deceased was a member. A brief cervice was held at the home of W. M. Wyatt by Dr. A. E. Middlebrooks before the procession left for Providence.

The body of Mr. Wyatt was found dead in his boat at Crumpton's camp on Walnut creek about noon Sunday, and after a brief coroner's inquest, the cause of death was attributed to heart failure. The body had been dead about an hour or an hour and a half when first discovered by Ruben Popwell and a party who had driven down to the camp.

The deceased is survived by two sons, W. M. Wyatt of Montevallo and Clanton, and T. E. Wyatt, of Clanton; two daughters, Mrs. Jesse Baker and Mrs. Dalton Bice, both of Concord community. There are two brothers living, Ruben F. Wyatt of Walnut Creek community, and T. G. Wyatt of Friendship community; two sisters, Mrs. John Maddox of Clanton, and Mrs. W. W. Robinson of Providence community.

Within two miles of where he died, James M. Wyatt was born January 19th, 1872. His father, General Francis Marian Wyatt, died 35 years ago; his mother, Mrs. Jane Popwell Wyatt, died 7 year ago. His wife, Pharriba Wyatt, died in 1923.

The great concourse of people at the funeral and the beautiful flowers placed on the bier bore out the fact that "Uncle Jim" numbered his friends by the hundreds. His life was more or less one of passiveness, but he made lasting friends wherever he went.

J. C. ATCHISON IN RACE FOR RE-ELECTION COMMISSIONER

The name of J. C. Atchison will be found in the announcement column of The Union-Banner this week. Mr. Atchison is the present commissioner from the Third District, and he aspires for re-election to the same place.

His past term in this office is Mr. Atchison's record, and it is on this record that he bases his campaign for re-election. In speaking to The Union-Banner regarding his race for the office again, Mr. Atchison stated that he realized he had made some mistakes during the past four years, but that he believed the experience he had had would make him able to serve the people of his District and of the county at large better than he had the first term.

The Union-Banner presents the name of Mr. Atchison to the voters of the county for their disposal; and we think we can truthfully say that he will appreciate your vote and influence if you feel disposed to give it to him. So far as we know, Mr. Atchison is a life-long Republican and firmly believes in the principles of the party.

GOURD HOLDS BUSHEL

Mr. Leonard P. Easterling had in town Wednesday a large gourd which holds one full bushel. Mr. Easterling said that it sounded mighty big for a gourd, but that he had actually measured it and it will hold what he claims.

Miss Madlyn Heflin, who teaches at Isabella High school is at home at Moulton, Ala., due to the fact that the schools in the county have closed.

Mr. and Mrs. Dubb Huddleston and Mrs. John D. Mullins spent Friday afternoon in Montgomery.

Estimated Cost Of 'Luxury' Tax Here

Local Chairman Gives Figures Showing How County Will Be Affected

Just what a three per cent sales tax or "luxury" tax would cost the citizens of Chilton County was made public today by J. B. Atkinson, county chairman of the Consumers Anti-Sales Tax Association of Alabama. In a statement based on estimations made by F. W. Gist, state statistician.

According to Mr. Gist's figures it would cost the citizens of the county $69,187.50. This is based on the U. S. business census figures for 1933 which showed retail sales amounting to $1,845,000 were reported in Chilton county during that year. By adding a 25 per cent increase Mr. Gist estimated that the total retail sales in the county for 1935 totaled $2,306,250.000.

"Keep in mind all this extra tax would be in addition to the regular taxes you now pay," Mr. Atkinson pointed out.

"This so-called luxury tax is no more or less than a sales tax with only the bare necessities of life exempted—if there are any exemption" the anti-sales tax officials said.

"The adoption of a sales tax by the special session of the Legislature means that the politicians will reach into the pockets of the poor and extract millions of dollars to be used in stuffing the pay envelopes of useless employees of the states," he said.

According to the statistician estimated the state would collect more than nine million dollars on the three per cent sales tax.

"Unless the taxpayers rebel against this unjust levy the politicians will try to force this added burden on the people of Alabama, Mr. Atkinson said.

IT'S A 9-POUND BOY

A 9-pound boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Easterling of Clanton Route 1 last Sunday morning. Mother and babe are both reported to be doing fine. The mother was Miss Daisy Jones, and the "proud pap" is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Louis Easterling of Clanton Route 1. Congratulations to the new Republican, to his parents and grandparents.

CITY OFFICERS ARREST EIGHT

The city bastile was accommodating a "full house" Monday morning when mayor's court was called. Eight arrests were made over the week end, each receiving fines and cost assessments. The city jail was not big enough to hold them all, so part of them were placed in the county jail for safekeeping. They were as follows:

Four for public drunkenness; one of these drew a penalty of $1 fine and $7 costs; the other three each drew fines of $5 and cost assessments of $8

Three for disorderly conduct; $1 fine and $8 cost in each case.

One for carrying concealed pistol; $10 fine and $8 cost.

SHERIFF REPOTS FIVE ARRESTS

Sheriff Hardy reports that his force has made five arrests during the past week. They are as follows:

One for abusive language; in jail.

One for assault and battery; in fail.

Three for violation of the prohibition law; two of these were released on bonds of $300 each, and the other is held in jail.

GONE TO TEXAS

Mrs. Clara Tippett and son, Ross, left the first part of this week for Gladewater, Texas, where their husband and father, George Tippett, is working at the oil business.

Birmingham News Gives Interesting Farm Figures

The Birmingham News came out last Saturday night with some statistics about the farm agency work in Alabama that are interesting. In giving the figures The News had the following to say:

"After Gov. Graves came into office unusually high salary increases were handed out to the women who serve as home demonstration agents and the men who serve as county farm agents throughout Alabama under the farm extension service of Alabama Polytechnic Institute, which received increased appropriations. This was done while P.-T. A. leaders and education Supt. J. A. Keller continued to cry about the schools' needs for more revenue.

"These agents are shown below with the salaries they received in December, 1934, last month of the Miller administration, and the salaries they received in December, 1935, under the present administration, the present administration, the figures not including extra compensation paid by the counties or the Federal government. It makes them the highest paid group of workers in the State, many of the county agents drawing more than the head of the State Tax department, highway department or State comptroller."

The figures given by the News for Chilton county follow: "J. W. Fant, Dec., 1934, $191.66; Dec. 1935, $266.66. "Ruth Pardue, Dec., 1934, $112.50; Dec., 1935, $187.50."

J. A. KELLER CORRECTS EXPRESSIONS IN SPEECH

There has been some misunderstanding of certain expressions contained in my address at Fairfield, Ala., Friday, February 21, in which I stated that if certain newspapers continue to color and misrepresent educational conditions that such coloring and misrepresentations would tend to legislate against the press. No expression of mine at either Fairfield or at any other place is to be interpreted that I am opposed to freedom of speech, freedom of the press, or the right of assembly. On the contrary, freedom of speech, the press, and the assembly has no more ardent champion in Alabama than I. I realize the importance of academic freedom. This goes hand in hand with freedom of the press.

Here and now I reiterate my appreciation of the support of public education given generally by the press of the State. I beseech of them a continuance of their support that the boys and girls of Alabama may be trained for that citizenship necessary for a democratic form of government.

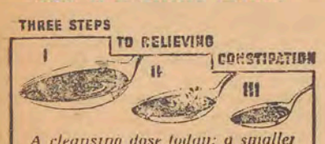
There has been some misunderstanding also concerning my failure to give publicity to the so-called "Steven's Report". I have never seen this report, nor has it been filed with this office.

The State Department of Education has made available to the Legislature and the public generally specific information concerning the status of public education in Alabama for each county and each city and for the State as a whole. This department stands ready at all times to furnish all available information to all interested individuals.

J. A. KELLER,
State Supt. of Education.

NO UPSETS

The proper treatment for a bilious child



A cleansing dose today; a smaller quantity tomorrow, less each time, until bowels need no help at all.

ANY mother knows the reason when her child stops playing, eats little, is hard to manage. Constipation. But what a pity so few know the sensible way to set things right!

The ordinary laxatives, of even ordinary strength, destroy all hopes of restoring regularity.

A liquid laxative is the answer, mothers. The answer to all your worries over constipation. A liquid can be measured. The dose can be exactly suited to any age or need. Just reduce the dose each time, until the bowels are moving of their own accord and need no help.

This treatment will succeed with any child and with any adult.

Doctors use a liquid laxative. Hospitals use the liquid form. If it is best for their use, it is best for home use. The liquid laxative they generally use is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Any druggist has it.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends for their kindness shown us during our sickness. And we most heatily thank Bro. Robinson and Bro. Parrish and all the kind people of Friendship community for the nice things donated and May the Lord bless each and every one, is our prayer.—Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Jones.

SPECIAL FEATURE OF SERVICES WILL BE HELD AT NEW SALEM

On Sunday, March 1, Rev. Paul Oden will be with the pastor, Rev. Homer Carroll, at New Salem. At the evening service he will show stereopticon pictures of the life of Paul. There are forty of these pictures describing different scenes in the life of the Apostle Paul. They follow the story as told in the Book of Acts. All the people of this community are invited to attend the services.

BOB JONES

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

The rich people put money in a collection plate in the temple in Jerusalm. A widow put in two mites. Jesus said, "She put in more than all the rest of them". She put her heart into the treasury. When our hearts are back of our gifts, they give a golden ring to the falling of a copper coin. There is a divine sacredness about everything we do if we have the Christian impulse of a surrendered heart back of our act. A Christian washing dishes in her kitchen in the name of Jesus Christ is engaged in a work as sacredly divine as preaching the gospel in a cathedral on the Sabbath morning. It is not how much we give nor how brilliant is our gift. The question is—what is the attitude of the heart? When Jesus washed the disciples' feet, He was just as beautifully divine as when He preached His sermon on the Mount. He made the job of a servant a high calling. He taught that the great ones are servants, and that those who would go up must first go down. "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you and learn of me, for I am meek end lowly of spirit and ye shall find rest unto your souls". That is His invitation to tired hearts. We rest not by a cessation of work; we rest when we are willing to "yoke up" with Him in real, honest, faithful service to the glory of God.

"I am a reader of your interesting articles that are run in our paper. Until recently it has been my job to operate the linotype a great part of the time. Setting your articles was the most interesting part of my work. When fall arrives I will enter the some college to study to be a doctor. Have a great ambition to be a missionary doctor. Will you please send me a bulletin, catalog or some literature containing information about your college? My belief is that I would like to be one of your students." I am quoting from a letter which came recently from a young man who is connected with a paper in Arkansas. Some people seem to get their pleasures out of clipping coupons from bonds, but the writer gets his greatest pleasure out of the assurance that comes to him occasionally that he is assisting some one in his desire to live a better life. Money can not satisfy people. Pleasure can not satisfy. True Christian service brings the greatest joy a sincere heart can know.

SHOULTS HOME DEM. CLUB

The home dem. club met Thursday afternoon, February 13, 1936, at the schoolhouse. The roll was called and the minutes were read by the secretary of the meeting. Discussion: "Floor and Furniture Finishes and Home-Made Stains." Our next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Stella Shoults on Thursday, March 12, 1936, at 2 o'clock. All ladies of Shoults community are requested to be present.—Reporter, Mrs. George Shoults.

CITIZENS PROTECT FOREST LAND

Montgomery.—In terms of one person per fire, over 24,000 Alabama citizens engaged in forest fire fighting during 1936 without pay from the State or Federal government. Compilations made by the State Commission of Forestry indicate that this number materially exceeds the average for the preceding five years.

There are two very distinctive systems of general forest fire protection, according to the Alabama State Commission of Forestry. Under one system the State undertakes to suppress forest fires as an official function through the employment of large number of men paid from the State Treasury. This, of course, implies large receipts from taxation and a very heavy appropriation. In Alabama, to render such a system reasonaby effective would involve an appropriation of approximately a million dollars per annum.

The second system takes into account that nearly all of the forest lands of the state are in the title of private owners and that such owners are the ones most interested in and responsible for their care and development. It is recognized that the public has a very definite interest in the protection of all woodlands within the State but that the actual work of such protection is primarily a duty of the landowner, his family, tenants and employees. Following this plan, the Commonwealth may accomplish results comparable with those obtained in the more wealthy states, but at a very small fraction of the cost.

To stimulate and maintain interest and coordinated action in fire prevention and supression in the various communities, the State maintains a field staff of agents, patrolmen and lookout men. However, even these provisions require certain moderate expenditures. Since the onset of the current economic depression, funds available for this purpose have been greatly decreased with the result that only about one-third of the woodland area of the state is at present included in the system.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend our preaching services Saturday night and Sunday. Be sure to come.

This story will interest many Men and Women

NOT long ago I was like some friends I have...low in spirits...run-down ...out of sorts...tired easily and looked terrible. I knew I had no serious organic trouble so I reasoned sensibly...as my experience has since proven...that work, worry, colds and whatnot had just worn me down.

The confidence mother has always had in S.S.S. Tonic...which is still her stand-by when she feels run-down...convinced me I ought to try this Treatment...I started a course. The color began to come back to my skin ...I felt better...I did not tire easily and soon I felt that those red-blood-cells were back to so-called fighting strength...it is great to feel strong again and like my old self.

Insist on S.S.S. Tonic in the blood-red Cellophane-wrapped package... the big 20-oz. size is sufficient for two weeks' treatment...it's more economical, too.

AIRY NOTES

Our own country has in times past felt a maximum degree of security for the simple reason that a great ocean lay between the U. S. and any other world power that might be a menace in times of war.

However, it has recently been demonstrated that an airplane can fly from California to New York in nine hours. And a mass flight of large bombers flew from the Pacific Coast to Southern Florida in fifteen and one-half hours flying time. The Pan-American Clippers are flying 6,000 miles across the Pacific from California to China. The Graf Zepplin has made one hundred successful schedule flights across the Atlantic from Germany to South America.

So we readily see that such security is a myth and no longer exists, and that we must admit the fact that if our country should find it necessary to defend itself from invasion, that the first stroke of an invading enemy would, in all probability, be from the air.

This being the case let us take off a little time and compare our air strength with that of a few of the great powers of today; as shown by figures obtained from the joint committees on Air Defense. Expenditures for the fiscal year for air forces by world powers; from the Congressional Record, Feb. 12, 1936:

Great Britain	$145,930,500
France	194,354,087
Germany	84,769,000
Italy	116,404,250
Japan	182,304,000
U. S. (estimated only)	47,507,440

According to reliable information, England will have 5,600 fighting planes by March 1, 1937, and according to testimony before the house appropriations committee the U. S. Army Air Corps will have only 658 by June 30, 1937.

While this comparison with Great Britain is amazingly unfavorable to the U. S., the condition seems even worse when we take into consideration that experts are of the opinion that Germany's air strength is twice that of Great Britain and that France and Italy are far ahead of Germany. Russia is generally believed to have the largest air force in the world, while we have only about 14,000 pilots (civil, army and navy all told) it is said that Russia has 7,000,000 parachute jumpers, and is now practicing an air maneuver in which whole armies equipped with machine guns, etc., are successfully dropped behind the enemy lines with parachutes.

Another consideration is that while European powers are much stronger in the air, they have far less territory to defend. Germany has a land area of a little more than 181,000 miles. France a little more 212,000 miles; while the U. S. has more than 3,000,000 miles at home, besides nearly 1,000,000 miles of possessions.

Now I do not want to be an alarmist, but would it not be well for us to awake to the realization of the fact that if we do not, at once, enlarge our air force three or four fold—both in ships and pilots—that we would be helpless should any world power see fit to invade our country with its vastly superior air force?

We certainly should encourage the development of such protective measures locally and nationally. Such measures cannot be consummated in a short time, but will require several years. Therefore the earlier begun the better.

Don't Guess But Know

Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE?

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN.

He will tell you that before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate Bayer Aspirin among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this.

You can get Genuine Bayer Aspirin at any drug store — simply by asking for it by its full name, BAYER ASPIRIN. Make it a point to do this — and see that you get what you want.

NOTICE OF PARDON

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, Elijah Thomas, who was convicted in the Circuit Court of Chilton county on May 8, 1934, and affirmed by the Court of Appeals on April 30, 1935, the charge being burglary and grand larceny, and sentenced to two years to two years and six months in the penitentiary, will make application to the State Board of Pardons for pardon or parole. Began serving sentence on May 15, 1935.—(Signed)—ELIJAH THOMAS.

After quoting a telegram sent to collectors of internal revenue by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, Mr. Cobb explained that this means that cotton which carries lien or bale tags may now move into the channels of trade without restrictions.

SPEAKING CONTEST FOR RURAL WOMEN

Auburn, Ala.—A nation-wide public speaking contest is open to Alabama farm women. The subject is "What is ahead of Rural America?"

The contest is being sponsored by the American Farm Bureau Federation which will give prizes to the best rural women speakers in the nation. First prize is $25 and a gold medal, and second is $15 and a silver medal. All other contestants entering the final contest will be awarded $10 each.

In announcing the contest to Alabama women, Helen Johnston, state home demonstration agent, advises all women interested in entering to obtain full information from county demonstration agents. County contests will be held in practically all counties of the state and the county winners will enter a state-wide contest in December.

FARM BOYS PAYING SCHOOL EXPENSES

Auburn, Ala.—With earnings from their home and farm projects, many Alabama boys are financing themselves through high school, reports Dr. J. B. Hobdy, director of vocational education, and R. E. Cammack, supervisor of vocational agriculture, in pointing out that the 168 vocational teachers of the state are helping 5,250 high school boys, 10,000 adult farmers and a large group of out-of-school farm boys in solving their farm problems.

Many vocational boys who have graduated from high school have gone into partnership with their fathers on their farms, while others have used their savings during their four years in vocational work to make the first payments on farms of their own, state the educational leaders. "Some have financed themselves for one or more years in college."

TOP-DRESSING OF OATS INCREASES PRODUCTION

Auburn, Ala.—Farmers can increase their oat production several bushels per acre by top-dressing each acre with 100 pounds of nitrate of soda or nitrate of lime during the first of March. Sulphate of ammonia may be used on lime lands.

In a number of experiments conducted by the Alabama Experiment Station, 100 pounds of nitrate gave an increase of 10 bushels of oats per acre, reports J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist.

STATE GAME NEWS

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 25.—While the organization steps of the North American Wildlife conference held the spotlight in Washington early this month, there were several important sidelights to the conference that were eclipsed for the moment but which, nevertheless, have a far-reaching effect on the Nation's wildlife program.

The announcement was made that President Roosevelt has completed negotiations with Mexico for a Migratory Bird Treaty Act similar to the one now linking the United States and Canada in the preservation of migratory wildfowl. Formal announcement of the treaty is expected to be made as soon as it has been ratified by the U. S. Senate.

At the same time the Board of Directors of the American Wildlife Institute, which helped to foster the Washington Conference, elected former U. S. Senator Frederic C. Walcott, of Connecticut, to succeed Thomas H. Beck, of Wilton, Conn., as president. Mr. Beck resigned because of the press of business affairs.

Hnery C. Davis of Nashville, was elected Seth Gordon's successor as secretary of the Institute. Mr. Gordon resigned recently to return to his old post as secretary of the Pennsylvania Game Commission.

I. T. Quinn, Conservation Commissioner of Alabama, was re-elected as chairman of the National Committee on Wildlife Legislation at the annual meeting of this group.

FARM DEBTS ARE BEING ADJUSTED

Auburn, Ala.—Local farm debt adjustment committees are lightening the debt burdens of many Alabama farmers, announces Charles A. McKinnon, farm debt adjustment supervisor for the Resettlement Administration, who reports that the debts of 107 farmers totaling $440,127 have been scaled down $147,541 since the work was started in the state less than three months ago.

Supervisors through whose offices the work of county committees is claread are: Arthur Stephenson, Hartselle; Homer D. Lee, Auburn; L. C. Rew, Prattville; and J. H. Fuller, Gordo.

ALABAMA FARMERS HAVE MORE HORSES AND HOGS

Auburn, Ala.—More horses and hogs but fewer mules, cattle and sheep are found on Alabama farms this year than a year ago, reports J. C. Garret, state and federal agricultural statistician.

Throughout the United States there are fewer horses, mules, cattle and sheep but more hogs than a year ago, he states.

On January 1st of this year there were 319,000 mules and mule colts in Alabama, 51,000 horses and colts, 1,024,000 cattle and calves, 436,000 milch cows and heifers, 47,000 sheep and lambs, and 969,000 hogs and pigs.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our friends and neighbirs for their sympathetic help extended during our recent bereavment in the death of the wife and loving mother, Katie Bryant. We especially thank Dr. John Eiland, The Spigener Funeral Home and Rev. J. W. Jones for what they did in that hour of need. May God bless each and everyone of you.—D. R. Bryant and family.

LOMAX NEWS

Mrs. W. H. Killingsworth is confined to her room with cold. We hope she may soon recover.

Mrs. Ola Scott is still confined to her bed seriously ill at the home of her father, J. H. Jackson.

Our good old friend, M. F. Scott, and son, who live south of Clanton, visited our town Saturday.

A. A. and J. H. Jackson were called to the funeral of their brother, J. S. Jackson last Sunday. He died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Alma McGee at Columbiana, Ala., and was buried at Wilsonville Sunday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock.

The bright sunny days recently have given some of our farmers the fever of rearing to go.

Poltics are making some appearance in our town. We were visited by one candidate last week, and believe me he was putting on a bright smile.

Another noticable event was that two prominent lawyers of Clanton, one a Democrat and the other a Republican came through our town, it made us wonder if we were going to have a political love feast this year.

W. J. BILLINGSLEY APPEALS TO VOTERS

I take this opportunity to write a few lines to the voters of the Republican party of Chilton County. I am asking the people for the Treasurer's office of Chilton County.

In making this race I feel like I am worthy of asking the people for this office. I have been a Republican all of my life. In voting my convictions this way, I felt like it was the best thing for our nation and our county. I have no ill-will toward anyone who votes the other tickets. I am going to make my campaign on my merits and honor if I have any. I feel like my opponents will do the same way. I am sure they are all good men. I have always tried to live for the things that meant more to our churches, schools and county toward bringing them to a higher standard of living. This is a very critical time in the life of our county and nation.

I am asking the Republicans to put down our little differences, if there be any, and put our shoulders to the wheel and help to put our ticket over. The proof of our party is the kind of people it makes, so it's up to us people to make the Republican party what we would have it to be. I am proud of the fact that I can hold up my head and declare to the people the principles for which the Republican party stands.

I am planning to try to see every voter between now and the primary. Should I fail to see you, I am soliciting your vote and support.

In closing, may I again appeal to the people to think before you vote. Be sure you vote for the best interest of our party and the county.—Yours for a stronger and united Republican party, W. J. Billingsley.

A LETTER ABOUT TAXES, ETC.

Edieor Union-Banner:

Here is another farm wagon alegory. This time the old wagon says: "I will carry off this crop, but before I carry off another I will have to be thoroughly overhauled."

Mr. Roosevelt has taxed our cotton and almost everything else; and what he has lacked taxing, Governor Graves has finished the job. My cat and dog are almost afraid to run a rabbit, for if they caught him they would likely have to pay an income tax.

As I see it, we are in a mighty bad fix. Now, we Republicans have got to stick together; if we don't the Democrats will take the day. We must go to the polls and put men in office whom we know to be for fair play and who stand for and fight for reduced government expenses. Our taxes are getting to be more than we can stand up under, and Republican officials are our only hope.—D. Davenport, Maplesville, Alabama.

Don't Take Our Word For It—
Come in and see for yourself what Startena does for chicks!

When we tell you that Purina Startena is the finest feed you can buy for your chicks, we don't ask you to take our word for it. We ask you to come in and see the chicks in our display brooder that are being raised on Startena.

Compare the weights of these chicks with the U. S. Government Standard weights which we have right here at the brooder. Compare the development and feathering of these chicks with that of other chicks of this age that you have seen. You'll be quick to see why Purina Startena has become America's fastest selling chick starter.

Don't take chances this year. Start your chicks on Purina Startena, the "tried and proven" feed. See us today for your supply.

BENEFIT - PARITY - PRICE PAYMENTS COMING SOON

Auburn, Ala.—As soon as contracts and forms can be cleared, farmers will begin receiving rental, parity and parity and price adjustment payments due them under the 1935 cotton adjustment program, announces W. H. Robertson, member of the state allotment board.

F. W. Burns, extension livestock specialist, also advises that AAA officials in Washington have authorized the completion of all 1935 corn-hog contracts so that farmers may be paid their benefit payments at the earliest date possible.

When the Supreme Court ruled the AAA unconsttutional all work on contracts and forms was suspended until the approval by congress and the president of an appropriation of $296,-185,000 to make benefit, parity, and price adjustment payments to producers for performance in connection with the adjustment programs.

FROM E. H. LITTLEJOHN

Editor Union-Banner:

May I give a brief sketch of my life and what I stand for?

I was reared on a farm in West Chilton county and lived there until November 5, 1896, when I started for the West. I visited Paris, Dallas and Fort Worth, Teas, and worked on the farms and ranches in those parts of the State.

I spent fourteen months in Texas, but found it too rough, in those days, for me. I returned to my home county but kept on the lookout for something better until I had seen a part of seventeen states. I then decided that Alabama was as good as the best for me. I then began making preparations to remain in Alabama and bought my first tract of land.

On December 6, 1906, I married a school teacher, Miss Daisy Blackwood, of Winchester, Tennessee. We lived on the farm until November 20, 1910, when we moved to Marion, where I worked in a store for S. E. Wilburn. In June, 1911, I accepted a position as deputy warden at Lucile prison with S. A. Nelms of Marion, as worden. In November of the same year I resigned this position to go into the ministry and have been serving the rural and village churches since that time, except for a part of 1914, when I attended the Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville, Kentucky.

Most of my work has been with laboring people of limited means, making it hard for me as their pastor, but I have never shirked. As Paul said "I have labored with my own hands that I might not be chargeable to them."

Some one may say, "How can you make a commissioner,"

The answer is this "By being left free to do right by all men, not being 'hog tied' with special interests, obligated only to best interest of the people."

I earnestly solicit your support and should I be elected, I promise you a square deal.

E. H. LITTLEJOHN.

PLEASANT GROVE

JEMISON

We are glad to say that our pastor, Rev. Maurice Hodgens, was able to fill his place as pastor here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dawson and little son, Jimmy, were the week end guests of his aunt and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Miskelley.

Mr. John T. Terrell was the guest last week of his cousin and family, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Franklin.

Mrs. Frank Davenport and daughter and son, Ethel and James Frank, were the week end guests of her sisters, the Misses Dulcie and Delia Champion.

The Misses Champion had as their Sunday guests their sister, Mrs. Dovie Dawson, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Champion and sons, Alford and Albert, Mrs. Monroe Franklin and son, Cecil, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Franklin, Mr. Frank Davenport, Mrs. S. J. Woodley and Mrs. Jim Woodley.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Franklin and Mrs. Jim Woodley spent a few minutes with Mr. and Mrs. Erskine Martin Sunday evening.

Miss Lorene Davenport spent the week end with her grandparents and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Davenport, and Olis.

Rev. Maurice Hodgens dined with the family of Mrs. Roxie Price Sunday.

Mrs. Roxie Price was the guest of the Misses Champion and Mrs. Martha Wilson Saturday evening.

Mr. Howard Campbell has gone to enlist in the army.

Mrs. Jimmy Franklin and children spent the week end with her mother, Mrs. Emma Waldrop.

Misses Mary Elizabeth and Essie Mae Dawson spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Woodley.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Davenport were Sunday guests of their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Davenport.

Miss Olis Davenport spent Sunday as the guest of Mr. Euel Dawson's daughters.

Mr. Bernie Davenport visited the Miskelleys Sunday.

MISS ELMORE SANFORD

Miss Elmore Sanford, age 82, died last Sunday night at the home of her nephew, Walter Sanford, in Clanton. Miss Sanford had been making her home with her nephew for the past few months. Funeral services were held at New Harmony church, near Lomax, with Rev. J. K. T. Daniel officiating. Burial in the cemetery there, with Martin in charge.

EXPRESS APPRECIATION

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to friends for all kindness extende dus during our recent sad bereavement caused by the death of our father, James M. Wyatt. Every thing done, from the smallest to the greatest, is given a due portion of our gratitude, and our sincere prayer is that the Good Lord may bless you all immensely.—W. M. Wyatt, Mrs. Alice Baker, T. E. Wyatt, Mrs. Edna Bice.

Mary Belle Bean of Clanton has recently enrolled as a boarding student. Burnace Powell from Clanton has entered the freshman class.

A week from Thursday term tests begin.

Sally Thompson spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. Turner Gamble.

Mr. Clifford Johnson was home in Thorsby for the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Avery of Bessemer were visitors in Thorsby Sunday.

Mr. W. J. Billingsley of Clanton was a visitor in Thorsby Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Davenport of Birmingham were home with their parents for the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Smith visited Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Collins at Keystone on Sunday.

Miss Frances Wilson was at home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wilson, for the week end.

Miss Jean Swanson left Thorsby for her home in Union Springs Saturday.

Thorsby Institute News

Saturday night one of the best declamatory contests ever held at Thorsby Institute was given in the auditorium. The winner among the girls was Mary Nelle Pate, and among the boys Lewis Wilson. Five dollars was given to each. The prizes were made possible by a gift from a retired minister in Elgin, Illinois.

Sunday afternoon at five o'clock sixteen members of the girls glee club gave a sacred program at the Vesper Service of the Congregational church, Birmingham. Several Thorsby Institute Alumni were present. Mr. Maddox, Mary Maude Knight and Miss Jenkins made short talks in reference to the school. This church has been helping the school and a collection was taken for the school on Sunday evning.

Next Saturday school will meet. It will close at 1:15 p.m.

Next Sunday night the girls glee club will give a program at the Congregational church at 7:15. Everyone is invited. A collection will be taken for the Institute. The club will sing "Lovely Appear" by Chas. Gounod; "Come Unto Me Ye Weary," by Handel; and a medley of negro spirituals. The sextette will sing "Faith, Hope and Love". Miss Foss will sing a solo. There will be two or three short talks followed by a duet "Consolation", by Carrie Jacobs Bond, sung by Lessie Rascoe and Dora Holt.

Christian Endeavor News

On Sunday evening, February 23, the Christian Endeavor society had one of the most interesting programs of the year. It was in the form of a standard contest. The members were divided into two sides and a judge was appointed. The opening devotions were in the form of responsive reading between the two sides. Following this the leader asked questions based on various programs which we have had in the past.

Some of the topics were "What it Means to be a Christian", "Friendship", "Good Sportsmanship", Etc. Each question was asked to first one side and then the other. The side giving the best answer was given a point. During the program each side was given opportunity to present a special music number. The program was under the leadership of Miss Mary Christ.

J. N. SCOTT GIVES VIEWS ON SCHOOLS, POLITICS, ETC.

Editor Union-Banner:

Here I come again with the rare truth. Yes, the people were called to meet at the courthouse a few weeks ago, and the place was running over with people. Four of the proposed laws were voted down unanimously, but two of the laws were not called out. I know the reason—somebody was there who favored these two, and they knew that if they were offered they would be voted down too.

It is real amusing to me to watch some people and see just how they will act when they have a selfish desire and don't want other people to have a chance to express themselves. Yes, the other two would have been voted down, because they all meant more taxes, and we people of Chilton county are tired of being taxed two or three times for the same thing.

They have closed down the schools and say there is no money to run them. I think we should be informed as to what has become of our school money. Before the schools were consolidated we had plenty of money to pay the teachers for a full term; and we pay more taxes now than ever before. Some of us would like to know what is going with it. Mr. Simpson charged that there was plenty of money on hand to keep the schools going, and I partly believe it myself. I notice in the papers that they have some down there ear-marked. The ear must be cut off, or they could tell what the mark was—whether it was school money or for something else. Of course, when the money all gets to Montgomery and poured into the hopper and gets mixed up, they can't tell school money from any other money; but I had an idea they kept tab on it some way and could tell the amount paid in for school and for other things. I guess they have plenty set aside to pay all of the office holders; I haven't seen any statement where they were running short in that line and would have to stop like the schools. No, sir; but I saw last session where they raised their salaries two dollars per day more, and I want to say if our law-makers were as interested in schools and the dear children of the State as they appear to be, they would set aside enough the first thing to keep the teachers paid for a full term school just like they do for their own salaries.

I cannot believe they are so short of money any way; they have just got into the habit of wanting to put on an etra tax of some kind, and some of our law-makers go to studying about what can they tax next. I am sure a lot of them don't sleep good at night for dreaming about raising taxes, having what some people call "nite mares." But some of them won't come around and have a talk with their masters and tell them that they have studied up a law and that they want to know if it would meet the approval of a majority of the people. If a majority said that it was good and they wanted it, then they ought to go ahead and get it passed—but not until the masters pass on it. And I don't believe any law-makers from other counties should recognize it until they know that the majority had asked for it to be made a law.

By that means, they would be the servants of the people. Mr. Thomas and Mr. Cox both know that the people of Chilton county don't need the laws that they have proposed, and know too that the people don't want them. I hope that all the other representatives and senators will know it and turn them down when they come up for passage. Yours for clean politics.—J. N. Scott, Jemison, Ala.

W. L. SANDERS WRITES ABOUT SCHOOLS CLOSING

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in one of your columns to say a few words in regard to the closing of our schools. I wish to state, as a member of the Board of Education, that I regret very much that we are unable to run our schools a full term. This is due to the fact that the state has been unable to meet her obligations and not any fault of ours.

I feel that it is a shame and a disgrace on the state of Alabama and its officials that our schools are having to close, and at the same time large appropiations being made to other departments of the state of much less importance. I favor good roads and highways, but feel that they are second to education.

Education should be an essential function and should be recognized as such by our state laws. In our present educational system there seems to be too much discrimination between elementary and secondary eduiation, and that the ones that have no education at all. The state's appropriations to the various colleges of Alabama on a per capita basis, is too high compared to the appropriations made to elementary and secondary education.

Money should be made available with which to run the schools without additional taxes, but through economy in every department of the state. Thousands of hard earned dollars are being collected from the labor of these children who are having the schoolhouse doors slammed in their faces, to pay officials to provide for the children's education, and yet these officials sit down on the stool of do-nothing and draw their fat salaries while the children grow up in ignorance.

It seems that economy has no place in the minds of those who are in power, but that every song is sung to the tune of "New Taxes." How long will our people sleep and allow the tax grabbers to take our homes, close our schools and take bread from the people's mouths and clothes from their backs, in order to pay large salaries to useless officials and in order to pay political debts. The people must come together and have a common understanding as to where our trouble is and then join hands to remove these unworthy officials from office.

The taxpayers of Alabama should rise up and demand that their children receive their share of the tax dollar. I think the officials of the county and state in every department from the Governor down should be taken from the taxpayers peyroll until the child receives his justice.

With these few remarks, I move that every official in the state in every department be taken from the taxpayers payroll until the child receives its just share of the tax dollar. Do I hear a second?—Yours for justice, W. L. Sanders.

ANOTHER WELL-KNOWN "FACT" THAT ISN'T SO

"Feed a Cold and Starve a Fever" is a bit of misinformation that has been handed down through the years, and it seems particularly hard for us to realize that this is not good advice. As a matter of fact, it has been found that a person with a cold feels better and overcomes the malady quicker by cutting down on the amount of solid foods taken and increasing the amount of water, fruit juices, and other liquids. On the other hand a long-continued fever requires a relatively large amount of energy-producing foods, and unless they are supplied this energy must be acquired at the expense of the tissues of the body.

However, it is not to be assumed that the reverse of the above axiom—that is, feed a fever and starve a cold—is good advice in all cases, or even in the majority of cases. The safest practice in all cases of illness, especially at first, is to be very sparing of solid food. This avoids the possible complication of an upset stomach and gives the doctor a better chance to make a correct diagnosis.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

The name of George Washington is always associated by the American people with the month of February, and quite naturally, since the birthday of the Father of Our Country falls on the twenty-second day of the month. Washington's historic views on foreign policy, as outlined in his Farewell Address to the American people have been quoted frequently, ever since the first effort was made 16 years ago, to get us into the League of Nations, and these views are now known to every citizen who keeps up with the current world politics of the times. Perhaps never before was there greater significance in Washington's advice than at present. It is true that no effort is being made now to make Uncle Sam directly a member of the League of Nations, but the neutrality measures discussed in Congress have led to the question, in the minds of many, as to whether we are after all entirely free from the danger of involving our selves in world politics and perhaps international warfare.

Incidentally it may be stated that Washington's convictions on international politics were not the decisions of a moment. He had held them for many years. In a letter to Patrick Henry he once wrote: "My ardent desire is * * * to comply strictly with all engagements, foreign and domestic: but to keep the people of the United States free from political connections with every other country and to keep them independent of all and under the influence of none."

In the early days of the Republic, it was the fear of statesmen that we might become involved in an alliance with some European power and so get ourselves dangerously involved in Old World politics. Now the danger is not so much one of a two-party alliance. The peril is that we may involve ourselves directly or indirectly with some grand alliance which has for its stated purpose keeping the peace, while the secret aim of its dominating membership is to control the politics and commerce of the world.

It is rather significant that most of our internatiolasists who once advocated American membership in the League of Nations now desire a "neutrality" measure which would delegate authority to the President, whoever he might be, to apply "sanctions" to any nation which had been charged with disturbing the peace or engaging in "offensive warfare." Since the application of sanctions would be taken in hand by the League or certain powers in the name of the League, it is therefore apparent that our engaging in any adventure of the kind would be, to all intents and purposes, placing "Uncle Sam in the League of Nations. The authority to declare war has always been vested in the Congress of the United States, but it is easy to see that, with this sort of a policy, we might become involved in warfare when Congress was not even in session.

Congress in its action late in 1935 foresaw this danger and passed temporary neutrality acts which provided that in case of hostilities munitions of war should not be sold to either of two belligerent nations. A law which provided for the application of sanctions, would not promote neutrality at all, but would result in our joining of one in warfare against the other combatants. To say that sanctions would prevent war is taking a great deal for granted. The greater probability is that they would involve the nation applying them in trouble, because a country which starts on a belligerent venture is not apt to be dissuaded by any sanction threat. The case of Italy today is an excellent example. The much discussed oil sanctions have not been used and it is very doubtful that they will be. The greater probability is that they will not be and that Uncle Sam will get the blame. If they were applied with our cooperation and war with Italy followed we would not get the blame but a chance to send soldiers and munitions across the sea, and perhaps lend more money to nations which already owe us considerably on account.

It is to be remembered that neutrality does not mean joining a society to punish one belligerent in behalf of another. It envolves the idea of treating all belligerents alike. If we do this we shall be really neutral, and in much better position to keep out of trouble ourselves.

TAXATION AND CONFISCATION

Taxation may well lead to confiscation. Although taxation without representation was one of the causes of the Revolutionary War, taxation with representation may result in property confiscation according to Dr. R. J. C. Dorsey, writing in the current issue of the National Republic under the caption "Taxation and Confiscation." In part, Dr. Dorsey writes:

"Montesquieu wrote: 'It is no unusual thing to see governments mortgage their funds, even in time of peace, and to employ what they call extraordinary means to ruin themselves —means so extraordinary, indeed, that such are hardly thought of by the most extravagant young spendthrift.'

"Our own extravagant expenditures during the past three years may spell ruin to our country financially. We have shut our eyes to the unfortunate experience of other nations and have gone blindly on our way. Abuse of the power of taxation is a menace to the thrift and initiative of the people taxed. The question fairly presents itself, shall our representatives in our federal Congress abuse their power of taxation and financially ruin their constituents as well as themselves?

"Taxation without representation was one of the causes for our American Revolution. Prior to its commencement the colonists maintained that the Navigation Acts were not applicable to them because the people of the colonies were not represented in the parliament that enacted them. Because of this lack of representation they said they could not be justly taxed by England. It would seem that they emphasized the lack of representation far more than the amount of taxes levied. The Virginia Assembly passed a resolution in 1765 in which they held that the inhabitants of Virginia, by reason of their English blood, had inherited all rights of British subjects, and that the most important of these inherited privileges, was that of taxation by their own representatives.

"After the American colonies had won their independence from England, care was taken that the federal Constiuttion should have provisions for representation of the states in the federal Congress. They limited representation but placed little limitation or restriction on taxation. They evidently thought that through representation they could control the rate of taxation as well as the items taxed. They had experienced that taxation without representation was tyranny, but evidently never considered that taxation with representation might possibly result in confiscation. They did not forsee the time when they would control their representatives only in regard to local matters and that national affairs would be left to the individual discretion of those who theoretically represented them. Neither did they seem to consider that the day would come in our government when a pecunius minority might be at the mercy of an impecunious majority. Perhaps such may have been foreign to their mental processes, for they all had been through the crucible of an experience that had tried their very souls and all were interested in preserving their property rights. True, the principle of representation applies to political communities, as such, and not to individuals, and is satisfied by their adequate representation in the legislative body which votes the tax. The principle does not prevent any state from taxing the property of persons who have not the right to vote. In taxing the property of infants or non-residents, care should be taken not to levy a confiscatory tax."

NO REGIMENTING THE PRESS

Those critics of our "horse and buggy Constitution" and of the decisions made by the Supreme Court upsetting much of the New Deal legislation as contrary to the fundamental law of the land, ought to be interested in the decision of the high tribunal which held the Louisiana newspaper tax law null and void, on the theory that it contravened the freedom of the press.

Certainly there has seldom been a better illustration of the value of constitutional authority and procedure than this one dceision. The law proposed to levy a three per cent tax on the gross advertising revenues of newspapers in the state with more than 20,000 circulation. It was purpotedly designed as a blow against the larger publications of Louisiana which were opposing the rule of the late Senator Huey Long, and it was put through the legislature by a so-called Long majority. Its effect would have been to place a serious financial handicap against these publications which were opposing the "Long rule" in Louisiana. The smaller newspapers, among which Senator Long found more editorial support, would have escaped. The Supreme Court by a 9 to 0 decision invalidated the law, and in reading the decision justice Sutherland uttered these words:

"The newspapers, magazines and other journals of the country, it is safe to say, have shed and continue to shed, more light on the public and business affairs of the nation than any other instrumentality of publicity; and since informed public opinion is the most potent of all restraints upon misgovernment, the suppression or abridgment of the publicity afforded by the press cannot be regarded otherwise than with grave concern.

"The tax here involved is bad, not because it takes money from the pockets of the appellees. If that were all, a wholly different question would be presented. It is bad because in the light of its history and of its present setting, it is seen to be a deliberate and calculated device in the guise of a tax to limit the circulation of information to which the public is entitled in virtue of the constitutional guarantees.

"A free press stands as one of the great interpreters between the government and the people. To allow it to be fettered is to fetter ourselves."

When one compares this interpretation of the American Constitution with the regulations which are in force in autocratic countries like Russia, Germany and Italy, where there is no freedom of the press, and little personal liberty, he is at once impressed with the value of American democratic individualism and the broad principles on which it is based.

There will be no regimentation of thought in America so long as our fundamental law is followed. Nor will there be any regimentation of the individual in other directions.

The decision in this Louisiana tax case brings to our attention again the blessings which the American Constitution and its orderly interpretation by the Supreme Court brings us in the way of personal privilege. This privilege extends even to the critics and agitators against our present system of government. Otherwise they would have no opportunity of criticising and agitating.

Ordinarily we accept the blessings of constitutional law merely as a matter of course, even indulging in some criticism when we imagine our selfish interests have been trod upon. It requires an interpretation like that made by the Supreme Court in the Lousiana tax case to bring home to us the real value of what we have and are permitted to enjoy.

MAN IN THE MOON

AN ANSWER TO THE NEWS

Last week's issue of the Chilton County News carried a scathing denouncement of all things Republican, of Al Smith, of the Duponts, of the Hoosac Mills—and The Union-Banner. Now, the outlook for the Republicans for the present is quite bright, Al Smith isn't doing so badly, the Duponts, we imagine, are not so much concerned over the flaming editorials of the News, and the Hoosac Mills had a case against the New Deal which was strong enough to win the approval of the Supreme Court. That just about eliminates all concerned except The Union-Banner. That editorial contained passages which to us are "fightin' words"—we have never been one to run from a scrap; in fact we welcome a good healthy scrap any time, especially with the News.

The News says we call Roosevelt a "Socialist" and a "Dictator". For once the News has told the truth—that's cause for some applause. Let's see about this "Socialist' business. We invite anyone interested to scan the list of the President's first hand advisers; nearly all of them are avowed Socialists; very few of them are Democrats. Now compare the Socialist platform of 1932 alongside the record of the administration; you will find them almost identical. Next, compare the Democratic platform of 1932 alongside the administration's record; they read like different subject matter altogether. Very few of the planks of the Democratic platform have even been ATTEMPTED, and several of them have been flatly REPUDIATED. If the President's first hand advisers are Socialists (according to their own admission, made before they became advisers of the President), and if he took them in, knowing that they were Socialists, as he most certainly must have known, and if he has laid aside the Democratic platform and carried out that of the Socialists almost to the letter, as the record proves in black and white, is it not reasonable to assume that he is a Socialist? Has it not long been said that "birds of a feather flock together?" If he is not a Socialist, then why, in high heaven's name, does he counsel with Socialists and carry out their platform, instead of choosing men from his own party and carrying out their platform, which he stated so solemnly on so many occasions in his campaign, was binding on all candidates elected thereunder?

Now, about the "Dictator" business. A dictator is one who sets himself as a supreme ruler—a king without a crown. The record of Mr. Roosevelt shows clearly that he did just that. He called the congress together as soon as he was in office, and asked them to turn over all their legal powers to him, that he might work unhampered—and the poor little weak-kneed tadpoles recognized their master's voice. That gave him supreme power to make laws as he saw fit, and they became the law of the land for the time being. Of course, there was the little matter of whether or not they were constitutional, but little did Mr. Roosevelt think or care about that puny body—anyway, it would be quite a while before the Court could get a crack at them. He has later hinted that he passed them, KNOWING they were violations of the supreme law of the land. Now, if a dictator is one who sets himself up as a supreme ruler of the land, and if our President's record shows the undeniable fact that he did that very thing, contrary to our national Constitution, which he had taken sacred oath to uphold, is it not reasonable that we pronounce him a dictator—at least one who attempted to become a dictator?

The News says that Mr. Hoover predicted that "grass would grow in the streets of the cities and towns." At least one good Democrat, and incidentally one blessed with plenty of good old "horse and buggy" sense, has said that this very probably would have happened if the so-called beneficiaries of Mr. Roosevelt's big-hearted "Socialist Security Plan" hadn't tramped it all down walking into town after those delicately tinted government checks which were being passed around so liberally. And, by the way, we might remind you that those checks were issued against borrowed money, which you and your children and the generations to come will sweat to repay in heavy taxes.

The News says the wail of The Union-Banner is loud against the President's "assistance" to the farmers, and the social security work. If Chilton County's farmers are average farmers (and we have reason to believe that they are) there was not much "assistance" given. Around 500 of them met here in a mass meeting, and hardly a dozen of them were in favor of such "assistance." They seemed to believe that they were getting a raw deal, and they ought to know better than the News, for they were the ones who were carrying the depleted pocketbooks. Is the memory of the News so short that it has forgotten this mass meeting? If so, the editor should take time to scan the files of his own sheet, which was printed at the time —that will refresh his memory quite vividly. We even offered to go to the farmers and ask them whether they liked this "assistance" or not—we asked The News to do this in a "put up or shut up" challenge, and so far that challenge has not been accepted! Surely the News editor has not forgotten that little incident so soon.

Concerning the "relief" business, and the social security program, The Union-Banner was as thankful as anyone could be to see worthy people receive aid. Anyone with a heart as big as a peanut was thankful for this. But likewise, you know, and The News editor knows that there were lots of times when the curb was lined before the relief office (by daylight) waiting for the time to draw those checks, while prospective employers on many occasions asked those in line if they wanted a job, and got a turned-up nose for an answer. Numbers of instances there were where work was refused; others would not work, stating that "they will cut me off the relief if I take a job." Those things were happening all over the nation, too, and many scandals of this kind were aired in the newspapers (never in The News, however). One instance came to light in another state where all the "reliefers" got off the rolls, and those in charge of the office got out and rounded up a bunch to put on the roll, so that they, themselves, would have an excuse to draw pay. That is the "social security" program in a nutshell. There were cases that were deserving of help and got it. We are thankful for that. And there were others just as deserving that were turned down to make room for others less deserving. We are just as disgusted with that, thank you.

We do offer approval of the President's banking program. He SHOULD have done something about that, for, according to the heads of the banking business, it was lack of confidence in Mr. Roosevelt's monetary policy which brought about the collapse. The News editor knows all this—he isn't blind nor dumb. And, besides, it must be remembered that the banking program was worked out at the very beginning of Mr. Roosevelt's term, before he forsook the straight and narrow pathway of his party's platform, and strayed off with the "brain trust" after the false Gods of Socialism. Gen. Hugh Johnson, whom The News praised to the skies, and whom we just as strongly consigned in the opposite direction, says that when the "brain trust" came in the Democratic platform went out. Now The News turns thumbs down on Gen. Johnson, and we have not changed our opinion one whit—he is still just a "sour grapes" artist to us.

The News says there is no Democratic talk of destroying or weakening the Constitution. If this be true, we beseech The News editor to enlighten us regarding some omnious rumblings which issued forth from the White House following th NRA and the AAA decisions of the Supreme Court. Surely he read his daily newspaper about that time, and noted that many high officials were in favor of an amendment to the Constitution which would curtail the power of the Supreme Court. And if The News editor will scan back a few issues in his own paper he will notice where he gave many scathing remarks concerning those members of that Court who believed the AAA unconstitutional. Some of the larger Democratic newspapers have openly admitted that the President would ask for amendments if he were not afraid of public opinion. Has The News editor read none of these? The Supreme Court has rendered decisions on four outstanding cases—the Gold Clause, the NRA, the AAA, and the TVA. After the Gold Clause, which was favorable to the president, the Court was made up of men of "ripe good judgement", to quote The News. After the NRA decision, The News believed Supreme Court rulings should be unanimous, rather than by majority—it said there should at least be two-thirds majority. After the AAA decision, which was six to three, and the two-thirds majority they had been harping about, The News had an opinion that the "ripe good judgement" had suddenly gone rotten. But since the TVA decision, The News has been religiously silent. Why? The same nine men decided all four cases—to The News their judgement was ripe and sensible in two of them, but in the other two it was over-ripe—even rotten.

The News says that we offer "trumped-up" charges. Has not the president done the things he has been accused of? His actions are a matter of record. The definitions of the "epithets" The News speaks of fit the facts in Mr. Roosevelt's case. He was the doer of these deeds—not we. When the Republicans were in power, they were lambasted far and wide by those same papers who now defend the president. A high priced press-agent bureau was set up with the serpent-tongued Michaelson at its head. We have not dropped to that low level yet, and I don't believe we will. Jim Farley has already said that this will be the dirtiest campaign in history. So far, we can't say about that. Maybe he knows what he is talking about—he knows his campaigns better than we do.

The News further asks that the Republicans advance their own ideas as to how things should be handled. I cannot recall a single instance where Democratic assistance was offered by Mr. Hoover in his dilemma. Instead he had an adamant Democratic congress which tied his hands.

We know this News ouafit and their style. We know what it takes to cool them off, too. Facts—plain facts—that's all it takes. They will blaze out just as they did last week with editorials that are calculated to curl one's hair. But once they are confronted with bald facts—the plain unvarnished truth—they go back and fill the editorial columns with articles about such subjects as highway safety, fire prevention and the like—safe subjects. At least that is the history of The News in past controversies. We wonder what they will do on this one. Our guess is that they will curl up and keep mum, at least until the storm blows over.—Man in the Moon.

THE RIGHT TO CRITICIZE

There has been a great amount of criticism of the expenditure of the amount of public money which has gone forward designedly for relief, especially the financing of unusual federal activities for the stated purpose of assisting those who are out of jobs. One of the most frequently used words is the newly coined term "boondoggling." Just what this term means as applied to work financed by government money, has not yet been definitely settled, but it is generally been taken to include such activities as taking tree censuses, staging plays, teaching dancing and promoting other entertainments. The list is too numerous to mention in a measured space.

Too frequently the defense of "boondoggling" by the New Dealers has been the charge against those who criticize government expenditures that these critics "oppose" government relief and would willingly see unfortunate people go cold and hungry. Nothing could be further from the truth. Everyone admits that relief is still necessary. Three years of the New Deal has not eliminated the need for such relief. In spite of optimistic statements, unfortunately, the crisis is not yet over.

But the people who are putting up the money, and these are the taxpayers of the United States, have a right to criticise the way the money is being spent, if they feel that the expenditure is not efficiently done. Relief is not a political question. There are millions of Democratic taxpayers just as there are millions of Republican taxpayers. Those who are seeking rlief belong to all political parties. Relief and the many problems coming out of it do not form a partisan issue.

Therefore, when criticism of the relief works project are made, they annot be answered by accusing the critics of having political or uncharitable motives. Either the money is being spent effectively or it is not being spent effectively.

Nobody denies that plenty of money is being spent. It has been admitted that there will be a national deficit during the coming year of more than two billion dollars; it may be nearer five billions. The deficit since 1933 has been about 13 billions. It is expected that the books will be closed on a deficit of around sixteen billions when the first four years of the New Deal have been completed. And the national debt will have grown to around thirty-six billions.

This is a lot of money. And a lot of it has been spent for relief projects. The people who will settle the bill are the taxpayers. They are not partisan politicians. They come from both major political parties. And they have a right to charge extravagance or inefficiency if they find reason to do so.

Scientists say that physically man is about 90per cent water. It is our experience that some politicians are about 98 per cent hot air.

When the babe of today grows up to be a politician he can't even claim that he was born in a log hospital.

THE FEDERAL PERSONNE

One of the items which go to make [illegible] increased expenditures of our governme[nt] ring the past few years is the number [of] eral employes. It is true that one [of] pledges which the Democracy made [in] campaign of 1932 was to trim the feder[al] roll and bring on a new system of ec[o]. It is true also that there were some [re]tions in the personnel and in the pay[roll] the regular government employes duri[ng] first few months of the present admi[nis]tion.

Yet it is to be noted that on No[v.] 30, 1935, there were 602,230 employes [in] regular departments of the government figure is taken from the report of the Civil Service Commission. On March [1] the number of employes was 572,091, [a] there has been an increase of 30,000 number of employes in regular gover[n]departments in a little less than three

Unfortunately, however, for the fut[ure] campaign pledges, this is not all of th[e] ture. In addition to regular departme[nts] the government we have had the creat[ion] the New Deal which was to put us back [on] high road of prosperity and bring us th[e] abundant life.

The number of New Deal employes [on] federal payroll on November 30, 1935, [ac]ing to the report of the Civil Service [Com]mission, was 197,849. These workers [are] course designedly acting "for the emerg[ency]" but when the emergency will be over [no] can guess. In fact, we are now led [to] lieve by certain reports from Washingto[n] some of the new agencies are to be "permanent."

At any rate, if the 197,000 on the [emer]gency payroll are added to the 30,000 [addi]tional employes in the regular depart[ments] it will be found that about 227,000 addi[tional] people have been put on the governmen[t] roll during the Brain Trust Administ[ration]

So it will be seen that a considerable lay of the people's money has gone to t[he] gineers who are administering relief and viding the "abundant life." This, of c[ourse] has had a great deal to do with the in[crease] in federal expenses. No matter what may be said about national re-employm[ent] is certain that these 227,000 now hav[e] which they didn't possess three years The assault on bureaucracy may have out to be a "dud" but there is no qu[estion] about increased employment so far as Sam's payroll is concerned.

THE LAND OF OPPORTUNI[TY]

Americans who knew him, or who we[re] quainted with his record as a public [ser]feel a keen sense of loss in the sudden of Vice President Charles Curtis, who away at the age of 76, in the nation's recently.

Mr. Curtis was a thorough Americ[an] thought and in deed. His record as con man, senator and Vice President was which any citizen who had risen from ble beginnings to a high estate, might feel proud.

We can find a lesson, however, not Mr. Curtis' long and unsullied record the fact that his life proves to us once that the United States is a land of opp[or]ty. Spending his early years on an reservation, in humble surroundings Curtis worked his way up the ladder his own individual efforts and the stre[ngth] his character.

Appearing in his youth in many jobs ing that of jockey he finally entered and became a county attorney in Kansas vious to his election to the Congress United States. He first took office and fourteen years later went into the States Senate. After one term in the he was defeated for re-election and the back two years later, being reelected and again in 1926. In 1928 he was Vice President of the United States.

When we begin to doubt again that the land of opportunity which our said that it was, let us look over the of Mr. Curtis. He permitted no obsta[cle] overcome him. He worked his way front by dint of his own efforts. Fort[une] for him, in his youth there was no soc[ial] incentive for one to throw up his hand the futile question "what's the use" an[d] demand "security" through federal re[gu]tation.

What this Kansas boy could do, boys day may accomplish. This is still th[e] of opportunity, no matter what the Th[eo]Dreisers and other defeatists may tell requires, however, personal character, prise and perseverence to develop the tunity once it is found. This cannot be on governmental fiat. It must be accom[plish]ed by the youth at home, not by a feder[al] reau at Washington.

Here is one lesson which may be gai[ned] looking at the record of this Kansas boy eighth American Indian, who became a lar and beloved Vice President of the States.

Maybe if the Department of Agri[culture] would find some way to curtail the pro[duc]of peanuts it might have some effect supply of politicians.

There are too many pacifists who favor of abolishing national defense where except in Russia.

Lesson for March 1

VISION AND SERVICE

LESSON TEXT—Luke 9:28-43a.

GOLDEN TEXT—He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same beareth much fruit.—John 15:5b.

PRIMARY TOPIC—On a Mountain Top With Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—On a Mountain Top With Jesus.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—With Jesus in Prayer and Service.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Worship and Work.

The subject of this lesson as chosen by the lesson committee needs to be most rigidly held to its place as set forth in the Scriptures. The lesson should not be taught in a general way as pertaining to vision and service. The particular vision herein set forth is the unveiling of the majestic person of the Son of God, with an epitome of the messianic kingdom.

Jesus took with him Peter, James, and John, and went into the mount to pray. His chief aim in retirement was to get the disciples into a state of receptivitiy so that he might show them the reality and method of his kingdom. Before going into the mount, he declared that there were some standing in his presence who would not taste death until they should see the Son of man coming in his kingdom (Luke 9:27; cf. Matt. 16:28). That their drooping spirits might be revived and their confidence restored, he was transfigured before them. Two men from the upper world were sent to converse with him about his approaching death in Jerusalem (v. 31)—the very thing about which the disciples refused to talk. Then, too, God's own voice was heard in words of approval of Christ's course, directing them to hear the Master. Surely now they cannot doubt his ability to carry to execution his kingdom plans. The purpose, then, of the transfiguration was to give the disciples a foregleam of the coming kingdom, to enable them to see the kingdom in its embryonic form. That this is true is not only shown by the context and circumstances, but by the inspired interpretation of one who was with him and knew all that transpired (see II Pet. 1:16-19, R. V.). Let us, therefore, note the outstanding features of the kingdom as displayed in the transfiguration.

I. Jesus Christ the Glorified King on Mount Zion (vv. 28, 29).

Jesus glorified on the mount to which they went to pray was intended to symbolize the messianic kingdom as it will be when Christ returns literally to the Mount of Olives in Jerusalem (Zech. 14:4-17).

II. The Glorified Saints With Christ (vv. 30, 31).

1. Moses, who was once denied entrance into Palestine, appears now in glory, representing the Redeemed of the Lord who after death shall pass into the kingdom. Many thousands of the redeemed have fallen asleep, and at the coming of the Lord shall be awakened to appear in the kingdom with him.

2. Elijah, now glorified, represents the redeemed who shall pass into the kingdom through translation. Many shall be living upon the earth when the Lord comes, and shall, without dying, be changed, and thus pass into the kingdom (I Cor. 15:50-53; I Thess. 4:14-18).

3. The topic of conversation (v. 31). It was the death of Christ, the very thing the disciples refused to believe.

III. Israel in the Flesh in Connection With the Kingdom, Represented by Peter, James, and John (v. 28).

Israel shall be called from their hiding place among the nations of the earth and shall be gathered to Jesus Christ, the King, as the central people in the kingdom (Ezek. 37:21-27). Christ is the King of the Jews.

1. Peter's proposal to build three tabernacles (v. 33). The Feast of the Tabernacles looked forward to the glorious reign of Christ. Peter caught a glimpse of the significance of the transfiguration. His proposition showed that he apprehended the meaning of the Feast of the Tabernacles and, therefore, his proposition substantially was, "The millennium is come; let us celebrate."

2. The divine voice (v. 35). At this time God himself uttered words which assured them that the transfigured one was his Son, Jesus Christ.

IV. The Multitude at the Foot of the Mount (vv. 37-43).

The people here were grievously oppressed by the devil, as illustrated by the demon-possessed lad. There are times when the devil is especially active in the affairs of men. The multitude at the foot of the mount is representative of the nations which shall be brought into the kingdom which shall be established over Israel (Isa 11:10-12).

CONCORD 4-H CLUB NEWS

We called a meeting Thursday, February 20th. All members were present. Mr. J. W. Fant, county agent, was with us and discussed the plans for the club and the prizes that different fertilizer compaines are offering to the club boys. All the boys seemed to be interested and we hope we can carry out our plans successfully. We are getting ready for the club rally which will be held soon and we hope that we will enjoy it.

If any one wishes to join our club, he may do so between now and the 29th day of February. No one can join after the last day of February. We invite every one to our club meeting which will be held March 19th.—Reporter, Morris E. Mims.

JEMISON F. H. A. INITIATES NEW MEMBERS INTO CLUB

Wondering what would befall them during the initiation, twenty girls entered the home economics department on Wednesday morning, February 12, 1936, to become members of the thriving chapter of the Future Homemakers Association.

These girls had earned their way into the club, not through the initiation, but through their work in home economics and scholarship in school.

With the addition of these members, there are a total of 56 now actively engaged in club work. The following girls were intiated:

Thelma Barnett, Elizabeth Bold, Bernie Dean Cobb, Mildred Crowson, Lorene Davenport, Flora Guy, Katherine Green, Maxine Glass, Doris Guy, Geraldine Hubbard, Bessie Hilson, Janie Horn, Jodie Bell Lowery, Eunice Lowery, Kelly Moore, Juanita Maddox, Myrtice Posey, Margie Reynolds, Ruth Stockdale, and Louise Yeager.

After the initiation refreshments were sedved by the social committee.

SARDIS HOME DEM. CLUB MET

Sardis Home Dem. Club met Thursday evening at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. V. A. Short. There were seventeen members and three visitors present. Miss Pardue gave a most interesting and helpful demonstration on "Floor and Furniture Finishes, Home-made Stains, Wax, Etc." Many useful ideas were obtained through the demonstration.

Our club quota of $1.00 was raised to help with the crippled children clinic. The next meeting will be on Thursday, March 19, at the home of Mrs. W. W. Headley. Come on members, let's make this the best club year. I am sure we will not regret the short time we spend each month at the club, because of the fact we get many helpful suggestions from each demonstration that helps to make better home makers.—Mrs. V. A. Short, Reporter.

Mrs. Barney Roberts' Sunday School Class Entertains

A most interesting party of the week was on last Tuesday night when the "Reds" entertained the "Blues" at a delightful party in the basement of the Methodist church. During a recent membership contest the class was divided into two sections, with captains for each side. From a class of four to begin with, it has grown to thirty members in the past few months. The "Blues" won over the "Reds" and were entertained by them. Heart dice was played during the evening, after which a delicious salad plate was served.

Carolyn Klinner Celebrates Her Fourth Birthday

Mrs. Herbert Klinner entertained with a lovely party honoring her little daugher, Carolyn, who celebrated her fourth birthday anniversary dast week. The George Washington idea was carried out in all decorations, refreshments and favors. The favors were miniature hatchets, which were hidden and were found by each little guest. Baloons in red, white and blue colors were given the guests. The refreshments were ice cream and cake decorated in red and green cherries. Games were enjoyed during the afternoon. The guest list included Bobby Webb, Richard Reynolds, Julia Nell Parrish, George McCain, O. K. Welch, Jeanett and Crutcher Ross.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stanley spent last week end in Montgomery with Mrs. Stanley's parents.

Mr. Tom Searcy left this week for a few days visit with his parents in Clayton, Alabama.

Mr. and Mrs. Jams Made, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hayes, Miss Alice Brooks and Mr. Jack Hayes were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Broadhead in Montgomery on Tuesday of last week.

Miss Sara Colley left Tuesday for her home in Troy, Alabama.

Mr. Charlie Gulledge of Montgomery was a visitor here Saturday.

Mrs. W. W. Fox and Mrs. Rufus Brown will visit Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Walder (Nell Wells) of Lafayette, Ala. next week. Mrs. Walder is entertaining honoring her son's first birthday.

Miss Nell Rockett is attending High school at Sylacauga, Ala., due to the fact that the schools in Chilton County have closed because of lack of funds.

MRS. KATIE BRYANT DIED LAST THURSDAY AFTERNOON

Mrs. Katie Bryant, age 45 years, wife of Dock Bryant, died at her home on Clanton Route 2, Thursday afternoon, February 20th, at 12:10 o'clock, following a long illness. The funeral was held at Chestnut Creek church Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. J. W. Jones officiating. Spigener was in charge of the burial.

Besides the husband, she is survived by three girls and three boys—Roxie Bryant, Mrs. H. B. Rutland, Mrs. Herman Todd; Roland, John and Grady Bryant. There are two sisters and one brother—Mrs. G. F. Harris, Mrs. H. B. Glenn, E. B. Calloway, Nauvoo, Alabama.

Mr. Tom Searcy spent Monday in Birmingham on business.

REFUGE NEWS

There was a goodly number present at Sunday school Sunday although there is always room for improvement. We are hoping that in the near future there will be more who will become interested in Sunday school.

Health of this cammunity is very good at present, except Mrs. Arthur Mims, who has been sick for the past two weeks. We hope she will soon be up again. Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Mims and little daughter, Vera Nell, from Sylacauga, were visiting here Saturday night and Sunday.

Mr. Mallie Easterling and family were visiting here Saturday night and Sunday.

Our subject for next Sunday in Sunday school is "Worship and Work" so let's try to prove who we worship by our works. If we will try we can always find an excuse to keep us away from service on Sunday. That is easy, but that is the wrong attitude among Christians, so let's study our Sunday school lessons and come ourselves and bring our children. Be on time next Sunday.

Mr. Percy Pitts was a business visitor to Columbiana this week.

Music Appreciation Hears Mrs. Longshore

An annual feature of the regular monthly meeting of the Music Appreciation Club was enjoyed on Tuesday evening when a musical program was rendered by three outstanding musicians of Birmingham.

Mrs. Burr Neighbors, pianist, and Mrs. Bullock, soloist contributed the program.

Mrs. Longshore needs no introduction to a Clanton audience," said Mrs. Reid Mullins. president, in presenting her to introduce the other guest artists. She is a favorite to the citizenry of our town, who love good music. She is instructor of music in the local high schol.

Mrs. Neighbors, a former head of the Music Department of Alabama College, played two numbers on the piano in addition to accompanying the violinist and soloist.

Mrs. Bullock, lyric soprano, sang several numbers to an appreciative audience of club members and guests.

McCORD NAMES PARTY SLATE

Full List of Delegates Are Drawn To Oppose Group Held "Hand-Picked"

Montgomery, Feb. 29.—A complete new slate of candidates to oppose the delegates to the Democratic national convention who were "hand-picked" by the State Democratic Executive Committee was offered today by Leon McCord, Democratic national committeeman.

As soon as his list was complete McCord rushed it to John D. McQueen in Tuscaloosa to have it recognized as an official Democratic list of delegate candidates.

If McQueen fails to recognize his ticket, McCord said, he will bring mandamus proceedings to have it recognized and will submit it to the voters of the state in the May 5 primary.

McCord's action climaxed a long and bitter fight he has waged against the "hand-picking" of delegates by 'the state body.

Reached at Tuscaloosa by telephone, Chairman McQueen said he could not say what he would do until qualification papers for the new slate were formally presented to him.

Plans Finish Fight

We propose to test this thing to the finish," Mr. McCord declared, "to find out if the state committee can meet in a corner and hand-pick these delegates. We want the Supreme Court to say."

Pressure On Dixon

A determined last minute effort to bring out Frank M. Dixon of Birmingham as a candidate for U. S. senator against John H. Bankhead was under way this afternoon. It was definitely learned that former Judge Leon McCord of Montgomery, who like Mr. Dixon made an unsuccessful bid for the governorship in 1934, had called on Mr. Dixon and promised to stump the state for him if he entered the race.

BEN G. GLASSCOCK WANTS THE PLACE OF 3RD COMMISSIONER

Added to the already triangular list of candidates for Commissioner from the Third District, is this week the name of Ben G. Glasscock, of Maplesville. A son of the late Jefferson Davis Glasscock, who died several ytars ago, Ben G. Glasscock was reared in Beat 14, near Macedonia, and lived there until 10 years ago. He still owns and operates his farm at his old home place.

He is a successful business man and a life-long Republican. Alex Glasscock, who was Commissioner from the Second District about 25 years ago, was his father's bother. All good Republicans point with pride to tht life of Alex Glasscock. Ben G. Glasscock is now a member of Macedonia church, where he has been a deacon and active member for a number of years.

This candidate seems to have the makings of a real Comissiner, according to his many friends in West Chilton, and all indications are that he will make a good race for represetative in the Court from the Third District.

He has never run for public office before, but has been Republican Committeeman from Beat 7 for the past four years and also served in that capacity from his old home precinct, Beat 14.

APOLOGIES TO CHARLIE DUKE

Last week, the make-up man in "dumping in" the type about C. D. Duke running for Commissioner again, through mistake put the first paragraph of the article last. This made the write-up about Mr. Duke start off rather roughly and abruptly. It was certainly not our intention to run the article in this fashion, but it was purely through error on our part.

It is the full intention of The Union-Banner to deal with all the candidates exactly alike. One looks exactly like the rest to us, so far as any favor extended by the paper is concerned; so, if anything has the appearance of partiality do not consider it as such, because it is not our intention to express favoritism to any Republican candidate.

Concert At Courthouse Friday Night Mar. 6th

If you have been waiting for an opportunity to hear some really good singing, you need not wait any longer than Friday night at 8 o'clock. If you will be at the courthouse at that hour, Prof. W. M. Devaughn and Prof. Eugene H. Whitt assure you of an enjoyable hour and a half.

The singing school of the above named gentlemen comes to a close at that time, and they are going to celebrate with one of the best programs ever presented in this section. The concert is sponsored by the Courthouse and Enterprise singing societits, which organizations will get part of the proceeds to buy song books with; so those who attend will know that their money is going for a fine cause. It is hoped that the courthouse will be filled to capacity for this conctrt, and don't forget, it is Friday night of this week, beginning at 8 o'clock.

CLANTON STUDENTS ENROLLED AT UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA

University, Ala., March 3.—A recent survey of the students enrolled in the University of Alabama shows that there are twelve students from Clanton.

They are: Jesse F. Foshee, Alex T. Hayes, Elizabeth Johnson, Priscilla Johnson, Olive L. Knox, John P. Lawrence, Jr., Joseph M. Moore, Henry G. Reynolds, Jr., Ruth M. Shepherd, Joseph W. VanDerveer, Dan W. Waite and G. C. Weldon.

During the past two weeks lots of people in and around Clanton have been victims of the flu epidemic. Some have had pneumonia, and same have bordered on serious illness; among them are Mrs. J. E. Gowan and daughter, Miss Ruth; three in the Plyler family, Mrs. Will Hayes and son, the whole Ezell family, part of the family of Reuben E. Wyatt, Ress Driver and family, Mrs. Birdette and Children, Mrs. L. E. Diefenderfer, Mrs. W. W. Wingard and children.

WANTED—UNION-BANNERS DATE OF JANUARY 23RD

The Union-Banner would like to get hold of a few copies of the paper, date of January 23, 1936. If you still have your old copy of that date handy, we would appreciate you sending it to us at some early date, and we will be glad to pay you for your trouble.

H. N. Smith Motor Co. Moves Location

Has One of The Most Up-To-Date Show Places And Filling Stations Here

The H. N. Smith Motor Company, of Clanton, Dodge and Plymouth dealers, have announced this week a change in their location and the addition of new and modern features of their place of business.

Formerly located behind the A&P Store, this well-known establishment has moved three blocks south to a new home that has been completely remodeled to suit their particular needs and to enable them to give their customers a more complete and efficient service.

This change brings the H. N. Smith Motor Co., to the front with a new display section where they are showing the new 1936 Dodge and Plymouth automobiles to the public. Their salesmen are most courteous they have been making an enviable able record on selling Dodge and Plymouth cars throughout this section.

In addition to the attracive arrangement of the automobile end of the business, they have added a new and modern service station, located at the building. A large advertisement from the H. N. Smith Motor Co., which appears in this issue, tells more of the improvements they have made for the benefit of the many customers they now serve, and extends a cordial invitation to everyone to visit their new home. An outstanding feature of the business will be the one-stop service station where all modern conveniences have been installed for the pleasure of their customers. Mr. Smith stated that this station will remain open day and night. It is easily reached from the highway, with plenty of room.

"Having used the products of the Standard Oil Company for a number of years, operating lumber trucks and cars, I am partial to the Standad line," Mr. Smith stated, "and am recomending it to our customers."

W. J. EASTERLING OUT FOR COMMISSNONER 4th DISTRICT

To the list of Republican candidates for Commissioner frmo the Fourth for Commissioner from the Fourth W. J. (Bill) Easterling. Mr. Easterling lives in the extreme eastern part of Beat 4, in the edge of Refuge community.

He has spent his entire life of 59 years in the vicinity in which he now lives. He is a successful farmer. and has been in business in Clanton off and on for the past several years. His entire time is now being devoted to his farm, except what time is required in doing a little hand-shaking; this will likely take up a great portion of Mr. Easterling's time when the campaign gets good and heated up. Somebody else will have to look after his mules and plow stocks then.

Mr. Easterling ran for Commissioner eight years ago, and got a majority of the Republican votes in Beats 4, 9 and 16. Four years ago he ran for the school board, and was likewise defeated. Under the old hand-working system Mr. Eastreling was road overseer for around fifteen years. As to politics, no one can claim a straighter Republican record than W. J. Easterling.

He is a member of Walnut Creek Methodist church, and has been faithful to his church affiliations for a number of years.

His experiences in various lines of business will no doubt qualify him for the services of Commissioner well.

DELOACH-DEAL

Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Deloach announce the marriage of their daughter, Geraldine, to Owen Deal of Lay Dam on Monday, February 24th. They will make their home at Lay Dam with the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Deal.

"GOD MADE ME AN AMBASSADOR OF THE LITTLE FRECKLED-FACED BOYS AND GIRLS OF ALABAMA"

[EDITORIAL]

Alabama's Governor, Bibb Graves, is quoted as giving utterance to the words of this heading.

The governor had just returned from his latest trip to Washington to "shake the plum tree". Running up to Washington almost every month at the expense of the taxpayers is a great pastime with the governor. He has made numbers of such trips since he went in office a little more than a year ago. To use the governor's own language, these trips are made to "shake the plum tree", which is supposed to grow and bear plums so abundantly in Washington, D. C.

What an ambassador of God this governor of ours is! What a man, with hat in one hand and reaching out with the other, like a beggar or supplicant, continually running to Washington and beseeching the federal government to make good the shortage of state funds occasioned by the Alabama New Deal squandermania now in vogue in this state!

Contemporaneous with this, a few days ago, on the occasion of the celebration at the state capital of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the inauguration of Jefferson Davis as President of the Confederacy, the governor made a great speech on Jefferson Davis, his principles and achievements.

But after all, is there anything very strange in these actions of our governor, when we behold the record and performance to which he is treating Alabama?

This governor and self-styled "Ambassador of God", who, like his illustrious idol, Franklin D. Roosevelt, was elected on a pledge of economy, and immediately after taking office launched out on a wild spree of reckless spending.

Now he has his cohorts in the legislature sitting up nights trying to discover new fields from which to draw more and more taxes.

While he is not openly doing so, every one who has the intelligence of a child knows that this same governor and self-styled "Ambassador of God" is plotting and scheming to have broken down the state prohibition law which he promised to uphold and enforce. In place of keeping this promise to the prohibition people of the state, he is planning to basely betray them, just as he is so gifted atdoing generally.

Liquor is to be legalized in the state, as means of producing revenue for the spenders, led on by the governor. Revenue money is what he and his crowd want. Great consumption of liquor will produce much revenue. The more liquor, the more revenue for the gang of reckless spenders. The more liquor, the more jobs for the army of political hangers-on and henchmen. They want more pie, hereafter to be richly flavored by all kinds of liquors.

But what will it profit the underpaid school teachers and the little freckled-faced boys and girls, of which our governor is "God's Ambassador?"

On with the New Deal dance in Alabama!

WINGARD OFFERS NICE ARRAY OF SPRING GOODS

The display of spring goods at the store of Wingard Brothers commands the inspection of shoppers coming to Clanton to trade. Mr. Wingard assures the trade that he has some of the prettiest patterns in airy spring apparels that has ever been shown here. "Before you do your spring shopping." Mr. Wingard says, "See our line."

Read the advertisement of Wingard Brothers in this issue of The Union-Banner, and see just what they have to offer. They do hemstitching too.

MISS SALLIE PAINE MORGAN VISITS BLUE MTN. COLLEGE

Blue Mountain, Miss., Feb. 29.—Miss Sallie Paine Morgan, dean of students of Randolph-Macon Woman's College, Lynchburg, Virginia, who graduated from Blue Mountain College in 1929, is spending a few days on the campus visiting her alma mater.

"A college is as strong as its alumnae association," Miss Morgan stated in a chapel talk today, "and I am joining with the students and alumnae of my alma mater in loyalty, love, and support in their effort to advance the National Alumnae Association and the college."

PINK MARTIN FOR SCHOOL BOARD

Mr. Pink Martin, of Union Grove, is again in the race for member of the County Board of Education. He ran for the Board two years ago, and was nominated over two opponents in the Republican primary, but was defeated in the general election by the Democratic nominee. In the general election Mr. Martin received a total of 2,387 votes.

For six years Mr. Martin was chairman of the Board of Trustees of Union Grove school, and made a splendid record in that capacity. He has been a consistent and ardent church worker in Union Grove church for the past ten years, and has taken special interest in Sunday school and young peoples work. He was superintendent of the Sunday school for three years, and is now treasurer for the church in the Good Samaritan subscription plan.

The county board of education needs men like Pink Martin. He is thoroughly qualified for the job, and his experiences in various phases of life will enable him to handle the work coming up before the Board in a way that will be creditable to himself and to the county. He is 50 years old.

GROCERY STORE AT COTTON MILL

Uncle John W. Hays, of Jemison, announces this week that his son, H. W. Hays, and himself are now operating a grocery store at the Clanton cotton mill. Uncle John, who is the old time singer, has lots of friends over the coutny, and he invites them all to come to see him at his new store. It is located on the old highway, at the intersection of the village road. Read their adv. in this issue of The Union-Banner.

FEBRUARY 29th IS LUCKY DAY FOR THE CLEMENTS

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Clements at 9:40 a.m., and at almost the same hour the Will R. Clements found a heifer calf at the barn.

Both babies will have to wait four yeahs for a birthday.

THREE TRIED IN MAYOR'S COURT

Three cases came up in Mayor C. Fenn Jones's court Monday morning of this week, all for disorderly conduct. Two were tried and fined and one was continued.

MORE FIDDLING AND MUSIC AT VERBENA SATURDAY P. M.

Mr. Hollis Hiten of Berbena reports that the fiddlers convention in Verbena last Saturday afternoon went off fine, and the co-operation of the merchants in donating prizes was very satisfactory.

Another similar entertainment will be pulled off next Saturday afternoon, March 7th, beginning at 1:30 o'clock. There will be music and recreation contests until 3:30, when the fiddlers convention comes off. After the fiddlers convention, in which prizes again will be awarded, there will be more music, stunts, etc., until about 5:30. There will be no admission charges.

PROGRAM AT VERBENA SCHOOL

There will be a musical and vaudeville program at Verbena school building Friday night, March 6th, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. The purpose is to raise money to equip Verbena Park. The admission will be 5c and 10c. Everybody is invited to attend.

A. P. VINSON JOINS RACE FOR COMMISSIONER OF FOURTH

On the last day for announcements, last Saturday, Mr. A. P. Vinson, of Bethel community, filed his papers and formally entered the race for Commissioner from this, the Fourth District.

Like Mr. Burnett, Mr. Billingsley, and some other of the Republican candidates, Mr. Vinson is not new in politics of Chilton County. He was elected as Commissioner and went into office first in 1917; he served four years and was out four years. He went in office again in 1925 and served for two terms in succession, going out in 1932.

In speaking to the editor of The Union-Banner, Mr. Vinson pointed to several accomplishments of the Court while he was commissioner before, and especially stressed his belief in dividing the work on the roads and bridges among all the people of the district. He believes in avoiding all discrimination in the distribution of jobs, at all times using as much manpower as is consistent and as little machinery as can be gotten by with to do the best work.

Elsewhere in this issue of The Banner is a letter from Mr. Vinson, in which he addresses the voters of the county. Turn to it and read it.

FANT CALLS MEETINGS AT CLANTON AND JEMISON FRI.

I am calling a meeting at the courthouse in Clanton at 7:00 p.m., and one at Jemison at 4:00 p.m., Friday, March 6th, for the purpose of discussing the control of common insects and diseases that attack fruits and vegetables.

We will be glad to have all who are interested in the control of insects and diseases of fruits and vegetables, and we especially invite those who are producing fruits.—Very ruly yours, J. W. Fant, County Agent.

CITY'S CREDIT GOOD

Mayor C. Fenn Jones has a letter from Weil Brothers, bond brokers of Montgomery, stating that the Clanton municipal bonds which that company holds are not for sale. This speaks well for Clanton's financial condition. When the brokers want to hold on to bonds, that means that they are good.

Also Mr. Jones cited an incident which happened right here which speaks well for Clanton's financial condition. A man came into his office the first of this week and voluntarily offered to lend the city $1,500 at 6 per cent interest. This also goes to show that people consider the city's financial condition sound.

New Regulations For R.F.D. Routes

Government Specifies Kind of Boxes To Be Used In Country

Section 1058, Postal Laws and Regulations, is amended, effective March 1, 1936, to read as follows:

Persons wishing to become patrons of rural routes shall provide and erect at their own expense, standard boxes of either the No. 1 or the No. 2 size, the manufacture of which has been approved by the Department.

The box of the No. 1 size is 18½ inches long, 6¼ inches wide, and 7½ inches high.

The box of the No. 2 size is twenty-three and three sixteenths inches long, 11 inches wide, and thirteen inches high.

Patrons shall not be required to discard boxes which were in use on and before July y, 1929, while they remain servicable. A box which has been approved for use in the Rural Delivery Service, although it may not be either a No. 1 or a No. 2 type of box, may be transferred by the owner to another route when he moves, or it may be continued in use at the old location by a person moving into the place occupied by the former owner of the box, but a box which is of a standard box of either the No. 1 or the No. 2 type, or which has not been approved by the Department, obtained by one patron from another, may not be erected and used by the former at a dfferent location.

JAMES A. FARLEY
Postmaster General

Mr. L. L. McCary, of Selma, Ala., was in Clanton one day last week, and while here subscribed for The Union-Banner. He is a brother of our good friend H. Frank McCary, of Pinedale community, and, like his brother, is a pleasant fellow to have a visit from. Mr. McCary has a standing invitation to visit The Union-Banner at every opportunity.

SINGING AT FRIENDSHIP FRIDAY NIGHT THIS WEEK

Mr. J. D. Colins asks The Union-Banner to carry the announcement, that the regular singing will be held at Friendship Friday night of this week, begining at 7:30 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend. Bring your new books.

THIRTEEN ARRESTS BY COUNTY OFFICERS SINCE SUNDAY NIGHT

Sheriff Hardy and his force of deputies report a total of thirteen arrests in the county since last Sunday night. Four were taken into custody at Jemison for gambling and brought to jail Monday afternoon.

There was one arrest for violating the prohibition law, two for grand larceny, and two for driving while intoxicated.

STORE AT COOPER SELLING FINE 1-HORSE CULTIVATOR

Mr. Arthur L. Taylor, manager of the Jackson store at Cooper, is this week carrying in The Union-Banner an advertisement of the Lilliston One-Horse Cultivator, which he has added to his line of merchandise at that store. Mr. Taylor has arranged to demonstrate this cultivator to anyone who is interested.

This cultivator is outstanding in that it has every possible adjustment; it can be adjusted so that your mule can walk on the row or any place between the rows. About a 900-pound mule can easily pull the implement. Ordinary plows and heel-bolts are used on it, and the depth for plowing may be adjusted; the wheels also are adjustable.

The slogan for the Lilliston is: "A good farmer knows that time means profits."

IT'S A 9½-LB. BOY

Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Parrish announce the birth of a big 9½-pound boy. He was born on Saturday, Feb. 29th. They have named him Joe Ronald. Both mother and baby are doing fine.

KIWANIS URGE AIR DEFENSE

This County Not Prepared For Attack From Air In Warfare

The Kiwanis club of Clanton passed a resolution on Thursday evening of last week urging the strengthening of the American air defense.

The resolution stated that the United States is vulnerable to attack and that the best defense is an adequate air force. Congress was called upon to pass suitable legislation building the air strength of the Army and Navy.

The relative position of the United States with reference to air strength was shown in an article which appeared in this paper last week. This report showed the United States in the seventh place from the top in air power.

The Kiwanis club of Clanton is a service club with the motto "WE BUILD". The interest of this club is not confined to the City of Clanton, but extends throughout the county, state and nation. Dr. C. O. Lawrence is president of the local club, and Percy M. Pitts is secretary.

The complete resolution is as follows:

Whereas, the great importance of aircraft in modern warfare is becoming increasingly evident, and

Mhereas, the great importance of nerable to air attack and all major nations today have modern air forces superior in number to ours, and

Whereas, our scheme of national defense is based on enemies approaching by the sea, necessitating a mobile fleet with a powerful air arm, and

Whereas, of the number of airplanes on hand in the GHQ Air Force, approximately fifty per cent are rapidly approaching absolencence and the same is true throughout the rest of the air corps:

Therefore, be it resolved, that the Congress of the United States pass suitable legislation with the necessary appropriations, to provide the Army and Navy of the United States with equipment and personnel in sufficient numbers to build up an efficient air force, and

Bt it further resolved, that the Army and Navy be provided by Congress with funds necesary to procure efficient aircraft and train pilots in such numbers as will safeguard us against foreign attack.

Be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be furnished to the Hon. W. B. Oliver, the Hon. Hugo Black, and the Hon. J. H. Bankhead, of the National Congress, and to the local papers of Clanton, Alabama.

LOCAL BILLS PASSED ON LAST WEEK END

Among the Legislative bills passed last week end by the House and Senate at Montgomery, the Birmingham Age-Herald listed the following in their issue of Saturday, February 29:

By Thomas—Appropriating $3,000 annually for Chilton County Health Department.

By Thomas — Requiring Chilton county to establish a fund for paying salary and travel of a county agricultural agent.

By Cox—Requiring Chilton County to purchase supplies on competitive bids.

By Cox—Fixing compensation for Chilton County commissioners.

By Cox—Creating office of Chilton county road supervisor.

SINGING AT COURTHOUSE NEXT SUNDAY AFTERNOON

There will be regular monthly singing at the courthouse next Sunday afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock. The chairman, Mr. Jesse C. Jones, extends an invitation to all singers to attend.

If you have a new Showalter or Stamps books, be sure to bring it along, or if anyone has some other kind of book, you will be welcome to bring it along; the more the better. Quartets have a special invitation to attend.

Evan Parrish Enlarging Business; New Quarters

One of the growingest and most progresive business concerns in Clanton is that being operated by Mr. Evan Parrish. He has enlarged his quarters a time or two rectntly, but it has become necessary for more enlargement.

Mr. Parrish has moved his cream business out of his main storehouse and has placed it in the old postoffice building further down the street, where commodious quarters will be enjoyed by that part of the business.

This will give more room for the other parts of Mr. Parrish's work. He will be enabled to handle fertilizer on a broadened scale, and his seed and feed business will be permitted more room too. In short, Mr. Parrish is merely making room to really do some business in his seed, feed, fertilizer, poultry and cream business.

The Union-Banner is carrying a nice adv. of Mr. Parrish in another space of the paper this week. He gives the full details of his enlargement, and delivers some interesting messages to the people of the county. Turn to his adv. and read it. You will be interested in what he has to say.

IN REMEMBERANCE OF LITTLE NORA HOWELL

The death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Howell and took their darling little daughter, Nora, to her home beyond blue skies, where she will sleep a peaceful sleep in the arms of Jesus. Little Nora was just a sweet rosebud, budded on earth to bloom in heaven. Little Nora leaves a father, mother, three sisters, and two brothers.

Weep not, dear loved ones, for Nora is happy, sleeping in the arms of Jesus. She has gone on to welcome her loved one to that happy home beyond the blue skies. We miss her, yas, we miss her sunny smile. We miss her vacant place, we miss the little hands that did the little deeds. Little Nora is gone; we can never see her on earth any more. We loved her, yes we loved her, but God loved her best of all. God needed a little angel so He picked little Nora. So weep not father, mother, brothers, and sisters, but let us all prepare to meet little Nora in that happy home beyond the blue skies. Whitten by one who loved her.—Her Aunt.

VERMONT P.-T. A.

The P.-T. A. at Vermont Junior High School has been postponed one week. We will not meet on Thursday night of this week, the 5th, but will meet on Thursday night of next week, March 12. We are hoping by this time some plans will be made whereby our school may run on, but any way, come out and let's keep the P.-T. A. going. We can do that much for our teachers and our children. Further announcements will be made next week. Watch the papers.

PUBLICATION TO NON-RESIDENT

The State of Alabama, Chilton County.
Circuit Court in Equity, No. 1201.

Janie Smith, alias, Janie Morrison, Complainant; vs. Harry Smith, alias, Howard Melvin Smith, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register by the affidavit of Janie Smith, alias, Janie Morrison, that the Defendant is a non-resident, and that his place of residence and post-office address is unknown, and that such address cannot be ascertained after reasonable effort; and, further, that, in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant is over the age of twenty-one years:

It is, therefore, ordered by the Register that publication be made in The Union-Banner, a newspaper published in the County of Chilton, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring him, the said Harry Smith, alias, Howard Melvin Smith, to plead, answer, or demur to the bill of complaint in this cause by the 24th day of March, 1936, or, in thirty days thereafter, a decree pro confesso may be taken against him.

Done at office in Clanton, this 22nd day of February, 1936.

popularity. Experienced waitresses cooks, etc., will be employed by Mr. Mims as has been tre practice of this cafe in the past.

The name of the business will not be changed, Mr. Mims stated, and he is extending a most cordial invitation to the general public to visit his place of business.

The cafe business is not new to Mr. Mims as has been the practice of this business life of Clanton several years ago, it was through the cafe and bakery business. Since that time Mr. Mims has become one of the most widely known citizens of the county, having served as Circuit Clerk of the county for a number of years.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

In the twenty-first chapter of the gospel of Luke our Lord warned His disciples of the perils which were before them. He told them that deceivers would arise. He warned them of wars and commotions. He said, "Nation shall arise against nation and kingdom against kingdom". He told them there would be great earthquakes in many places and there would be famines and pestilences. He told them before these calamities would come they would be brought into prison and before kings and rulers. In the thirteenth verse of the chapter He said, "and it shall turn to you for a testimony". This means that all the troubles they were to face would give them an opportunity to witness to the power of the gospel and to the saving grace of God.

The writer tells the students in the Bob Jones College to make stepping stones, not stumbling stones, out of their difficulties. It is certainly the Christian's privilege to use all sorrows and sufferings and disappointments as a means of spiritual growth and also to use these things as an opportunity to show the world that Christianity is worth having. We read in the Bible something about "though the earth be removed from under my feet I will fear no evil". This is a most dramatic picture. A man is standing upon the ground and the whole earth slips out from under him and leaves him suspended in space. The man is a Christian. He says, "Let the earth go. I do not have to have any earth upon which to stand as my heavenly Father holds my hand". The only thing that can "keep us steady" amid the cataclisms, turmoil, strife, persecution, and uncertainty of the modern world is our saving faith in Jesus Christ our Lord.

The Hebrew children on the path of duty went through a fiery furnace, but they came out unharmed. Daniel on the path of duty stopped for a little rest in a den of lions. The lions had more appreciation of goodness than some average men of Daniel's day. The lions made no effort to harm God's prophet. Paul and Silas could sing in prison. They did not have to have a piano or organ because they had heavenly music in their hearts. The sweetest music we hear is not the music from the organ, piano, or violin surrounding to the master's touch, it is the joy bell which God rings in the soul of a surrendered man.

1936 WAS CHRYSLER DEAELR'S BEST YEAR

Complete registration figures compiled by R. L. Polk and Company establish that the year 1935 was by a very large margin the best in the history of the Chrysler Sales Division dealer body. Chrysler dealer's registrations in the United States in 1935 totaled 40,536 Chrysler cars, and increase of 44.5 per cent over the 28,052 registrations recorded for the year 1934.

Chrysler dealers also registered 148,981 Plymouth cars, as against 117,090 in 1934. The grand total for 1935 was 189,517 units as against 145,142 in 1934, an increase of 30.6 per cent. In the industry's peak year, 1929, Chrysler dealers registered 153,853 units. Thus 1935 shows an increase of 23.2 per cent over 1929.

Not only in units but in dollar volume of sales, Chrysler dealers in 1935 were far ahead of any previous year in their history.

This story will interest many Men and Women

NOT long ago I was like some friends I have... low in spirits...run-down...out of sorts...tired easily and looked terrible. I knew I had no serious organic trouble so I reasoned sensibly...as my experience has since proven...that work, worry, colds and whatnot had just worn me down.

The confidence mother has always had in S.S.S. Tonic...which is still her stand-by when she feels run-down...convinced me I ought to try this Treatment...I started a course...the color began to come back to my skin...I felt better...I no longer tired easily and soon I felt that those red-blood-cells were back to so-called fighting strength...it is great to feel strong again and like my old self. © S.S.S. County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

FARMERS ADVISED FEED WORK ANIMALS COTTONSEED MEAL

Auburn, Ala.—J. C. Grimes, head of the animal husbandry department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, reminds Alabama farmers that they may profitably feed their horses and mules cottonseed meal if properly balancel with home-raised grains and roughage.

For horses and mules doing light work he suggests one of the three following rations:

(1) Six pounds corn and cob meal; 1½ to 2 pounds cottonseed meal; and 12 pounds of hay or bundle fodder.

(2) Six pounds oats, corn or molasses; 1½ to 2 pounds cottonseed meal; and 10 pounds hay or bundle fodder.

(3) Three pounds oats, corn or molasses; 2 pounds cottonseed meal; 5 pounds hay or bundle fodder, and 5 pounds cottonseed hulls.

For horses and mules doing heavy work he is advising farmers to feed one of the following rations:

(1) Thirteen pounds oats or corn; 1 pound cottonseed meal; and 14 pounds of hay or bundle fooder.

(2) Twelve pounds of oats or corn; 2 pounds cottonseed meal; 5 pounds of hay or bundle fodder; and 5 pounds cottonseed hulls.

In advising farmers to feed horses and mules cottonseed meal, Mr. Grimes suggests the use of ¼ pound daily and gradually increasing this until the amount recommended in the rations is reached.

Bill Mullins of Mobile spent the night in Clanton Sunday night, enroute to Birmingham.

STATE FARM WOMEN TO ATTEND WORLD MEETING

Auburn, Ala.—Mrs. E. C. Bledsoe, president of the Alabama Council of Home Demonstration Clubs, reports that a large group of Alabama farm women are making plans to attend the third Triennial Conference of the Associated County Women of the World in Washington, May 31 to June 6, this year.

In announcing that Alabama will be well represented, Mrs. Bledsoe reveals that between 1,000 and 1,500 rural women representing more than 75 nationally organized associations in over 40 different nations of the world will attend the conference.

Alabama women are extended an invitation to attend the meeting by the Associated women of the American Farm Bureau Federation. All members of the Alabama Council of Home Demonstration Clubs are members of the national organization.

FACTS DESIRED ABOUT WHERE WILD DOVES NEST

Auburn, Ala. — Farmers and farm boys throughout Alabama are offered an opportunity to cooperate with State and Federal wildlife conservation agencies in determining how, when and where the mourning dove, the common wild dove of the south, the common wild dove of the State, builds its nest and raises its young.

In announcing the dovt survey in Alobama, Harold S. Peters of the Co-operative Wildlife Research Station here, says that "we need to know where and when the dove nests and something about the habitat of the nest." He states that farmers, sportsmen and others interested in furnishing information about dove nests are advised to ask the editor of their weekly paper, the county agent, vocational teacher, home demonstration agent, vocational teacher, home demonstration agent, 4-H club leader scoutmaster, high school biology teacher, or game warden, for a dove nesting card to fill out and mail to Auburn. The card requires no postage.

Agencies cooperating in the dove survey are the U. S. Bureau of Biological Survey, the Alabama Department of Conservation, the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, the State Agricultural Experiment Station, and Extension Service. This nesting survey is being made as a basis for an extensive study of the dove in Alabama.

20,000 ALABAMA BOYS ENROLL IN 4-H CLUBS

Auburn, Ala.—T. A. Sims, State boys 4-H club leader, announces that over 20,000 Alabama farm boys have become 4-H club members this year, making the largest enrollment in the state for many years.

Eighteen counties in the State have an enrollment of 500 or more. Etowah county leads with an enrollment of 1,200; Cullman comes second with 1,152; and Covington, third, with 1,077. The enrollment in other leading counties is:

Morgan, 806; Lauderdale, 784; Walker, 760; DeKalb, 727; Jefferson, 670; Marion, 620; Madison, 600; Lamar, 591; Dale and Mobile, 540 each; Cleburne, 534; Houston and Butler, 533 each; and Limestone and St. Clair, 50 each.

FORESTS ENDANGERED BY SPRING CLEAN UP

Montgomery.—With the advent of the spring season many kinds of work on the farm and in other outdoor connections will involve the use of fire, points out the Alabama Commission of Forestry. Fire, according to the Commission, is one of man's best friends, but it also easily can become one of his worst enemies. In fact, in the states of the Gulf Region the misuse of fire has earned for it the designation of Public Enemey No. 1.

Landowners who are using their nonagricultural areas and idle acres for the purpose of growing porfitable yields of timber have every reason to be on their toes during the next six or seven weeks. In March and April the use of fire in clearing fields and buring rubbish is so extensive in most parts of the State that many fires are certain to escape and spread into adjoining woodlands. While March, in most years, witnesses the greatest amount of precipitation of any of the months, the rains usually are interspersed with dry and windy intervals during which fires will run rapidly and inflict a great deal of damage.

The solution lies in everybody refraining from starting unnecesary fires and in taking care that such fires as are started do not escape control. If fires are attacked promptly in their early stages they are very easy to extinguish. No one should start a fire and leave it unattended, since under spring conditions the fluctuations in dryness and wind are so acute that the spread of unguarded fires is almost inevitable.

ALABAMA YOUTHS EMPLOYED ON N. Y. A. WORK PROJECTS

The National Youth Administration for Alabama now has employed on N. Y. A. projects throughout the state approximately 3,000 boys and girls W. P. A. families. The quota has not yet been reached; the goal which has been set for March 1 is the employment of 6,000 youths. The tentative quota for this district is 800.

Boys and girls between the ages of 16 and 25, who are members of families which have been certified as being eligible for employment on W. P. A., are eligible for employment on N. Y. A. projects. It is not the intent of the N. Y. A. program to take boys and girls out of school. The N. Y. A. program has two distinct phases, employment and school aid. Boys and girls from W. P. A. families who are in school should in most cases remain in school and if they need assistance should apply to the principal of the school they attend for N. Y. A. aid.

It is the purpose of the employment program to provide not only employment, but training. Youth work one-third of the time worked by W. P. A. workers and receive one-third of the wages paid unskilled W. P. A. workers. The program includes provisions for reclassifying those youths who have special skills or training in order that they maye be placed in a higher wage group, if they were qualified. Projects of various types have been released in the state in an effort to give boys and girls congenial and suitable employment and at the same time provide real training. There are recreation projects, clerical projects, projects in sewing, book-binding, domestic service, rural library service, social and public service, construction and auto mechanics.

Boys and girls who are members of W. P. A. families, who are between the ages of 16 and 25, and who have not yet been interviewed or made application for employment on the N. Y. A. program may apply by calling on the N. Y. A. Director, Mr. A. J. Maples, District No. 3, at 820 Bell Bldg., Montgomery, or by writing for an appliaction blank. It is requested that only persons within the specified age limits and who are members of W. P. A. families apply. Other persons are not eligible for assignment to projects and letters and calls from them simply result in disappointment and in slowing up the program because of the time required for unnecesary interviews and letters. It is believed, however, that some of the projects, such as the recreation projects and the rural library service projects, will be beneficial to boys and girls of the community not eligible for assignment to projects.

Extra Nitrogen in "ARCADIAN" with an extra cash value as high as 88¢ per ton

When Southern farmers buy Nitrate of Soda they want Nitrogen, the "growth element", and they want all they can get for their money.

The Department of Agriculture and Immigration of Virginia, after official tests, reports that ARCADIAN, THE AMERICAN NITRATE OF SODA contains extra nitrogen over the 16% guaranteed with an extra cash value running as high as 88¢ per ton.

This is good news for farmers. For Cotton, Corn and also for all other crops brings the farmer big value Big value in extra nitrogen. Big value in crops.

ARCADIAN, THE AMERICAN NITRATE OF SODA

THORSBY SECTION

(Mrs. S. E. Norton, Manager)

There will be regular services at the Baptist church next Sunday, both morning and evening.

At the Congregational church, choir practice will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock under the direction of Miss Kathryn Foss.

Prayer meeting will be held at 7:00 o'clock Wednesday. Following this prayer meeting an important business meeting will be held. All members are expected to be present.

The Congregational Ladies Aid will be held on Thursday of this week, March 5th, at the home of Mrs. Clyde Meade. All are invited.

The Thorsby Boy Scouts will meet at the city hall on Friday evening at 7:00 o'clock, March 6th. The boys are reminded to bring their musical instruments.

The Thorsby Boy Scouts invite the the cooperation of the citizens of Thorsby in the effort to clean up their town. The whole troop expects to meet on next Saturday, March 7, in the morning to work at their task. The boys are grateful to the town of Thorsby for the promise of a wagon and driver to assist them.

In the last week's notice of Scout activities, as it appeared in The Union-Banner, two or three corrections need to be made. In announcing the election of oficers for the year the name of Robert Weems appeared, Robert Weems is not a member of the Troop. The correction should read "Robert Minor was elected patrol leader of the second patrol." Further corrections should read "Dwight Steward is a member of the Troop and William Hicks is the Scout treasurer."

Mrs. Anna Phalin and Mrs. C. S. Howard have been on the sick list the past week.

Mary Louise Reinhardt is sick with flu.

Miss Edith Foss is sick with the flu and her mother, Mrs. Reuben Foss has gone to Selma to care for her.

The Baptist Ladies Aid Social will be held next week, Thursday March 12, at the home of Mrs. Harry Waters. All are invited.

Mr. Hugh Primm of Calera spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Raybon and family.

Mrs. Martin Peterson, Mrs. J. H. Goddard and Mrs. Anna Phalin went to Clanton on Tuesday to attend a leadership meeting of the demonstration clubs.

Virginia Bice spent the week end in Clanton with Mrs. A. E. Sanders.

Mrs. A. P. Villadsen and children, Henry and Joe, from Birmingham, spent Sunday with relatives in Thorsby.

Mrs. Fanny Tippen of Montgomery returned home Wednesday after a visit of some days with her daughter, Miss Sue Tippen.

A union prayer meeting will be held at the Congregational church on March 11th.

Mrs. Rascoe Maddox and son, David, and Miss Hazel Maddox, spent Monday in Birmingham.

Mr. Ernie Christiansen and family and Mrs. Harvey of Birmingham spent Sunday with Mr. Christiansen's mother, Mrs. Christina Christiansen.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Harper of Birmingham were guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Harper on Sunday.

Miss Frances Wilson of Montgomery visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harvie Wilson, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Piper were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Piper, near Lay Dam, last Sunday.

Thorsby Institute News

The second term of the second semester begins next Monday. Term tests will be on Thursday and Friday of this week.

The girls glee club gave a sacred program at the Congregational church Sunday night. Because Marye Nelle Pate and Mary Louise Reinhardt were unable to be present on account of sickness, the sextette was not able to sing, but three of the sextette sang the sang as a trio without opportunity to practice. The collection which was taken amounted to $7.61 which was for the Institute.

A week from Friday afternoon the Pushmataha and Philomathic clubs will have a joint program. On March 21 (Saturday) school will be in session, closing at 1:15.

Several new students have enrolled. Those who have come from Clanton are: Hazel Nivens, Nell Jones, Olive Elmore, Elizabeth Williams, Myrtle Pitts, Mae Juanita Miller, Burnace Powell, Sidney Nelson, William Hodges, Kermit Jones and Mary Belle Bean. Frances Sexton of Isabella has also enrolled.

Christion Endeavor

The Christian Endeavor Society had a meeting at the regular time on Sunday, March 11. The theme of the program was "The Sabbath and How It Should Serve Man". Following the regular program a discussion was conducted by Rev. Stanley, Richard Petersen and Ruth Primm sang a duet. The program was under the leadership of Sarah Green.

The executive committee meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society met on Sunday afternoon, March 1. At that time it was voted that the regular monthly meeting be changed to the Wednesday preceding the first Sunday of each month.

VICKS COUGH DROP

Beware The Cough
From a common cold
That Hangs On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Creomulsion not only contains the soothing elements common to many remedies; such as, Syrup of White Pine Compound with Tar, fluid extract of Licorice Root, fluid extract of Ipecac for its powerful phlegm loosening effect, fluid extract of Cascara for its mild laxative effect and, most important of all, Beechwood Creosote is perfectly blended with all of these to reach the source of the trouble from the inside. Creomulsion can be taken frequently and continuously by adults and children with remarkable results.

Thousands of doctors use Creomulsion in their own families as well as in their practice knowing how Creomulsion aids nature to soothe the inflamed membranes and heal the irritated tissues as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled. Druggists also know the effectiveness of Beechwood Creosote and they rank Creomulsion top for coughs because you get a real dose of Creosote in Creomulsion, emulsified so that it is palatable, digestible and potent for going to the very seat of the trouble.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritations and especially those stubborn ones that start with a common cold and hang on for dreadful days and nights thereafter. Even if other remedies have failed, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund every cent of your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Don't worry through another sleepless night—phone or go get a bottle of Creomulsion right now. (Ad)

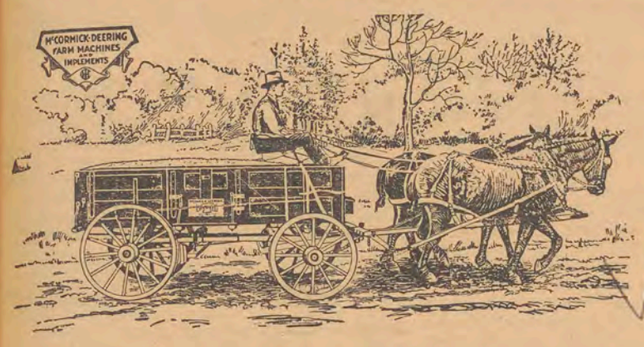
You Can Bank on the WEBER Wagon for Years of Hard Work



IF YOU need a strong, light-draft wagon for hard use over all kinds of going, you can't get any wagon better than the Weber. And it is priced right, too.

Thoroughly seasoned "A" grade lumber is used in the wheels, axles, reach, and tongue. The finest oak and hickory are used in the wheels, and the steel tires and hub bands are put on to stay by a hydraulic press.

Weber farm gears and boxes have been giving the most satisfactory service for nearly a hundred years. Don't buy any wagon until you have examined the Weber. Various capacities and sizes available to meet practically every hauling need.

Snakes and Soda in the News

Something the school books don't tell about Arcadia, Florida, is that it is the home of one of the South's unique industries — the raising of rattle snakes. Their meat is canned and sold for food and their skins used to make attractive garments such as Miss Myrabeth Reece, above, was wearing when her picture was taken. Miss Reece's father, by the way publishes the weekly Arcadian.

What turned our attention to Arcadia this week was the fact that although there are 17 towns called Arcadia the first farmer living in one to receive a Certificate of Award from the Arcadian Nitrate people is Mr. Clarke Brown of Arcadia, Florida. This certificate is given to farmers who conduct outstanding demonstrations with this Southern soda and thereby demonstrate their interest in the welfare of the South. The idea was originated by Dr. Charles H. Herty's plea of "Southern fertilizers for the Southern farmer."

OPPORTUNITIES NOT DEAD

The editor of the Frenchtown Independent takes a wicked fling at Al Smith. He states that when Al was young there were opportunities for the youth of this country but now a man can't even run a grocery store because everything has been gobbled up by the corporations. The answer to that is that the youth today can work his way to the top of a corporation and do better than he could ever hope to do with his independent grocery. A little reflection will show that the head of practically every corporation in the country, the railroads in particular, started at the bottom of the ladder and worked his way to the top.—High Bridge, N. J., Gazette.

There's another advantage to snowstorms. They are the only thing that will shut up those people who go around all the rest of the time saying that the Gulf Stream has obviously changed its course.—Boston Transcript.

If people were half as confident of their knowledge as they are about things of which they know nothing the level of intelligence would rise at least to 13 years.—Fon Du Lac Commonwealth.

All you need to win the world's goodwill and support is to reach the point where you don't need it.—Glendale News-Press.

It took a blizzard to convince many persons that an enjoyable evening can be spent occasionally at home.—Indianapolis Star.

Arthur Brisbane says that all parents should send their children to school in Florida to grow up healthy and husky in the sunshine. It's too bad the parents of those puny Minnesota football players didn't think of that in time.—Baudette Region.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

It is at least interesting, if not reassuring, to note the amount of advice we are getting from financial authorities in their "releases" to the public, as to how private funds ought to be invested to avoid losses during a period of inflation. This indicates that great many students of economic affairs believe that we may face such a period in the not distant future. Some of them tell us that we have already entered an inflationary era. They compare the prices of commodities with those of a year ago, and remind us that it is possible for a nation to have inflation without the speeding up of the printing presses—cerdit inflation. It is this form of "expansion" which they say that we are now experiencing, and they add that this is often followed by outright currency inflation.

The advice given to the small investor or property owner, who may be faced by inflation, is that he diversify his investments, placing some of his means in high grade bonds, some in good common stocks and still more in real estate, especially in a small home or a farm on which there is not too great a mortgage. One point to be remembered is that no sound finacial expert believes that the ordinary man can improve his financial standing during a period of inflation. He usually gives advice calculated to prevent an inflationary period, not to make money. A spree of inflation is like a storm. One does not expect to benefit by it but tries to keep the ship in as safe condition as possible to ride out the storm.

Those who advocate printing press money usually do so on the theory that it will make it easier for the man who is in debt to pay his obligations, because he will be paying the debts off in cheaper money. The catch in this is that, when inflation comes, the cost of living rises faster than income, and it is just as hard to get hold of surplus fifty cent dollars when living cost doubles as it was to garner in those worth 100 cents, in the pre-inflationary days. And debts can only be paid with savings. The working man, or the fellow on a fixed salary always suffers in any period of inflation because the living cost outstrips increase in salaries and wages, which cannot be adjusted as rapidly as the prices of commodities. And the farmer who gets higher prices for his commodities finds that his cost of living has soared too. Of course he may be able to ride out the storm better than the man on a wage or salary, but in the long run, if inflation follows the normal course, all are apt to go down together.

It is generally conceded that in my country the way to avoid national inflation is to practice national economy and balance the federal budget. This always calls for high taxes as well as intrenchment. Some politicians, speaking of the present budgetary situation in our own country declare that the people are already "taxed to death" and will not stand for additional taxation. It is true that higher taxation is never popular and is generally repudiated at the next election. If expenditures rise and the national budget remains far out of balance it is certain that more taxes will be resented. But if a "desperate" effort is made to trim expenses and balance the budget the people will undoubtedly accept higher taxes in a better frame of mind than if expenditures continue to mount. It would be pretty much a question of what would be done with the money. Thinking people want most of all to avoid inflation. Yet they do not want to pay higher taxes and will not do so without considerable protest unless the money is used to put the financial house in order.

NO OUTCRIES NOW

One of the most significant features of the decision of theUnite d States Supreme Court, legailizing the T. V. A. sale of power from Wilson Dam, is the reception of the decision over the United States. From the New Dealers themselves, there has been nothing but smiles. This is, of course, only natural and to be expected. Those of the Brain Trust contingent who, only a few weeks ago were criticising the Supreme Court for its decisions on the N. R. A. and the A. A. A., declaring that we had gone back into the horse and buggy age, are now not only satisfied but delighted. This time the Supreme Court is no mere agency of the days of rugged individualism from which they have "extricated" us. Cries for limiting the powers of the court have been silenced. Evidently with a great many political leaders and statesmen the Supreme Court is only wrong and worthy of criticism when it disagrees with the views and checks some of the aims of the aforementioned political leaders and statesmen.

From the so-called "power interests" and the others opposed to the T. V. A. from selfish or unselfish reasons, we may get expressions of disappointment. But there has been no demand, either inside Congress or out, that the powers of the Supreme Court ought now to be curtailed. The Supreme Court has spoken and that finishes the matter in hand. For some reason or other the quality of reception is now different than it was when other important decisions of the Court were made.

The decision itself is without question based on sound precedent. Briefly it holds that the Government may build dams to control navigation and floods and for national defense; that the Government may carry its surplus power so manufactured to market and dispose of it. This was the principal point of issue and the case had been narrowed down by the Government attorneys to such point without going into the broader question of whether or not the Government might go into the power business in competition with private enterprise. This latter question is one which is still to be adjudicated.

It is not to be forgotten, either, that the decision, as the San Francisco Chronicle well puts it, has "at least refuted the weird assumption that the Supreme Court is functioning as a political body bent on blocking the New Deal."

The Supreme Court is above considerations of party politics. An examination of the votes of the Justices on measures during the past few years will abundantly support the truth of this statement.

The decisions on the N. R. A. and the A. A. A. were hailed by some at the time as "serious political blows" at the New Deal, and the T. V. A. decision is hailed as a great victory for them. Yet looking at the matter from a political standpoint, one cannot forget the opinion expressed by some shrewed politicians at the time that the decisions on the N. R. A. and the A. A. A. were political "breaks" for the Administration. They based their opinion on the belief that the N. R. A. was already unpopular with the people when it was invalidated, and that some of the A. A. A. features, such as the potato regulation, would become political liabilities for the Administration before the election comes around.

On the other hand, it is not to be forgotten that there may be more than one political reaction from the T. V. A. decision. While it may strengthen the Administration politically in a region where the T. V. A. has a direct effect, this region is already Democratic. But there are hundreds of thousands of people over the United States who are interested in private industry either directly or indirectly through the ownership of securities. We can now wonder whether they will not become more interested in politics than they would have become, had the Supreme Court's decision been against the right of the Government to dispose of power at Muscle Shoals.

FOR THE MERIT SYSTEM

President Roosevelt, in a letter addressed to the National League of Women Voters, has praised their campaign for the merit system in public appointments. "There can be no question of greater moment or broader effest than the maintenance, strengthening and extention of the merit system, established in the competitive principles of the Civil Service act, whose fifty-third birthday is being celebrated this month," he said.

Mr. Rooseelt is no doubt sincere in the expression of these views, but the facts show it to be a case of wishful thinking. Lawrence Sullivan, writing in the Atlantic Monthly for February, shows that the percentage of federal employes under Civil Service rose from 10.5 to 51.2 in the twenty years between the adoption of the original act of 1904. Under the Wilson administration the percentage was 67.2; under President Coolidge, 74.8; under President Hoover, 80.0. But on June 30, 1935, the percentage had fallen back to 57 per cent, a little better than the standing in 1904.

Patronage is not a matter of partisian concern; it is an evil which afflicts all political parties and of which politicians are inclined to be tolerant. Adoption of the merit system has come, accordingly, as the result of activity on the part of public spirited citizens who agreed that it was eminently desirable.—Illinois State Journal.

MAN IN THE MOON

"UNCLE ZACK" JONES

During the past week end I had occasion to call on Mr. Z. J. Jones and his wife at their home in Beat 14. Throughout all that territory he is reverently referred to as "Uncle Zack". I don't think I ever experienced keener pleasure than meeting this congenial couple.

Uncle Zack and Mrs. Jones are Republicans of the old time "anchor stump" type, and are not swayed back and forth with every passing whim. Union-Banner readers will remember Uncle Zack as the writer of all those articles headed "West Chilton". But if you visit these people, don't make the mistake of referring to them as old. I heard one man make that mistake last week, and Mr. Jones lost no time in correcting him. He maintains that he is not old, but has just been living a long time. Well, maybe there is a difference.

Now, I know very well what some readers of this article will say—that I am giving Uncle Zack a send-off in return for a promise of a vote. But that isn't true. Uncle Zack isn't a "promiser". He impresses one as a man who weighs everything, and then makes up his mind by calm deliberation. After all, that is the way it should be done. Republicans should salute Uncle Zack—a true-blue Republican if there ever was one. Would that we had many more like him.

FELIX O. DUDLEY

I am quite sure that the name of Felix O. Dudley will stir the memories of scores of people in and around Clanton. Personally, I cannot remember him, but I know that numbers of my readers will remember him. He was postmaster at Clanton at the time that I first knew that there were such things as postmasters. At that time my father was a rural letter carrier in the Clanton office, and many are the times that I have heard him mention the name of Felix Dudley.

A few nights ago I met with a very good friend, Clyde Davis, one time member of The Union-Banner force, and in going over old times, the name of Felix O. Dudley came up. I stated that I would like to know where he could be found now, and it happened that Clyde had in his pocket at the time a letter from Mr. Dudley, who now lives at Notasulga, Alabama.

I took down his address, and wrote a letter to him. I have already received an answer from him, and it is my intention to visit him in the near future.

Felix O. Dudley will be remembered as one of the first "go-getters" among the Republican ranks ever to appear in Chilton county. At one time he wanted confirmation from the president for appointment as postmaster at Clanton. He took a new course of action—one unprecedented at that time, in order to get his desired results. I am informed that he took a train for Washington, insisted on seeing the president in person, and came back with the appointment in his pocket.

Whether right or not, I am a warm admirer of that sort. I like to see a man who knows what he wants, and is man enough to fight for his rights. Men of this type are the kind which made a nation of a group of colonies, who fought to defend that nation, and who are even now the backbone of it. Would that we had more like them.

Mr. Dudley states in his letter that he would like to visit Clanton and meet old acquaintances. I, for one, would be proud to have him do so. Maybe, in the near future, he will again come here—come home—and if I can know when that time will be. I would be glad to take him around to some of the "older set" that he might renew those old acquaintances.

CITIZENS OR SUBJECTS

Sometimes I wish I had a whole newspaper plant of my own, so that if I should want to get out a special edition, I could do it. Most of the time I get these hankerings after listening to or reading such explosions as were registered at the countless Jackson Day dinners on which the Democratis jammed the radio air lines with all that mushy slush about Andrew Jackson, during which they took occasion to compare the present president with President Jackson. Some of those speakers even ventured that "President Roosevelt is greater than Jackson".

The editor of The Georgia Woman's World, a Democratic newspaper, took a little of the starch out of all this, when she stated in a front page editorial a few days ago, that "comparing Roosevelt to Jackson is like comparing a mole hill to a mountain, or a tomtit to an eagle".

But if you listened to any of those "uplifting" speeches, you very likely caught the same thing I did—the manner in which the leaders were played up, with little if any mention made of the people. When our president was campaigning in 1932, about every other utterance he made was something about the forgotten man—and he never has told us nor shown us whom he was speaking and thinking of yet.

Again, not long ago, in a radio speech, he mentioned the people on numerous occasions, but rarely if ever was the term "citizen" used. Instead, he used the term "subject". On one occasion he said: "Our subjects must be cared for". Again: "We have tried many plans to help our subjects". Still again: "Perhaps some of our subjects have been a bit bewildered with the new order of things."

He can bet his life we have been bewildtred—even worse than that, we have been dumfounded by his audacious and autocratic schisms and plans. And further that than, a lot of us don't like the idea of being considered "subjects", as if he were a king. We have always harbored a faint idea that we were "citizens"—I believe the most of us still labor under such an idea—but apparently Mr. Roosevelt doesn't entertain that idea. He evidently believes that we have fallen for his dictatorship, and now we are no longer citizens, but subjects. But we firmly believe that gentleman has a rude awakening coming to him soon. Well, we have had to stand for several jolts under him—maybe he can stand one.

LANDON FOR PRESIDENT

Speculation is rife throughout the nation at this time as to just who the Republicans will name as standard bearer in the coming presidential campaign. There are a number of good prospects, but in nearly every case there is some barrier to their nomination.

Borah is considered by many as having a good chance, while others believe that the "old guard" will not stand for him and his ultra-liberal ideas. Of late he is reported to have held several long conferences with Frank Roosevelt, and that doesn't set so well in Republican quarters. He is definitely in the race, however, and reports are that he is "burning his bridges behind him", indicating that his forces will stage a hot fight for his nomination. Some of his critics object to his age—Mr. Borah is over 70, and many think that our presidential nominee should be one who would be eligible for two terms, not very probable in his case.

There are others—Dickinson, Vandenberg, "Teddy" Roosevelt, Jr., Knox, Henry Ford and others. But all of them have their drawbacks. Dickinson and Vandenberg are considered hardly big enough for presidential timber; "Teddy" Roosevelt is an easterner, and that just about eliminates him, except maybe as vice president; Knox is considered more valuable to the Republican cause in his editorial capacity; Mr. Ford isn't politically inclined.

One other potential candidate is a real stand-out—Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas. Work has been going on for some time in his behalf, and he is given the inside chance to nab the nomination. Mr. Landon has made an outstanding record as governor of Kansas; under his management his state has managed to balance its budget, while all around him were states who were doing much worse. He is called "Budget Balancing Alf" in his own state, and his followers are burning the woods for him. The convention may see a dead-lock between Landon and Borah, in which case a dark horse would most likely receive nomination. The Republicans sense a good chance to beat Roosevelt, however, and it is not likely that they will allow a little thing like a family scrap to ruin that chance. With Landon at the head of the elephant parade, Franklin D. would have hard going, and therefore it is most reasonable that he will head that parade.

WATCH YOUR HOME MARKET

Among others, Senator Pittman, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, in a widely publicized address, recently issued a warning as to our future conduct and chance of safety in the Far East. Japanese penetration of China has caused a great deal of misgivings in the United States. One possibility which has been frequently pointed out is that when it completely dominates China, if it ever does, Japan will then be in a position to close the open door in China and deprive the American producers of the Chinese market.

This, of course, would be deplored and resented. Yet it is not to be forgotten that our trade with China has been nearly cut in half during the past two years. This has been due in the main not to Japanese penetration, according to the views of many of our financial experts, but in a large measure to our silver policy. This policy, it is claimed, has raised the price of the white metal and brought about a collapse of Chinese markets, instead of helping our trade there, as it was promised by the silver act proponents. In 1934 our sales in China amounted to approximately $70,000,000 and the next year they dropped to around $38,000,000. So it would seem that nearly half of the Chinese market had departed from us already.

One question which is confronting the American producer now, however, is not whether Japan will ultimately cut us out of the Chinese market, but whether the wily Japs may not, in the near future, dominate the American market which ought to be reserved as for as competitive products are concerned, to our own producers.

Japanese imports to the United States have increased by leaps and bounds. And the more Uncle Sam completes reciprocal trade agreements with other nations, the more Japan is likely to benefit because of her own trade agreement with the United States.

Year after year Japan is steadily winning foreign markets and the American market may prove to be no exception if the present tariff policy is continued. Our imports from Japan have included not only textiles, which we hear so much about, but leather goods, rice, furs, oils, hat materials, glassware, spreads, carpets, pencils, brushes, toys, and chinaware, jewelry, face powder, rugs, bed-even American flags. In the matter of toys, for example, it is estimated that the Japs can undersell us 50 per cent in our own market.

The reason, of course, is that much lower cost of production in Japan and this centers principally around the low wage rate and low standard of living in Japan. In the Island Empire there is a great deal of female labor and the women over there get a ridiculously low wage, something like a quarter of a dollar a day, while the men workers get a wage which is only a fraction of the prepailing very apt to become monotonous.

The Japanese workers are satisfied. They require no automobiles, no soft beds and no meat diets. They live on a handful of rice and a cup of weak tea per day, and their only meat is fish, excellent in its way but very apt to become monotonohs.

It is, of course, perfectly proper to worry about our foreign trade with China, but this is infinitesmal when compared with our trade at home. Ltt us, therefore, if we want to have a Japanese scare, remember that this trade menace strikes us nearer home than far away China.

The mistress of the house heard the bell ring and saw standing at the open front door a Chinese hawker. Quickly retreating, she called out to the maid:

"There's a Chinaman at the door. You go Ella."

This was too much for the Chinese, who stuck his head into the hall and shouted indignantly:

"You go 'ella yourself!"

We seem to remember that there was a ditty popular a few years ago under the title "Would You Like to Take a Walk?" Maybe the Philadelphia convention will substitute this for "Happy Days Are Here Again" as the New Deal campaign song.

RECOVERY IN CANADA

One of the favorite replies of some of those supporting the New Deal theories, when these are attacked because of extravagance or inefficiency, is to point backward to the bank panic of February, 1933, and to ask whether the American people desire to return to such a predicament.

They compare business of that period with the business of today, making the inference that gain in the United States has been due to the application of New Deal policies.

This would be more convincing if the United States were the only nation that has "turned the corner" in the past few years, or if it could be developed that other nations have used methods similar to ours in trying to get back to normalcy.

Such, however, is not the case. There has been a general and almost world-wide improvement in business, and in the prices of commodities. In some respects Uncle Sam has not led the procession but has been in the rearguard. And in every country except ours the recovery has been due generally not to tremendous expenditure, but to efforts toward balancing the national budget, so building up national confidence.

Our neighbor to the north, the Dominion of Canada, is an example. The Montreal Gazette's annual review finds that Canada has been leading the United States in recovery with exports, mining, iron and steel production and building showing tremendous gains.

Furthermore, Canada is now back to the level of 1926, a plane which New Deal prophets indicate is much desired, despite the fact that it came in the administration of the old-fashioned rugged individualist, Calvin Coolidge. Along this line the Springfield, Mass., Union points out:

"President Morden of the Canadian Manufacturers Association observes that from the beginning of last May on, with the exception of June, The Dominion not only overtook, but also surpassed, the monthly average of the basic year, 1926. The Bank of Novia Scotia points out that Canadian taxes in procidedly in the last two years. It adds that the national budget can be balanced this year provided national income is at the 1929 level and taxes are no higher than they were in the decade ended 1930."

The report that Canadian taxes have fallen in proportion to national income and that the balancing of the Canadian budget is in sight, sound wierd and fantastic to us. Yet let us not forget that whatever progress Canada has made cannot be credited to extravagant expenditure or regimentation. And there are many who believe that policies covering these activities in the United States have retarded rather than accelarated our recovery.

SOME DEBT FIGURES

The Associated Press recently published some interesting figures on Uncle Sam's national debt. The figures show that on June 30, 1861, with the Civil War about two months old, the debt was 90½ billion dollars. On June 30, 1866, one year after the war had closed, the debt was about 2¾ billion dollars, the sum including the war debts. During the administrations of Grant, Hays, Garfield, Arthur, Cleveland and Harrison the debt was reduced so that on June 30, 1893, it was less than a billion dollars.

The nation then went through the second Cleveland administration and those of McKinley, Roosevelt, Taft and four years of Wilson, and the debt was then about 1¼ billion dollars. By June 30, 1919, it was nearly 25½ billion dollars, due to World War expenditures. Then it began steadly to recede and on June 30, 1930, in the administration of President Hoover, it had gone down to a little more than 16 billions. By June 20, 1932, a few months before the election, the national debt was nearly 19½ billions, the increase being due to declining revenues and extraordinary expenditure incident to the depression.

On June 30, 1933, the debt was 22½ billion dollars. On November 27 last year it had grown to more than 29½ billions, and is now considerably more than 30 billions, and still pointing upward.

There seems now no immediate prospect for a balanced budget and until there is a balance the debt will continue to pile up. And it can only be paid by greater taxation or inflation.

Well, it's too bad. Just as the humble Irish potato had a chance to jump into the caviar class, the Supreme Court had to knock out the AAA. The future doesn't look so bright.

PERCY M. PITTS DELIVERS ANTI-SALES TAX SPEECH OVER WSFA

To My Unseen Audience:

To you and the Consumers Anti-Sales Tax Association, the subject of the Consumers Sales Tax is one that has been discussed pro and con for several years past. I have been a member of the State Legislature in the past two previous administrations and I fully know how to sympathize with the members of the present Legislature in their deliberations, and I am not here to criticize them or our present Governor. During the past administration the Legislature was called upon about eight different times to vote upon the sales tax issue. This issue was sponsored by the leaders of the administration and particularly by the State Educational Department and their various auxiliaries. They were assisted indirectly with those lobbying for the corporate interests of the State, who were eager to shift the burden of taxation to the laborers and the poor man. By a narrow margin the anti-sales tax force of the State were able to defeat this form of taxation each time it was voted upon in the Legislature.

Some one has asked the question recently through the press, "State clearly and catagorically in understandable terms why a sales tax is more unjust as a means of raising revenue, than any other taxation?" In answer to this question, in my humble judgment, this taxation is the most unfair and unjust form of taxation. The sales tax violates every principle of justice in taxation; it bears little relation to ability to pay; and is felt severely by those less able to pay. Do not be misled, friends, by believing that the merchants can afford to assume this taxation, inevitably it will be passed to the consumers. Fo rthis reason, I do not believe that our law making body should force upon the people of Alabama this particular burden of taxation. Also at the same time, I believe that it is common knowledge among the masses that should our state legislature see fit to submit a referendum on the question of a sales tax that this would be defeated by an overwhelming majority.

During the past months we have been going through one of the greatest financial crises this state or nation has even seen; so great has been the suffering that our national government has seen fit to spend millions for relief, by giving unfortunates a weekly dole in the form of a relief check, to prevent dire want and starvation in our state. May I ask you, is it fair or just when our Federal Government sees fit to give $5.00 or $10.00 per week to unfortunate families to buy the necessities of life, that our great state will cause these unfortunates to pay a sales tax on his purchases?

From an economical stand point a sales tax must be condemned for the following reasons: In the first place it raises a tax burden upon the consumers. If laid upon such necessities as food, it is obviously regressive. Those who make a higher income and who have ability to pay taxes do not, as a rule, consume any more necessities than do the poorer members of society. Therefore those who have the greater capacity to pay taxes do not in this instance pay any more than the poor. If the poor can scarcely buy food at the praviling price, how can they, with the same income, buy an equal amount of food and necessities at a higher price? Clearly the sales tax would tend to lower the level of living of the laboring classes.

We are advised that there is approximately six million dollars at the present in the state treasury, and also recently the statement was published that the chairman of the state tax department collections for the past 12 months increased three million dollars, of new levies.

What our state needs is economy in our government by the abolishment of useless departments, and a consolidation of those necessary. Apparently every department of the state has sufficient funds to operate twelve months each year, except our state educational department, or more particularly our elementary schools. If this be true, why not let our schools in on an equitable division of these funds? Our people are becoming more and more tax conscious, and will in the future demand the same economy to be practiced in our government.

All we parents and others are vitally interested in the education of our youth and we trust that provisions will be made whereby education will be an essential part of our government and that revenue will be so earmarked and set aside, giving the teachers a fair chance in receiving compensation for their services promptly.

Business men, professionalists, merchants and thousands of citizens of Alabama have fought the sales tax down on numerous occasions. They have witnessed the spectacle of its utter failure elsewhere. They have studied its evil effects, and they have declared in unmistakable terms that it shall not pass in Alabama. They have reviewed the solemn pledge of their public officials for economy and sensible handling of public affairs, and they have shuddered at the wanton disregard of these public pledges.

The minds of the people of the state have not been made up on snap judgment. The process has been slow and painful, and for that very reason, if for no other, there is not the slightest chance that any subterfuge or deceit will alter the picture in the slightest chance that any subterfuge or deceit will alter the picture in the slightest degree.

The course of the Consumers Anti-Sales Tax Association of Alabama is clearly defined and unmistakable—to fight the sales tax first and other taxes generally second, insofar as they increase the public burden. That is the course to which the association is pledged. That is the plan its officers outlined to its membership, and that is the plan its directing heads will follow in fairness to its own membership and the public in general.

TEACHER FROM BOAZ THANKFUL FOR CO-OPERATION RECEIVED

Prof. Eugene H. Whitt, of Boaz, Ala., who has been teaching a singing school and giving voice lessons for the past month, says that he has met with splendid co-operation from the people of Clanton and Chilton county, and it is his desire to publicly express his appreciation for same.

In speaking of his associations here, Prof. Whitt sums it all up by saying: "I have taught in several places, but of all that I have ever taught, I have neer met with more willingness on the part of the students to work, and have never seen a bunch that was more prone toward complete co-operation in making the work effective and successful. And I would be ungrateful indeed if I neglected thanking every pupil and every individual who has contributed to the success of our undertaking in Clanton. I shall remember you all with tenderest affection."

C. T. WALKER WRITES AGAIN

Boys. there are so many Republican candidates turned loose in Chilton county that I will not say much about hard times this week. I will have to hurry back home to old Beat Seven, so I can shake hands with the old pals.

It is great to stand at the gate and listen to the candidates promise this, that and the other, if and when they are elected; but it is more fun to see them trample over the plowed ground and pack corn down so it won't sprout. But this brings on more talk.

So, you may look for me back home any day now. I am hoping the best men get elected to the various offices; but let me warn you candidates, some of you are going to get left out, and that is no joke. You might as well be prepared for the worst.—C. T. Walker, West Palm Beach, Fla.

SINGING AT ENTERPRISE

The singing society met at this place on last Sunday afternoon. We had good attendance and some real good singing. We had visitors from Clanton, Cooper, Prattville and other places. We wish to thank them for their help and we invite them to come back each first Sunday afternoon.

The society was called to order by the chairman, I. D. Huett, who sang one song. Directors for the afternoon were Archie Devaughn, Jesse Jones, Lee Grant, O. L. Devaughn, Prof. Eugene Whitt, J. R. Robinson, bass solo by Eugene Davis, Dual Jones, Archie Devaughn, W. M. Devaughn, H. G. Carter, Dewey Hughes, Rev. M. Lockhart and Floy Devaughn.

We had two good quartets with us: the Devaughn quartet, composed of Prof. W. M. Devaughn, Archie and Floy Devaughn and Prof. Eugene H. Whitt, and the Tabernacle quartet from Prattille. Both quartets rendered several splendid numbers during the program which were thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Again we wish to thank all the visitors and invite them back each first Sunday afternoon.—Reporter.

PLEASANT HILL

We want to say that we had a mighty good Sunday school last Sunday, although there wasn't so many out. School was interesting and we want to urge those who have been missing out too much to try and be back on your job next Sunday morning. If our church isn't as good as it should be then let us stop and think we are to blame for it. If we always do our part perhaps our church would be better.

Listen folks, we are still having singing at Pleasant Hill every second Sunday afternoon and we are expecting a real good singing for next Sunday. We are looking for the Center Hill class to be with us. We especially invite every one who can to be with us and let's spend the afternoon in a real song service.

Misses Jesse and Datha Cleckler, also Miss Central Cost, were the dinner guests of Misses Hazel and Alta Blow last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Eurell Dobbs and little daughter, Mable Wannelle, also Mrs. G. W. Sammons, spent a while Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Cleckler.

Misses Alta Mae and Clara Nelle Blow spent a while Monday with Mrs. O. L. Martin.

Don't forget our singing next Sunday. Visitors are always welcome.—Reporter.

MISS DOROTHY WAITE ATTAINS FIRST SEMESTER HONOR ROLL

Blue Mountain, Miss., Feb. 28.—Miss Dorothy Waite of Clanton, Ala., attained the first semester honor roll of Blue Mountain College, according to Dean George T. Buckley. Miss Waite is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Waite of Clanton, and graduated from the Chilton County High School, Clanton, in 1935.

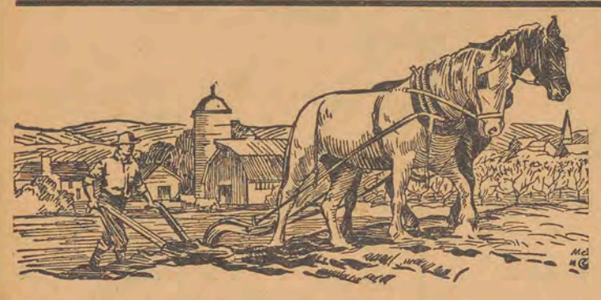
TO SERVE YOU BETTER

We've Obtained Another Building

OUR CREAM STATION IS NOW IN THE OLD POST OFFICE BUILDING WITH TWO TESTERS; TWO OPERATORS

Due to the fine patronage you have given us, the larger stocks we have put in, and the increase in our cream business, our present building is inadequate to properly serve our customers. Therefore, we have rented the old post office building near us, and have installed our cream station there, and added another tester and another operator to give you quicker service with your cream. We deeply appreciate your fine patronage which has made possible this growth in our business, and assure you of still better service in the future. This added building will also be used as a warehouse for some of our stocks.



It's Plowing Time

With weather conditions favorable, much plowing will be done in the next few days in preparation for planting. May we suggest that you visit our store now for the seeds you will need. Probably you are already planting for early vegetables. We have one of the most complete stocks of high quality seeds in the South, and our prices are fully as low or lower than mail order houses, and you get four seeds without delay.

Potato Seed & Onion Sets

We are right in the season for planting Irish Potatoes and Onions. We hape been furnishing farmers of this section Irish Potato seed for years, and our Certified Triumphs and Maine Cobblers can't be beat for A-1 quality.

All varieties of Onion Sets you want are in the racks at our store. Come in and select the kind you prefer, as this is a mighty good time to get them in the ground and started to growing.

Pasture Grasses

Chilton County farmers are realizing more and more the importance of planting their pastures to Dallas and Carpet Grass, Lespedeza, Etc., as a means of making their pasture land produre a profit. This is the time of year to get your pasture ready for some real grazing. We have the seed you will need. We will be glad to give you any suggestions you want, and the expense is small compared to the results you may expect.

GIVE YOUR CATTLE A GOOD PASTURE, AND LET THEM MAKE A PROFIT FOR YOU

V-C Fertilizer

We are handling the famous V-C Brand of Fertilizer. It has made good crops for farmers in this section for many years, and it will increase yields for many more this year. You can get any formula you need suitable for every kind of crop.

Come in now and tell us what you need in the way of fertilizer for this year's crop. The price is well in line with other prices. The quality of V-C is up to the best, and our truck is on the job to deliver the fertilizer right to your farm.

All Varieties

We've already sold a lot of baby chicks, and we are still taking orders. Come in now, see the sturdy fellows we have here, and place your order for any number you want. You'll get quick service on your baby chick order here, on any variety you may select.

FEEDS

We are featuring the well-known Jazz, Wayne and Red Comb Brands of feed. We have chick starters, growing mashes, and laying mashes that are giving splendid results to hundreds of poultrymen in Chilton County. Feed your chickens the right feed, properly balanced as to proteins, carbohydrates, etc. It will mean money in your pocket at marketing time.

Cabbage Plants

Let us supply your needs in Cabbage Plants. We have a complete selection of varieties to suit your wishes. Good strong plants, priced right.

MT. CARMEL NEWS

The attendance of our Sunday school was very good Sunday. There were quite a few visitors, and we cordially invite them back every Sunday.

We are very glad to say that Rev. M. W. Mims filled his regular appointments at this church Saturday night and Sunday morning.

Mrs. J. C. Price was the Sunday dinner guest of Mrs. Bettie Watley.

Dora Lee Price and Margie Watley spent the day with Oleta Watley Sunday.

Mrs. Newt Foshee visited Mrs. A. F. Childress Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Scott spent Friday night with Mr. and Mrs. Luther Leach.

We are very sorry that Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Liveoak were called away Sunday by sickness.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Leach were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Scott.

Miss Gladys Wyatt spent Saturday night with her sister, Mrs. Willis Foshee.

Mr. William Abbott of Sylacauga spent a while with Mr. Ben Edwards. Miss Ola Mae Summers, of Birmingham, and Miss Ruth Carter were the guests of Miss Lula Edwards Sunday morning. She went home with them and reported a nice time.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Holcombe, of Thorsby dined with Mr. and Mrs. Ben Edwards Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Kendrick dined with his parents Sunday.

Mrs. Tom Sims spent Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Jim Davis.

Miss Ruth Carter spent Thursday afternoon with Miss Lula Edwards.

ANOTHER WELL-KNOWN "FACT" THAT ISN'T TRUE

"For centuries the Chinese have paid their doctors to keep them well rather than to cure them when they were sick." Many an effort has been made by inquisitive visitors to China to check up on this well-known bit of scientific information. The results have been discouraging, however, showing that until recently the Chiese have had no doctors worthy of the name to practice preventive medicine, or any other kind. Evidently the old theory, that since China was on the bottom of the world everything there must be topsy-turvy, was adapted to his uses by some skillful health publicity agent who invented this interesting idea.

Even though the Chinese doctor story is evidently a myth, it carries a valuable suggestion. Positive health periodic medical examination, early diagnosis, prevention of disease make up the message that is beginning to avoid much suffering and save many lives.

Be sure and see "Truth Takes a Holiday" at Baker School Friday evening.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

A big day Sunday. Special program at both morning and evening services. At the eleven o'clock hour the church school day program will be held. A large number will have part. The young people will have charge of the evening service at seven o'clock with their anniversary day program. Last Sunday night the choir of fifteen young people added greatly to the service. They will have special music Sunday night as well as make talks, and be in charge of the entire program. You will want to attend these services.

Every member of the church this week will receive an envelope of the Fellowship League of Sharing. Howeer, in case you fail to get one please notify the pastor by Sunday. This is the Lenten season and the time of special denial and sharing as we emulate the life of Jesus. This period climaxes with Easter Sunday. Save and share a penny per meal from March 8 to April 12 Easter), place the amount in the envelope and bring it on Easter to the church. This is our special Lenten offering for the benevolences. Such an offering was taken last year in this manner. Children, not members of the church, are asked to save and share one penny per during this period.

The pastor is planning to have pre-Easter services each night of the week April 5 to 12. Further announcements will be made a little later.

"OPEN WIDE THE DOOR" IS SLOGAN OF SEAL CAMPAIGN

Annual Sale Of Easter Seals To Aid Crippled Children Begins; Opens March 5th

Words From Hymn, Design From Pen Of Noted Cartoonist

Directed by the Chilton County Society for crippled children, the third annual sale of Easter Seals will open March fifth and continue until April twelfth.

Sold at a penny each, these seals pay a steadily increasing share of the cost of discovery, care, cure, education, training, placement, and prevention of crippled children.

Based on a sketch by Dohaney, famous cartoonist of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, this year's Seal pictures in a frame of Easter lillies a boy with his crutch, sitting patiently before "The Door of Opportunity," which stands slightly ajar. Above are the words, "Open Wide the Door," and below, "for Crippled Children."

Many buyers of these Easter Seals doubtless will be reminded by the phrase "Open Wide the Door" of a favorite old hymn that goes like this:

Let a little sunshine in,
Let a little sunshie in,
Clear the darkened windows,
Open wide the door.
Let a little sunshine in.

Many will find themselves humming or singing this refrain, which fits so admirably into the whole spirit of the Easter seal for 1936, and of the humanitarian movement which it so largely supports.

Each year more States and Communities participate in the sale of crippled children's seals; and by the same token, more people not only become buyers of seals, but they also develop a new or keener interest in what the seals stand for, and what they make possible.

Ninety per cent of the proceeds remain in Chilton county to help maintain and extend the established program of work for physcally haudicapped girls ad boys. The remainder goes to the International Society for Crippled Children, Inc., which sponsors the seal sale and spurs world-wide interest in the whole problem of treating and preventing crippledom.

LOCAL CCC BASKET BALL TEAM TO PLAY MITCHELL DAM MAR. 5

The local CCC Blue Jackets will play the fast stepping quintette from Mitchell Dam in what promises to be one of the best games of the season. Both teams have a good record and the Mitchell Dam Cardinals have been going places in the Independent Tournaments of Selma and Montgomery. The local CCC team has played 23 games and won sixteen, which is an excellent record. The Cardinal team is composed of ex-high school stars from over the county and also out of the country and when they meet the local Blue Jackets they should give the public some good basket ball. The games is to be played in the local high school gym. The admission will be ten cents and fifteen cents. The game is called for 7:30.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Moore and Miss Bessie Glass of Montgomery were the week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Cobb.

Miss Pauline Lessley visited Miss Berney Dean Cobb Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Childress and Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Cobb visited Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cobb Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gillespie and Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Gillespie spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cobb.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Cobb and guests visited Mr. and Mrs. Gus Abston of Aldrich Sunday.

Mr. Red Glass and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Collie Glass .

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Cobb visited Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cobb Sunday afternoon.

Next Sunday is our regular preaching day. We invite everyone to be with us.

Don't Prolong The Agony!

Next time you suffer from Gas on Stomach, Headache, Sour Stomach, a Cold, Muscular, Rheumatic, Sciatic or Periodic Pains; That Tired Feeling, That "Morning After" Feeling. Get a glass of water and drop in one or two tablets of

Alka-Seltzer

The New Pain-Relieving, Alkalizing, Effervescent Tablet

Watch it bubble up, then drink it. You will be amazed at the almost instant relief.

It is called Alka-Seltzer because it makes a sparkling alkaline drink, and as it contains an analgesic (Acetyl-Salicylate) it first relieves the pain of everyday ailments and then by restoring the alkaline balance corrects the cause when due to excess acid.

After trying many brands of medicines—so-called relief for gas, and all of them a failure, I gave up hopes. By chance I tried Alka-Seltzer—I am more than satisfied. Geo. Bennett, New York, N. Y.

Get a glass at your drug store soda fountain. Take home a 30 cent or 60 cent package.

Time Lost is Money Lost

It costs money to be sick. You see it directly if your pay envelope is short. You lose out on some important work if you live on a farm or if you are one of the few who are not docked for lost time. You can't afford to show up on the job unless you are feeling fit. The boss wants results—not excuses.

How many times do Gas on Stomach, Headache, Sour Stomach, "That Tired Feeling," That "Morning After" Feeling, Neuralgic, Rheumatic, Sciatic, Muscular or Periodic Pains keep you at home or interfere with your doing a full day's work?

All these troubles are caused or made worse by too much acid in your body. To correct this condition take

ALKA-SELTZER

The New Pain Relieving, Alkalizing, Effervescent Tablet.

It is called Alka-Seltzer because it makes a sparkling alkaline drink, and as it contains an analgesic (Acetyl-Salicylate) it first relieves the pain of everyday ailments and then by restoring the alkaline balance corrects the cause when due to excess acid. Alka-Seltzer is pleasant to take, effective, non-laxative.

Why don't you try it? Get a drink at your drug store soda fountain for a nickel. Buy a package for home use.

University News

Betty Breslin, Selma, was elected president of the Women's Student Government Association at the University of Alabama in elections just completed. John Effie Gilmore, Sulligent, was named vice-president, and Lynn Garber, Jackson, Miss., secretary-treasurer. Marie Drolet, Tuscaloosa, was elected town representative on the Board of Directors; others chosen for membership in this group include: Margaret West, Live Oak, Fla.; Edna May Gale, Birmingham, and Mary Vail, Bay Minette.

General Smedley D. Butler, the only man ever to be awarded Congressional Medals of Honor, and an outstanding figure in the military annals of America, spoke at the University Wednesday. In his lecture, "How Can We Wipe Out War?", he was assisted by Private Peat, famed Canadian soldier of the World War.

The annual St. Patrick's Day Celebration at the University has been set for March 17. The celebration, held in honor of St. Patrick, the patron saint of the engineers, will begin in the morning with the arrival of the good saint and his presentation to the queen and the court. The St. Pat's Day queen is to be selected from amongst a number of representative beauties of the campus. She will lead the St. Pat's Ball to be held in the University Gymnasium in the evening.

Thirty-three women students, or approximately four per cent of the girls on the campus, made honor records during the first semester, according to the files of Miss Agnes Ellen Harris, Dean of Women.

Five students of three nationalities will represent the University of Hawaii in a debate to be held here Friday on the question "Resolved, That the Japanese policy in Asia should be condemned." Robert Loeb, Birmingham, and Lloyd Dugger, Mobile, will uphold the affirmative side for the University of Alabama.

A three-day celebration including a banquet and dance commemorated the fiftieth anniversary of Beta Delta chapter of the Alabama Tau Omega fraternity here last week.

Mr. J. Mell Martin was called to Coosa county Sunday to bury an old schoolmate of his, George W. Harrison. The funeral was at Martin Memorial church. Mr. Harrison's home was near Equality.

Do You Ever Wonder

Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE?

Ask Your Doctor and Find Out

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN.

He will tell you that before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate Bayer Aspirin among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this.

You can get Genuine Bayer Aspirin at any drug store — simply by asking for it by its full name, BAYER ASPIRIN. Make it a point to do this — and see that you get what you want.

Lesson for March 8

JESUS AND THE LAWYER

LESSON TEXT—Luke 10:25-37.

GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself.—Luke 10:27.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus' Story of a Good Neighbor.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Who Is My Neighbor?

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Be a Good Neighbor.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Whose Neighbor Am I?

The subject, "Jesus Teaches Neighborliness," chosen by the lesson committee, deals only with one side of the question; namely, man's duty to his fellow men; whereas, his first duty is to God.

I. How to Inherit Eternal Life (vv. 25-28).

1. The lawyer's question (v. 25). The term "lawyer" here means "one versed in religious law, the Scriptures," not "lawyer" in our modern sense of that term. It more nearly corresponds to our theological professor. The lawyer's object was to trip Jesus, to induce him to take such a stand as would weaken his influence as a teacher.

2. Jesus' question (v. 26). "What is written in the law?" He sent him to the law, the field which was familiar to him. Jesus thus robbed him of his own weapon. Though Jesus knew the motive of the lawyer, he did not evade his question.

3. The lawyer's reply (v. 27). He made an intelligent answer, declaring that the entire content of the law was embraced in love to God and man.

4. Jesus' reply (v. 28). The straightforward answer went to the heart of the lawyer. Perfect love to God and man is truly the way of life. No man has yet had or can have such love. His sinful condition precludes its possibility. The lawyer keenly felt this thrust. He was defeated on his own grounds and, therefore, convicted of guilt.

II. "Who Is My Neighbor?" (vv 29-37).

1. The lawyer's question (v. 29). "Who is my neighbor?" This question reveals the insincerity of the lawyer. Christ's answer had reached his conscience and now he seeks to escape the difficulty by asking a captious question.

2. Jesus' answer (vv. 30-37). Jesus' reply more than answered the lawyer's question. In the parable of the Good Samaritan he makes clear who is a neighbor, and also what it mean to be a neighbor and what loving a neighbor means. Christ's answer had a double meaning. He not only made clear "Who is my neighbor," but also that the lawyer was not playing the neighbor.

a. This destitute and wounded man, left on the wayside by the robbers, is a man who needs a neighbor. My neighbor, therefore, is the one who needs my help, whether he lives next door, or on the other side of the world. Love does not regard locality, nationality, or blood relation. Those who have the spirit of Christ can see their neighbors on every hand.

b. What being a neighbor means. Our supreme consideration should not be, "Who is my neighbor?" but "Whose neighbor am I?" To be a neighbor is

(1). To be on the lookout for those in need of help (v. 33). Love is always on a journey. It is keen to discern the needs of those with whom it is brought into contact.

(2). To have compassion on the needy (v. 33). Christ's compassion was aroused as he came into contact with those who were suffering and in need. Those who are Christlike will be likewise moved.

(3). To give to those in need (v. 34). Love does not calculate the cost of its actions. Whenever there is the calculation of cost there is the expression of selfishness. Many are willing to give money to help the poor and needy, but are unwilling personally to minister to them. Many times the personal touch is more important than the material aid.

(4). To bind up wounds. If we have eyes to discern we shall see many wounds about us that need attention.

(5). To set the helpless ones on our beasts while we walk (v. 34). This is the proof of the genuineness of our love. Those who are like Christ will deny themselves in order to have something to give to those in need.

(6). To bring to the inn and take care of the unfortunate (v. 34). Genuine love does not leave its service incomplete. Much Christian service is partial, leaving the man to take care of himself.

(7). To give money (v. 35). It costs a good deal to be a neighbor. Love is the most expensive thing in the world. It cost God his only Son; it cost Jesus Christ his life.

Goodness

There is an idea abroad among moral people that they should make their neighbors good. One person I have to make good; myself. But my duty to my neighbor is much more nearly expressed by saying that I have to make him happy if I may.

Our Road

We cannot always choose our road in life, but we can choose whether we walk along the shady or the sunny side of it.—G. A. Steel.

Be sure and see "Truth Takes a Holiday" at Baker School Friday evening.

FROM A. P. VINSON

To the Voters of Chilton County:

You will find my announcement in this week's Union-Banner for Commissioner from the Fourth District subject to the action of the Republican Primary. I served as Commissioner in the Fourth District for twelve years. At that time it was my policy not only to save the tax payers as much as I possibly could but was to give the tax payers of the county all the work that I possibly could. In other words, I was opposed to buying road machinery where the people of the county could take their own teams and labor and do this work. I personally know that many a tax payer in Chilton county has made enough hauling and working on the roads of the county to pay his taxes. When this is done the county gets the work, the tax payer makes sufficient to pay his taxes and the county thus gets the benefit of the work and the tax money too.

If I am elected Commissioner, it will be my policy to immediately dispose of as much high priced road machinery of the county's at the best price obtainable and put this work back in the hands of the tax payers. Without criticizing anyone, I know it has been the policy by the Commissioners Court in the past several years to increase the buying of a great amount of road machinery each year, which, as you all know, all of this money goes out of the county, and if you see fit to elect me Commissioner it will be my policy to immediately propose a plan to give this money into the hands of the tax payers and people of the county. It is hard to estimate just what will be the saving to the county with this plan, but I do believe that a great majority of the voters will bear me out that the present plan of using so much road machinery has prevented a great many of our people from getting employment on the road.

I intend between now and the primary to see as many of the voters as I possibly can but I feel like that many of you that I may not get to see, personally know my record while I was in office and you know the service and my work with the roads in the county, and if I am nominated and elected, I fell like this experience I have had will be of great help to me and I pledge you an economic administration and a saving to the tax payers wherever possible.

Respectfully,
A. P. VINSON.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our thanks and appreciation for all the sympathetic help and kindness extended to us during our recent sad bereavement, as well as during the illness of our father, W. R. Pate. May the blessings of the Almighty God rest upon all of you, is our prayer.—The Family.

SHILOH NEWS

Last Saturday and Sunday were our regular preaching days. Although we didn't have service Sunday on account of Bro. Lowery being called to Indian Grave to conduct a funeral. But we did have service Sunday night.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely. We have a large attendance every Sunday, so everybody continue to come, for we still have room for improvement.

The many friends of little Clyde Henderson are sorry to hear he has been confined to his bed for several days with pneumonia. We hope for him a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Bice and little son, Mr. Aaron Traywick were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Wright.

Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Bice, Mrs. Minnie Mullins and Miss Zula Nelson were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Owens and family.

Miss Sally Joe Cox was the week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Keen.

Miss Elaine Deason and Miss Margene Ratliff spent Sunday with Miss Lillie Kendrick.

Mr. and Mrs. Carey Mullins and Miss Ethel Mullins were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harvie Dobbs.

Mr. Lonnie Watts was the Sunday dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Nelson.

Messrs. B. Roy and James Mullins were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. Allen Watts.

Messrs. Earlow Short and Buster Ratliff were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. Earnest Kendrick.

The quilt the ladies have pieced to raise money to help complete our new church is almost ready to quilt. We thank all those that have helped us.—Reporter.

PLEASANT GROVE

REFUGE NEWS

There is some sickness around here now, although just bad colds mostly.

There were only a few present at Sunday school Sunday but hope all will be well and be out at Sunday school next unday morning, March 5.

On Thursday afternoon there will be a working at this place. Every body that can come and bring tools for the purpose of cleaning off the cemetery.

Be sure and see "Truth Takes a Holiday" at Baker School Friday evening.

THE DOCTORS ARE RIGHT

Women should take only liquid laxatives

Many believe any laxative they might take only makes constipation worse. And that isn't true.

Do what doctors do to relieve this condition. They use a liquid laxative, and keep reducing the dose until the bowels need no help at all.

Reduced dosage is the secret of aiding Nature in restoring regularity. You must use a little less laxative each time, and that's why your laxative should be in liquid form. A liquid dose can be regulated to the drop.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara — both natural laxatives that form no habit even with children. Syrup Pepsin is the nicest tasting, nicest acting laxative you ever tried.

AUTAUGA COUNTY CONVENTION AT BILLINGSLEY 5th SUNDAY

Mr. Henry G. Carter, of Prattville, asks The Union-Banner to carry the announcement that the Autauga County Singing Convention will meet in regular Spring session at the high school building in Billingsley the fifth Sunday in March, 29th. It is handy to the Chilton county singers, since it is at Billingsley, and Mr. Carter is betting heavy on having a full representation of singers from here. He is expecting singers from all the adjoining counties. This is the second session of the Autauga organization, and the officials are reporting prospects for a very fine all day singing.

"MAN IN THE MOON" IS ILL WITH THE FLU

To the Voters of Chilton County:

Due to the various hindrances beyond my control, I have been unable to do much canvassing since my announcement for the office of County Treasurer. All this week I have been ill with an attack of influenza.

However, beginning next week, I expect taking the county beat by beat and try to see every voter in the county. I shall be glad to meet every one of you in your home. If for any reason I fail to find you there, I will leave a card, that you may know that I have called. There are hundreds of roads over the county, however, and if I should happen to miss yours, I want you to know that it will not be through desire of mine, or that I do not think your vote and influence important. I need every vote I can get, I want every one I can get, and I intend to do everything I can do, honorably, to merit your vote.

In my campaign I have no mud to sling at any of my opponents. So far as I know they are all worthy people. However, I will appreciate the favor if you will withhold making final conclusions of your choice until I have had a chance to see you and talk the matter over with you. Yours very truly,—Paul C. (Chester) Mims.

Alf Landon Opens Presidential Push

National Political Scene Enlivened By First State-Wide Primary

Washington, March 10.—The beginning of a big push for Governor Alf M. Landon—with red haired John D. M. Hamilton in the role of field marshal—today added interest to the race for the Republican Presidential nomination.

The political scene also was enlivened by the first state-wide primary—being held today in New Hampshire—to select national convention delegates—and pre-primary activity elsewhere by members of both major parties.

Party financing matters were also to the fore. Chairman Henry P. Fletcher of the Republican national committee is out to get $1,000,000 from 1,000,000 Americans to help finance the forthcoming campaign against President Roosevelt.

To Sell $1 Certificates

The committee will sell $1 "participation certificates." Fletcher expressed hope that the plan would become a permanent method of financing the party by "rank and file" contributions.

Hamilton, executive assistant to Fletcher, announced his resignation from that post yesterday in order to tour the nation for Landon. Kansas Governor. This move was widely regarded as heralding a more aggressive drive to Garner convention votes for Landon.

Hamilton, who will remain in office of the committee's general counsel, was one of the first Landon-pledged gelegates from his home state of Kansas. He now plans a tour as "national organizer for the voluntary committee" working for Landon support.

He declared the campaign for Landon's nomination "is shaping up splendidly."

C. T. WALKER IN ST. PETERSBURG

Since last week, our good friend C. T. Walker, who has been in Palm Beach, Fla., has crossed the State and gone over to St. Petersburg. He writes The Union-Banner from there, and says:

"Everything in Florida these days is beautiful; it must be the best place in the world to spend your idle time. I am so busy looking at everything around me that I haven't much time to tell you about the beautiful things. I am in St. Petersburg now, and will leave this afternoon for a trip out to the Gulf of Mexico. I am expecting to see something really good out there. I am expecting to see you in Clanton about the 15th. So long,—C. T. Walker."

AZALIAS IN MOBILE

The azalea capital of the United States, Mobile, Ala., has within its limits more than 100,000 azalea bushes ranging in size from the very small to those 90 feet in circumference, according to the February L. & N. Employes' Magazine.

The first azalea plants in this country, the magazine says, were brought from France toward the middle of the 18th Century by Fifise Langlois, who transplanted them in Mobile, where they grew and multiplied and soon made the city famous for its beauty in the spring when the azaleas bloom.

CCC AUTHORITIES WARN AGAINST BUYING GOVERNMENT PROPERTY

The authorities of the local CCC camp are taking this means to warn the citizens of Clanton and adjoining communities against buying government property from members of the CCC. This fact is being brought to the attention of those who might not know of the Federal law and the penalty for same. This property does not belong to the members but to the government. Any one found guilty of buying this government property will be prosecuted the same as the member selling it, under the Federal law, which provides a heavy fine as well as imprisonment. This announcement is made for the protection for those who might not know the true circumstances.

'Sky High' At CCHS

"Sky High", a three-act comedy drama with musical specialties will be presented on Friday night, March 13, at the Chilton County High school, at 8:00 o'clock.

To accommodate patrons of the play, reserved seats may be obtained now at Upchurch Drug Company, without extra charge.

This production is sponsored by the Clanton Pilot Club, and the proceeds will be given to the crippled children's fund. This fund is to help crippled children of Chilton County who, otherwise, might go through life as cripples. This fund pays for the hospitilization of the crippled children and is not used for salaries or doctor's services. If Chilton County can raise $250, the Federal Government will match that amount for our county. The local committee is responsible for the expenditure of the funds and cases for care are selected by this committee, upon reccommendation of the department of Public Welfare and the Department of Health.

CHICK IN JUG AT RUFFIN'S STORE

Visitors in the poultry and feed store of J. L. Ruffin, local Purina dealer, may view the interesting and unusual spectacle of a chicken being raised in a glass jug.

The baby chick was placed in the jug several days ago, and has been fed on Purina products exclusively. This chick is of the Rhode Island Red breed, and seems spry and healthy. He has already grown into a big gangling chicklet. The force at Ruffin's place have named the chick "Frank", and are kept fairly busy telling all they konw about him.

Mr. Ruffin lately received a 20-ton shipment of Purina feeds of all kinds. He has made a creditable showing in the several years he has been Purina dealer for this territory. The novel chick display is attracting quite a bit of attention. The store attendans do not explain how they expect to get "Frank" out of the jug when he is big enough to eat, but we imagine he will be taken out in some way. After all, a chicken is a chicken, and makes a meal much too good to be allowed to go to waste.

Call around to see "Frank", and while there the Ruffin force will tell you all about Purina feeds.

IT'S A GIRL

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hays announce the birth of a daughter, born March 5th. They have named her Elizabeth Gail.

Former Gov. Catts Of Florida Is Dead

S. J. Catts, Native of Dallas County, Ala., Dies At Age of 72

Defuniak Springs, Fla.,March 9.—Death today ended the colorful career of Sidney Johnston Catts, Sr., 72, Florida's war-time governor, back-woods orator, and campaigner extraordinary.

Catts, former minister, school teacher, merchant, and planter, died at his home here after a few days illness which followed several years of failing health.

Catts came to Florida from Alabama his native State, after losing a race for Congress to J. Tom Heflin, later United States senator from Alabama. His primary and general election campaigns for the Florida governorship in 1916 are recorded as unique in this state's political history.

He served as governor during the World War, his term expiring in 1921. He attempted to win the Democratic nomination for Governor in 1928 but was defeated by Doyle E. Carlton, of Tampa. In 1920 he ran for United States senator but was defeated in the primary by the incumbent, Duncan U. Fletcher.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon from the First Baptist church here, where Catts served as pastor from 1910 to 1913.

Jno. S. Catts, former sheriff of Chilton County, was a brother of Governor Catts.

The former governor was born July 31, 1863, on his father's plantation in Dallas county, Alabama. He was educated in a small country school, Howard College, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, and Cumberland University.

He was ordained in the Baptist ministry in 1885 and was a minister and cotton planter in Alabama until 1910 when he moved here to become pastor of the Baptist Church. He later was an insurance salesman, school teacher, and merchant.

Combining his roles of circuit-rider preacher and backwoods politician, Catts told his campaign audiences a vision, in which his mother appeared to him and directed him to do his "duty" caused him to seek the governoship. His political meetings usually took the form of the old-fashioned revival service with prayers for guidance, shouts from the audience and the passing of the plate.

ENLARGING BUILDING AT MURRAY-BELL HDWE. CO.

Carpenters are busy this week making an addition at the rear of Murray-Bell Hardware store buildnig. When the new department is brought into use, which will be only a few days, the space of the store wll be almost doubled.

Mr. Bell has enjoyed a fine business since coming to Clanton, and wants somewhat to show his appreciation by arranging for more convenient service to his customers. This addition to his building will go far toward making this better service possbile.

A VERY GOOD DEFINITION FOR THE DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM

A conversation which recently occurred between a Democrat and an old darky illustrates very forcibly the use that the present Democratic platform is being put to:

Demo.:—"What worries me is what use my party is making of our platform. They don't seem to be using it at all."

Darky:—"Boss, youse bad mistaken; dey is using it."

Demo.:—"Well, I still don't see what you mean. I can't find where the Democratic platform is being used at all."

Darky:—"Well, Boss, hits dis a way. You knows railroads and depots has platforms dey uses to load evything on wid. Now, don't you see, Boss, de Democrats is using dey platform for de same purpose?"

CLANTON GIRLS GET RECOGNITION

Last Sunday, in the State papers, two Clanton girls and one Billingsley girl received honors at hands of organizations in Alabama's capital city. The pictures of Miss Beverly Hester appeared in The Montgomery Advertiser with the statement that she, with Ivan B. Rasmussen, both of Judson College, was being sponsored by the Montgomery Study Club at the Museum of Fine Arts, in a concert.

And too, in the gravure section of The Birmingham News appeared the pictures of Miss Helen Roberts of Clanton and Miss Lucille Pattillo of Billingsley, under the heading "Huntingdon College Beauties". These two young ladies were chosen as among the ten most beautiful girls on the Huntingdon campus, chosen at a recent judging.

L. J. STEWART OUT AGAIN

Mr. L. J. Stewart, manager of the local Hill store, is out and about town again, following a severe attack of influenza and pneumonia. Mr. Stewart has been ill for several weeks but is now well on the way to recovery. He states that he is a bit weak, but is gaining strength fast, and expects to take up his work at the Hill store again in the near future.

During Mr. Stewart's illness the store has been under the management of Reese Wyatt, a Chilton County boy, who has been with the Hill firm for some time.

JOE MULLINS OPENED UP LAW OFFICES IN CLANTON

The many friends of Joseph J. Mullins in Clanton and Chilton county will be glad to learn that he has recently opened up law offices in Clanton, up stairs in the new Mullins-Moore building over A & P.

Joe Mullins is the son of one of the foremost attorneys Clanton has ever had—Tipton Mullins, who practiced law here until his death about 25 years ago. Joe took an A. B. degree at the University of Alabama in 1926, and an L. L. B. in 1929. Since that time he has been practicing law in Birmingham in partnership with Clarence Mullins and Harvey Deramus.

Clanton welcomes Joe Mullins back with us. He is a Clanton boy, and lots of people here know him and like him; and The Union-Banner feels sure that he wil meet with success in his chosen profession among the peope with whom he was raised and where he is best known.

MRS. CALLOWAY IS SELECTED SECRETARY YOUNG REPUBLICANS

The organization of the Chilton County unit of the Young Republican Federation of America was this week completed, when Mrs. Gertrude P. Calloway was chosen as secretary of the organization. Some weeks ago T. E. Wyatt was chosen as chairman of the county organization by the County Republican Executive Committee, which was approved by Mr. C. O. Vardaman, chairman of the Alabama organization..

The county officials will proceed to perfecting organizations in the various Beats of the county.

MAKING EXTENSIVE IMPROVEMENTS AT McKEE SERV. STAT'N

Mr. O. R. Mullins is this week engaged in making some extensive improvements in the "lay of the land" at the McKee Service Station. The cement work on the floor of the station is being torn up and a new floor will be poured the last of this week or the first of next. The sudden rise which cars have to make on entering the station will be eliminated—or rather changed into a gradual slope. Working around the large columns with this excavation is a rather hard job, but plans are all worked out for handling it satisfactorily.

Also, while this is being done, one new pump will be installed at the south side of the station. When all this is finished, the McKee Service Station will be one of the most complete in this section.

SHERIFF'S OFFICE TAKES 18

Sheriff Hardy reports that his officers have made 18 arrests since the last report was published. These are classed as follows:

Four for driving motor vehicle while intoxicated. Three of these have been released on bonds of $300 each. The other was released by Justice Court on payment of fine and costs imposed.

Four for violating the prohibition law. Three of these have been released on bonds of $300 each. The other is held in jail.

Three for grand larceny. All 3 of these are being held in jail, waiting for transfer to the state penitentiary, where they will begin serving sentences of from two to three years.

Three for gaming. All these were released by Justice Court on payment of fine and costs imposed.

One for larceny; in jail.

One for public drunkenness; in jail.

One for abusive language; released on bond of $300.00.

One for operating a motor vehicle without a driver's license; released on bond of $100.00.

APPOINTMENTS MADE ON POLICE FORCE

At a meeting of the City Council on Tuesday, March 3rd, appointments were made in the city police system, necessitated by the death of Police John W. Browder.

Night policeman R. F. Culver was promoted to the day shift, and Arthur Willis was appointed on the night force. B. R. Plyler will remain on the night force, the same place he has held in the past.

These changes are to take effect on next Sunday, March 15. A new uniform has been ordered for Chief Culver, which is expected to be here by the time he takes op his new duties.

VAN SMITH BACK FROM HOSPITAL

M. Van Smith has returned to his home from the Veteran's Hospital at Tuscaloosa. He was carried there for treatment about Christmas, suffering from a complication of ailments, including pneumonia, and at that time was given but scant chance to live.

However, he is back again now, and states that he is feeling fine, and putting on weight every day. Van is looking well, too.

J. HARVEY FOSHEE SUFFERED CRUSHED ANKLE IN A FALL

J. Harvey Foshee, local truckman, was about town again during the first part of this week, for the first time in two weeks. Some time ago, Mr. Foshee suffered a crushed ankle when a lumber pile crashed down with him, several of the timbers falling on his ankle.

He is recovering fast now, although he is still walking with the help of crutches.

THREE WERE HURT IN AUTO SMASH LAST SUNDAY NIGHT

Miss Catherine Allen, Mrs. T. M. Allen, 5-year old Irene Johnson, and Miss Mary Lamar Russell were injured last Sunday night about five miles west of Clanton when their car left the Maplesville highway and plunged into a ditch.

Miss Allen and her mother, Mrs. T. M. Allen, and the Johnson child are all from Birmingham, while Miss Russell is from Oxford. All were brought to Central Alabama Hospital for treatment. The child was released after first aid treatment, but the other three were held at the hospital in a more serious condition. Miss Russell was the worst hurt of all, sustaining several painful cuts about the face and shoulders.

Miss Allen, who was driving the Ford sedan, told hospital attendants that she thought a tire had gone flat, and that while trying to stop, the car began swaying from one sde of the road to the other. Fnally she lost control completely, the car plungng down an embankment into a water-filled ditch.

Farmers Union Mass Meeting At Courthouse Saturday, 10 A. M.

There will be a mass meeting at the courthouse, Clanton, Saturday, March 14th, called by Chilton County Farmers Union, beginning at 10:00 o'clock a.m. Prominent speakers will discuss farm prices and otheir questions affecting the farmers. W. C. Irby, State Superintendent Alabama Farmers Union will speak at 2:00 p.m.

Every body, especially the lladies, whether members of Union or not, are invited and urged to come and hear.

On March 7th, last, W. C. Irby spoke upon the Farm Union program at Jackson Chapel, after which the Jackson Chapel local unanimously adopted the following resolutions:

Resolutions

Whereas, the farmers and government are threatened with loss of more than $400,000,000 on cotton, and

Whereas, the Southern Farmers pooled millions of bales of cotton with the Government under the 12c and 10c loan, and

Whereas it is admitted that cotton should bring not less than 20 cents a pound, and

Whereas, speculators for the past 2 years have sold more than 300,000,000 bales of cotton they did not have and never expected to have merely to depress the price of cotton and rob the farmers of half the value of their cotton, and

Whereas, they are now selling the price below the 10 cent loan which will not only mean loss of hundreds of millions of dollars to farmers but loss of millions of dollars to the Government, and

Whereas, Congress has power to fix the price of cotton, prohibit importation of cotton and prohibit short selling, now

Therefore, be it resolved, that we demand that our representatives and senates in Congress do all in their power to obtain passage of a law by Congress fixing the price of cotton at not less than 20 cents and prohibiting manufacturers from importing any cotton until all cotton of American farmers is consumed and prohibiting contracts on the exchanges for sale of cotton at less than 20 cents a pound.

D. S. SMITH,
Secretary Jackson's Chapel local Farm Union;

W. L. SANDERS,
Member Ex. Com., Chilton County Farm Union.

B. B. HAY DIED MARCH 6TH

B B. Hay, age 76, died last Friday night at his home in Clanton, after an illness of three weeks duration. Funeral services were held Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock at the Shepard cemetery in Elmore county, with Rev. Nails officiating. Burial was in the cemetery at that place, with Spigener in charge. Pallbearers were Lester Smith, Philip Boon, Andrew Matson, Curtis Hay, Virgil Hay, and D. S. Smith.

Survivers are: three sons—O. B. Hay of Clanton, W. H. Hay of Clanton Route 6, and T. L. Hay of Langdale, Ala.; three daughters—Mrs. W. C. Pressley of Wetumpka, Mrs. Flossie Matson of Clanton Route 3, and Mrs. Minnie Brewer of Clanton.

FIVE CASES IN CITY COURT

Five cases were docketed in the City Court during the past week. They are listed as follows, with their disposition:

Two for public drunkenness; one of these was released on payment of $5 fine, and $7 cost; the other was given a sentence to 10 days on the city streets, but this sentence was suspended, pending good behavior.

Three for disorderly conduct; one of these was given a sentence of six days on the city streets; the other two cases were continued for later disposition.

Festus Scott Killed In Wreck Tuesday

Was Well Known Baseball Player; Prominent Chilton Citizen

Festus Jackson Scott, age 43, was instantly killed about one mile east of Jemison last Tuesday night about 7:00 o'clock. Reports were that Scott was reutrning from a fishing trip with Russel Peterson, with Peterson driving the car. As they rounded a curve, Peterson is said to have lost control of the car, which plunged into a bank. Scott's neck was broken and his chest crushed. Peterson suffered a crushed shoulder, and a thumb severed, but he is expected to survive.

Plans had been made Wednesday morning for funeral services Thursday at 2:00 p.m., at the Jemison Baptist church, with Rev. Maurice Hodgens officiating; burial in the Pine Hill cemetery, with Martin in charge.

He is survived by: five sisters—Mrs. W. G. Atkinson, Mrs. F. T. Atkinson, Mrs. J. A. Cleckler, Mrs. L. R. Cobb, all of Jemison, and Mrs. James Philpot of Calera.

Scott, popularly known as "Fet" Scott, was well known in sporting circles of Chilton County, having been a baseball player with various teams for a number of years, as well as a basket ball enthusiast.

THOMAS W. WILSON

Funeral was held Thursday afternoon at his home near Clanton for Thomas W. Wilson, 76, who died Wednesday afternoon. Burial followed in the cemetery of Maple Springs Baptist church, of which Mr. Wilson had been a member for many years.

Mr. Wilson was born in Chilton county within a mile and a half of the residence he occupied at the time of his last illness. His life work was that of farming and practically his entire life had been spent in the Maple Springs vicinity. He was widely known in Chilton county and throughout the State. Surviving relatives are four brothers, P. D., Enoch, G. W., and A. J. Wilson, all of Chilton county; and several sons and daughters.

NEW MOTO-SWAY LUBRICATION PLAN IS INTRODUCED HERE

J. E. Easterling, Mgr. Woco Service Station Invites Friends To See New Machine

Revolutionizing the automobile lubrication business, the Woco Servict Station, J. E. Easterling, manager, this week introduces the Moto-Sway, a unique device that puts a typical road action under a car while the car is being lubricated.

This remarkable innovation has accomplished what engineers have tried to develope for a decade. It creates road action while the car is not in motion and permits the lubricant to easily reach every point. When a car is stationery with dead weight on spring and shackles, it is practically impossible to lubricate the points of greatest friction, engineers claim.

Any bolt, nut, spring, shackle battery box that may be loose on the chassis of the car can be detected and fixed while in motion on the Moto-Sway.

Woco Service Station is demonstrating the Moto-Sway equipment at its station on the corner opposite the court house. This sensational greasing and lubrication service with Purol special lubricant is being offered to the public at no extra cost.

Moto-Sway lubrication is said to bring back the driving thrill to old cars and will keep the squeaks and rattles out of new cars. It is said to increase the life of the car and decrease repair bills.

Grand Jury Was In Session Last Week

Returned Twenty True Bills In Two-Day Session; Offer Recommendations

State of Alabama, Chilton County.
Circuit Court of said County and State.
To the Hon. Arthur Glover as Judge of said Court:

We, the Grand Jury, empanelled for the January Term, have completed our investigation of all matters that we felt needed our immediate attention and herewith submit the following report:

During our investigation we have considered 28 cases and have examined 57 witnesses and are returning herewith 20 true bills.

We have made a personal inspection of the county jail and believe it to be sufficiently safe for the keeping of the prisoners, and find that the prisoners confined therein are being well fed and cared for with reasonable comfort; and on our inspection of the almshouse we find that it is being well handled by those in charge and that the occupants get meals and attention insofar as the arrangements for taking care of the inmates will reasonably permit.

We have examined the fee book of the Probate Judge and find it neatly kept and correct insofar as we were able to ascertain. We have examined the bonds of the various county officials and find that they are ample for the protection of the public; and in our examination of the sheriff's account with the State for feeding prisoners we find that it is being kept in accordance with the law. On our examination of the office of the County Superintendent of Education we find that his books, records and papers are neatly kept and insofar as we ascertained were being kept fully in accordance the law.

The Grand Jury wishes to especially thank your honor for the very able charge given us when we were first empanelled. It has been most helpful to us throughout all our investigations.

We had evidence before us that certain gambling devices and slot machines are being operated at various places in the county. The General Acts of 1931 Legislature at page 806 makes it the duty of the Sheriff to seize and remove any gambling devices being operated within the county. The Grand Jury urges the Sheriff and all other officers of the county to take steps immediately to see that this law is not violated. We wish to request the Court to call to the attention of the next Grand Jury empanelled in this county this provision of our report with the view that an investigation may be made to determine whether or not the officers of the county are doing their duty with reference to gambling devices and slot machines as is required by law.

We, having completed our investigation of all matters that we felt needed our immediate attention, we respectfully ask that we now be recessed to such time as your Honor may see fit and think proper to have us again convene.

This March 6th, 1936.

B. F. MASSEY, Foreman.

FROM BUREAU OF FEDERAL INVESTIGATION WASHINGTON

March 4, 1936.

Editor Union-Banner:

My attention has been called to the editorial entitled "The Coming of the G-Men" which appeared in the February 20, 1936, issue of The Union-Banner.

Your commendatory statements concerning the Federal Bureau of Investigations and my administration of it are most sincerely appreciated and I want to thank you for your interest in quoting from the article by Mr. P. L. Franklin concerning the accomplishments of this Bureau.

With best wishes and kind regards, I am sincerely yours,—J. Edgar Hoover.

Miss Boots Heflin, of Moulton, visited Miss Ethel Cagle, of Mitchell Dam, last week end.

Young Republicans

A meeting of the Young Republicans will be held at Concord school house Friday night, March 13th, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. This meeting is called for the purpose of effecting a local organization for the eastern half of Beat 4, and especially the young Republicans of that section are urged to attend. A young Republican is supposed to be any person of the Republican faith between the ages of 18 and 36 years of age, but these age limits are not adhered to strictly.

However, this meeting is open to all who wish to attend, regardless of age or what Beat you live in. Any candidates who so choose will have a welcome at the meeting. There will be a few brief speeches, and the candidates will be given an opportunity to make a short talk if they so desire.

Let me appeal, especially, to the young Republicans of Beat 4 east of the railroad, both men and women, to attend this meeting. We want to get that part of the Beat organized and put on an active working basis. Any suggestions from the older heads will at all times be welcome.—T. E. Wyatt, County Chairman.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

"Through faith we understand that the worlds were framed by the Word of God". That is a quotation from the third verse of the eleventh chapter of Hebrews. You will note that it does not say that we understand the worlds were framed by the Word of God because we went into a laboratory and studied some chemicals. It says we understand this by faith. Jesus told Nicodemus, "If you do not believe me when I tell earthly things, how will you believe me when I tell you heavenly things?" Someone has said if a man does not accept what God says about creation he will not accept what God says about salvation. The same book says, "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth" also says "by grace are ye saved through faith". All of this modernistic effort to tear out the first lines of the Bible is a satanic conspiracy to wreck the faith of men in the authority of the only Book which offers salvation to a lost world. The religion of the Bible differs from all other religions. The religions of the world say "do and live." The religion of the Bible says, "Live and do". The reason for this difference is all the other religions began in the wisdom of man. The religion of the Bible began in he wisdom of God.

In the old days when they had religious debates they used to argue about what the Bible said. They agreed that whatever it said was so. The most serious thing about the controversy now is this: Religious leaders are arguing about whether the Bible is so or not. The most important thing is not your Baptist, Methodist, Presbyterian, Disciple, Lutheran, or Episcopal doctrines. The most important thing is this, "Is there any authority back of your doctrine?" Your doctrines are no good if they are not authoritative. You fathers and mothers need not be worried about your sons and daughters losing denominational faith. You had better get down on your knees and pray that your children will not lose faith in the Bible. That is the modern danger. The Bob Jones College is a living demonstration of the fact that it is possible for Methodists, Baptists, Presbyterians, Disciples, Episcopalians and Christians of other denominations to live together harmoniously uniting on the simple fundamentals and acepting the absolute authority of the Bible. There was a time when if a man said he was a member of a certain church everyone knew what he believed. In this day and time a man may say he is a Baptist, a Methodist, a Presbyterian, or a member of some other trinitarian denomination, and at the same time be a unitarian. An orthodox Methodist is much closer to an orthodox Baptist than an orthodox Methodist is to a modernistic Methodist. Remember, the most important thing is this, "Is the Bible the Word of God? Can yau believe what it says?" The writer, who is an old time, orthodox Christian says, "Whatever the Book says is so".

AIRY NOTES

Keeping America Out of War

Always a peace loving nation, our people have consistently disregarded the sage advice of George Washington, the father of our country, who said, "In time of peace, prepare for war." Thus we hoped to keep out of war. We have been through several wars and each one found us woefully unprepared.

Fortunately the courage, initiative and enterprise of our people as a whole, has enabled us to pull through victoriously, after a while. But what did it cost? Billions of dollars, many lives and untold suffering. Even the next generation will be paying tax to defray debts incurred during the World War, nearly 20 years ago. The Civil War debt, incurred before you and I were born, is still paying us.

In this we have been "penny wise and pound foolish" to an extreme degree. If we had practiced preparedness to a reasonable extent and our lawmakers had seen fit to have followed the wise advice of Washington in preparing for war in time of peace, and spending a reasonable amount to equip ourselves for self defense, no one would have threatened, much less attacked us; and the needless sacrifice of the manhood of our nation, and the wasteful spending of billions of dollars in waging war, operating veterans hospitals, paying bonuses and pensions, helping war widows and orphans, and paying endless interest on war debts for generations to come might have been avoided to say nothing of inconvenience, privation and suffering that might not have been experienced.

Are these bitter lessons of the past not worth our notice? Are we so set in our peaceful way of money lending unpreparedness that we are blinded? Blind to this costly lesson? Blind to the fact that we are woefully unprepared, I might say, criminally unpreppared, to defend ourselves?

Are we blind to the fact that while foreign countries repudiated their billions of debts to us, explained that they were "broke"; that these same countries, at that very moment, were spending millions of dollars building airplanes and equipping an air force far superior to ours? Are our lawmakers blind to the fact that while we are busy taking care of our needy and idle with relief doles at home and leniently letting the countries who owe us immense war debts go unquestioned; these same countries are using the money they owe to us to employ their unemployed and to provide jobs for their idle, in building great war machines and powerful air forces for another war while we stand idly by?

In speaking of the foreign war strength to the Woman's Patriotic Conference on National Defense, Eddie Rickenbacker says, " In one country in Europe, today they have a plant working throughout the 24 hours of the day with more square feet of floor space than all the American airplants combined." In sppeaking of prevention of war, he says, "The only reason there is war today between Italy and Ethiopia, is that Ethioppia did not have an air force equal to that of Italy." Do you suppose Mussolini would have entered this war and invaded Ethiopia if Ethiopia could have met her air forces? Certainly not. Do you suppose Japan would have cut China to pieces as it has in the last few years if China had been properly equipped in air forces to meet the invasion of the Japanese army? Certainly not. Why does Japan hesitate to attack Russia? It is because Russia has thousands of fighting planes lined up along her border ready to blow an invading army to pieces.

Captain Rickenbacker says, "By rendering genuine protective service to mankind the airplane, called the most deadly implement of war that man has ever created, can be changed into an angel of peace,"

We have transport facilities for mail and passenger carrying in the United States superior to that of any other country in the world; but our fighting force is far inferior to many, in fact, it is estimated to stand 17th from the top.

Let me ask the question, when dark war clouds are appearing on every part of the horizon and a world's war, much worse than before, appears in the near offing, would it not be better to build our air forces on an equal with the strongest in the world, and thus avoid being forced into any conflict? To my mind this would be more humane, more economical, less expensive and much better in every respect to be prepared to stay out of war, rather than unprepared to go into war. No country or individual attacks the other expecting itself to be defeated.

Uncle Pink Jones, of Corinth community, was in Clanton Tuesday of this week. Mr. Jones, although well in the seventies, is still spry as a cricket and enjoying life to the fullest. He says he plans on slipping off to the creek some of these sunshiny days soon, and try his luck with the bream and perch.

V-C NON ACID FORMING Fertilizers

Grow Better Cotton and Corn

V-C Fertilizers do more than just supply needed plant-foods. They provide them in many different forms for different stages of growth. They contain the minerals that are so necessary. They contain abundant magnesia—the fourth element—that keeps your soil sweet.

It takes more than a shovel and a pair of scales to compound such mixtures. Into every bag go forty years of experience. It is because of this, that in competitive tests, they have repeatedly grown bigger and better yields. Talk your fertilizer needs over with the V-C Agent. He's a good man to know.

How Seals Help Train Crippled Children For Self-Support

When crippled bodies have been straightened and weakened muscles strengthened as far as possible, what next must be done to turn physically handicapped children into self-supporting, self-respecting adults?

The answer is, "vocational education"—and here you see it being given in an institution typical of many throughout this county for the special benefit of youngsters afflicted through accident or disease.

Important always, of course, is such instruction for young folks, but how much more urgent when there is a paralyzed arm or crooked back or twisted foot, meaning that only certain professions or trades or occupations are possible.

The growing boys and girls seen here, intent upon tasks that teach minds and hands to do useful work, are so fortunate because somebody cared enough to provide the funds required for establishments like this.

Opportunity for everybody to give a lift is afforded through annual sale of Crippled Children Seals, at Easter time. They cost only a penny each, or a dollar per sheet, but each year the number of buyers is growing, and the number of beneficiaries.

On each Seal is shown the "Door of Opportunity." Each Seal, when sold, helps to open wide the door for some youngster pho can't push it hard enough, himself, to get through to possibilities beyond.

SINGING AT COTTON MILL NEXT SUNDAY AFTERNOON

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

FARMERS ARE ADVISED PLANT SEED PATCHES

Auburn, Ala.—Planting seed patches seems to offer Alabama farmers their best opportunity of solving their annual planting seed problem, report officials of the Alabama Extension Service.

"Lespedeza seed are scarce and high in price but farmers can solve their lespedeza seed problem by planting a small patch and producing their own planting seed for 1937," says J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist.

Farmers are also being advised to plant seed patches of the better varieties of cotton for producing their 1937 planting seed.

The grower with crimson clover on his land this spring should save a seed patch for producing seed for planting next fall.

The extension workers also states that farmers "have a wonderful opportunity of increasing kudzu production by immediately setting out a few crowns and permitting them to produce other crowns for setting during future years."

PRIZES TO BE AWARDED IN POSTER AND ESSAY CONTEST

High school teachers of this city have just received an announcement of two national competitive events—a poster contest and an essay contest—open to high school students of Alabama. Scholarships and cash prizes will be awarded the winners.

Both contests are sponsored by the live-stock and meat industry of the United States, through the National Live Stock and Meat Board. The poster contest is being held for the first time, while the essay contest has been an annual event for the past thirteen years. Last year's state title holder of the essay contest was Miss Annette Folmar of Troy.

Alabama students entering the contests will also compete against students in other states for district and national championships. In 1935 the national winner in the essay contest was Miss Dorothy Lee Gillins of Ashmore, Ill., who won this coveted honor in a field of 12,269 contestants.

In both the poster and the essay contests, the entries are to be on phases of the subject of meat as a food. Prominent artists and home economists will make up the committee of judges, according to the announcement.

The contest closes on April 15.

FARMERS WARNED NOT TURN WINTER LEGUMES TOO EARLY

Auburn, Ala.—Winter legumes—hairy vetch and Austrian winter peas—should not be turned too early. This is especially true this year, due to the small growth because of cold weather during the winter months, says J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist.

With the coming of warm weather the legumes will immediately begin rapid growth and will soon be large enough to add sufficient nitrogen for corn or cotton.

THREE HOG PROJECTS FOR ALABAMA GROWERS

Auburn, Ala.—Three hog projects—the market hog project, the purebred gilt project, and the ton-litter project—are being conducted in Alabama this year, announces F. W. Burns, extension livestock specialist, who briefly describes each project as follows:

The market hog project is intended for beginners who have had very little experience with hogs and who have only a limited amount of money to put into the project. This work should furnish an excellent market for much home-grown feed and also should show a nice profit for the club member.

The purebred gilt project is intended for club members who have demonstrated their ability to feed and care for hogs properly. These boys should be able to furnish market pigs to other club members who must buy their hogs and can also furnish breeding stock to farmers in the county.

The ton-litter project is designated for farmers and club members who have ample feed and who wish to produce hogs, using the best methods of feeding and management available. It also gives statewide publicity to purebred hog breeders and will do much to assist them in the sale of breeding stock. This project should be profitable to all contestants.

Interested farmers and 4-H club members may obtain further information about each or all of the projects from their county agents.

FARMERS ARE AIDED BY FARM DEBT ADJUSTMENT

Montgomery, Ala., March 10.—Alabama farmers are letting their local farm debt adjustment committees lighten their debt burdens with increasing rapidity, it was indicated this week when Charles A. McKinnon, Auburn, farm debt adjustment supervisor in Alabama for the Resettlement Administration, reported that in the first three weeks of February the debts of 49 farmers were adjusted, totaling $142,077.

These figures compare with 58 cases adjusted in the last four months of 1935 totaling $298,049. The amount of scale-down in debts effected along with the refinancing during the four-month period was $112,214, while during February it has amounted to $35,327. This brings to $147,541 the amount of scale-down effected on $440,127 of debts readjusted since the Resettlement Administration assumed responsibility for the adjustment program.

District FDA supervisors through whose offices the work of county committees is cleared are:

District 1, Arthur Stephenson; District 2, Homer D. Lee; District 3, L. C. Rew; District 4, J. H. Fuller.

Appointed by ex-Governor Miller, it is the business of county committees, McKinnon pointed out, to give accurate information and counsel to creditors and debtors in connection with cases of excessive farm debts and, if possible, to arrange adjustments or extensions satisfactory to both parties to prevent foreclosures. Without legal power, these committees depend on voluntary agreements between debtors and creditors for their effectiveness.

"This work is responsible for a decided improvement in the confidence and debt-paying morale of farmers in Alabama," McKinnon said.

For any information relative to helping distressed farmers please contact Mr. J. W. Fant, County Agent for Chilton county.

PROVISIONS OF NEW SOIL CONSERVATION ACT ARE OUTLINED

Auburn, Ala.—Preservation and improvement of national soil resources, reestablishment and maintenance of farmers' purchasing power, asurance of adequate supplies of foods and fibers for consumers, and the protection of rivers and harbors against the effects of soil erosion are provided for in the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act, which was signed by the President on March 1. Details of the program are expected soon.

Temporary Federal aid in the form of payments to individual farmers to assist voluntary action by them designed to accomplish the soil conservation purposes is authorized until 1938. Commencing in 1938, grants will be made only to states upon approval of state program by the Secretary of Agriculture in acordance with the provisions of the Act. Grants may be made to states under plans approved before 1938. These state plans are to include as a principal objective the reestablishment of farmers' purchasing power, and may provide for production control. The Act authorizes an annual appropriation of not more than $500,000,000.

Under the temporary plan of Federal aid, the Secrtary of Agriculture is authorized to make soil conservation payments to producers measured by (1) their treatment or use of land for soil restoration, conservation, or erosion prevention, (2) changes in the use of their land, and (3) the domestic allotment of one or more designated commodities. Productivity of the land affected is to be taken into consideration in making payments measured by changes in use of land or treatment of land for soil conservation.

The Act contains a requirement that the interests of share-croppers, tenants, and small producers be protected and tenants and share-croppers are specifically included in the Act as agricultural producers.

RECOVERING FROM PNEUMONIA; EXTENDS THANKS TO FRIENDS

I wish to state that I am now on the road to recovery from a siege of pneumonia; and I do not overlook the splendid assistance rendered me by my good neighbors. While I could not attend to my home duties, the people around me were very kind to lend their assistance, as well as waiting on me while I was very ill. Everyone has my thanks.—Mrs. Robert L. Friday of Temple community.

VERMONT P.-T. A.

The Vermont P. T. A. will be held tonight (Thursday, March 12) at Vermont Jr. High School. Every body is invited and urged to be present. We enjoy these P.-T. A. meetings, as parents don't seem interested enough in our school. Come out tonight and let's meet back with our teachers. Some of the parents haven't met the teachers so we especailly invite you.

Don't forget the date, tonight at 7:30.

HARVEY STONE SHOT TUES NIGHT

Harvey Stone, negro, was shot Tuesday night at the home of Oscar Hill, another negro, on the west side of Clanton. The shooting occurred about 11:00 o'clock.

Officers Nivens and Culver were called to the scene, but Stone had been removed to Central Alabama Hospital when they arrived.

Officers stated that a few days ago Stone beat his wife, who is a daughter of Hill's wife. The Stone woman then went to her mother's home, later taking out a warrant for Stone. Tuesday night Stone went to the Hill home stating that he intended to kill all three, Hill, his wife, and the Stone woman.

As he entered the house, he threw a flatiron at Hill, but missed him. He then hit Hill over the head with a stick, opening a bad wound. He then started on to his next victim. But by that time Hill's wife had secured a revolver, and opened up at close range with three bullets, two of them taking effect in Stone's body.

Hospital attendants Wednesday morning stated that Stone was still in a serious condition. No arrests had been made, but Sheriff Hardy stated that the Hill woman would be taken into custody and held for a preliminary hearing, although the shooting appeared to be justifiable.

Purina
STARTENA
Now fortified with
PUR-A-TENE
Protects Life and Health!

THIS YEAR, when every chick you raise means twice as much profit as it did four or five years ago, the Purina Research Laboratories announce one of the most outstanding developments in the history of chick feeding—the discovery of Pur-a-tene.

What is Pur-a-tene? It's the concentrated goodness that's in most fresh vegetables and fruits. It's the "mysterious something" which strengthens the mucous membranes of the nose, mouth, respiratory and digestive passages and causes them to act as a natural armor against germs. Scientists call it provitamin A. Poultrymen see it in bright red combs, smooth plumage, lessened colds and added vigor. Purina Startena has been known for years as America's finest starting feed. Now it is made even better by the addition of Pur-a-tene.

TAXES FOR EVERYONE

In answer to an inference by Governor Curley, in which the latter is said to have laid criticism of extravagance and unjustified expenditure to partisianship, Mr. John H. Mahoney, legislative chairman of the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers is quoted as saying:

"I would respectfully call to the Governor's attention a fact which he cannot seem to grasp—that taxes are strictly non-partisan and that it is as difficult for Democrats to pay them as Republicans. The Governor's assumption that no one except Republicans care about taxes is simply amazing."

While this dispute is between worthy citizens of the great Commonwealth of Massachusetts, it brings home a lesson to every citizen of the United States. Taxes must be paid both by Democrats and Republicans. Like rain, taxes fall on the just and the unjust alike.

While it is probably true that the majority of the critics of extravagance in public expenditure both in national and state governments are men and women affiliated with the Republican party, the fact must not be lost sight of that there have been a great many protests from members of the party which is now dominant in the Nation and most of the states. For example, the Liberty League is bi-partision, and it has certainly not shown itself in favor of swollen expenditures and unbalanced budgets.

This brings us back to the realization that when it comes to paying for government expenditures in the way of taxes, the money comes from Republicans and Democrats alike. While there may be more audible objection from the Republicans, because they desire to get back into political power, there has been some discontent inside the Democratic political camp. Here is a fact worth remembering when you get ready to make up your political predictions for 1936. There are a lot of folks on relief, but there are many others who expect to be called on to pay the bill.

The modern social slogan seems to be "Marry in haste and divorce at leisure."

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

A favorite contention of those alleged forward-lookers who deplore "rugged individualism" and assert that it should be succeeded by some sort of communal abundant life in which Uncle Sam would play the part of a benevolent parent is, that under our present competitive industrial system, all profits and rewards have gone to the "strong," and that nearly all the wealth of the country is in the hands of a few people.

This argument sounds well but it does not wash well. In fact, all that is needed to make it fade is the sunlight of impartial investigation. If one will take the time to think and to use his eyes he will find all obout him evidence to refute this contention that the substance of America is concentrated in a few hands. Yet the wealth owned by the so-called "common people" is intangible as well as visible. Some, but not all, is concentrated in the millions of individually owned homes and the thirty billion dollars' worth of farms owned by three and a half million farmers.

Speaking of intangible wealth, it is a noteworthy fact that over one-half of the population of the United States own more than a hundred billions in life insurance. The great majority of these are in the comparatively humble walks of life, depending upon their polilies to provide generous part of the family estate. There are $22,000,000,000 in savings deposits in the United States and these are owned by more than forty million people. And it goes without saying that the owners of the savings deposits are not "plutocrats." There are $8,000,000,000 in building and loan assets in the United States and they are owned by 10,000,000. Most of these are persons who are far removed from the class of the idle rich.

We hear a great deal about Wall Street and its alleged iniquities. Yet the stock exchange fundamentally is a place for the purchase and sale of securities by individual investors. And the great industrial enterprises (a record of security sales is disclosed daily on the stock ticker), are owned by thousands of persons in the United States—school teachers, small merchants, as well as "bloated bondholders."

For example: the great American Telephone and Telegraph Company, one of those utilities we hear so much about, has more than a half million owners, each of whom possesses a comparatively few shares of the stock. The same is true of General Motors and other great American industrial enterprises. The privately owned utilities, which so many of our alleged reformers are seeking to replace with Government monoplies financed by the taxpayers' money, generally have a widley diffused ownership of individual investors.

If there is any doubt about the comparative position of the average American we have only to look at the record. The United States with only 7 per cent of the population and 6 per cent of the territory of the earth has 32 per cent of the world's dailroads, 58 per cent of the telephone and telegraph facilities, 76 per cent of the automobiles and 44 per cent of the radio receiving sets in the world today. And a comparison of the average American's daily diet with that of the average of other nations, especially those greatly outselling us because of lower production costs, would be even more significant.

THE REMEDY LIES IN THE BALLOT-BOX

Continued and noisy rejoicing by New Deal Democrats and liberal Republicans over the Supreme Court's T. V. A. decision should leave the average American in no doubt as to what is in store for the country if the Administration is given time to carry out its plans. The course is clearly and indelibly marked as if it were engraved on marble. Already the Tennessee Valley Authority is preparing to sell electric power to some thirty communities and in other ways, including the distribution of appliances, to enter into direct competition with private business. Already the legislative machinery has been put in motion for similar adventures in public ownership on the Red River, in the Mississippi Valley and in the Northwest.

So, however much the Supreme Court itself may have tried to limit its decision and no matter how careful it may have been in the phrasing of it, the New Dealers themselves certainly think that they have been handed a blank check and told to write their own figures. Fortunately, it is still impossible to build a great power plant overnight. Otherwise we might awaken some morning and find the landscape dotted with new dams and the sky covered with a network of transmission lnies, all in the name of improving navigable streams or under the cloak of the national defense.

The trend is perfectly obvious. This is the kind of Administration, as has been indicated time and again, which either believes in Government operation of many businesses or derives satisfaction in putting certain private industries out of commission. It is the kind of Administration which permits impracticable theorists to draw strange plans and to use the country as a laboratory wherein to test their value. It is the kind of Administration which can see no wrong in depriving one group of citizens of its possessions in order that there may be more possessions to donate to some other group. It is the kind of Administration, in short, which has no great respect for either property or personal rights.

There is a remedy, of course, and the number of persons planning to apply it next November is growing constantly larger. It may very well be, for instance, that the decision of the Supreme Court which validated at least part of the T. V. A. experiment and possibly opened the door to the validation of the whole of it will turn out in the end to be a political liability for the Democrats. Certainly the results of it, as exemplified in the frantic attempt to carry out the full program in the Tennesee Valley and to duplicate it elsewhere, will hardly be pleasing to either the millions of Americans who believe in the separation of Government and private business or to the millions of men and women who in all good faith invested their savings in utility stocks and now see their value impaired. All these persons know what the Administration has in mind. If they don't like and want to change it, the next Republican platform doubtless will tell them what they can do about it. They have had their warning. If they fail to heed it they will have no one to blame except themselves.—Boston Transcript.

HONESTY IN FEDERAL FINANCE

How the United States Government started on a career of honesty in Federal finance which has given it an enviable reputation down to the present is told by Arthur H. Bartlett in an interesting article in a current issue of The National Republic. By way of beginning, he says:

"The cost of the Revolutionary War was $170,000,000. More than one-half of this amount remained unpaid when George Washington took office in 1879. The amount that the Confederation and the new Federal Government was legally and morally under obligation to pay is set forth in Alexander Hamilton's first report on the public credit. January, 9, 1790. The foreign debt amounted to $111,710,378, the domestic obligations $42,414,085. Most of the last item was due to individuals in America who, because of their faith in the cause of the American Revolution, had loaned large sums of money to the Continental Congress. Then there was a portion of the obligations which the states incurred or paid to carry on the Revolutionary War, which the Continental Congress was morally and legally bound to pay. This amounted to approximately $25,000,000.

"The total income of the Confederation during its last 14 months of its existence was less than $400,000, and the interest per year on its foreign and domestic debt, according to Alexander Hamilton's figures, was $4,587,444.81. (Computed as of January 9, 1790.) The Continental Congress was without money and with out credit either at home or abroad. The paper money which it had issued had become practically valueless. It could not raise money by taxation, because it did not have the power to tax. Congress tried to secure loans abroad, but Jefferson failed in France, Adams in England and Jay in Spain.

"If the United States Government from its very beginning had not adopted a sound financial policy founded on the payment of every obligation, legal or moral, the Constitution would have been scrapped and the American Republic would have ended in anarchy and civil war. Stable government and sound finances are inseparable. Without revenue, governments cannot exist. Income sufficient to meet the expenditures of government is the prerequisite of independence. Not by compromise nor repudiation nor evasion of obligations, but by payment in full of all "engagements," legal and moral, did the makers of the Constitution propose to establish credit and a stable government. Therefore, they wrote into the Constitution: "All debts contracted and engagements entered into, before the adoption of this Constitution, shall be as valid against the United States under this Constitution as under the Confederation.'

"When Washington went into office he took over the Presidency of a bankrupt people. The Confederacy left the new government nothing but a large, rapidly increasing debt. There was no money in the Treasury, no system of taxation, and no financial confidence to be used as assets with which to finance even the running expenses of the government. Europe was certain that the new Republic was just another Utopian attempt, destined to fail, primarily because it would not be able to finance itself.

The statesmen in Washington are debating whether or not a beauty parlor should be opened in the Capitol for the two women Senators. The gallant and proper way to answer this question would be to say that the parlor isn't needed.

The Supreme Court judges have been referred to as "fossils" in the House of Representatives. At least it's better that they should be than the whole country, which would be if they weren't there.—Boston Transcript.

MAN IN THE MOON

AFTER THE FLU IS OVER

"After the battle's over; after the victory's won—". You've heard that song, haven't you? Well, if you ever have flu you'll feel just like singing it all over again—and you'll mean every last little word of it, too. Gee, but that's something else—that flu. Imagine having a bad cold, an attack of fever, the headache, backache, "tummy" ache, and every other kind of ache in the catalog, every bone in your body as sore as a boil, then think up every other kind of ailment you may be able to imagine, roll them all into one, and you have a fair idea of what it feels like to suffer an attack of influenza. It's that bad. And if you ever ask a fellow if he has had flu, and he tells you he THINKS he has, you can put it down in your little book that he hasn't. When you rave flu you will KNOW you've had it.

Just about the time I had my plans all perfected to start over the county to see the voters, in connection with my candidacy for the treasury post, this flu came along and changed all those plans, very effectively—I had nothing to do with the change, it was all done for me. I'm not all the way over it yet, either, but I can hobble around well enough to shake hands and talk with voters, and am making plans for starting out all over again with my canvassing. I can feed the old gas buggy now, although I am a bit weak, and this week end will find me burning the woods for votes. It is my intention to spend the most of my time between now and May 5th in "going places and seeing people". I intend to try to drive over every road in the county, and see every voter. That's going to be SOME job, and it may be that I will miss a few. But after I have done my best to see you all, after all that is all I can do, and I will be forced to be satisfied, whether I have seen every voter or not.

So look for me, for I am on my way to see YOU, and without some kind of slip-up, sooner or later I will see you. Au revoir, then, until I can get around to your home.

OUR YOUNG REPUBLICANS

It is the natural law of the universe that the young shall be instructed by the old, shall be nutured and admonished by them, shall draw their sustenance and their life from them, until they have come of age to care for themselves and to take up the burdens of their elders, and then the law takes a reverse turn—the young care for, feed and protect the old so long as life remains, at the same time taking up their burden of another younger generation to repeat the process all over again. This is the rule for the human race.

In the plant world, the procedure is much the same. The giant oak drops its acorns, which sprout into little ones. The mother tree spreads its great branches to shade the tender young plant, shedding its leaves yearly that they may decay and form food for it. In time these young plants grow up into strong plants, able to shift for themselves, and then the old tree gives away—dies that its plant children may live, and carry the plan of reproduction on and on.

In the animal kingdom, the procedure is again strikingly similar. An animal bears its young, furnishes it food and protection until it is able to shift for itself, then gives 'way that the young may supplant it and carry on the plan of reproduction again, also.

Likewise, political parties are much the same, just as in all economic bodies. Party leaders carry the banners and do the fighting, all the time teaching the younger generation the manner in which the work is carried on, and then rejoicing when those younger members demonstrate their knowledge and ability by stepping out to take their proper places in the thick of the fight to lead on and on. I think real unselfish leaders really rejoice to see their children show an interest in this kind of work, for it proves to them that they have brought into the world another generation who are willing and anxious to bear the burden of perpetuating the nation which is the heritage of all of us, and which every good citizen is interested in helping to prosper, that it may be handed down to the next generation in as good condition as when we received it, that they may carry on and do likewise. Only in this way can Americans be sure that America will always be America—a free and untrammelled land of the free.

So, in launching the move for organization of the young Republicans of Chilton County, we would first pay homage to those of our elders who have carried on the fight before us. We should ever keep in mind the fervor and faithfulness with which they have fought for the principles of our party. They have nurtured it in the past—they have led it, fought for it, gave it life, and have kept the bright light of its principles gleaming all through the life of our nation. And now has come the time when we must take up their burden in some degree. We must begin to learn to lead, to fight, to carry on, even as they have done, that we hay hand down to the generation to follow us the same proud and undimmed principles which are being given to us by our elders, and were likewise handed down to them when they were as we are now.

We would not create the impression that we are taking something away from them. That is not our intention in any sense. But we do feel that the time has come when we should bear our share of the burden of support and maintenance of government. And so, with this thought in mind, we organize to better understand how to go about our duty of bearing that burden. All too often the younger generation finds self-government thrust upon it while yet untrained and unfit for the work of carrying on. We do not want to make that mistake. Therefore, we join together, placing ourselves at the disposal of our party leaders, with these words: "Here are we. Take us and train us to carry on. Instill in us the courage and steadfastness that is so necessary to the proper execution of our duty. It is not our desire to replace, but to learn and to aid, so that at such time as we are called on to carry on your work, we may be able to do so with credit to you and to ourselves."

We honor those veterans of the past and present. They have fought a good fight. There is still much good in them, and we are truly thankful that they are with us to guide and correct us. They can point out to us the pitfalls that they have found by experience. And I trust we shall have the grace of paying heed to their instruction and of profiting by it.

Our young Republicans have nothing to be ashamed of. The record of their party is one of which they may feel proud. The record of the national Republican party constitutes a long list of the nation's outstanding achievements. Its history is likewise a history of the brighter spots in the nation's history. These facts have not just "happened" to be. They are true because the party's principles are sound, and have been proved over and over again.

These are the things we would instill in the minds and hearts of our young Republicans. We would point out to them the great and glorious heritage which is theirs, that they may again feel proud for being a part of such an organization. We would impress upon them, too, the importance of their taking a decided stand for the principles of their party, which have made so much of the better part of the nation's history, and which will have a great part in forming the future of our nation for all time to come.

I am told that meetings will be held in every beat in the county, at which the young Republicans will be urged to attend. We will be proud to have the older Republicans with us, too, but we especially urge the younger ones. In this manner, each beat will have its own unit. After units have been organized in every beat, then a general meeting will be called at the court house, with all units attending, where they will be addressed by some outstanding Republican. Hon. C. O. Vardaman has consented to speak to them on this occasion. I am quite sure that Hon. J. O. Middleton, and others, can be secured to speak at this time also.

So watch The Union-Banner for announcement of when meetings will be held in your beat. And when your beat's number goes up by all means be on hand for that meeting. By organizing these beat units, and syncronizing them into one big county unit, we hope to feed new life, new blood into our county Republican party.

We want the older ones with us, too, that we may have enough of the younger set to furnish new fire and new zest for our party, yet enough of the older ones to furnish the ripe good judgment that is the result only of experience. In this manner we hope to build up a party organization that will not brook defeat, that will not become disconsolate, and will not stop fighting until the last battle has been won and the last worth while deed accomplished.—Man in the Moon.

STATE PAYROLLS IN ALABAMA

Observers who have taken the trouble to compare figures of State pay rolls find that in January, 1936, there was increase of $97,-863.96 over the last month of the Miller administration, December, 1934. This is approximately the average monthly increase in payrolls in Alabama, and if multiplied by 12 will make $1,174,367.12 as an approximate annual increase.

The question immediately arises: "What are we getting now that is worth one and one-third millions more than what Governor Miller was giving us?" The increase certainly has not been put in schools, and if it has been put on roads, it is difficult to see that much improvement.

Salaries is where the increase has been made, but what increase in service do you see from the State officials?

Well, nobody may take a walk from the Republican National Convention, but judging from the number of prospective G. O. P. candidates it may be necessary to take somebody for a ride.

A NATIONAL LOSS

The entire nation has suffered a real lo in the death of Albert C. Ritchie, statesm and for four terms governor of the Old Fr State. A review of Governor Ritchie's li should be an inspiration to achieve succe on his own merits, and through force of cha acter and independence of thought.

Governor Ritchie came of a prominent M ryland family. He was educated in privat schools in the city of Baltimore, receivi his degree from Johns Hopkins University 1896. Two years later he graduated from t law school of the University of Maryland a became a practicing attorney, at one ti teaching law.

Mr. Ritchie rose rapidly in the ranks of h profession and in political circles until he w finally elected Governor of his home Stat being later honorably mentioned as a can date for the Presidency of the United State He was a rugged and high-minded Democr of the old school, a firm believer in the rig of the States to manage their own affairs, proponent of Constitutional Americanism.

A short time ago the American peop were called on to mourn the passing of a for er Vice-President of the United States, statesman who was born on the prairie in a Indian tepee, who practically educated hi self and later was elevated to the position United States Senator and then Vice-Pres dent.

The early surroundings of Charles Cur in the country, and Albert Ritchie in the ci were almost totally unalike. Yet both thr through their high character and rugged d termination made their way to the top a won for themselves thousands of friends a the respect of the entire citizenship of t United States. Mr. Curtis overcame the han icap of the early Kansas prairie and M Ritchie overcame the danger of easier and u ban surroundings which are often fatal those who do not possess the courage a will and the determination to succeed by tak ing the difficult path.

The records of these two men are a lesso in the democratic traditions of Americ They show that success is due to character and determination, no matter where the sta on life's journey may be. It is individual e fort, not governmental subsidy that coun in the long run.

POLITICAL MISTAKE

Without going into the question of the pro riety of the retirement of Major Gener Johnson Hagood of the United States Arm for criticism alleged to have been heaped o certain New Deal policies in a hearing be fore the House Appropriations Committe some time ago, it is evident that from a p litical standpoint the action of the departme was a serious mistake. It has afforded op ponents of the National Administration an op portunity to pour more oil on the fire of p litical opposition by charging that the right free speech has been interfered with and th the retirement smacks of European fascism.

For example, Senator Hastings, of Del ware, charged that the action is part of "reign of terror" to check criticism of th New Deal and he added: "Freedom of th press has been helped by the Supreme Cou but what we need is freedom of speech a well."

A front-page two column editorial in th Hearst newspapers, commenting on the inc dent is headed "Tyranny Running True t Form." Congressman Blanton, of Texas, i quoted as stating that when General Hago House Committee, he was given permission t testify fully and freely and that no restri tions were placed on him.

According to newspaper reports a stat ment from the White House said that Pres dent Roosevelt personally had nothing to d with the order and had no comment to mak

Defense by Administration leaders on Cap tol Hill claimed that Hagood's retirem was a routine matter. Again it was charge that previous Republican administrations ha gone even further in disciplining military m for critical remarks. The latter argument not exactly convincing, however, in that seeks to excuse the action of the Departme in General Hagood's case by charging th Republican administrations had done likewis Two wrongs do not make a right, if tw wrongs were committed, and the contenti lacks force, unless it is to be assumed tha the Department in the present instance wa right because the Republican did it first.

Be that as it may, further indication of th inadvisability of the action taken can b found in the fact that General Hagood's re marks, made many days ago, in which he re erred to W.P.A. funds as "stage money" an criticized 'extravagance' of the WPA in com parison with expenditures for the Army, ha been practically forgotten by the public unt the General was retired. Then they immedi ately were recalled by opponents of the Ad ministration and were displayed on fron pages of hostile newspapers, and coupled with charges that a new "reign of terror" ha commenced.

General Hagood, who is a native of Sou Carolina, has been defended by some Demo cratic leaders, as well as by the opposition They point to his long and honorable re record as a reason why he should not hav been retired at this time, immediately follow ing his criticism of W.P.A. expenditures.

BIBLE THOUGHTS

The church that Christ built extends beyond the grave. Earthly affairs, such as riches, societies, and human institutions end at the grave. No individual can carry any of the features of these things beyond death. But the principles of righteousness instituted by the Lord will continue forever. These true principles we find in the word of God, and His word endures forever. But things over which people divide, wrangle and build up factions and peculiar isms cannot be carried over the chasm of death into the paradise of God.

Believers in Christ are not divided over the truth of the New Testament, but they are divided over what some man or set of men have said. Christ built His church upon an immovable foundation (Matt. 16:13-18), but men, have built factions, institutions. All the real good in all things belong to Christ, but the division and the peculiarities that make division belong to men and satan. On this side of the Great Gulf that separates the living from the departed we are subjected to manifold temptations to which we may yield and lose our reward of eternal life; or we may resist such temptations and by the help of God have a full assurance of faith and look for a crown of righteousness which the Lord will give to the obedient. The power of life and death is in our hands while we live in this tabernacle of clay. We should take heed lest we fall. (I Cor. 10:12-13). No one can pluck us loose, but we surely can turn loose.

It is at the grave that we shall be freed from temptations. There we leave behind timely and earthly things. Isms and cisms, and peculiarities of human institutions will not be able to meet the approval of God. We are commanded to do all things in the name of Christ (Col. 3:17). Human authority cannot be substituted for the authority of Christ. But Christ and His authority and His institutions will continue when time shall be no more.—R. L. Huffman.

Poultry Car Coming

The price of eggs has dropped and if the weather stays open it will drop more. The price of hens is still good. I believe it would be wise to cull out your low producing hens and sell them. Most every farmer keeps some poultry and most of you are feeding some cull hens.

If you will follow the following suggestions you will find culling to be a very simple operation: (1) Cull hens that are molting. (2) If the hen's comb is pale, shrunken and scaly, sell it. (3) Pullets that have yellow legs and beak now will probably never pay for the feed it will take to get them to produce. (4) If the vent is yellow and puckered, the hen is not laying. (5) If the breast and pelvic bones are close together the hen is not laying.

For your information there will be a poultry car next week at the following places:

Verbena, Wednesday, March 11, 1:00 to 5:00 p.m.

Clanton, Thursday, March 12, all day.

Jemison, Friday, March 13, all day.

There will be a truck at Maplesville, Wednesday, March 11th from 7:00 to 11:00 a.m.

It is my information that the following prices will be paid:

Heavy hens	16c per lb
Leghorn hens	18c per lb
Fryers	18c per lb
Stags	13c per lb
Roosters	9c per lb
Turkeys (Toms)	20c per lb
Turkeys (Hens)	17c per lb
Geese	11c per lb
Ducks	8c per lb
Guinas	20c Each

(All classes 1c less at Maplesville).

This is an opportunity to sell some cull hens and other chickens, save feed, and realize some money with which to purchase good baby chicks for fall and winter layers. Clean up your poultry house, spray with old crank case oil, and put clean litter on the floor. It is much easier to prevent lice getting into the house than it is to get them out after the house is infested.

A little Sodium Flouride dusted on the setting hen will help control lice, and prevent the death of lots of baby chicks. Do this before the eggs hatch.

Let's cull our flocks close and give this car a full load. Every chicken moved in this car will help our local market by not over supplying it.—J. W. Fant, County Agent.

THE

Cotton Fertilizer

The Alabama Agricultural Experiment Station (Auburn) has shown the superiority of 6-8-4 over other grades of cotton fertilizers. The following results are the average of five-year tests at eight places in the state. Details of the experiments are given in Alabama Agricultural Experiment Station's Circular No. 70, "Grades of Fertilizers for Corn and Cotton."

Fertilizer	3-8-5	4-8-4	6-8-4
Lbs. per acre	600	600	600
Yield Seed Cotton Lbs Per acre	985	1065	1225
Value per acre	$39.40	$42.60	$48.92

As an average of 40 crops, the 6-8-4 fertilizer yielded 240 pounds per acre more seed cotton than the 3-8-5, and 160 pounds more than the 4-8-4 fertilizer. The value of the cotton produced with the 6-8-4 was $9.52 per acre more than that produced with 3-8-5.

Follow the Experiment Station's recommendations for cotton. Use 300 to 600 pounds of 6-8-4 per acre.

PLEASANT HILL

Well, so far as the writer can say, everything is moving along nicely in our community and we want to say that we had one of the best singings last Sunday afternoon that we have had since last summer. We were thankful to have the large number of visitors with us. Our chairman, Mr. P. M. Cleckler, sung the opening song. We had prayer by Rev. J. R. Cost.

Directors for the afternoon were: P. M. Cleckler, Mrs. O. L. Martin, J. A. Blow, Miss Lillian Mims, B. L. Cobb, Miss Wilma Scott, Miss Burnie Dean Cobb, Mrs. Lloyd Cobb, Mrs. J. W. Collum, Velpo Mims, E. L. and Prof. A. H. Glasscock.

Pianists for the afternoon were: Mrs. O. L. Martin, Mrs. Howard Roper, Miss Ruby Smith and Mrs. B. L. Cobb.

We want again to thank each and everyone and invite you all to come back every second Sunday afternoon, as there is always a hearty welcome at Pleasant Hill.

We wish to remind everyone that next Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night are our regular preaching dates. We want to urge everyone who can to meet with us. Brother Robinson always has a message that will interest anyone who wants to hear some real true gospel. Let's go and take someone with us. If you can't get out for service Saturday night, be sure to come Sunday morning, and don't forget our Sunday school every Sunday morning.—Reporter.

Christain Endeavor News

The Christian Endeavor Society had a social at the home of Mrs. C. E. Williams on Saturday evening. During the first part of the evening games were played out of doors. The group then came inside where table games such as ping-pong, carrums, etc., were enjoyed. Large platters of homemade fudge were passed. The social closed with the singing of "Blest Be the Tie that Binds" and a prayer by Miss Davison.

The Christian Endeavor Society had its regular service on Sunday evening at 6:30. The topic was "Our Relationship and Understanding of God." The program was divided into three parts: Why people seek to know God. How God is revealed to us; and the need of making our relationship to God a vital part of our lives. The program closed with a poem read by Miss Fairbank and the song "We Need Thee every Hour." The program was under the leadership of Miss Lois Rister.

Misses Ethel Cagle and Nolan Bryant of Mitchell Dam, and Miss Boots Heflin of Moulton, motored to Troy last Sunday afternoon.

Find Out

From Your Doctor If the "Pain" Remedy You Take Is Safe.

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it — in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains ... and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store — simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

As I don't see much news from this place I will write a few lines. It seems that the farmers are very busy now since spring has come.

The health of this community is not so good, we have so much flu.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Porter and Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Robinson are improving now. Mrs. Lizzie Barnett is still very sick. Hope she will soon be up again.

We were glad to have so many to attend Sunday school and church last Sunday and Sunday night. Those that were there sure did miss a good sermond. Bro. Green preached at 11:00 o'clock a.m. and at 7 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Robinson visited their daughter, Mrs. Edna Ellison, Sunday.

Miss Viva Glass from Clanton was at home Saturday night and Sunday. We are always glad to have Viva with us, as she is one of our leading church workers and we miss her when she is away.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Murrah and little daughter, Peggy, were visitors of Mr. P. M. Martin Sunday evening.

Some people from here attended singing at Pleasant Hill Sunday.

Don't forget we have Sunday school every Sunday at 10 o'clock and our regular preaching day the fourth Sunday and Sunday night. Bro. Carroll will teach every Saturday night before the fourth Sunday and will preach Sunday and Sunday night. Be sure to come.

Mr. and Mrs. Grady Bates visited Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Robinson Sunday evening.

Mrs. Olys Smith and little son, Kenneth, were the guests of Mr. W. J. Vinzant and family Sunday.

Women should take only liquid laxatives

MORE people could feel fine, be fit and regular, if they would only follow the rule of doctors and hospitals in relieving constipation.

Never take any laxative that is harsh in action. Or one, the dose of which can't be exactly measured. Doctors know the danger if this rule is violated. They use a liquid laxative, and keep reducing the dose until the bowels need no help at all.

Reduced dosage is the secret of aiding Nature in restoring regularity. You must use a little less laxative each time, and that's why it should be a liquid like Syrup Pepsin.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if it doesn't give you absolute relief, if it isn't a joy and comfort in the way it overcomes any sluggishness or biliousness, your money back.

THOS. W. WILSON

Thos. W. Wilson, age 76, died at his home in the Maple Springs community last Wednesday, after several weeks illness with ppneumonia.

Mr. Wilson was one of the most prominent farmers of the county, as well as one of the most highly respected citizens. He had been a resident of the Maple Springs community all his life.

Funeral services were held at his home on Thursday, conducted by Rev. W. E. Robinson and Rev. Tucker. Burial was in the Maple Springs cemetery, with Martin in charge.

Susviving are: two sons—J. A., and W. M. Wilson; three daughters—Mrs. J. S. Davis, Mrs. L. H. Wright, and Mrs. F. M. Mims, all of Clanton Route 2; four brothers—G. W., E. N., A. J., and P. D. Wilson.

HEN EGG MITH A HANDLE

There are all kinds of curious things coming to The Union-Banner office. The latest was brought in Tuesday by Mr. Dave Easterling. It was a hen's egg sent in by Mr. R. C. Eurnett of Route 4. Lesson for March 15

JESUS TEACHES HIS DISCIPLES TO PRAY

LESSON TEXT—Luke 11:1-13.

GOLDEN TEXT—If we ask anything according to his will, he heareth us.—I John 5:14.

PRIMARY TOPIC—When We Pray.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Teach Us to Pray.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Jesus Says About Prayer.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Why Should We Pray?

Prayer is a matter which ought to be of great concern to every believer, for, "The Lord is nigh unto all them that call upon him, to all that call upon him in truth. He will fulfill the desire of them that fear him; he also will hear their cry, and will save them" (Ps. 145:18, 19). There was something about the praying of Jesus that so impressed the disciples that they requested him to teach them to pray (Luke 11:1). May everyone of us enroll at once in the school of prayer with Christ as our Teacher. In response to the disciples' request, Jesus set forth the following principles of prayer.

I. The Right Relationship of the One Praying (v. 2).

1. Filial—"Father." The suppliant in prayer must be a child of God. God's gifts and blessings are for his children. This relationship can only be entered into through regeneration. Not all men have a right to say, "Our Father," when addressing God. Only those who are children of God by faith in Jesus Christ can so address him.

2. Fraternal—"Our Father." God has many children. His children are bound up together in nature and interests. Even in our secret prayer we should address him as "Our Father," which is a recognition of the interest of others alongside of ours.

II. The Right Attitude in Prayer (v. 2).

1. Reverent adoration—"Hallowed be thy name." As children we have certain rights and privileges, yet holy reverence becomes us.

2. Loyalty—"Thy kingdom come." When praying to God we should come with a spirit of loyalty which cries out, "Thy kingdom come." We should not only receive him as the Lord of our lives, but should loyally labor with him in inducing others to submit to him.

3. Submission—"Thy will be done." We should have no will of our own regarding the rule of God. We should let him direct us in all things.

III. The Right Spirit in Prayer (vv. 3-8).

1. Dependent faith—"Give us this day our daily bread" (v. 3). We should realize that not only bread, but life itself is ours to enjoy because of him and he is able to do for us "exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think."

2. Penitence and love—"Forgive us our debts" (v. 4). We should come to him realizing that we have sinned, and cry out to him for forgiveness. Our heart should be so filled with love for others that we will forgive those who sin against us, as God has so willingly forgiven us.

3. Holiness and caution—"Lead us not into temptation" (v. 4). Because we are God's children, and realizing the depravity of our natures and the consequent tendency to practice that which displeases him, we should shrink from that which, if indulged in, would dishonor him, and earnestly cry unto him to lead us not into the place where we would likely fall.

4. Intercessory (vv. 5, 6). The man who asked for bread did not ask for himself, but for a friend. Prayer which pleases God is unselfish in its requests.

5. Perseverance (vv. 7, 8). Though the friend refused at first and offered excuses, because the one making the request would not take "No" for an answer, he arose from his bed and gave him as many as he needed. Prayer pleases God and gets results.

IV. Encouragement to Pray (vv. 9-12).

1. God's promise (vv. 9, 10). True prayer cannot fail of an answer, because God definitely promises that, "Every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened."

2. Example of an earthly father (vv. 11-13). No father will give a stone to his son who asked for bread, nor a serpent instead of a fish, nor a scorpion instead of an egg. God is infinitely more willing to answer the prayers of his children than earthly parents are to give good gifts to their children.

V. The True Goal of All Prayer (v. 13).

God's best gift is himself in the person of his Holy Spirit. All those who practice the principles which Jesus taught in this model prayer shall experience the blessing of the Holy Spirit.

An Inner Life

A man who has no inner life is the slave of his surroundings, as the barometer is the obedient servant of the air at rest, and the weathercock the humble servant of the air in motion.—H. F. Amiel.

Mercy

As freely as the firmament embraces the world, or the sun pours forth impartially his beams, so mercy must encircle both friend and foe.—Schiller.

Misses Geraldine Hollis and Lurla Mae Littleton, of Mitchell Dam, entered Thorsby Institute Monday.

FROM CARRIE DORMINEY SHAW

I take this opportunity to thank my friends for encouraging me to announce myself as a candidate for the office of County Treasurer, Chilton county.

I sincerely appreciate their confidence as my father before me, I have an ambition to serve the people of Chilton county. As an officer is the only way I can accomplish this ambition.

I have no college education, but I have complete confidence I can take care of this office. I live on the farm formerly owned by my father, T. J. Dorminey, near Union Grove Church, Beat 12. My husband, Henry Vernon Shaw, is a farmer. We have three children: boy, 16 years old; one girl, 14 years old; and one girl, 8 years old.

I married in 1915 and moved to Birmingham, lived there until 1931. Since that time I have lived on the farm. All my poll tax has been paid in Chilton county.

The editor wrote where I was from and you can depend on "Jean". He is our friend and a true Republican.

I am planning to see every voter possible. Should I fail to see you, I am asking your vote and support. I insist on every Republican voter to think carefully before you cast your vote for any one. Let no one tell you how you should or should not vote. So many tell me to make "no promises". Anyway I am going to make two: 1. If I should be the people's choice for the treasurer's office. I promise to make the very best officer possible. Another one, I shall do every thing possible to put our ticket over regardless of who may be the people's choice. Before I make too many promises, I must close by asking every Republican voter to go to the polls May 5th and help put our ticket over. Our county needs your support.

Yours Sincerely,
MRS. CARRIE DORMINEY SHAW.

ARRANGING FOR OLD FOLKS GATHERING AT FRIENDSHIP

Mr. J. Dudley Collins, of Friendship community, announces that the people of that church are making arrangements for the annaul old folks day, which will be held the fifth Sunday in this month. This all-day affair for old folks and ministers has been an enjoyable one for the past several years.

Not much of the program has been arranged, but the welcome address will be made by the pastor, Rev. Wm. E. Robinson. Rev. Maurice Hodgens will give some interesting historical sketches of ministerial work in this county during the past several decades. This promises to be an interesting feature of the program.

Friendship extends a broadside invitation to all old folks and ministers to attend these services.

S. E. BRUCE

S. E. Bruce, age 69, died Tuesday night at his home abount one mile north of Clanton on the Jackson Chapel road, after an illness of three weeks with pneumonia. Mr. Bruce was one of the most prominent farmers of his community.

Plans called for funeral services at the Clanton Baptist church at 11:00 a.m., Thursday, with Rev. S. J. Ezell officiating; burial in the Clanton cemetery, with Martin in charge.

He is survived by two daughters—Mrs. Ben Sims, and Mrs. Ida Belle Duff; and one son, Homer Bruce, all of Clanton Route 5. Mrs. Bruce died a few months ago.

IT'S A GIRL

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Duke of Lakeland, Fla., announce the birth of a 9½ pound daughter on Wednesday, March 4th.

The grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben H. Duke, if Clanton, are celebrating the arrival of this, their first grandchild.

The new arrival has been named Joan Elizabeth.

AUTAUGA COUNTY CONVENTION AT BILLINGSLEY 5th SUNDAY

Mr. Henry G. Carter, of Prattville, asks The Union-Banner to carry the announcement that the Autauga County Singing Convention will meet in regular Spring session at the high school building in Billingsley the fifth Sunday in March, 29th. It is handy to the Chilton county singers, since it is at Billingsley, and Mr. Carter is betting heavy on having a full representation of singers from here. He is expecting singers from all the adjoining counties. This is the second session of the Autauga organization, and the officials are reporting prospects for a very fine all day singing.
